THURSTON'S GHOST SAID TO VANISH

Seen Only By Spiritualist In Effort To Win $10,000 Offered By Magician

NEW YORK, July 15—(AP). — A photographer snickered, a newspaper reporter laughed out loud, and the ghost of Howard Thurston disappeared last night.

At least, Stanley K. Werner, the stubby, white-haired spiritualist, said the ghost was gone. No one else had seen it.

Someone in the pitch black darkness asked Werner to describe the spirit.

"How does his mustache look?" asked Joseph Dunninger, the magician, who had offered $10,000 for an authentic spirit manifestation. "Is it darker or lighter?"

"It's darker," said Werner.

"Well he must have grown one," Dunninger said, "he never had one on this earthly plane."

That's when the photographer tittered and the reporter broke down. They had been quiet and curious, watching as Werner's wife Alma, his medium, gave a demonstration of levitation and repeated the voice of a woman "spirit."

Recently Werner sent Dunninger a letter which he said was dictated to him by the ghost of Howard Thurston, the magician, saying the ghost would appear "in person" at Werner's home.

But nothing happened. Werner said Thurston's ghost blamed it on the snickering audience.

FISH-WORMS SCARCE

LINDSAY, Ont., July 15 (CP)—Anglers report unprecedented dearth in this year's crop of fishworms. As a result worms are selling retail at a good price and ingenious methods are being employed to bring them to the surface of the ground. One worm dealer bores a hole in the ground, then pours in a mixture of mustard and water and the worms just have to come up.

HEAVY SHOWERS SHATTER DROUGHT ACROSS PRAIRIES

Too Late In Parts Of Saskatchewan But Farmers Plan To Sow Oats For Fodder

"MILLION-DOLLAR RAIN"

WINNIPEG, July 15 (C.P.).—With drought broken by heavy rains that came too late to save wheat crops in the stricken south-western areas of Saskatchewan, farmers near the international boundary talked today of re-sowing their fields in oats with the hope of obtaining fodder crops.

Recorded as the heaviest downpour received in Saskatchewan this year, rains swept across the province this week from Regina westward to the Swift Current and Shaunavon districts and into Alberta where a new 24-hour precipitation record was marked up in the northern and central sections.

Commenting on the Alberta downpour, officially recorded at 2.93 inches at Edmonton, J. M. Gilchrist, vice-president and general manager of the Searle Grain Company said "it meant at least an added two bushels to every acre of grain."

Though not sharing in the heavy precipitation this week, crops in Manitoba are thriving under previous plentiful rainfall. In the southwestern part of the province crops face the danger of rust in the section around Morden, 85 miles southwest of Winnipeg.

In Alberta heavy rain yesterday put an end to a critical two weeks of protracted drought that might have spelled disaster to the crops not already seared by scarcity of moisture.

"If there was ever a million-dollar rain, this is it," said D. B. Mullen, Provincial Minister of Agriculture.

St. Mary's Nurse Killed In Crash

STRATFORD, Ont., July 15—(CP)—Clara Gormley, 22-year-old nurse-in-training at St. Mary's Hospital, Kitchener, was killed last night when the car in which she was a passenger and driven by her brother, John F. Gormley, Hibbert Township, rolled over on its side after sideswiping another vehicle on the highway about four miles east of Stratford.

William Burling, Stratford, driver of the other car involved, and Miss Irene O'Rourke of Dublin, companion of Miss Gormley, and returning to duties at Kitchener Hospital, were injured.

John F. Gormley, car driver, was held on a charge of criminal negligence. He was released on bail of two sureties of $2,500 each to appear in a week's time.

Convicted 6 Times In Germany --Jailed In West As Cattle Thief And N.Y. As Bigamist

SWINDLED MANY WOMEN

Trapped By 'Husband Wanted' Ad While Living With Latest Mate He Wed In January

WINNIPEG, July 15 (CP) — Geo. Roedger, 55-year-old bigamist, was under sentence of nine years in penitentiary today as police, who said his record included at least nine marriages in the last 12 years, probed mysterious disappearance of one of his "wives."

The grim-faced German pleaded guilty to a bigamous marriage to Mrs. Julius Rgetnik of McTavish, Man., widow and mother of seven children, in 1936 and to theft of $900 from her. He was sentenced by Magistrate R. B. Graham yesterday to seven years in Stony Mountain penitentiary for bigamy and nine years for theft, sentences to run concurrently.

Ontario Provincial Police announced in Toronto they have established definitely Roedger is the man who on Aug. 24, 1935, under the name of George Rodgers, married Mrs. Christina McKenzie in Allandale, Ont.

Never Heard Of Since

Relatives of Mrs. McKenzie have not heard of her since the couple moved to Toronto shortly after the marriage. Police in Toronto and Winnipeg said they are pressing investigation into the woman's disappearance.

In passing sentence, Magistrate Graham said: "Roedger, I have a report on you which shows you have one of the most astounding records I have ever read. It is manifested in that record you are a menace to women and I feel that the country at large should be protected against you."

A meat packer by trade, Roedger was born in Grobensiel, Germany. Police said records of the Bremen, Germany, police department show he was convicted there six times for misappropriation, swindle and larceny around 1900 and 1901.

In 1916 he was sentenced in Prince Albert, Sask., for cattle stealing and in 1923 he was fined $400 or 60 days in jail at Star City, Sask., on a liquor charge.

Police investigated the death in St. Catharines, Ont., in 1926 of his wife, Meta Roediger. There was no charge against Roedriger. He was reported to have married Martha Stender of New York in 1927, but she left him.

A couple of years later he was married to a woman whose name Canadian police did not know. Her body was found in a well in Catskill, N.Y. Then on June 1, 1930, he married Bessie Schmidt "somewhere in the East," and her body was found in her bathtub on January 30, 1931. She died of epilepsy, an inquest showed.

One Wife Objects.

Martha Stender read about the Schmidt case and a bigamy charge against Roediger followed. He was convicted in Green County, N.Y., on August 10, 1931, and sentenced to

JAP WAR CHIEF FEARS GRAVER TURN IN CHINA

3,000,000 Army And Navy Reservists Ordered To Be Ready For Call

WARSHIPS ARE DISPATCHED

Reinforcements To Peiping Area Are To Move At Once—New Land Grab?

TOKYO, July 15 (A.P.). — Troops will be despatched to North China from the Japanese mainland, the War Office annouced to-day, because of the serious situation there.

The official announcement came shortly after General Gen Sugiyama, Japanese Minister of War, warned an unprecedented Council of Prefectural Governors that the crisis caused by a week of skirmishing between Chinse and Japanese troops in North China may take an even more grave turn.

Japan's first ranking War Lord urged the Council of 50 regional rulers to take all possible measures for mobilization and be in readiness to requisition everything necessary for the army's operations against China.

Gen. Sugiyama's statement came virtually at the same time 3,000,000 army and navy reservists were told to hold themselves ready to a call to the colors.

"The crisis has exploded in North China," Gen. Ikutaro Inouye, president of the powerful Army and Navy Reservist Association proclaimed to its members. "Future developments are unpredictable, but we must be prepared for the worst in order to preserve the Empire."

In addition to the army reinforcements which Gen. Sugiyama told the governors had been dispatched to North China "to end Chinese treachery and Chinese insults of Japan," intensified naval movements were disclosed.

Warships On Way

Admiral Mitsumaso Yonai, Minister of Marine, detailed the fleet's moves to support the army in the crisis that started July 7 when night manoeuvring Japanese troops clashed with Chinese bridge guards near the village of Wanpinghsien, 10 miles west of Peiping, in Hopeh province.

The navy had dispatched warships to the coasts of China and Ja-

The shrine, collectors said, was worth perhaps $10,000 to $15,000.

Sought In Shooting At Sudbury

Frenchy Benoit Foiled In Plot To Flee Prison

GUARDS SPOIL SCHEME

MARQUETTE, Mich., July 15 (CP) —Alcide "Frenchy" Benoit, 24-year-old onetime resident of Windsor, Ont. serving a life term in Marquette Prison for the murder of a Michigan State trooper, has been foiled in leadership of a plot to stage a break from the institution, Warden Marvin L. Coondis said today.

Benoit, captured last January after an intensive manhunt, had planned with three other long-term prisoners to seize the warden and use him as a shield in making a break from the prison. The plot was nipped July 5, by veteran guards, the warden said.

Alex. Benoit, an uncle, lives in Windsor and was visited by 'Frenchy' only a week before he overpowered State Trooper Richards F. Hammon en route to a police station, shot him and handcuffed his body to a mail box post. Benoit was captured 20 hours after the crime and sentenced the following day.

Warden Coon said the plot was to seize him as he came into the yard to watch a baseball game between two teams. Guards became suspicious when Benoit walked over to the warden and then back to where James Burton, another of the plotters, was standing.

Find Pistol of Soap.

The warden was called back into the prison office and guards seized Benoit and his three accomplices. Knives were found either on their persons or in cells. A fake pistol, fashioned out of soap, was found in one cell.

The three who planned the break with Benoit were James Burton, Burl Jackson and John Oliver, colored.

Benoit was on parole when he killed State Trooper Hammond. On January 7, 1936, he was paroled from Ionia after serving a term from January 3, 1934. He had been sentenced to two and a half to five years for receiving stolen property. On his release from the reformatory he began a campaign of kidnappings.

Trooper Hammond and Trooper Samuel Sineni arrested Benoit and a companion, John Smith, alias Delberto, as suspects in the kidnapping of a Detroit used car salesman a few days earlier. Hammond took Benoit in the police car and Sineni went with Smith in the suspects' car.

Benoit had been searched and a gun taken away from him, but he had another pistol, the one he used to shoot Trooper Hammond.

Rain Seen Menace To Bumper Harvest

Toronto, July 15 (CP). ONTARIO'S BUMPER CROPS are in danger if wet weather continues according to the observations of Premier Hepburn and reports reaching the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

"There is certainly a bumper crop but the rain is not helping any," the Premier said today. "The fields are saturated and many farmers have been unable to get their hay crop into the barns. They are also experiencing considerable difficulty in cutting wheat and getting ready for threshing. Some crops will deteriorate if left standing in the fields."

MOTHER MISSING SINCE OCT., 1935

Son In Barrie Tells Of Her Marriage To Man Given Nine Years For Bigamy

BARRIE, Ont., July 15 (C.P.). — Duncan McKenzie, 22, to-day described how he lost touch with his mother when she went to Toronto after her marriage here in First Baptist Church parsonage on August 24, 1935.

Ontario Provincial Police declared the man who married Mrs. Christina McKenzie, Duncan's mother, under the name of George Rodgers was George Roediger, sentenced to nine years in prison at Winnipeg yesterday for bigamy and theft.

Letters were received from his mother in Toronto two months after her marriage, Duncan, a service station attendant, said to-day. Only word received thereafter was a card at Christmas, 1935, signed "George and Mother," and written in Rodger's handwriting.

Duncan said he thought it peculiar his mother hadn't signed the card herself. Police were notified of the family's anxiety, and then, he said, Rodgers was identified as Roediger.

6000 Japs Ready To Take Peiping

PEIPING, July 15 (A.P.). — Foreign military attaches heard to-day Japan is concentrating a force of more than 6,000 men at Fengtai which they believed would be used for an attempt to occupy Peiping within two days.

Foreign and Chinese military men believed Japan have the equivalent of a full division, about 16,000 men, in Northern Hopeh south of the Great Wall.

Foreign attaches expected the Japanese to attemp to drive out the Chinese 29th Army, take over full control of Peiping, Tientsin, and the connecting railway.

First reports that agreement to end the crisis had been reached at Tientsin were contradicted by later reports negotiations were continuing.

HEPBURN, ROEBUCK EXCHANGE SALVOS TORONTO RALLIES

DENIES "ARMY" CHARGE

TORONTO, July 15.—(CP)—No armed forces were called out to deal with the Oshawa automobile strike last April, Premier Hepburn said last night in answering criticism of his labor polices voiced at a political meeting here by Arthur Roebuck, former attorney-general of Ontario.

The premier said police merely had been held in readiness to meet any emergency the Oshawa force might not have been able to cope with. Only at the request of the municipality would they have been sent into the city.

Mr. Roebuck said yesterday in an address "I publicly condemn the raising of the 'Gilbert and Sullivan' comic army, recruited at public expense, to be used as state strikebreakers." He added "That government which takes sides in an industrial dispute for either employer or employee beyond the maintenance of law and order is going wrong in principles."

Mr. Roebuck's attitude, said Premier Hepburn, "Only justifies what I had to say when I asked for his resignation. He certainly wasn't loyal to me."

In his address, Mr. Roebuck congratulated the Dominion Liberal government on its labor principles. Thus, the premier said, the former cabinet minister has now "put himself in the front rank of those eligible for a judgeship or a senate berth."

(Premier Hepburn frequently has announced his opposition to Committee for Industrial Organization recognition of which labor union was a factor in the Oshawa strike. Mr. Roebuck, with David Croll, former minister of welfare, resigned at the Premier's request because of opposition to his strike policy.)

Henry Barrett Opens Negotiations With Striking Employees

SIX FROM EACH MILL

Prompt And Amicable Settlement Is Desire Of The Management

Negotiations towards a settlement of the 16-day-old textile dispute opened this afternoon at Bonner Worth Mill.

The conference opened in a section of the plant cafeteria promptly at 2 o'clock, the time scheduled. A large crowd of strikers gathered outside the mill, and girl picketers marched up and down singing, "It's a Great Time to Get Acquainted."

About ten minutes later Alex. Townsley, one of the employee representatives, came down the front steps from the main office, and requested the pickets to make less noise. He afterwards returned to the conference, and the singing ceased.

In the fourth of a series of notices posted at Auburn and Bonner Worth mills and distributed to all employees of the firm over the signature of H. Barrett, managing director of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited, it was announced this morning:

"The undersigned will be at Bonner Worth Mill at 2 p.m. on Thursday to meet a committee of employees."

It is suggested by the management that the committee consists of six employees from Auburn and six from Bonner Worth, "to ensure reasonably fair representation of all our employees".

"The management desires prompt and amicable settlement and is leaving nothing undone to bring this about. With this in view we hope to meet a representative committee of employees as stated above", the announcement read.

Object to Term.

Objecting to the implication contained in a letter from the Strike Committee dated July 13, "that your firm will not permit further procrastination" on the ground that it was not justified, the management outlines the following facts in its latest circular:

June 29th—

Some employees at the Auburn Mill walked out without giving

MERCHANT SHIPS' ARMS PREPARED

Britain Prepares To Equip Them In Short Order In Case Of An Emergency

LONDON, July 15. (AP).—Great Britain, as part of her rearmament program, is gathering guns and other equipment in order to arm merchant ships in case war comes.

This was done during the Great War. Merchant ships, it is believed, will not be actually armed until war comes or is actually imminent—which was what Alfred Duff Cooper, first Lord of the Admiralty, meant by referring to an "Emergency" in the House of Commons yesterday.

The government does not consider steps are being taken actually to arm itself in an emergency. Hence no merchant vessels. But if a crisis comes Great Britain will have facilities on hand to convert them into armed vessels. It is part of a vast scheme to prepare the nation for any eventuality, involving such questions as food and air raid shelters

WINGED CROP MENACE

Feared Saskatchewan Grasshoppers May Plague Alberta Wheat Fields.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., July 15.—(CP)—A winged menace threatened Southern Alberta's irrigated grain fields today—a menace from the drought lands of Saskatchewan.

Southern Saskatchewan farmers, despairing of saving their drought-stricken fields, have stopped poisoning grasshoppers, now in full flight looking for food.

H. L. Seamans, Dominion entomologist here, today warned Alberta fields may become the feeding grounds for the hungry Saskatchewan hoppers, known to travel hundreds of miles a day, searching for food.

Will Fly Transport to New York After Civic Luncheons In Several Cities

LAUDED BY STALIN

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 15—(AP)—World's newest flying heroes, three modest Russians who grinned like schoolboys as they posed for photographers, started out today to inspect airplane factories—and Hollywood.

Conquerors of time and space, Pilot Mihail Gromoff, Co-pilot Andrei Ymosheff and Navigator Sergein Danilin motored here last night from March Field, U.S. Army base to which they were taken after landing in a cow pasture yesterday.

The fliers were to attend a civic luncheon today, then motor to Los Angeles for a welcome from officials of the United States Army and Navy, representatives of the Aircraft industries and city authorities.

Tentative plans called for one or two days in Los Angeles, then an overnight train ride for a day's visit in San Francisco. From there the aviators plan to fly a commercial transport plane to Washington.

Logansport, Ind., July 15 (AP). VINCENT MILLER complains in a suit for divorce his wife has a habit of tearing up his hard-earned pay. He points out one time she destroyed $8 in bills. On another occasion, he says, he handed her $18. She declared, "it's not enough," and tore the bills into little pieces.

8,000 Trucks Idle Michigan Strike

DETROIT, July 15 (A.P.).—Union officials claimed to-day nearly 8,300 trucks, all over Michigan, were idle to-day in a strike for higher wages.

J. M. O'Laughlin, business agent for the Detroit local of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers, said that between 40,000 and 50,000 men were involved. The strike directly affects only intra-state shipments.

O'Laughlin said approval would be given by the union for unimpeded movement of perishable goods.

"Get The Slow Driver" Is New Slogan Police Campaign To Ease Fatalities

Toronto, July 15 (CP). CO-INCIDENT WITH institution of a "horror campaign" designed to show the havoc created through motor accidents, Ontario Provincial Police have been instructed to pay more attention to the slow driver, Premier Hepburn and officials of the Ontario Highways Department have concluded the slow driver is the direct cause of more accidents than the driver who moves along between 40 and 50 miles an hour.

While plans for the distribution of pictures showing death and destruction on the road, have not been completed Premier Hepburn said the campaign would be inaugurated as soon as possible.

"We are going to ask the co-operation of the press," he said, "both in editorial comment and in giving more publicity to accidents. Traffic in Ontario has reached unprecedented heights this year. Some of the highways have almost reached the saturation point as it is. I am not admitting that the 50-mile-an-hour law is responsible for the increase in accidents. It is the slow driver who piles up a long line of cars and then cutting in and out starts."

The Premier said if the provincial police are expected to check this state of affairs it would be necessary to put a policeman on every mile of Ontario's 5,022 miles of highway.

John Bull Develops Chest As Keep Fit Fad Hits Britain

Nation Takes To Hiking, Builds Recreation Centres, Studies Physical Development

EVEN WAITRESSES FENCE

By Jack Barclay
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, July 15 (CP)—A John Bull with an ample chest instead of a bulging stomach seems destined for the cartoons of the future. The "keep fit" idea has caught on and literally all Britain will soon be swinging in recreational rhythm.

Launched with a government £2,000,000 ($9,950,000) physical training and recreation bill, the cry for a fitter Britain was taken up and repeated in one form or another throughout the country.

The bill was primarily aimed at developing the physical education of the youth of the nation. Its framers were probably agreeably surprised when they found even tired business men and plump housewives came willingly under its spell.

"Keep fit" has been used as the advertising theme for foods, recreational supplies, lawn-mowers and even real estate promotional schemes. The idea has penetrated

HORROR PHOTOS AIMED TO HALT HIGHWAY TOLL

Province To Embark On Campaign To Make Motorists "Fear-Conscious"

DEATH LIST APPALLING

Premier Claims Courtesy Program Has Not Accomplished Enough

TORONTO, July 15.—In the hope of reducing the increasingly alarming loss of life in motor car crashes on Ontario highways, the Hepburn Government will embark immediately upon a deliberate policy of making motorists of this Province "fear-conscious."

"We have accomplished much with our courtesy campaign," Premier Hepburn said yesterday, "but we have got to do more than that, I'm afraid, if we are to drive home to a lot of motorists the need for safe and sane driving."

By means of pictures of fatal crashes—horror pictures is the only way to describe them—which will be inserted in the daily and weekly newspapers over a set propaganda period, the Government expects to achieve a large measure of the results which its courtesy program has failed to effect.

Must Be Checked.

"This accident fatality toll has got to be checked somehow," is the way the Prime Minister sizes the situation up. "It has got to the point where it is appalling. We've simply got to make a lot of people fear-conscious —that's all."

Today, he will confer in Hamilton with Hon. T. B. McQuesten, his Minister of Highways, and immediately he returns to Queen's Park he will authorize expenditure of the moneys required for the extensive advertising campaign contemplated. Plans for the drive were laid yesterday at Queen's Park when Mr. Hepburn met J. P. Bickell, Registrar of Motor Vehicles, and H. E. Rice, head of the Ontario-Quebec Weekly Newspapers' Association.

Slight B.N.A. Act Changes Are Visioned By Rogers

NOT CLEAR ON RELIEF

TORONTO, July 15 (C.P.). — To avoid "collisions" between Dominion, provincial, and municipal powers, Hon. Norman Rogers, Dominion Minister of Labor, is of the opinion "slight changes" might have to be made in the British North America Act.

Mr. Rogers, speaking here twice yesterday, touched on the constitutional question in both addresses. He commented that misunderstandings arose among the three powers because the Dominions constitution was not sufficiently clear in respect to relief and unemployment problems.

"I believe these collisions have actually been due to the fact that under our constitution we have an area of uncertain and indefinite jurisdiction," he said. They were not, he believed, the result of one power trying to embarrass the others.

While the Maritimes had objected because the Government gave too much assistance to the Prairie Provinces, Mr. Rogers said the recovery of the West was vital to the rest of Canada. He also touched on social problems, declaring free enterprise must be reconciled with social security if industrial disputes were to end.

No Intimidation.

As to Dominion policy in labor relations he commented "the forces of law and order must not be used for purposes of intimidation." His Department sought to maintain an impartial attitude.

Arthur Roebuck, former Ontario Attorney-General, was a speaker at the second meeting Mr. Rogers addressed, and he also touched on labor problems, referring to the Oshawa, Ont., automobile strike which led to his resignation from the Cabinet in a difference of opinion from Premier Hepburn.

Mr. Roebuck said the Government "which takes sides in an industrial dispute for either employer or employee beyond the maintenance of law and order is going wrong in principles." He condemned "the raising of the 'Gilbert and Sullivan' comic army, recruited at public expense, to be used as state strike-breakers."

JOHNSTON FAMILY RALLY IN RAWDON

Picnic On Farm Where Ancestors Settled Over Hundred Years Ago

(Examiner Correspondence.)

COTTESLOE, July 15.—Descendants of the late John Johnston, who settled in the township of Rawdon over a hundred years ago, gathered to picnic one mile west of Centreton at the old farm, once occupied by a son, Daniel Johnson, and where he raised a family, only two of whom are now living, John of Stirling and Cyrus of Campbellford.

One notable feature of the gathering, was that there were ten, whose aggregate age was seven hundred and sixty, an average age of seventy-six. It was a real pleasure to see these old folks once again gathering and talking about school days and their friends, who were young with them.

The Fergusons of Warkworth and Camborne are great-grandchildren of the late John Johnston, through a daughter, Jane, who married Farrington Ferguson, of Oak Heights.

After a hearty meal, spots known in childhood were visited and a real family visit enjoyed, till four o'clock, when Mrs. James Honeywell, as chairlady, called the picnickers together for an impromptu program of speeches, story-telling and singing.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Johnston of Stirling; Mrs. Daniel Ferguson, Cobourg; Mr. and Mrs. L. Davey, Camborne; Messrs. Rice Honeywell and James Brewster, Mr. and Mrs. J. McKenzie, Centreton; Mr. Coffee and Mr. and Mrs. James Honeywell, Castleton; Mr. and Mrs. John Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Ferguson and daughter, Evelyn, Warkworth; Mr. Robert Somers, Warsaw; Mr. and Mrs. L. Freeburn, South Dummer; M. and Mrs. E. N. MacDonald and Margaret, Cattedoe, three little fresh-air children; Marjorie and Herbie Fraser, and Rita Winton, Toronto.

Perhaps the happiest one of the gathering was Mr. John Johnston of Stirling, who will be seventy-nine in October, and works on his farm every day.

This was the place on which he was born, having left it fifty-five years ago last spring.

The next reunion will be held, all being well, on July 7th, 1938, at Dunnet's Landing on the south shore of Rice Lake. Old friends are especially invited.

Mr. R. Kewley, Brick School, was in the neighborhood on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton Stephens of Apsley and Miss Margaret McDonald spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. L. Freeburn.

The rain on Sunday afternoon was quite welcome, and no damage has been reported.

APSLEY

Fourth Horse Is Struck By Car

APSLEY, July. 15—The fourth accident to a horse within a few days occurred on Saturday night at Lasswade, seven miles north of Apsley, when a horse belonging to Theodore Post was hit by an automobile. The force of the impact was so great that the animal was thrown forty feet. Its leg was broken and it had subsequently to be destroped. The horse was valued at $125 and is a severe loss to the owner, especially now that the farm work is at its busiest. Post heard the collision, and at once followed the car catching up with it after four miles chase when the car had stopped with a flat tire. He notified the Provincial Police of the affair.

Forcibly expelled from their camp on an island near Marseilles, France, a band of men, women and children nudists sailed away on the yacht Venus in quest of another island.

No Buyers Found For Village's Jail

Brigden, July 15 (CP).

BECAUSE This Lambton County village's jail has been unused many years it was offered for sale. No bidders appeared, however, and now the municipality is making the lock-up into a garage for its new road-grader.

Thought Strangled Wife Comes Home

SYIACUSE, N. Y., July 15 (AP).—Mrs. Marion Bennett Jones, 28, wife of Albert H. Jones, who had reported to police he feared she was the woman found strangled Sunday in a New York hotel, returned home last night.

Deputy Police Chief Edward Smith said she told him she had been visiting her father, James Bennett, on Cornwall Island, Ont., since July 3, and had not known of rumors she had been slain.

Jones had not returned from New York, where he viewed the body of the dead woman yesterday afternoon and said she was not his wife.

MAY BE DEPORTED

Man Be Separated From His Family Because They Are On Relief.

DETROIT, July 15 (CP).—Unless unexpected intervention is made, Frank Pryinack, 45, will be deported to Poland—a land he knows nothing about and whose language he cannot speak. Canadian officials have refused Pryinack permission to return to his family in Eastern Canada because they have received relief. Pryinack, arrested when he returned to United States after being deported, was born in a section of Austria which is now part of Poland, and came to Canada when 14 years old. He married here and has a wife and four children on a farm near Transcona, Man., seven miles northeast of Winnipeg.

JAPS SPEED AID TO PEIPING AREA FOLLOWING ROUT

Foreigners Flee City On First Trains Allowed Out To Tientsin

LULL IN FIGHTING

PEIPING, July 15—(AP). — The Japanese high command at Tientsin sent 2,000 reinforcements, supported by artillery and armored cars, to the Peiping area to-day after the defeat of Japanese troops by the 29th Chinese Route Army before the southern and eastern gates of the city yesterday.

They were headed for the Japanese Army Field Base at Fengtai, west of the city, in the zone where clashes between night-manoeuvring Japanese and the 29th Army last Wednesday precipitated the crisis between Japan and China.

The reinforcements moved up to the front in a fleet of motor trucks.

At the same time, however, Japanese sources here announced their troops had evacuated the Wanpinghien village area near the Marco Polo Bridge, where the first clash occurred.

The Japanese sources described the withdrawal as "indicating a desire to effect a settlement." This latest development caused another lull in the surface tension, but seemingly did not end the increasing difficulties of the crisis.

Fighting was halted to-day after an engagement near the Nanyuan Airdrome, eight miles south of Peiping. Gates of the city were opened and rail service to Tientsin was resumed.

Foreigners fled the city on the first of three trains allowed to leave for Tientsin this morning.

Service was said to have been resumed, not because the military situation was improving, but because the Japanese are anxious to avoid protests from foreign powers who are co-signatories of the Boxer Protocols of 1901. These provide that the road from Peiping to the sea must remain open.

CUT PAPER SUPPLY

Further Moves Taken to Conserve Germany's Raw Material

BERLIN, July 15—(CP-Havas).—Moves to conserve Germany's raw material supplies were effected today when newspapers and periodicals were further restricted in use of paper, while equipment of horse-drawn vehicles with pneumatic tires was forbidden.

Newspapers will henceforth have to state their 30-day paper needs before the 10th of each month.

CAMERAS TO BE SEALED

SAN FRANCISCO, July 15 (AP) —Cameras aboard the Russian plane on the trans-polar flight will be immediately taken from it when and if it lands in the United States. The films will be sealed and then mailed to the United States Army Signal Corps.

Instructions to this effect were issued by Lt.-Col. R. H. Oldfield, assistant chief of staff of the military intelligence division, San Francisco presidio. Authority for the plane to carry cameras was given by the United States government.

Health Only Fair R. B. Bennett States

London, July 15 (CP Cable).

R. B. BENNETT, Canadian Conservative leader, left Waterloo station today for Southampton where he will board the liner Montcalm for Canada.

Looking rather tired but in good humor, the former prime minister said: "You can say my health is fair, only fair. Don't say I'll make a statement on my return to Canada. I intend consulting my political allies. I have a lot of work to do after arriving and many people to see."

Carlos McCoy Of Village Saves American Tourist From Watery Grave

PUZZLING ACTIONS

HASTINGS, July 15.—Carlos McCoy of the village pulled a man out of the water at the west entrance to the locks on Wednesday afternoon as he was going under for the third time. He had been seen shortly before running up and down the cement wall and then get into a boat which was tied up, and jump into the water.

McCoy, who had seen the man jump in the water, could not understand why he did not make any effort to swim as he had been seen swimming the same day. He was going under for the third time when he was finally rescued. Not quite satisfied he fell in again a few minutes after and again had to be pulled out.

The man was a tourist from the United States and had been camping on the water front for a few days. He and his friends left for home yesterday.

BUBONIC PLAGUE

VANCOUVER, July 15—(CP).—Dr. J. W. McIntosh, Vancouver medical health officer, said yesterday federal and provincial health authorities were preparing to fight a threatened invasion of British Columbia, from the State of Washington, of the dread bubonic plague.

The disease, never before detected so close to this province, was uncovered recently near Tacoma, Wash., he said.

Six cases of the disease among human beings have been reported in California and Utah.

BAHAMAS BUSTLE BUILDING BOOMS ISLAND'S SHORES

A BUSY COLONY

NASSAU, Bahamas, July 15 (CP) —Tennyson's Yorkshireman heard projects is a regulation-size polo continually by his horse's hoofs. To the Bahamian the sea along the shores of New Providence splashes the same song and adds "development" for good measure.

Acquisition and development of property is the subject of most street-corner talk in Nassau today. The carpenter's hammer and cement mixer are busy east and west of the city along the north shore of New Providence, one of the group's smallest islands but site of the capital.

Figures are hard to get. The Bahamian's idea is to take a visitor out and show him the houses going up—houses owned for the most part by Canadians and Americans of wealth who want winter homes.

But Hon. A. K. Cole, Comptroller of Customs, will dig into his files if you ask him and come up with the information that the Bahamas importations of lumber in 1936 were almost double those of 1935—4,216,000 board feet as compared with 2,283,000. The value lastyear was roughly $137,000. In 1932 Bahamians imported only 1,386,000 board feet of lumber, valued at $47,000.

It is the same with shingles, cement, furniture and nails. Canada has a special interest in nails, as the Bahamas get most of theirs from the Dominion. The lumber—southern pine—and furniture, come mostly from the United States, the cement from England. Bahamian pine is used to some extent, and there is a local industry in making furniture from Bahamian mahogany.

The new homes are owned mostly by United States citizens. Immigrants travelling first class from that country—including tourists and the wealthy who stay a few weeks—numbered 8,561 last year. The number five years ago was 3,065.

Bahamas realtors, long accustomed to men with money, are now turning a speculative eye on people with a competence who are through working. They are putting up houses for people who may want to stay the year round, and for others who would like to live in the Bahamas two or three months in winter, but can't afford the big hotels.

Urges Permanence

Typical realtor is George Murphy who says the Bahamas must aim at some kind of residential permanence. Murphy came to the islands from Baltimore 20 years ago, was naturalized in 1935 and now sits in the legislative assembly in a chair specially built for him in his own factory, to accommodate his bulk.

Murphy owns a noted hotel and the Nassau race track. And while he goes ahead with a housing project for the comfortably well-off, he does not forget the man with all kinds of money. One of his latest the word "propulty" banged out ground in the race track infield, designed for the exhibition of Long Island's best in the winter time.

Nassau's proximity to the United States mainland, the ease with which residents may keep in touch with home affairs, is the obvious cause of its popularity. In the season Pan American maintains a daily plane service—less than two hours across the 205 miles of shimmering sea—and it is only an overnight trip by steamship.

RABBIT'S TOOTH NOT VERY LUCKY

Defendant In Damages Case Fails To Convince Irish Judge Of Merits

CORK, Irish Free State, July 15. —(CP).—An ingenious suggestion by the defence that a rabbit's tooth was responsible for shotgun injuries received by Cornelius O'Regan, farmer, was discounted by Mr. Justice Johnston in High Court. He was hearing an appeal by O'Regan from a judgment of Cork City circuit court dismissing his claim for damages.

Defence suggested that a pellet which struck O'Regan's eye had glanced off a tooth found to be missing from the mouth of a rabbit, at which it had been fired. The defendant was Richard B. Willis, also a farmer.

O'Regan was awarded $225 damages.

Japan Attacks China

The invasion of North China by the Japanese is actually under way. The Japanese government has presented a set of conditions to which China must subscribe in order to avoid war. These conditions are nicely drawn up and number 1, 2, 3 and so on. But in none of them is there anything mentioned which is going to work to the advantage of China. It is all so weighted that it leans over toward Japan. Brought to a few words Japan tells China to take her troops away and let the Japanese do just as they please.

One way of judging the extent of the movement which Japan is undertaking is to watch the preparations which some of the major papers in Tokio and elsewhere are making for reporting the news of battles and conflict. The newspaper Asahi of Tokio announces it will despatch 43 staff men, including correspondents, photographers and newsreel men, as well as 20 airplanes to the scene of the conflict in North China. The newspaper Nichi Nichi is increasing its personnel in the area by 35 men. These papers are close to the scene and are aware of what is going to take place. War has gone past the rumor stage and Japan is right now busy invading Northern China.

The Naming of a Committee

We do not believe there should be too many preliminary negotiations regarding the formation of a committee to deal with terms of settlement of the textile strike in Peterborough. As a general thing it is well to grant to the strikers the right to name representatives of their own selection and get the work of negotiation under way as soon as possible. It has often enough happened that the members of such a committee are those which the management of the mill or factory do not regard as being what is termed "representative" of the workers. And it is also a known fact that an individual who is regarded as the best worker in a factory may not be much use as a negotiator. Naturally the strikers want to have on their committee those whom they consider can best present their case in a logical and plain-spoken manner.

Those representing the employers are well advised as a rule to allow the workers to name their committee. If that committee is not a competent one then that fact will soon make itself evident, and the workers in their own interests will soon see to it that better representatives are given the task of presenting their case. The history of strikes and their settlement does not show that the personnel of a committee has often hampered the ultimate solution of the trouble. We are anxious to see the work of negotiation under way as soon as possible because as things stand at the moment all concerned are losing. The strikers are receiving no pay and the mills are securing no output. The longer this condition lasts the longer will be the period of recovery. It will take the workers longer to repair their financial standing and it will take the mills longer to again pick up their interfered-with trade connections. For that reason this paper suggests there should not be too much time taken with seeking to weed out members of the committee named by the strikers. They would hardly entrust the presentation of their case to those in whom they had no confidence.

Diphtheria Never Quits

At the last meeting of the local Board of Health Dr. Murray Fraser reported one case of diphtheria. A mild enough case he asserted, and one which had been carefully investigated and properly treated but it was sufficient to break the splendid record of Peterborough where there has not been a case reported since 1934.

It is not so many years since a record such as that would have been called impossible. We can think of one home in a Western Ontario town where four children were taken inside a few weeks. It was looked upon and regarded as one of those diseases which were simply bound to come now and then.

The fact that the case reported in this city is a mild one is good news, but it is not good enough to cause us to relax the battle against diphtheria. That we have been so free of it may be one factor in breaking down our fear of and also our vigilance against the disease.

Children of course know nothing about it, and it is with parents and officials that responsibility rests. We have a weapon which provides immunity to attacks of diphtheria, but we have to keep on using it. Diphtheria itself will strike when it gets a chance. We have not done away with the cause; we have merely found out how to equip the human system so that it will successfully resist the attack, and we would be guilty of nothing short of treachery if we ever allowed that power of resistance to become lowered or inoperative.

Crossing The North Pole

Flying over the North Pole will probably be a common enough occurrence within a few years and aviators from Moscow are doing much of the pioneer work in developing a route which a few years ago was scarcely spoken of or regarded as feasible. From Moscow to San Francisco is 6,225 airline miles, and it is considered possible to make this in one flight although the course followed makes it possible for several landings to be made.

Looking at the course as charted makes it appear almost like a straight line. Moscow to Archangel and then to Rudolf Island in Franz Josef land, after which comes the long leg of the journey over the polar regions to Aklavik. Edmonton, Vancouver, Seattle and straight along the Pacific coast to San Francisco.

These flights are still in their experimental stages, but sufficient has been accomplished to demonstrate the feasibility of the idea. It is not so many years since a polar expedition was the event of a lifetime. Those engaging in the work went away prepared to have their steamer frozen in for months during which they would make their way toward the pole, and finally would come the day of the final dash, after which it was months of hardship before it was possible to make the return trip. Today a plane making that trip sends out reports regarding progress and location, and it causes not even a ripple on the surface of things when word is flashed that the machine has crossed the North Pole.

Which Angus Macdonald?

Interesting at times to look over the paper from home and see if there are names which can be recognized. Most times there are none. But in the correspondence from out in the country around we noticed that "Angus Macdonald had spent three days looking at things at the O. A. C. in Guelph."

That may be clear enough for purposes of identification today, but there was a time when it would have meant little enough. Reason? There were so many people with that name it would have been necessary to set them apart so it would be known which Angus Macdonald was meant.

There was Angus Macdonald over on the Fourteenth and he had a son by the same name so the line was drawn by one being Old Angus and Young Angus; then about three farms down on the other side of the road there was another Angus McDonald, (different spelling) and his son was Angus. His hair was not exactly red, but he became known as "Red Angus." There was another Angus McDonald on the Broken Front road and he was dark so he was "Black Angus." And the same method of identification was applied to those with the first name of Archie, Neil, Donald and Hector There was "Long Archie" and there was "Big Archie" and there was "Donald's Archie".

We know little or nothing of how the population has been changing in recent years, but it is a fact that a generation or so ago in that district it would have been grossly indefinite to have merely written that Angus Macdonald had been doing something or other. The folk would have been left to figure out for themselves which Angus was concerned.

From Plenty To Nothing

A farmer living a few miles from Peterborough brought a letter to this office today, explaining there were a few things in it we might like to print because there had been considerable notice given in recent weeks to the drought in parts of the Canadian West. As far back as 24 years ago the farmer went West with a friend on the harvester excursions. He had not much idea then that he would ever own a farm of his own. The letter was from the friend with whom he used to go on these excursions, and on the last one the friend had gone alone. That was in 1925 or '26 and he had decided to remain there.

The friend in the West operates a garage and repair shop in a small town in the southern part of Saskatchewan, and recently had occasion to visit two of the farms where both of them had worked during the harvest days of a good many years ago. From the letter we quote:

"I couldn't help thinking of the year when we were at the Bowes farm with the threshing outfit. That was a pretty fair job, a good farm where the food was good and the pay was sure. You will recall we were there for two seasons, and we both had the idea that Bowes had hit it about right as he was taking off a good run of grain each year and wasn't too far out from the nearest elevator. I was on that property on Tuesday but there wasn't much there to indicate that it was the Bowes place or any other place. No person lives there now, and they say the folks moved off three years ago. The house is still there, but on one side the dirt is piled as high as the windows, and by dirt I mean dust. The trees around the place are all dead and there's not much left of any of the other buildings. I think there were three-quarters of a section at that place and there was a bit of a pond they used to think a lot of. If the people cared to come back there they could have all the land they cared for because there is no one either way from them for a good many farm sites. That farm wasn't cropped at all this spring and the nearest one to it that was looks just the same as the deserted place. There's nothing growing this year. I walked around a bit of the old Bowes property but saw neither a grasshopper nor a gopher and there is nothing to show there had ever been a pond. I guess neither of us could see very far ahead when we used to wish we were in the West with a nice piece of land like Bowes had. In our town we used to have about 460 people but they have been dropping out and the elevator closed up too. I guess we have about 150 left here and most of them would be off if they knew where or how to go. I dare say you'd find it hard enough trying to imagine the difference between the days when we used to come here for harvest and things as they are today. If you can imagine coming from those days of good harvest down to nothing at all then you know what I mean."

The farmer to whom the letter came explained that the land referred to used to have fields of stooked wheat almost as far as one could see. He added: "No one can blame people for having gone to that section. If I had been able to take up land right there I would have done it and in doing so would have been certain I was locating in the best spot in Canada. To think of the Bowes properly deserted. Why we used to actually envy the man who owned it!"

It is suggested that rural mail carriers' outfits should carry some indentifying marks but that is not surely because it is difficulty to pick out the mail men's cars from the other de luxe cars along the road.

Premier Hepburn intimates that the one mill provincial subsidy provided for Ontario municipalities may be increased to two mills next year. It begins to look more and more as if 1938 is the date of the next provincial election.

FAST FRIEND

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Joe really is a goodly sort, somewhat inclined to be a sport, and he talks rather loud; he never likes to stay alone, nor spend odd hours around his home, he seems to crave a crowd.

¶ But Joe's obliging that I'll say, he does a good turn every day, so I can't run him down; for lots of times I start to walk, Joe picks me up just down the block, and trundles me down town.

¶ But when Joe drives I shiver then, and long to walk with humble men, no matter what the heat; no matter if my corns are sore, and worse than what they were before, I'd rather use my feet.

¶ Just how he drives I do not know, he knows not what it means by whoa, he upsets all my meals; he turns the corners at a pace, that puts new wrinkles in my face, he does it on two wheels.

¶ If there are cars ahead of him, it seems to boil beneath his skin, 'tis then he starts to pump; when folks see Joe upon the road, they drop their bundles and their load, and all begin to jump.

¶ So often when I see Joe come, I feel that I should start and run, and hide behind a tree; for when he drives me down the line, I have cold shivers on my spine—scares daylights out of me.

It is recorded in the Ayrshire Post that Miss Mary Grace Hay Campbell, 66, left directions that the arteries in both her arms and wrists should be severed and her heart removed. She was the eldest daughter of the late Frederick Campbell of Craigie House, Ayr, at one time M. P. for Ayr Burghs. Miss Campbell left estate of the gross value of £70,927. She directed that £200 be paid to the doctor performing the operation and £150 each to the two witnesses, who must be clergyman or British consulate officials, and who had to personally watch the operation. If the heart was not removed then £50 was provided for the three of them.

Ferocious Screech Owls

(From Time.)

MRS. Rose Newell, a laundress who works for a girls' school in North Tarrytown, N. Y., was walking toward the school along a wooded stretch of road at nightfall one evening recently. Suddenly, from just over her head, she heard a weird, tremulous cry, half wail, half gibber. A hissing feathered something struck her in the eye, raked her face with cruel talons. Frightened almost out of her wits, Mrs. Newell screamed and started to run. The screech owl followed her, clawed her again before flitting back to its tree. The laundress ran into the school, stammered out her story, was taken to a hospital and treated for eight lacerations and bruises of the nose and eye.

Wondering if it were permissible to shoot ferocious screech owls, North Tarrytown police telephoned a state game warden, failed to find him at home. Few minutes later an unemployed chauffeur reported that he had been attacked by two owls at the scene of Mrs. Newell's encounter but had escaped injury by sprinting and beating at the birds with his hands. Without further concern for the law, a patrolman was sent with a shotgun to the spot, which is opposite the Pocantico Hills estate of the late John D. Rockefeller. The policeman killed one owl, was joined by a Rockefeller warden who shot down four more.

Attacks on humans by U. S. screech owls are not uncommon. Persons who have had the experience know it is indescribably frightening. The birds have a fiercely protective instinct for their young and the onslaughts usually occur when the young are learning to fly. Some years ago a report in a scientific journal of an attack brought out dozens of letters from Oregon to Ontario to Texas recording similar episodes. One Louisiana negro was said to have lost an eye. Policemen walking lonely beats are frequent victims.

Screech owls are heavy eaters, devour great numbers of field mice, insects and other farm pests. For that reason they are protected almost everywhere in the U. S., although they occasionally eat small birds. New York State game officials admitted that the patrolmen and the Rockefeller warden had technically violated the law by shooting the owls, but because of the circumstances seemed disinclined to take any action. None of the persons attacked could sue anyone for their hurts or their scares, since neither landowners nor governments are liable for attacks by wild animals.

Unions and the Press

(From the Brantford Expositor.)

ONE of the latest developments in the comprehensive efforts at unionization now being made, particularly in the United States, is that to organize newspaper reportorial and editorial departments on the "closed shop" principle.

While the scheme is being promoted with some zeal by the American Newspaper Guild, whose activities extend into Canada, the plan is not practicable, consistent with the ideal of a free press.

By that it is not to be implied that newspaper proprietors or companies are opposed to the union idea. Indeed, one of the earliest established and most powerful of all such units is the Typographical Union, which embraces the majority of mechanical staffs of journals in Canada and the United States.

Extension of the system to include newspaper correspondents, reporters and editorial writers, however, involves an entirely different set of considerations. Newspapermen, as distinct from those who operate machines in the course of producing the daily papers, are more or less in a class by themselves. The term "Fourth Estate," as applied to them, collectively, has definite meaning.

It is a reporter's job to recount, as impartially and accurately as possible, the facts relating to people and events on which the public is entitled to information. The editorial writer's obligation is to interpret and clarify the news so as to facilitate the reader's understanding thereof, and to register honest opinions and convictions to that end.

It is often-heard criticism, in democratic countries, that, in lands where dictatorship prevails, the press is so strictly controlled and censored it becomes nothing but the mouthpiece of the ruling power.

By the same token, what hope would there be of an even reasonably fair relaying and interpreting of the news if the writers and commentators were tied up to some union and so committed directly or indirectly to the support of one political aim or even one social ideal, and to a regulated "outlook" on matters of local, national and international moment? It is surely obvious that any such arrangement would hamper the dissemination of news and would degrade the press into a mere organ of propaganda.

Newspapers are more than private industries. They serve as mirrors of public opinion to a greater degree than any other single medium. Unionized, reportorially, they would become merely the interpreters of the opinion of one group and unbiased reporting would be out of the question.

The right to free assembly, freedom of speech and freedom of the press are the three main pillars of the democratic structure, and the strongest of the three is the press. Destroy it by making it subservient to one class or organization, no matter how well-meaning, and democracy collapses as a house whose foundation has been undermined.

Stenographers

(Vancouver Sun)

IT is certain that the most impressive single feature of a great many business offices is the stenographer. She is certain to be trim, alert and business-like, and she is more than likely to be very good to look at; and in any case she shares with such diverse professionals as trained nurses, printers aviators and steamship captains an air of cool, unemotional competence—sure harbinger that any upcoming job will be handled capably and without fuss. Install a man in an office with such a divine creature at his beck and call and what happens? He immediately, and inevitably, becomes a great letter writer. He could not do less, if he has a heart.

Militia Training.

(Vancouver Province)

WAR is not and should not be a popular institution with the people of Canada, and perhaps sometimes there is a disposition to regard these summer manoeuvres of the militia as a gratuitous playing at the game of war. That is a perverse and prejudiced attitude, nevertheless. It was the militia of Canada in 1914, such as it was, that supplied the nucleus for that miraculous organization of the nation in the Great War which resulted in Canada's sending more than half a million of her men overseas. War? Nobody but a fool wants it. And nobody but another sort of fool will utterly neglect the knowledge of what to do about it if it comes.

A minister once delivered a sermon in a church where many of the congregation had the habit of going out before the close of the meeting. He was advised of this beforehand.

He opened his meeting by saying encouragingly: "My friends, I am going to speak to two classes tonight; first, to the ignorant people, and then to the intelligent people."

After earnestly addressing the supposedly ignorant people for a while, he said that they could now take their hats and go.

The entire congregation heald him to the end.

To the Editor

WHY WAS GAS USED?

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Being interested in the textile strike, I am rather surprised the city council have not had a word to say. Surely one with any sense would know that if those people were satisfied with wages received they would not be on strike and are only asking for a fair living wage, and why our police should have behaved in such a manner I don't know. I was always under the impression tear gas was only used for bank robbers, murderers, etc, and not for law abiding citizens who only want enough to live on. I was glad to note in the "Voice of the People" one man who spoke in favor of the strikers and here's one more.

Why so silent City Council? One thing I do know, there has not been any drinking among those strikers and surely that is in their favor and don't think they have not had the chance. Several would-be friends have sent cases of ale, all of which has been returned. I know of one aged widow mother in ill health who will miss the little her son brings in this pay day and many more men with little mouths to fill. Who gets the big money? Not the poor weaver on piece work who can hardly pay his board. God help us all in these hard times and may those who profess to follow Christ see to it that our boys and men get a fair deal. Thank you Mr. Editor.

Using Our Wheat

(Calgary Herald)

NOW British consumers are being told of the advantages of the use of Canadian wheat in their bread; of life on Western Canadian farms where wheat is the principal commodity produced; of the elaborate wheat handling and freighting system which has been set up on the prairies in order that the cereal may be handled and transported cheaply and quickly. They are also being impressed with the value to Britain in having a great wheat-producing country like Canada able and ready to supply vast quantities of the required bread grain during perilous times as when war breaks out. The advertising plan appears to have already justified itself and is certain to be continued.

For A Sound Body

(Guelph Mercury)

WHAT began as an experiment in the schools of Guelph has now become a permanent institution. The providing of a daily portion of milk for those in the primary and junior classes has proved of great benefit to the children, in both body and mind.

The children so participating in this milk supply have shown an increase of weight and a new brightness of intellect, according to the principals of the schools and the attending public health nurse, under whose auspices the distribution is conducted.

This result is pleasing, for the health of the children is of paramount importance in this period of time. With healthy bodies there must come healthy minds, and the clear and active mind is a perquisite to good citizenship.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

Copious rains over the Canadian Prairies and the United States spring wheat belt sent wheat prices more than three cents lower on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. Partial recovery in late trading left values 2¾ to 2⅞ cents lower, July at $1.48⅝, October $1.41⅝ and December $1.37⅝.

Selling hit the market from the start following reports that many sections of the Prairie Provinces had received the year's heaviest rains.

Precipitation benefits in Alberta, Northern Saskatchewan and scattered points in Manitoba overwhelmed bullish sentiment following rust reports from the United States spring wheat areas and Manitoba earlier in the week.

Bobbies Grab Demonstrator

This demonstrator is being arrested by police in Trafalgar Square, London, as about 3,000 British Fascists heard Sir Oswald Mosley, their leader, address them, in the midst of uproar caused by anti-Fascist groups who opposed the gathering. The blackshirts had marched from Kentish town in north London to Trafalgar, in their first procession since the passage of the Public Order Act. The Public Order Act forbids the use of political uniforms. Sir Oswald, who marched at the head of his followers, was the only marcher who wore the semblance of a uniform. He wore a black shirt and black tie with his light grey suit.

proper notice thus preventing other workers who wished to continue to work from doing so.

July 5th—

First indication received (letter No. 1) that some of our employees desired to meet the management. On the following day we advised (Notice No. 3) that "the management is prepared to arrange a meeting with a committee representing all our workers, after the committee has prepared the suggested statement of points to be discussed."

July 9th—

Indication received (Telegram No. 4) that a committee had been formed, but no list of agenda was received.

We advised our employees of this (Notice No. 6) the same day.

July 12th—

Received list of committee and agenda (letter No. 7). The following day we advised all employees (Notice No. 9) that the inclusion of a non-employee did not fall within our undertaking and, in our opinion, the committee was not a full representation of our employees.

July 14th—

Information was received (letter No. 10) that the name of the non-employee has been withdrawn.

Michael English, chairman of the Strike Committee had no comment to make after reading the company's announcement. He was notified by telegram the previous evening that a notice was to be posted at the mills by the management, but he was not aware of the contents of the notice until it was called to his attention by The Examiner around 9.15 a.m. A meeting of the Bargaining Committee was immediately called, presumably for the purpose of selecting a representative committee in accordance with the suggestion of the management.

A parade and mass meeting of strikers which was to have been held the previous evening was rained out. At the hour scheduled for the parade to leave Inverlea on its march to the Market Square, a heavy rain was falling.

STRATTON ESTATE ORDER DISMISSED

Both Parties Consent To Dismissal At Hearing Before Mr. Justice C. P. McTague

TORONO, July 15. —(CP)— By consent of the parties concerned, a motion of Mrs. Eliza Janes Stratton for an order for administration of the estate of her late husband, Robert James Stratton, of Peterborough was dismissed by Mr. Justice C. P. McTague at Osgood Hall.

James R. Stratton, who was Provincial Secretary of Ontario in the Ross government which was defeated in 1905, died in April 1916. By his will he disposed of an estate that was valued at $370,642. He appointed his wife, Mrs. Eliza Jane Stratton, and Roland Maxwell Glover, Peterborough, executors of the will. Mrs. Stratton, for whom A. M. Ferris appeared before Mr. Justice McTague, said in an affidavit in support of her motion that all the beneficiaries under the will had not yet been paid in full, that she had obtained an order from the judge of the surrogate court of Peterborough directing her co-executor to file accounts of the estate and that she desired an order for administration of the estate.

Roland M. Glover, her co-executor, who was represented before Mr. Justice McTague by J. Grayson Smith, K.C., in an affidavit, noted that statements of the receipts and disbursements of the estate had been filed in February, 1918, and in May, 1926. The statement of 1925 showed receipts to have amounted to $436,905 and disbursements to have been $455,853. Mr. Glover said that shortly after the accounts had been audited and before any order could be made on the passing of accounts the liquidator of Dominion Permanent Loan Company, of which Mr. Stratton had been president and a director, launched an action against the directors and claimed $4,000,000 damages from them.

Accounts of the estate are to be filed.

on a plank thrown across the creek, Alex Welch, United Textile Workers organizer could not verify the report.

He declared however that to his own knowledge about fourteen strike-breakers had returned to work at the Bonner Worth plant during the past few days. No attempts had been made on the part of pickets to stop them, he said.

"I would not give any credence to the plank incident", declared D. G. H. Melton, manager of Bonner Worth Mill when interviewed by The Examiner. "The fact is several of our people at the Bonner Worth Mill have during the past five or six days repeatedly asked us when the plant is going to re-commence work. They have expressed a desire to return to work", he said.

Asked if any employees at Bonner Worth had actually returned to work, Mr. Melton replied, "Yes. We have some back at work now. We have been taking them back wherever we have been able to use their services". He estimated, "There are between two or three dozen people employed in the mill at various times as we are able to use them."

The son said he never learned where or how his mother met Roediger.

Nice Personality.

"My first impression of Rodgers was that he was a half decent fellow," the son continued. "He had a nice personality and seemed to have plenty of money.

"He didn't say what his job was, but he was supposed to be on holidays from a firm in Toronto, and was going to be transferred to Winnipeg by his firm. All told, I was talking to him about two hours."

Duncan said after his mother's marriage the couple purchased a car and visited friends in the district. Later they went to the United States on a holiday, lived in Toronto for a while, and then the son could not locate the couple.

When Mrs. McKenzie married she had considerable money, the son said. He said there was money from the father's estate, including insurance.

U.S. Senate Studies Canadians Plea

WASHINGTON, July 15 (A.P.) — United States immigration officials said yesterday they expected Colin Fraser's plea that he be permitted to join his family in Detroit to be turned over to them, but refused to predict what action they could take.

The boy, they said, was deported along with his father, Thomas O'Brien Fraser, because they entered this country from Canada without a visa. The father, they said, also had been convicted of theft.

The father came to the United States from Scotland in 1920, they said, and married an American wife in 1923. He and his wife went to Edmonton, in 1929. Colin Fraser was born there. They returned to Detroit in 1930.

pan's protege, Manchoukuo, Yonaf declared, to protect or evacuate Japanese nationals. Units had been sent up the Yangtse-Kiang River, he said, as well as placed at strategic positions in the North and South China Seas.

Foreign observers here said they were convinced Japan must get concrete results of some kind to justify the expenditures incurred in moving reinforcements to North China. These results, Japanese expect, will come in the form of a re-adjustment of Sino-Japanese relations and settlement of all the principal issues between the two countries.

Chinese have charged that Japan precipitated the clashes as an excuse to force the creation of an autonomous Hopeh-Chahar state out of the two provinces of North China. By such a move, these say, Japan seeks to extend her sphere of influence in the region which she has said she intends to dominate economically.

Wood—Barnes

A pretty wedding was solemnized quietly on Wednesday afternoon at half-past three, when Lillian May Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Barnes of St. James' Street, became the bride of Charles Victor Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wood of Braidwood Avenue. Adjutant C. Warrander performed the ceremony at his residence.

The bride wore a gown of white triple sheer, with short puffed sleeves. Her veil of white net was held in place with a coronet of rosebuds and she wore white gloves with wide cuffs, white slippers, and carried a bouquet of mixed flowers.

The attendants were Miss Betty Wood, in pink sheer chiffon with matching bandeau on her hair, white accessories, and bouquet similar to that of the bride, and Howard Bettus, who performed the duties of best man.

Following refreshments served to immediate relatives and friends, the bride and groom left on a motor trip to Lake Simcoe, Toronto, Niagara Falls, and other points, the former travelling in a suit of fine blue flannel with white hat and accessories.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Wood will live at 543 Edison Avenue.

Sheer Black Costume Will Defy Dog Days

Don't let the dog days get you! Look cool as a cucumber in spite of them. That's the spirit!

Wear black sheers in town, morning, noon and night. There is a large selection to choose from—organdie, novelty sheers of all weaves and weights, chiffon and net, often relieved by a touch of white.

Add a wide-brimmed hat in black or toast colored straw, or a crownless one, a calot or a draped bandeau, and you are all set for the hottest days.

And if you wish to add a bit of novelty, carry a straw basket-bag.

A clever idea is the penthouse suit. A straight little bolero and dress will take you anywhere all day, and at dusk the bolero can be removed to reveal a wide-strapped low-cut dress suitable for daylight dining. Both bolero and dress can be of rayon novelty sheer edged in white soutache braid.

As an interesting style whimsy, one manufacturer is matching gloves with hose for autumn. Wonder no one thought of it before as we have ensembled everything else, and the length of the new dresses showing so much of the leg, lends itself to such an alliance.

Four Talented Peterborough Sisters

Nurses Dislike Petticoat Test

Although not part of their uniform, 50 nurses at the Nightingale Home must "show petticoats" to a senior staff member each night before going on duty. They were described as "cumbersome, grundy things" by one nurse, who added:

"I wonder if Florence Nightingale wore one."

FIRST SENIOR SENATOR.

WASHINGTON, July 15 (A.P.). — Senator Hattie Caraway of Arkansas, through the death of Senator Robinson, became to-day the first United States woman ever to serve any State as its senior Senator.

It was the fifth "first" to her credit.

A Sheer Black Dress Registers Smartness In The Summer Season

(By Central Press.)

Another delightful little dark sheer for summer smartness is pictured here. It is designed for daylight dining, and is a black silk marquisette dress with stitched trim at the revers, short sleeves and hemline. A spaghetti bow at the point of the neckline is a chic finish.

Prints are overwhelmingly the favorites for dresses and suits worn at club houses and race tracks where the well dressed congregate. Dark colors usually are brightened by light or vivid prints or accessories. Black, however, is decidedly in the lead in spun rayon, acetate alpacas and flannel, and also as a ground for prints, the smartest of which are in white. There are, however, a few white ground prints, and when showers threaten jacket costumes and suits are worn.

Tailored suits in crease-resisting linen and in other materials with linen-like weaves are great favorites on these occasions. Mostly they are in black, sometimes in white. Natural color also is a favorite, and all three are brightened by colored accessories.

For the warmer days dotted swiss is favored, and may be seen in all white, in brown and white, navy and white, and in pink and white. Wide white horizontal bands are used in one popular model. Then the more amusing prints are well liked—the sea horse on corded batiste, for instance.

Women Consider Child Education

VANCOUVER, July 15 (C.P.). — Re-organization of educational programs to meet changing social relationships is being studied by the Pan-Pacific Women's Conference being held here on July 12-24.

Miss Sara E. Matthews, of Honolulu, directing this topic, suggested some principles in teaching which might solve the problem: Relating the child's activities to his living; learning by doing and experiencing development of thinking by self-planning and self-direction.

"What are the fundamental requirements of an adequate educational program?" Miss Matthews asked. "Should not these programs make provision for the child to learn to take care of himself physically; to see that he is happily adjusted from personality standpoints; to lay the foundations for a social and moral development as well as interests and abilities for leisure time in the coming day of shorter working hours?"

The place of propaganda from a religious, militaristic, patriotic and economic standpoint, in relation to school curricula, are being discussed.

"VISITING" HER BROTHER

WINNIPEG.—Ten-year-old Edith Hallett, for whom an intensive, 20-hour search was made in the Rosser district west of Winnipeg, was found last night at the home of a farmer who employed the girl's brother. She was merely "visiting."

Oldest Co-Ed

"There is so much to learn—so much to do," sighs Mrs. Minerva Drake Stivender (Above), who at 82 explains her registration at the University of Florida summer school with the remark—"One can not stand still in this busy world." Mrs. Stivender, the oldest co-ed in the nation, is taking two courses in Spanish and one in Shakespeare. She was born in Anderson county, S.C., in 1855 and now lives in Leesburg.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"The more I see of other countries the more I love my own."—Madame de Stael. (Roberta Too)

Well, I left you just as were hunting breakfast at six a.m. and of course the license plates drew quite a bit of attention. The Adirondack mountains stretch for miles and miles. Nothing is much cheaper than it is in Canada, some of the foods are, but in the main they are about the same.

Part of the way, they have orange colored signs along the highway telling of the forgotten arts, interspersed with a hint on cooking and one hint I will pass on to you and that is, that a little salt added to cream will make it whip easier.

Then there was another advertisement on small signs so it could be read as you rode, and here it is. "Romances are wrecked, or seldom begin, By a hair on the coat, Or a lot on the chin." Then you were advised to use some kind of shaving cream. Another one read, "Burma girls in Mandalay, Dunk their lovers in the bay, Who don't use——" Funny don't you think?

Now we had the road pretty well mapped out, but of course you always think there might be a shorter way, so we would ask, and never would they admit they do not know, but would suggest some other route, and when we asked had they ever been that way, they said no, but someone told them it was the best way.

Every so often they would ask how we liked to come to a civilized country, and we told them we came from God's Own Country, Canada. But they simply will not believe it. Truly, Canadians are more travelled than Americans, else those who have done so are only amongst a certain class, and it has not seeped down to the others yet.

Once our hearts were warmed by one service station man shouting "Hello, Canada, and we found he was from North Bay, and had quite a nice talk with him. I think we have more varied beautiful scenery especially up around Orillia and Bracebridge, and down around Coburg. We came over the Catskill Mountains and as we rode higher, and wound around and around, my heart began to pound a bit with the high altitude, but I just said "be still my heart," and it behaved.

One thing I liked was the three lane highways as soon as you came near a large city, but in the main for hundreds of miles, their roads are narrower than ours. They are likely older which accounts for it.

Now I wish to say, that men have been exceedingly kind to us all the way. They seemed to think we were very brave travelling alone, two women, one young, and one not so young, and they did all they could to make it easier for us. (unless supply a mechanic.)

We came twelve miles out of our way to see West Point, which is very similar to our Military College at Kingston, and they are no smarter, only more advertised. Maybe I am prejudiced, but I think I liked our own the best.

But the Plebes were all kind, and showed us around a bit until a bugle sounded, when they all galloped off and left us. But it makes the trip more interesting to see those things.

We came by way of the Hudson river, and every time we stopped we asked for news of Amelia Earhart, but so far and this is Wednesday, she has not been found. I hope they find her for she is a grand person. The latter part of the trip seemed much longer than the first part, but I think it was because we were getting so tired. And now, as I am getting to the end of my space, I will tell you why we came here in the next article. Your Friend, ROBERTA.

Japan will campaign for tourists.

FROST ASSAILS HEPBURN STAND

"Has Placed Town Against Country, Capital Against Labor, Even Liberal Against Liberal"

PRESTON, Ont., July 15 (CP)—Premier Hepburn with his "bombastic manner and continual argument during his three years in power had placed town against country, wet against dry, Protestant against Roman Catholic, capital against labor and even Liberal against a Liberal," said Cecil Frost, Lindsay, in an address here last night.

Mr. Frost, organizer of the Ontario Conservative party, spoke at the annual meeting of the South Waterloo Liberal-Conservative Association.

His remarks concerning Premier Hepburn followed a dissertation on Hon. Earl Rowe, whose "natural talent fitted him for the position of leader of the province."

The premier, he charged, not satisfied to fight with members of his cabinet, had to criticize and quarrel with President Roosevelt at a time when there was a huge influx of United States tourists into the province.

Broadcast To Moscow

The fliers sent their greetings to their countrymen last night in a broadcast towhich Moscow was linked by short wave. Earlier, Joseph Stalin, head of the Russian government, congratulated them for "heroism and skill shown in the achievement of this new victory of Soviet aviation."

That the flight will qualify as a record under the rules of the International Aeronautical Federation was indicated by Major Edison E. Mouton, whose committee inspected and found unbroken the seals on the three barographs and the gasoline tank.

Major Mouton said he definitely established the flying time from Moscow to San Jacinto at 62 hours, 17 minutes, and that he was submitting it as such for official ratification. The distance was approximately 6,700 miles.

BANCROFT, July 15.—On Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock the body was found of Edwin Elson Grant who was drowned in Monteagle on Monday afternoon. Young Grant, who was 23 years of age, was holidaying in Monteagle with Dr. Brintnel, both men being of Colbourne. The two had gone for a swim in the branch of the York River at Bartlett's Landing after which they planned on coming to the July 12th celebration at Bancroft. Edwin had been diving from a boat out in the river when he was seized with a cramp. While his companion was coming to aid him, he sank and did not again appear at the surface. Dragging operations were at one begun but they were unsuccessful until Tuesday.

Left to mourn the loss of a young son and brother are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Grant of Colbourne, four sisters older than Edwin, and five brothers younger.

Edwin had taught school in Monteagle for two years and last year he taught at New Carlow, so that he was well-known and admired in that district. One sister Rita, Mrs. Harvey Creir, lives at Monteagle.

Constables Wells of Bancroft and Dymond of Madoc were at the scene of the accident when the body was recovered.

The body was removed from Towle's Undertaking Parlours to Colbourne for burial.

POLICE CHECK PATH PROBE VANISHING

two to four years in prison at Dannemora, N.Y.

Police reported the McKenzie marriage at Allandale, Ont., was Roedigers next matrimonial step. They lived together two or three days in Toronto and then she disappeared.

Police claim he married on November 21, 1936, a woman in Montreal whom he met through an advertisement in a Montreal newspaper. Police say Roediger gave his name as George Cook for the Montreal marriage.

Mrs. M. Cook obtained in Montreal on July 12 annulment of a marriage with Roediger on grounds of bigamy and false pretences. He disappeared after allegedly defrauding Mrs. Cook of a sum of money.

The report further states Roediger went to Vancouver and there married another woman on December 31, 1936. He was alleged to have taken some money from her and disappeared within a few days.

Trapped by An Ad.

In January of this year he arrived in Edmonton where, according to police, he married Phillipine Strassburger, a spinster, who owned a farm at Stony Plain, Alta. He was living on the farm when a police ruse led to his arrest.

A fictitious advertisement was inserted in the farm journal circulated in Alberta purporting to have been inserted by "a widow of means looking for a life partner." Roediger answered the advertisement and his arrest followed almost immediately.

He was brought to Winnipeg for trial. Inspector George McKay of the Ontario Provincial Police and Sergeant A. M. Veitch of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Toronto, came to Winipeg in connection with the case. They returned to Toronto last night.

Roediger has not yet been transferred to Stony Mountain, police said, but is being held at the Manitoba Provincial Jail at Headingly, 20 miles west of Winnipeg.

FOREST INSECT SERVICE PLANNED

Lumber, Pulp, Paper Firms Aiding Government To Detect Outbreaks

OTTAWA, July 15 (CP).—A forest insect information and protective service, similar in many ways to the existing fire protection service, is being organized, the entomological branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, disclosed in a circular today.

With the object of discovering insect outbreaks in Canada's forests, lumber, pulp and paper companies, various provincial forest services and other agencies are co-operating with the entomological branch to make observations on and collections of insects occurring in the forests.

"Eventually it is hoped to have a well organized information and protective service, similar in many ways to the existing fire protection service," the circular said.

The country has been divided for this purpose into five regions with established entomological laboratories as the centres. The Maritimes and Eastern Quebec will be under the laboratory at Fredericton; Western and northwestern Quebec and Ontario as far west as Lake Superior, under Ottawa; northwestern Ontario and northern Prairies under Winnipeg; park belt, Prairie provinces, under Indian Head, Sask.; and British Columbia and Alberta foothills, under Vernon, B.C.

BISLEY CAMP, England, July 15 —(CP Cable)—Canada's qualifiers for Friday's second stage of the classic King's Prize were increased to 12 men today when it was decided that all scores of 96 and better would qualify from yesterday's first stage.

This will make a total of 302 men in the second stage of the big shoot, instead of the usual 300.

Canada had 12 scores of 96 and better, out of 18 Canadian competitors, in yesterday's first stage fired at 200, 500 and 600 yards.

First stage shooting served only to qualify, and the scores themselves do not count further. Scores in the second stage Friday however are added to the scores of the hundred finalists Saturday to determine the final placings.

Canada's King's Prize qualifiers are Sgt. T. A. Jensen of Innisfail, Alta., with 100 out of a possible 105 yesterday; Lieut. G. E. Matchett, Hamilton, 100; Sgt. M. F. Dillon, Ottawa, 99, Csm. G. M. Lemieux, Westmount, Que., along with Capt. W. J. Young of Toronto, not a member of the official Bisley team.

The Rambling REPORTERS

Herb McCannan was silently wishing today that he had longer arms to illustrate the length of a pickerel that got away from him near his cottage at Campbelltown Wednesday afternoon. He stretched them out as far as they would reach as he related along main street today that he got the pickerel up to the side of the boat, and just as he was going to give it the grand flop into the skiff the line broke. It must have weighted between seven and eight pounds. Herb affirms, but unfortunately he failed to get it within range of a camera for definite objective evidence.—T.

The Company received the following letter on Wednesday, July 14th:

Peterborough, July 13, 1937.

Dominion Woollens & Worsteds, Limited.
80 Richmond St. West,
Toronto, Ontario.

Attention: Mr. Henry Barrett

Dear Sir:

Your letter of the 12th instant received, for which this acknowledgement.

With regard to the notice to employees posted this morning; in your previous notices it has been emphasized that your firm is and always has been "willing to meet a representative committee of employees." We proceeded to take your firm at its word and elected a representative committee; since there had been no stipulations as to the character or form of this representation—other than that all employees should be represented—the committee submitted was in full compliance with your firm's request.

However, if your firm desires departmental representation on the committee to meet your firm's representatives, we are prepared to furnish this immediately.

At a meeting held this evening which all employees of your firm were invited to attend, your employees agreed to accept the recommendation of this committee that Mr. Alex Welch be permitted to withdraw from this Representative Committee in the interest of having the negotiations commenced at once. In view of the foregoing, it is to be hoped that your firm will not permit further procrastination with respect to the immediate, amicable settlement of the current dispute.

Yours truly,

CANADIAN NATIONAL TELEGRAPHS
TORONTO, ONT., JULY 14th, 1937

MICHAEL E. ENGLISH,
CHAIRMAN OF STRIKE COMMITTEE,
238 CARLISLE AVENUE,
PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO.

LETTER RECEIVED stop A NOTICE WILL BE POSTED ON THE MILLS TO-MORROW AND DISTRIBUTED TO OUR EMPLOYEES.

(Signed) DOMINION WOOLLENS AND WORSTEDS LIMITED
H. BARRETT, MANAGING DIRECTOR.

To the Employees of The Dominion Woollens & Worsteds, Ltd.

The undersigned will be at Bonner Worth Mill at 2.00 P.M. on Thursday, July 15th, to meet a committee of employees. To ensure reasonably fair representation of all of our employees we suggest that this committee consists of six employees from Auburn and six from Bonner Worth.

We object to the implication contained in letter—(No. 10) "that your firm will not permit further procrastination" as it is not justified.

The facts are:—

JUNE 29th:
Some employees at the Auburn Mill walked out without giving proper notice thus preventing other workers who wished to continue to work from doing so.

JULY 8th:
First indication received (letter—No. 1) that some of our employees desired to meet the management. On the following day we advised (Notice—No. 3) that "the management is prepared to arrange a meeting with a committee representing all our workers, after the committee has prepared the suggested statement of points to be discussed."

JULY 9th:
Indication received (Telegram — No. 4) that a committee had been formed, but no list or agenda was received.
We advised our employees of this (Notice—No. 6) the same day.

JULY 12th:
Received list of committee and agenda (letter—No. 7). The following day we advised all employees (Notice—No. 9) that the inclusion of a non employee did not fall within our undertaking and, in our opinion, the committee was not a full representation of our employees.

JULY 14th:
Intimation was received (letter—No. 10) that the name of the non employee has been withdrawn.

The management desires a prompt and amicable settlement and is leaving nothing undone to bring this about. With this in view we hope to meet a representative committee of employees as stated above.

WITNESSES WERE BEING BADGERED GORDON CHARGES

Counsel Leaves Court In Disgust After Magistrate's Questions

NEIGHBORS' QUARREL

Protesting that he was not going to stay if witnesses were to be badgered Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., walked out of a case in police court this morning.

The unusual incident came near the close of a case in which a neighborhood squabble was being aired. The trouble had occurred on Lock street last Saturday night and as a result a married couple were charged by their next door neighbors under the vagrancy act, it being alleged that they had disturbed the peace by screaming and causing a disturbance.

Mr. Gordon was appearing for the complainant while the defendants were represented by W. J. A. Fair.

The evidence in chief had been heard from both sides and had produced testimony from the defendant and his wife that the complainant during the course of the controversy had had an axe handle in his hand.

Mr. Gordon had re-called the complainant to the witness box and proceeded to examine him as to this axe handle episode when it came out that while the complainant said that he had not carried an axe handle, he did have a "bit of stick" in his hand.

Ten Inches Long

Witness picked up a piece of card board and told the magistrate that the stick was about that length, that is about ten inches and while the magistrate was dictating to the court stenographer how this testimony was to be written into the report, the witness indicated a different length.

"Way that's about 14 inches," said the magistrate. "A moment ago you said 10 inches."

It was at this stage Mr. Gordon strode out of the court with the remark that he was not going to stay if witnesses were to be badgered.

Magistrate Langley adjourned court until 1.45 o'clock this afternoon to give the complainant a chance to decide whether he wanted to engage another lawyer, consult with Mr. Gordon or close his case as it stood.

The counsel had a lively morning during the hearing. At one stage Mr. Gordon told the defence counsel to "pipe down" and a little later to "keep his shirt on."

"My friend seems to have a wonderful flow of the language of the street this morning," remarked Mr. Fair.

"I have learned that this is the only language you understand," retorted Mr. Gordon.

"Well, you notice that I do not use it," replied the counsel for the defence.

Soon after a question propounded by Mr. Fair to a witness for the complainant produced from Mr. Gordon the statement that the defendant's counsel was a "liar."

NEW CARETAKER AT PARK IS BUSY

Several Swimmers Got Into Trouble During The Past Week At Inverlea

The new caretaker of Inverlea Park and guard at the northend swimming beach is George Cooper, eighteen years old, son of H. W. Cooper, driver of one of the city's trucks. He completed his first week on the job today, and during the first week he encountered the peak of the heat wave and the bathing business it brought to the Inverlea resort. Wednesday afternoon he rescued a boy who had taken a cramp but managed to reach the second pier of the bridge; and a few days ago he helped a man who got into difficulty in the middle of the river. Young Cooper set out in his punt and aided him to shore.

The beach is crowded every afternoon, Mr. Cooper says, but the largest number of bathers was attracted last Sunday when the dressing accommodation was packed to its rather narrow limits.

Success ended a nine-year fight for a share in the Burrough adding maching fortune when Detroit judge, S. D. Callender, awarded $1,000,000 to Mrs. Laura Miller Boyer, who was cut off without a penny in the $2,000,000 will of her father-in-law, Joseph A. Boyer. She was disinherited because of a purported attempt to pass off the child of a Windsor, Ont., chambermaid as her own; the elder Boyer set up a $2,500,000 trust fund for the child, then learned of the reported hoax. He never forgave his daughter-in-law for the deception.

TO ADDRESS ROTARY

Senator Iva Fallis will be the speaker at next Monday's luncheon of the Rotary Club and on the following Monday J. J. Duffus, M.P., is billed to address the club.

ONLY ONE OF ITS TYPE

Louis Yeotes has installed in his restaurant a new Wurlitzer music recording machine. It plays the desired number when a button is pushed, and is the only one of this type in the city.

RIVER IS POPULAR

One of the most popular camping grounds in the whole district is the canal and the section of the Otonabee River between here and Lakefield. At the present time there seems to be a camp located at every choice spot along this section.

TO ADDRESS MEETING.

Harold Prevost, well-known social welfare worker of Toronto, will give an address on unemployment and relief conditions on Friday evening, July 16, at 8 o'clock, at 173½ Simcoe Street, opposite King's Hotel. A cordial invitation is extended to all citizens.

A GOOD BAROMETER

The extent of the tourist traffic can be judged from day to day by watching the young salesmen who handle those shoe boxes full of dew worms. When their stock hangs heavily on their hands the number of visitors on that particular day is below par, and that seemed to be the case this morning according to several of the young merchants.

NO BLUE LAWS HERE

There are evidently no blue laws in Peterborough. Wednesday afternoon a woman in an ultra-modern bathing suit, parked her car on George street and strolled nonchalantly across the street and half way down the block to make a couple of purchases while traffic almost went haywire.

THIRTY AT PICNIC

Thirty members of the Workers' Educational Association attended their picnic at Albert Borland's cottage four miles down the river Wednesday evening. Rain forced the supper to be moved indoors, but it eventually cleared off and a pleasant time was spent on the river.

TAKING TOO MANY CHANCES

There have been several narrow escapes from drowning at Inverlea Park recently and a swimmer who goes there frequently tells The Examiner that there are too many far-from-expert bathers who take chances by getting out where the current is strong particularly in the neighborhood of the Parkhill Road bridge.

LIKE PETERBORO' PRODUCTS

"If you want to give a boost for Peterborough products you can say that some of our American guests tell us they could make a real meal with only Stocks Bread and Silverwoods creamery butter," Dan Whetung remarked to The Examiner today.

CUTTING FALL WHEAT

One field of barley tangled and mussed about by Wednesday's rain was the only damage to grain fields seen by the Examiner within more than sixty miles west and north of the city this morning. Fall wheat was cut during the morning in one field, and with a return of sunshine it is expected that this phase of the harvest will be general by Saturday or early next week.

RASPBERRIES PLENTIFUL

An East City housewife reports that within six miles of the city on a recent afternoon she picked 15 quarts of wild raspberries. The berries were said to have been of remarkably large size, well-rounded and matured.

TO ADDRESS KIWANIS

Colonel Ivan Moore of Lindsay will be guest speaker at the Kiwanis luncheon at Empress Hotel on Friday. In his official capacity as Lieut.-Governor of Kiwanis, the guest speaker will present an outline of the International Kiwanis Convention recently concluded at Indianapolis.

HOW TO LEARN TO SWIM.

A Course of Lessons Specially Arranged By Gordon Minty, Swimming Director of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A.

CLIP OUT AND SAVE.

LESSON SEVEN

Dont's for Swimmers and Non-Swimmers.

Don't take a profonged swim when tired.

Don't swim without a companion swimmer or a life-guard on duty; in fact there should be three in every swimming party.

Don't get into a panic if you get a cramp in either of the limbs; swim to shore with the unaffected one. A cramp is more painful than dangerous.

Don't bathe alone if subject to giddiness or faintness.

Don't attempt to stand on bottom where depth is uncertain, until you have hold of something solid. A beginner will find it difficult to start swimming again.

Swim downstream if you get into weeds. Among water lillies don't swim at all; turn on your back and paddle gently with the hands.

If in difficulty do not clutch the person who approaches you, keep cool and do what he tells you.

If you have not learned to swim, acquire the knowledge at once. Seek the aid of a qualified instructor who will make your lessons both easy and interesting.

Don't dive from a boat in a high wind, you may not be able to overtake it.

Doin't go bating or canoeing or invite your friends to do so unless you can swim.

Don't start before loading camp equipment securely, not top heavy, and boat or canoe well balanced.

Don't get in the trough of waves or rollers; steer straight, take them head on or run before them.

Don't get into a panic if tipped over; a boat or canoe filled with water will support several persons in the water by holding on.

Learn to right and get into an upturned boat or canoe, you may be compelled to do so sometime.

Don't "rock the boat"; you contribute to the drowning accidents we are endeavouring to prevent.

Don't be a "sink easy"; be prepared to meet any emergency with confidence and ability.

DESCRIBES WORK OF MISSION FIELD ST. JAMES' W.M.S.

Mrs. J. O. Fife, Princess Street, Hostess At First Of Holiday Meetings

INTERESTING PROGRAM

Mrs. J. O. Fife, Princess street, was hostess last night to the first of the holiday meetings of St. James' W.M.S., which are being held in the evenings and in the homes of the members.

The program, arranged and presided over by Mrs. Fife, the leader of the group in charge, was of a specially fine character being built up around the general theme, "In the footsteps of Jesus." The Friends of Jesus in Canada" was the special study of the evening, and the Call to Worship was read by the leader.

A responsive Scripture lesson from the Psalms was led by Mrs. Fife and followed by readings from various group members, answering pertinent questions on the theme, such as "Who are the friends of Jesus in Canada?" by Mrs. Payne. "What are the marks of a friend of Jesus?" read by Mrs. Fell. "Who is my Neighbor?" Miss Pallin. "What does Jesus demand of His friend?" Mrs. Harris read from St. Matthew, while a beautiful devotional story was read by Mrs. W. H. Buckler.

Mrs. R. B. English in her reading, "From Coast to Coast" covered the success of the "W.M.S. Supply Department" as the gift of Women's Love. She spoke of Saskatchewan as the "land of beginning again" and told of the Indian work, their boarding schools and school homes, all of which was very illuminating and educative.

In a brief paper, Mrs. Ross Payne told of the encouragements and discouragements of our Home Mission Field. She outlined the objectives of the W.M.S., which she declared could only be accomplished by study and prayer and a deeper devotion to God and Missions. There is being noticed this year a deeper inspirational note in Auxiliary meetings, more members willing to pray and take part in the prgram and a desire for Group Bible Study and prayer. The greatest religious experience of the year perhaps is when W.M.S. members meet with all women around the world in observing the World's Day of Prayer. She said, "We may all ask—what is there for me to do?" and appealed, in her fine paper, that each one of us get a clearer vision of the great commission, which will only come when we are ready and willing to hear the voice which calls us "to follow."

Prayer was made by Mesdames Rose and Woodley for all those who have come from other lands to make a home in Canada, and the benediction was read from The Monthly by the president.

Reports Read

During the business period, presided over by the president, reports were heard. The secretary read changes made in report of executive meeting and the half year finances were reported by the treasurer, who said, "We are just $5.75 behind last year," but she was very optimistic for the future.

Letters to friends of bereaved members and where there is illness were ordered sent, and a reminder given by the president, of the holiday "self-denial of members," to be received at the September meeting. In this relation, Miss Kidd, gave a practical though brief talk on "Christian Stewardship." "Tithing," she said is a recognized principle. God requires the tithes to remind us that He has honored us by entrusting the Gospel message to us. It is by our gifts as His stewards, that we may send it on to those who know Him not.

"Temperance" was presented in a pithy talk by Mrs. Beavis, the secretary, who stressed the need that every W.M.S. woman be alive to her duty.

The August meeting will be an "All Temperance" meeting under the direction of Mrs. Beavis and her group.

Mrs. Sloane announced that the study of "Men and Women in Far Horizons" had been entirely covered and found to be most interesting reading, and Mrs. R. Evans gave a fine report of the Supply Department.

With a vote of sincere thanks to the hostess, the meeting was adjourned.

WORLD SWIMMING RECORD

AMSTERDAM — (CP). — Jopie Waalberg, swimming at Zaandyk, broke the women's world 200-metre breast-stroke record with a time of two minutes, 58 seconds; four seconds better than the mark of H. Mayaheta, Japan.

Ready For War

General Tsai Ting-kai, who was commander of the famous nineteenth route army of China when it withstood a Japanese attack on Shanghai in 1932, will leave Manila soon because of the tense situation between his country and Japan after the Peiping affair. Tsai has been on vacation in Manila, Phillipines, and was quoted as saying that the feeling in China is almost universal for a declaration of war against Japan, meanwhile intense fighting in and around Peiping continued. It is said to have started when Chinese troops fired on Japs, who have been engaged in manoeuvres in Manchuokuo.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, July 16

According to the transits of the moon on this day, there may be some doubtful, confusing and perplexing situations to cope with. These may be in connection with writings, publicity or contracts, all of which, with stratagem and vigilance, may be successfully manipulated. There are omens of trickery, fraud, craft and schemes, but with these overcome, there are excellent prospects of advantageous transactions in connection with contracts, writings, publishings and promotion.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year calling for shrewd and alert dealings to cope with certain menacing conditions of fraud, trickery, plots and schemes. With vigilance and sagacity, there are excellent prospects through renewed contracts or writings, publishing or promotional enterprises. A change is seen.

A child born on this day may be extremely versatile and adaptable, with much readiness with tongue and pen, sometimes with inclinations to its detriment. With principle and integrity, it should make conspicuous success in writing or another intellectual occupation.

275 YOUNG PEOPLE ENJOY EXCURSION

Young People Of Bay of Quinte Conference Hold Excursion To Mount Julian

Nine o'clock, Wednesday, was the beginning of a big day for approximately two hundred and seventy-five young people and their friends of the Bay of Quinte Conference.

The excursion steamer Stoney Lake left the George Street Wharf and arrived at Mount Julian, Stoney Lake, in time for lunch, a pause being made in Lakefield on the return trip for a picnic supper. Many of the passengers were thrilled on this their first trip through the widely-known Peterborough Lift Lock.

There was a splendid representation from almost every part of the Conference, including Peterborough, Lakefield, Tweed, Port Hope, Oshawa, Pontypool, Fairview, Kedron, Columbus, Newcastle, Millbrook, Arden, Greenwood, Corbyville Deseronto, Cavan, Janetville, Bethany, Springville, Campbellford Bury's Green, Westwood, Orono, and two distinguished visitors from New York City, Hastings carried off the honors with an attendance of thirty-six. Due to urgent business in the city, the Rev. J. M. C. Parr, Jake Burnham, and Lloyd Parnall were unable to join the boat at 9 a.m., but motored to Young's Point and joined the party there.

The main attraction on board was the search for the "mystery man," who turned out to be A. V. Lillow of Peterborough and was discovered after a two-hour search by Miss Evelyn Gay of Oshawa. In the following "treasure hunt" the winner was Lorne Reynolds of Fairview. A peanut hunt and scramble created much excitement. These sports were in charge of Miss Loretta McDougall of Peterborough. Sing-songs are always a welcome diversion on a boat trip, but under the capable direction of the Rev. F. Riding, Pontypool, S. Saywell, Oshawa, and A. V. Lillow, Peterborough, the sing-songs on this trip were enjoyed with unusual enthusiasm, with even the rain failing to bring gloom. A most pleasant addition was the "booth" in charge of Don Charlton, with an able assistant in Miss Bessie Gordon of Tweed.

The success of the picnic was due in great measure to the committee in charge, Homer Borland, president of the Conference, and his assistant, Steve Saywell; also the Conference Recreation convenor, Miss Esther Thornton, who, although she was unable to join the outing until the evening, was the one responsible for the plans which made such an enjoyable and pleasant day.

Forty children passing into the higher-grade school at Kolding, Denmark, chose English as their compulsory foreign language and only three preferred German.

Pipe Left In Drawer Gives Firemen A Run

WHEN HE FINISHED his evening smoke just before returning to work at the Mayfair Cafe, Albert Hum placed his pipe in the drawer of a wash stand in a room he occupies at 227½ Hunter street west. Some time later Willie Hum who had been asleep in the same room was alarmed by the smell of smoke. When he discovered his compatriots pipe had set the washstand on fire, the Chinese turned in an alarm, which incidentally brought the entire resources of the Fire Department rushing to his assistance. Services of the firefighters were not required because Willie Hum successfully tackled the incipient outbreak with a bucket of water pending their arrival. The brigade received the call at 10.13 p.m.

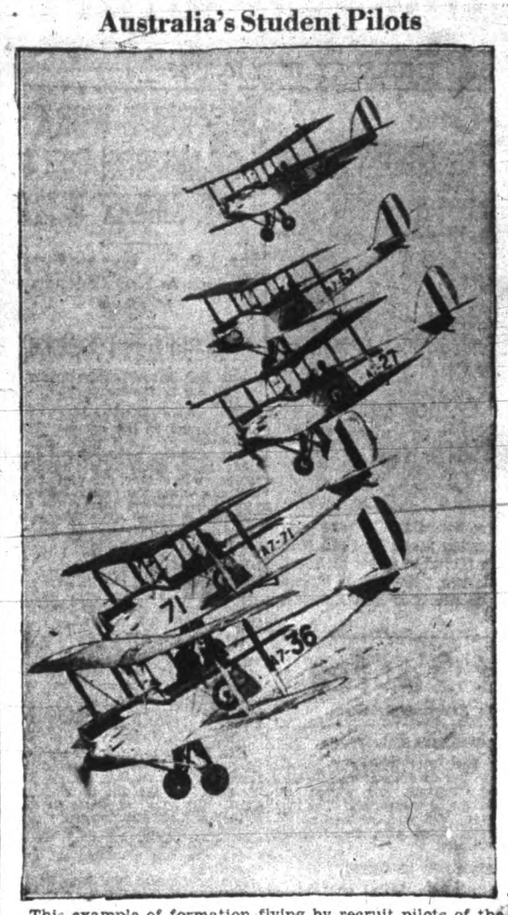
Australia's Student Pilots



This example of formation flying by recruit pilots of the Royal Australian Air Cadets was one of the last tactics required of them before they were given their wings. Australia is co-operating with Great Britain in the training of pilots for the Royal Air Force which is seeking greatly increased enlistments to keep pace with Britain's rearmament program and huge additions to the air force. Australia's student pilots are taught the ground work of combat flying as taught to Britain's own student recruits. These pilots are pictured in the air near Melbourne.

HOW TO OVERCOME PILES AND RECTAL SORENESS

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Store, or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is a physician's prescription and is highly recommended. It is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

Paving Way For Start Of Regular Flights

Making a leisurely survey flight from Vancouver to Montreal, examining airports along the route and gathering data for the forthcoming trans-Canada airway, officials paving the way for start of regular commercial flights are pictured as they stopped at Lethbridge, Alta., (Top) and at Edmonton as part of their flight. Standing in front of the Lockheed-Electra transport aeroplane owned by the department of transport, as it stands on the Lethbridge field are, A. D. MacLean, federal superintendent of airways; Philip G. Johnson, of Seattle, newly-appointed vice-president in charge of operations of Trans-Canada Airlines Ltd.; Wing Com. D. R. MacLaren of Trans-Canada Airlines Ltd.; D. B. Colyer of Chicago, vice-president of United Air Lines Ltd.; Mayor D. H. Elton of Lethbridge and Squadron Leader J. H. Tudhope, M.C., chief pilot of the aeroplane. Squadron Leader Tudhope is shown again at lower left broadcasting a message from the aeroplane to a radio beam station 150 miles away. The trans-Canada machines will fly by radio beam a greater part of their route. At Right, is a view of the Lockheed's control cabin with pilot and co-pilot in their seats, as it looks from the passenger's seat. There are 37 dials on the instrument panel to aid in handling the machine.

Cherneys Offering Three Door Prizes

A unique offer is made by Cherney Brothers in connection with their second anniversary sale. On Friday evening they are inviting citizens to visit their store for an inspection of the many beautiful lines of furniture carried in stock.

There will be three door prizes offered and the public is assured their visit to the store will entail no obligation to buy. In 1935 Cherney Brothers moved into the east half of their present store formerly operated by McFadden and Son. Within the first year, business increased to such an extent they were forced to enlarge their space. This was done by combining the two stores into one.

One of the reasons advanced by Cherney Brothers for the growth of their business, is that since inception of the business they have followed the policy of having lower "mark-ups". This policy they claim has resulted in more rapid turnover of their stock and has assured customers of new and smart quality furniture at lowest prices consistent with good service and reliable merchandise.

The business is owned and managed by the two Cherney boys who were born and brought up in this city, and it is their ambition to make their store a source of pride to the buying public of the city.

Big 4th Frame Nets Petes Four Runs And 5-1 Victory

Kitchen Hurls Four-Hit Ball To Chalk Up His Fourth Win Of Season

GETS GOOD SUPPORT

C.O.B.L. standing to date:

Team	P	W	L
Kingston	13	9	4
Oshawa	14	9	5
Petes	14	6	8
Napanee	13	3	10

The Petes took a 5-1 win in Napanee yesterday, while Oshawa was winning in Kingston. Behind Russ Kitchen's fine flinging, the Liftlock City crew showed a lot of class to cop the decision in a neat number. They had a big fourth frame to drive in four runs and clinch the verdict.

Kitchen twirled four-hit ball to chalk up his fourth victory of the season. He had good control and his sharp curve working to perfection all afternoon, though he looked a bit shaky in the first two frames. The lanky righthand ace struck out four and issued four walks, while making the Gibbards roll out weakly or pop up from the second inning on. His support was excellent as the Petes dug in and played classy baseball.

Ody Blazetich started on the mound for Walt Gerow's gang. He was going good till the fourth when several bunched hits got the Petes in scoring positions and they knocked in four runs and knocked Blazetich from the slab. Speedy St. Louis took over the task for the rest of the route and twirled good ball to blank the visitors from then on. They had previously scored a run in the second inning to tie the score at 1-1. Napanee's lone run came in the first heat when Scarlett tripled and was squeezed in. They never seriously threatened again.

Leads Winners At Bat

Bill Calladine led the winners at bat with two hits, the Petes only getting eight but bunching them. Ash batted in two runs, while Clark, Calladine and Whatley drove in one each. Handford bunted in the Napanee marker. A Starr-to-Clark double play was a fielding feature but all the Petes went good defensively in this struggle. Napanee also played a fair brand of ball in the field. Manager Collins did not arrive till the seventh inning due to car trouble.

Sports Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP)—Are the Cubs really getting ready to cough up 100,000 potatoes for Joe Medwick next winter? . . . Max Schmeling is yelling for mercy from Berlin; but all he gets from Mike Jacobs is the horse laugh . . . Glad to see Carl Hubbell back in stride . . . He's too swell a guy to pitch in tough luck all the time.

Mike Jacobs can't lose for winning . . . less than a week after the United States government refunded Max Schmeling $25,000 in 1936-36 taxes (outof which Mike got all Max owed him) the United States discovered Max still owes it about $25,000 for 1931-2 taxes—ouch! . . . Don Lash, Indiana's distance star, wants to be a cop when he leaves school.

Bulletin: Looks like Bill Tilden may be right on his Davis Cup predictions—Parker and little Grant are going like blue blazes. New York Herald-Tribune says Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs has been picked as Bill Terry's successor as field leader of the Giants when Bill goes into the front office next season . . . How are they going to get Gabby away from the Cubs? . . . They still say Steve O'Neill has got to go at Cleveland after this season . . . and it's a shame, too . . . Jack Pfeffer will succeed Jack Curley as boss of the wrestling racket in New York.

The N.B.C. apparently thinks Joe Louis is in there for a good long time . . . It has just paid $100,000 for the radio rights for his next four fights . . . Dick Bartell is having a great year with the Giants and that's all right because he's just about the hustlingest, scrappiest ball player in Mr. Ford Frick's league.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

FOR THE FIRST time in 5 years years the honor of winning the honor of winning the Simpson Trophy comes to our own club and this time the honor goes to R. Hendry and his rink. The rain that fell along about 5 o'clock abbreviated our annual tournament so much that only half of the games scheduled could be played. However, the committee had prepared for just such an emergency and it was declared a contest after all rinks had played two games.

IN OPENING our tournament, Mayor G. A. Macdonald said after he had welcomed the visitors and paid glowing tributes to the members of our club, that while we all cannot take the half-day holiday to take part in this wonderful game yet we in no way envy those who do. He expressed the wish that the threatening rain would hold off and that everything would be as dry (?) and comfortable for the bowlers as possible. Fred Dearborn read the rules governing the tourney and announced the first draw.

SHORT SHOTS — Sixteen rinks from all around the district and 16 local entries made the draw . . . Art Gillian of Toronto, and who learned his bowling on the old local greens was kept busy renewing old acqualintances . . . We notice Howard Clegg still keeps packing 'em in, had no rink at 11 o'clock in the morning but picked up one before the games started to land in 3rd place . . . The Lake Ontario towns did well for us, Cobourg had 3 entries, Port Hope 3 and Oshawa 2 . . . And the ladies of our club once more rose to great heights in looking after the inner man . . . It was most unfortunate for everyone that the rain came, but the members of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club greatly appreciate the sportsmanlike manner that was displayed by the visitors when the balance of the tournament was called off—Bowlers like that . . . It was Jimmy Watson's 18th consecutive year attending our annual tournament, he comes from Cobourg . . . Ernie Wall's rink met its first defeat of the year on Wednesday . . . Going into the tnird round the draw would have held five Peterborough rinks and three visitors.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

TODAY WE HAVE a rather tough task, that of telling about a ball Napanee. Right here and now we would like to make two sug-yesterday. Since we only saw two and a half innings of it, we can't be expected to go into detail, eh? We arrived there midway in the seventh frame and saw the rest of the tilt. Russ Kitchen again pitched grand ball to limit thte home crew to four hits and win his fourth game. And he had fine support, the Petes digging in and playing the kind of ball they are capable of playing—but which they haven't been playing lately, till yesterday. We expect the hits, putouts, assists, etc., are listed elsewhere. The official scorer promised to send in the box score, but at this writing we dunno if it has been done or not. We weren't there for it, so couldn't do it, naturally. We can't say much about the ball game, but can give you a bit of a travellogue. Yes, indeed!

* * * * * * *

TROUBLE WAS we ran into car trouble all the way down to Napanee. Right herea nd now we would like to make two suggestions to local baseball officials. One is to get the team away plenty early on these gosh-awful long trips. And the other is to avoid the back highways and journey down the Port Hope road. For further details, see any of the gang that went in the same car we did! We had to stop in Norwood for car trouble and again in Marmora. There Eddie Starr, the only player in the car, was transferred to another—and a good thing too. Next stop for trouble was in Stirling, and it was a long one. Finally, the car was supposed to be okay and we pushed on—for a few miles. It definitely stopped then.

* * * * * * *

THE FIVE GEES in the bus split up along about then. George Nicholls and Bob Gamble decided to stick with the sinking ship, but yours truly, Manager Fred Collins and Treasurer Jack Condon, decided to push on. We even went in for hitch-hiking and caught a creamery truck. Outside of having to stop in farmers' yards to pick up provisions, we made good time—though Treasurer Condon strongly objected to bouncing around on an egg crate in the back of the truck! We finally made Belleville. In the meantime, Mister Gamble had to hitch-hike back to Stirling for help and rode there in state in a truck next to a casket, no less! Fun, what?

* * * * * * *

IN BELLEVILLE, a forlorn trio—who had decided the game was well under way by that time—hired a car to finish the trip, but it was not that easy. We broke down again a few miles out of Belleville, and again had to hit-hike back in a truck. We got a taxi and we'll be berled in erl if the driver didn't turn out to be semi-intoxicated! It was indeed a worrisome trip, but we finally made it and arrived in the seventh inning. Manager Collins philosophically remarked: "Well, with so much tough luck so far, I know the gang will win the game without us!" Which they did nicely.

* * * * * * *

SO WE GUESS it was a good ball game—but all we know is the last couple of innings. The boys went out there battling and they copped it, looking good enough to knock off Kingston or Oshawa. Which they can do any time they play the ball they should be playing. The kind they played yesterday. Maybe they've got their bad baseball out of the system and will go from now on. They hope to take the Gibbards again here on Saturday. We hope they lick the pants off 'em too. And if anyone wants lick the pants off a certain garage man in Stirling—why, that's oke with us, also! Aside from Kitchen, we can't name any stars yesterday, since we didn't see much of the fray; but we did see Ash doing some fine stretching on first to rob the opposition of a few hits. Fred is going okay this season. The Oshawa players stopped over and saw some of the game.

* * * * * * *

JAKE BIDDLE shuffled awkwardly out to the mound in Kingston last e'en and pitched three-hit ball as the GM-men beated the Ponies by an 8-1 score. A certain Tony Paczkowski pitched for the Ponies but was nicked for 10 hits and was beaten all the way. Biddle fanned nine gents. There were three homers clouted, May and Rowden of Oshawa doing the trick and Goodfellow—believe it or not—of the Daley clan. The win pushes Oshawa up to within half a game of Kingston in the standing, while the Petes are still hovering around third place but not too far down the list. Napanee would be heading the list if you read the loop standing while standing on your head! The Gerowmen come close and they lick Oshawa and Kingston but the Petes seem to have their number.

* * * * * * *

ON ACCOUNT OF IT rained last night, the Auburn lacrosse practise had to be called off. It will be held this eve at seven bells in the George St. arena. The boys are getting set for their exhibition tussle tomorrow (Friday) night under the lights with the Brooklin gang from Toronto. Fans here can look for a tidy tilt when these two smart teams hook up. The Brooklin boys play for keeps but they'll have to keep playing every minute with the smart Auburns. The latter gang haven't dropped a decision this season and they hope to add another to their string at the expense of Brocklin tomorrow. It should be a fine scrap all the way. Auburns didn't have a scheduled C.O.L.A. contest this week, so they lined up the exhibition match. They hope to have Orillia here soon, too.

* * * * * * *

THIS ITEM COMES FROM the Oshawa Times: "Peterborough Auburns are going to play Brooklin's lacrosse team in an exhibition game on Friday night in the Liftlock City. We venture to say that George Munroe's Brooklin boys will give the Auburns some stern opposition. The former coach of Oshawa's Mann Cup champions has greatly improved the Brooklin team and they seem headed for a group championship, provided they can beat Roden A. C." Well, the locals licked Roden A. C. a few weeks ago in an exhibition game in Peterborough. But it was a nice number.

DESE, DEM AND DOSE: No softball around town last night due to the rain . . . . Motorists and Barons meet at Central this eve . . . . Cobourg and C.G.E. gals are billed for this e'en at the Bowl, and two games out of town tomorrow . . . . Cobourg Junior ballsters play in Bowmanville tomorrow night; Bowmanville is here next Wednesday . . . . Russ Kitchen may start again here Saturday against Napanee. Manager Collins figuring Russ is his best bet at present . . . . Gunner Whitehill's arm is being treated regularly and he may be oke for next Wednesday in Kingston . . . . O.B.A.A. has a meeting in Toronto tonight to discuss the various playdowns . . . . Albert Jackson, 19, of Deseronto—who played junior and intermediate "B" hookey with Belleville teams last winter—died from injuries received when a wall caved in on him recently . . . . Umpire Kinkley of Napanee threatens to quit umping as he has been getting quite a ride from his home town team . . . . Eddie Murphy is playing semi-pro ball now in Montreal . . . . Guess we'll hitch-hike home now and dream of creamery trucks and breakdowns.

Trenton Beaten In Three Of Five Sets In Bay Of Quinte League

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 15.—The Campbellford Tennis Club won three out of five events in the tournament with the Orchard Club, Trenton, held on the local courts Wednesday afternoon, and retained their leading position in the Bay of Quinte League, having obtained 17 points out of a possible 25. The locals took both of the men's doubles events in easy victories over the Trenton club, but Don. Meyers and Eleanor Ferris played a long, hard-fought game before they were able to nose out the visitors in the mixed doubles to make the third point. Local enthusiasts were somewhat surprised to see the Orchard Club team of Bernice Millikan and Gus Mackenzie take the second mixed doubles from Evelyn Bonnycastle and Wilbert Kingston in a closely contested game, the score being 8-7, 7-5. In the ladies' doubles, which was concluded in what was almost record time, Eileen Filion and Anita Hyde won the second point for the visitors from Mrs. Verna Weston and Miss Viola Couch, 6-0, 6-1.

Summary of events:

Mixed doubles — D. Meyers and Miss Eleaner Ferris won from Jack McCarthy and Thelma Johnson of Trenton, 6-4, 5-7, 9-7.

Miss Evelyn Bonnycastle and W. Kingston lost to Miss Bernice Millikan and G. Mackenzie of Trenton, 9-7, 7-5.

Men's doubles—Cliff Weston and K. Kingston won from R. D. MacDonald and Ewan Cooke, 6-1, 6-1.

Biddle's Hurling Subdues Kingston

KINGSTON, July 15 (CP)—Holding the hard-hitting Ponies to three hits, Jake Biddle, bespectacled hurler of Oshawa Motors, defeated Kingston 8 to 1 last night and brought the Motors to within half a game of the leading Ponies.

Biddle was in rare form throughout, though touched for a home run by Johnny Goodfellow for the only Kingston counter. He fanned nine batters and scattered the three hits. Doc Rowden and Doug Maya clouted homers for the visitors.

Hahn on Tanners' Mound Gives Good Performance In Subduing Clapper Gang

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, July 15.—The Outlaws received their third straight setback last night (Wednesday) at the hands of the Tanners, when they were beaten 12-4. It was a snappy game and featured the 7-hit pitching performance on the part of Hahn for the Tanners.

The Tanners opened the scoring in the first inning when Hahn tripled, scoring Lemoire for the first Tanners' run. In the second, on 3 singles and G. Scriver's double, 3 more Tanners crossed the plate, while in the fourth, on 2 singles, Hahn's double and G. Scriver's second double 4 Tanners scored. In the fifth, on 2 singles, Brinklow's double and an error, the Tanners scored 3 more and they scored another on errors in the seventh to finish their scoring.

The Outlaws opened the first inning with 3 runs on 3 singles and an error. They scored their last one in the third on 2 singles, and from then on Hahn had them handcuffed.

Oshawa Adds Lead By Beating Ports

OSHAWA, July 15. — Oshawa lengthened their lead still further in the Lake Shore Intermediate O.B.A.A. grouping here last night when they handed Port Hope a 8 to 2 setback. Frank McGarry hurled two-hit ball for the locals in the abbreviated contest, a rousing double by Pinch-hitter L. Wakeley, driving in both of the losers runs, after the erratic righthander had walked two. Oshawa took a three-run lead in first frame when Danny Normoyle tripled to clear the paths and backed up McGarrys splendid twirling with air-tight support to coast throughout.

Carl Hubbell Helps Giants Advance To First Position

Southpaw Ace Captures His Fifth In Row While Bees Defeat Cubs

REDS OUTSCORE DODGERS

NEW YORK, July 15.—Carl Hubbell pitched the New York Giants into the National League lead yesterday when he limited the Pittsburg Pirates to four hits for a 4-to-2 triumph.

It was Hubbell's fifth straight victory and his thirteenth of the year. It put the New Yorkers a half-game above the Chicago Cubs who had been sitting on the top perch since June 13.

Doubles by Bartell and Berger, a pair of walks and McCarthy's long fly gave the Giants two runs in the first inning. Bartell's thirteenth homer came in the third, and Mel Ott's eighteenth in the sixth.

Cubs In Second Place.

The Cubs dropped into second place when they were nosed out 2-to-1 by the Boston Bees. It was a close decision at the plate in the fifth that broke a 1-to-1 deadlock and gave the Bees the decision. Jim Turner doled out five hits to score his ninth win of the year.

Cincinnati's Reds scored their fourth straight in when they pushed over two runs in the ninth to defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3-to-3. Lefty Lee Grissom, Reds' star rookie, held the flatbushers to six hits and three runs before being banished fom the game in the ninth. Grissom attempted to score from third on Cuyler's force-out, in the ninth, but was doubled at the plate — Lavagetto to Phelps. Grissom tumbled over Phelps, and Brooklyn catcher attempted to punch Lefty. Players from both sides separated the combatants and Umpire Magerkurth banished both from the game.

Montreal Soccerites Win In Quebec Final

MONTREAL, July 15 (C.P.). — Glen Yards soccer team of Montreal won the Quebec final in the Dominion Football Association playdowns last night by taking a 3-0 win from Maisonneauve Rovers to end a deadlock that stretched through four games.

The Geen Yards eleven qualified to meet Ulster United of Toronto in a two-game, total goal series. Both games will be played at Toronto, next Saturday and Monday.

Until last night's game at Glen Yards' home field, the two Quebec finalists had been in a stalemate for the provincial title. Almost two weeks ago, they started out a two-game series. But three successive ties prolonged the round to four games.

YANKEES ADD VICTORY LIST DEFEAT TIGERS

Red Ruffing Hurls His Eleventh Win For New York Club

TRIBE TRIMS SENATORS

NEW YORK, July 15.—In the American League, the leading New York Yankees assembled their longest winning streak in three years when they defeated the Detroit Tigers, 10 to 2, for their eighth successive win. Red Ruffing turned back the Bengals with five hits for his eleventh win of the year. The Yanks got to Wade, Coffman and Gill for twelve, including Joe DiMaggio's twenty-third homer.

Tigers Drop Back.

The defeat dropped the Tigers to fourth place behind the Boston Red Sox and the Chicago White Sox. The Red Sox walloped the St. Louis Browns, 15 to 6, and the White Sox defeated the Philadelphia Athletics 6 to 4 in a game called in the last half of the fifth because of rain. Vernon Kennedy held the A's to five hits for his eighth victory. Boston collected twenty-one hits, including homers by Higgins and Mills, while Buck Newsom coasted to victory, giving up nine safeties to St. Louis batsmen.

Cleveland's Indians defeated the Washington Senators, 11 to 3, in the first of a three-game series. Willis Hudlin accounted for his ninth victory, limiting the Nationals to seven hits. Averill and Trosky hit home runs for Cleveland.

Verdun Marathoner Represents Canada

DALLAS, Texas, July 15 (AP).— Old track and field scores come up for settlement in new atmosphere when about 90 per cent. of the Western Hemisphere's top-flight stars gather in the Cotton Bowl tonight to start the Pan-American games.

Crack athletes from Canada, twenty-one South and Central American nations will add luster to the nomadic American track and field show, with its individual rivalries.

Walter Young, the Verdun, Que., winner of the Boston Marathon this year, is entered in the Texas Marathon.

Thoroughbred Horse Breeders In Favor Of Turf Commission

"Most Breeders Want Government Racing Body And Must Have It"

HARDY MESSAGE

FORT ERIE, July 15—"Confidence of the public must be restored in racing in Ontario and it is to a large extent up to the thoroughbred breeders of this Province to see this is done," said President George Hardy of the Thoroughbred Breeders' Association, speaking to eighty-seven horsemen here last night. The meeting unanimously sponsored a resolution asking Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn to take steps immediately to name a new governing body to be in charge of racing at all tracks in the Province.

Refers to Suspensions.

Referring to the recent case in Toronto, in which eight jockeys were suspended by the Canadian Racing Association, President Hardy said:

"We know the press is not satisfied with what has been further done in this case, but we have no comment to make in that regard. Every effort possible was made by this organization to bring the affair to the front, and further action now is distinctly up to the law enforcement department of the Government.

He cited at length the benefit of a single controlling body, with all responsible elements recognized in its membership. "Most emphatically the breeders want it, and must have it, if they are to remain in the game," he concluded.

Vice-President James Heffering of Toronto said the racing season in Ontario is a short one at the most. Confliction in dates such as has been experienced this year between Toronto, Hamilton and Fort Erie tracks, is not conducive, he said, to good racing.

Dr. C. N. Mooney of Toronto, owner of "Teddy Haslam," winner of the Statler Handicap, one of the features of the current Fort Erie meet, said he did not believe it would be wise to suggest to the Premier who should constitute the new body.

After long discussion, it was decided to leave the technical wording of the petition to be presented to Premier Hepburn in the hands of the Board of Directors of the Thoroughbreders Association.

Ultimatum to Orpen.

Another resolution was passed to be sent to Abe M. Orpen at Toronto notifying him, unless the minimum purse at the approaching London meet is $500, all breeders present will refuse to ship to that track.

Another resolution was passed congratulating the President of the Hamilton Jockey Club for dividing purses not competed for seven ways among the winners of other races, and congratulating him on the increased co-operation shown to breeders at the last Hamilton meet.

President John R. Madigan and the racing staff at Fort Erie were commended for the manner in which they had successfully striven to meet major track conditions at Toronto, with increased purses and a consideration for the horsemen in making up cards which were declared "satisfactory all around."

Montreal Cannot Support Two Clubs

NEW YORK, July 15 (CP) — A committee was appointed at a meeting of National Hockey League governors here yesterday with full powers to act on "any plan to ameliorate the professional hockey situation in Montreal."

While an official statement issued at the end of a two-hour session went no further than that, it was learned from an authoritative source that it was the general belief of the meeting that Montreal lacks the population to support two clubs.

The Quebec metropolis has long supported the Canadien and Maroon clubs in the major professional league. It was understood Canadiens financial status improved last winter over the previous season.

The committee which will consider the situation is composed of three league officials. They are Frank Calder of Montreal, the league president, James Norris Sr., of Detroit Red Wings and Colonel John R. Kilpatrick of New York Rangers.

Brooklin Lacrosse Team Here Friday

Brooklin lacrossers have an exhibition match here tomorrow (Friday) night at nine o'clock under the lights at the George St. boxla arena with the local Auburns. The latter gang have been idle in their C.O.L.A. schedule this week and lined up this exhibition contest to keep in condition and to give the fans some action. Auburns have not lost a game so far this season and are well out in front of their group race. They took a win over Roden A.C. recently but had a real battle, and this Brooklin gang has been battling with the Roden team for first place in their Toronto group standing—each team holding top place for a time—all season.

Another fine exhibition guitted-stick contest is likely when these teams clash. Both are experienced, speedy and in good shape. Auburns hope to keep their victory streak intact but should encounter plenty of opposition Friday evening. They will have their full team on deck, after two strenuous workouts this week, and fans can bank on lots of lively lacrosse action with rugged play and smart work dished up. The locals are getting set for a later exhibition game with the Orillia Terriers.

LOU FETTE

Outstanding rookie pitcher of the National loop this season is Lou Fette, 30-year-old right hander of the Boston Bees. With a floundering team, Lou is still baffling batters and winning games.

Lou came to the Bees from St. Paul of the American Association, where he chalked up the best 1936 record in the loop, winning 26 games while being red-inked on eight.

The tall Missourian (he comes from Alba) not only led his league last season in victory percentage, but also in complete games, number of innings pitched and number of batters facing him.

Lou attended Missouri Valley College for three years, starring in several sports, chiefly basketball. He started his professional career in 1928, at Pueblo, a Kansas City farm club. There he won 20 games.

When Kansas City brought him back, he kept on winning. He stayed with the Caseys until midseason of 1933, when he was traded to St. Paul.

MAX SCHMELING IS NOT 'CHAMP'

British Boxing Board Denies Recognition Of German Heavyweight

NO CHANCE FOR FARR

LONDON, July 15 (AP) — The British Boxing Board of Control met in special session yesterday and officially denied it recognizes Max Schmeling of Germany as heavyweight champion of the world.

As Tommy Farr, the British and Empire heavyweight champion, sailed on the Berengaria for New York to fight Joe Louis for the latter's world title on Aug. 26, the board "viewed with concern" statements made in court yesterday that it acknowledged Schmeling as champion.

"At no time have the stewards made such a declaration," a statement said. "When they discussed an application for a Farr-Schmeling contest to be officially recognised as for the heavyweight championship, the stewards declared they considered the title vacant."

In view of this statement, British writers declared Farr wouldn't be recognized as champion of the world even if he beats Louis.

JERSEY GIANTS BLAST NEWARK

New York Farmhands Turn Tables On Bears With Double Victory

GAMES RAINED OUT

TORONTO, July 15 (CP)—There's a limit to everything, and Jersey City Giants, kicked, mauled and all but annihilated by the high and mighty Newark Bears, have risen in their wrath.

Deep in the cellar of the International Baseball League, with little prospect of bettering themselves, the Giants absorbed beating after beating from every club in the circuit, but those handed them by the Bears were hardest to take.

The first day the Jersey rivals met this season there was joy in Hague-town, for the Giants won. But since then Jersey City adherents have had little cause to rejoice. The Bears swept to the top, while the Giants dropped to the cellar.

On their way up, the Bears have knocked over the Jersey City outfit 11 times in succession, but yesterday it was a different story.

The rest of the league games were rained out and the Giants belted over the pace-setters in both ends of a doubleheader 7-0 and 2-1.

It marked the first time the Newarkers had been shut out, the first time they had lost both ends of a doubleheader and only the third time they had dropped two games in a row.

Pan-American Games Start 4-Day Meeting

DALLAS, Texas, July 15 (A.P.)— Four days of athletic pageantry — the Pan-American Games — open under a canopy of stars here tonight for muscled sons of Canada, United States, and nations below the Rio Grande.

Second in American athletic prestige only to the Olympic Games in Los Angeles in 1932, the games begin when four loin-clothed Indian runners spring through the gates of Dallas' Cotton Bowl to herald the arrival of nearly 200 athletes.

Canada sent Jaxes Cartwright, ace javelin thrower; J. L. Loaring, 400-meter star; and Sammy Richardson, broad jumper, as well as Walter Young, Montreal's brilliant long distance loper.

Yesterday's Stars

(By the Associated Press)

Red Ruffing, Yankees—Held Tigers to five hits, fanned eight and gave one base on balls to trim Tigers, 10-2.

Buster Mills, Red Sox—Bagged four hits, one a homer, and drove in five runs in 15-6 rout of Browns.

Ival Goodman, Reds—Got three hits, one a double, stole a base and drove in winning run in 5-3 beating of Dodgers.

Jim Turner, Bees—Got one of team's five hits and scored a run while turning back Cubs, 2-1, with five-hit pitching.

IN MEMORIAM

HENWOOD.—In loving memory of our dear, little twin son Lionel Henwood, who went to be with Jesus one year ago to-day, in his tenth year.
Dearly loved and deeply mourned.
Heart of my heart, I miss you so;

LOVE IS FOR TOMORROW

By VIRGINIA SCALLON

CHAPTER 33

GARRET lost no time. He never had met anyone like Marcia before, and he resolved to waste no precious days of her friendship. With a somewhat shame-faced grin, he stopped in the club florist's on the way to his office.

"You have 'nother banquet, maybe so?" queried Nobu, the little Japanese girl who helped him on the infrequent occasions when he came to buy flowers.

"No. Something for a lady," he answered rather quickly to cover his embarrassment, then began to search busily among the bright flowers on display.

"Is she orchid lady, or maybe gardenia?" she asked tentatively.

"No. This girl is different, Nobu. Sort of a crinoline—"

"Gen-u-ine?" the tiny clerk said slowly, trying to catch the unfamiliar term.

"That's it. That's it—genuine!" Garrett was immensely pleased over the little incident. Convinced that Nobu had second sight or uncommon intuition, he urged, "Now you help me find something for her?"

With a quick nod the girl vanished into the cool, dark interior of the shop, and soon returned with some tiny pink rose buds, with lilies of the valley.

"You like?" she smiled, expansively, sure of his approval. When he nodded in relief, she bobbed a quick curtsy and then brought him a card. With a great show of indifference, Garrett went to the desk, and devoted himself to the unaccustomed task of penning a romantic note to a lady.

Suddenly, it seemed that he never had had such an important or such a difficult note to write. If Nobu had been an American, she would have smiled at his intense concentration. Being an impassive Oriental, she merely waited patiently till he handed her the folded card and hastily left the shop.

He was back in a moment, full of embarrassment.

"I forgot to tell you," he apologized. "Send the flowers to Miss Marcia Madden, 827 South Multern drive. And rush them."

Marcia was just leaving her apartment in mid-morning when the messenger called. Soft color flooded her cheeks when the boy handed her the elaborate box, and she thought tenderly of Sandy. How sweet of him to remember her on a busy Monday!

She unwrapped the box quickly, then lifted the card from the quaint little bouquet. Disappointment, then surprised pleasure were reflected on her face as she read Garrett's laborious note: "To the Crinoline Lady—Hoops for you, and whoops for me now that I've met you. May I see you tonight on a matter of great importance? Remember me? I'm—Garrett Warren."

After the first disappointment that the flowers were not from Sandy but from a new friend, Marcia's smile deepened. Despite herself, she felt that she could like Garrett Warren tremendously and the idea of combining personalities with business disturbed her. She remembered vividly the real interest Garrett had evidenced in her during their brief acquaintance.

Hesitantly, she walked back into the apartment and dialed the publishing house that bore Garrett's name. She received an immediate connection to his office...an almost unheard of accomplishment. If she had known how difficult it was to reach this busy executive, she would have realized that Garrett had anticipated her call and instructed the operator to put her through without any of the usual inquiries.

Garrett greeted her exuberantly, and explained rather guiltily that he wanted to see her on a matter of business, suggesting that she call at his office about 5.

"Then, we could have a spot of dinner, and possibly a theatre," he concluded rather lamely.

Marcia was inclined to plead a previous engagement, but she felt that she owed him the courtesy of accompanying him. Surely she could guide their friendship into calm, safe channels.

She wore a jaunty little gray suit and a pull-down hat that barely hid her bright hair. Garrett looked her over appraisingly.

"What's the matter? Did you expect me to wear those beautiful flowers right in the middle of the day? You should know I don't wear my crinolines when I go to work."

Catching the disappointment he evidenced, she hastened to assure him, "But I love flowers! It was so—so different of you to select such a charming bouquet. Thank you Garrett."

The man smiled, then waved her to a chair. In a few brusque words he outlined the work he proposed to give her as a test, and his manner was reassuringly business-like. She thrilled to the promise of real opportunity in the assignments Garrett mentioned, and saw a changing vista of work—a leisurely inspirational path that was to lack some of the hustle and scramble of the agency.

Even the office had a more refined "genteel" look. Heavily carpeted, a stained glass window with rich burgundy-toned drapes, and a massive carved desk were the highlights of this sanctum-sanctorum.

One wall was lined with bookcases, and even from where she sat Marcia could sense the beauty of these volumnes. As an artist, she was entranced by the real charm of her surroundings.

"And now let's go to dinner," Garrett jumped up suddenly, and shed his formality like a flash. Since college days he had been so seriously engrossed in his profession he had found little time to squire the ladies. No girl had seemed worth the effort until he met Marcia. Since their brief acquaintance he had changed many of his ideas about women in general, and formed some very definite conclusions about this one in particular.

If his classmates at Yale could see "Old Ironsides" now as he plunged deep into this business of courtship! With characteristics seriousness, he planned a methodical siege on this girl's heart.

"Let's try Luigi's?" he suggested.

"Let's," she agreed. At the same time she thought how queer it was that Garrett seemed to demand and get her attention so completely.

Dinner was a hearty, satisfying affair—a genuine "stomach stretcher" as Sandy would say. The Italian restaurant was filled with little round tables, each covered with gleaming white cloths that touched the floor, and surmounted by candles in colored glasses.

In the dim light, Garrett studied his table companion. His conversation revealed to Marcia that he was indeed the idealist he had described himself to be, and his undisguised interest in her again aroused her defenses. She realized the consequences of too serious a friendship, and with an attempt at gay banter, she turned the conversation.

"Do you think we'd better go to a theater after this dinner?"

"You're not ill?" Garrett asked with quick solicitude.

"No. But as the little colored girl said, 'I don't smell so good.' Garlic, you know, is a fragrant little flower that is particularly abhorred by theatergoers."

"Sorry. I'm a stupid sort of a fellow; I didn't think. What would you suggest?"

Marcia was amused and flattered, too, by his solicitous attitude. Sandy's take-it-or-leave-it love making had none of these super niceties. When she hesitated in her answer, he took the initiative with:

"Maybe we'd better take a drive. How about Lookout mountain?"

As he mentioned the favorite rendezvous of romantic couples, Marcia took a quick stock of the situation. Instinctively she knew Garrett was not the type to force his attentions, yet she mistrusted that inspirational setting: a wind-swept mountain top, drenched in moonlight, with Hollywood and all Los Angeles spread out in a rich blaze of glory right at its foot. Gay should not resist this invitation, to romance!

"I think," she said with an air of great deliberation, "that an ounce of cure is worth a pound of something or other. What about peppermints, some cigarets, and gum? I'd really enjoy a show, and if we'er well fortified—?"

As they entered the brilliantly lighted foyer, Marcia looked almost apprehensively at the sign which seemed to flash a personal warning for her: "TROUBLE AHEAD—Coming Soon."

350 WORKERS RUN MILL PICKET LINE

Conflicting Claims Of Labor Factions Blur Situation At Three Rivers

THREE RIVERS, Que., July 15 (CP)—Conflicting claims of labor factions blurred the strike picture today at Consolidated Paper Corporation's mill here, partially operated by 350 men spirited past strikers' picket lines.

"The end has been reached in this strike," said Joseph Corriveau, local president of the National Catholic Syndicate of Paperworkers, after non-striking employees had been ferried to the island mill yesterday in a surprise move to break the three-way walkout.

"The strike will go on," retorted Louis Philippe Lacroix, president of Three Rivers' Trades and Labor Council, two of whose international unions called the stoppage of work Sunday in an attempt to gain company recognition over the Catholic union.

The walkout leader said the workers taken to the mill on company-owned Wayagamack Island in the St. Maurice River yesterday consisted of "a bunch of unemployed and a few non-strikers." His union, he asserted, intended to "hold out until we achieve our end of union recognition and improved working conditions."

Earlier, the corporation had sent food and supplies for a week to the island, and 15 vacant company-owned bungalows had been prepared for the workers.

ON WAY TO CONVENTION

Gypsy Convention Is Scheduled In Hamilton Next Week.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., July 15 (CP)—Creaking wagons hauled by dusty teams of horses stopped before a Belleville restaurant this week and a group of gypsies climbed down for their mid-day meal. The wanderers said they were on the way to a gypsy convention to be held at Hamilton next week.

Argentina shipped over 400,000 tons of linseed to the United States in four months.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE INDIAN.

"Wa-hoo! Wa-hoo! Wa-hoo!" yelled Buster one of Uncle Wiggily's rabbit boys.

"Wow! Wow! Wow!" shouted his brother, Duster.

"Why are you making so much noise?" asked Baby Bunty, who, with Jingle and Jangle, the twin rabbit girls, was cleaning some flat stones.

"We're pretending to be Indians," said Buster.

"Why should you be Indians now more than at any other time," asked Jingle.

"Because this is a corn roast that daddy is making for us there in the woods," answered Buster. "And the Indians used to roast corn."

"So we're prentending to be Indians," said Duster.

"If you're Indians, where are your feathers?" asked Bunty, the cute little orphan rabbit.

"There they are, on our ears," Buster answered, winking one eye at his brother.

"I don't see any," said Bunty.

Make Believe.

"Well, they're pretend feathers just as we are pretend Indians," laughed Duster. Then they all laughed and the girl rabbits cleaned some more flat stones while Uncle Wiggily was starting the camp fire in the woods near Blue Lake.

The jolly old rabbit gentleman didn't want his small rabbit children to make the fire to roast the ears of corn for fire is dangerous for little children, animal children or real boys and girls.

"The fire is ready, are the stones ready?" asked Uncle Wiggily who had brought his bunny children to the woods for the roast corn picnic.

"All ready, Unkie Wig," said Bunty.

"I hope we don't have to eat roast stones," said Buster.

"Oh, no," his father said. "But you can't roast ears of corn as we did potatoes by putting them in the embers of the fire. I am going to heat some stones in the fire and lay the corn ears on them."

"The stones are nice and clean too," said Bunty.

"Indeed they are," Uncle Wiggily said.

Yum Yum!

When the flat stones were hot, the ears of corn, with the husks taken off, were laid on the stones. Soon the kernels of corn began to brown and gave off a most delicious smell.

"Yum! Yum! Am I hungry?" said Buster. All the rabbit boys said the same thing and so did the girls.

"Well, you may eat now, but don't burn yourselves on the hot corn," said Uncle Wiggily. Soon the little rabbits were gnawing the roasted kernels from the cobs, having a wonderful time.

All of a sudden Baby Bunty pointed to a bush and whispered:

"Look! There's the Fox!"

A moment later Jingle whispered:

"Look I see an Indian! He has real feathers!"

Surely enough, there was the Fox. And behind him was a bunch of moving feathers, such as Indians wear. Then, all of a sudden, a loud voice cried:

"Gobble! Obble! Gobble! Obble!" And the Fox howled:

"Let go of my tail! Ouch! Let go my tail!"

Away ran the Fox and Uncle Wiggily laughed and said:

"The Fox came to get me. But behind him came a turkey gobbler with feathers like an Indian to get some roast corn. And he shall have plenty for biting the tail of the Fox to drive him away. Ha! Ha! Ha!"

So the turkey gobbler had some roast corn. The Fox had none. And if the rubber band will play a new tune for the lead pencil I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the Gobbler.

FINAL EDITION

VOL. LXXIX, No. 13 PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, JULY 16, 1937 PRICE THREE CENTS

WAGE CONCESSIONS ARE REFUSED TO STRIKERS

Ald. Gordon Urges Citizens To Lend Support To Strikers Who Are Asking Decent Wage

GOOD YEAR IN 1936

Claims Company Has Depreciation Reserve Of Million And Half

"After several conferences with the members of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited, I have come to the conclusion that the people of the City of Peterborough should support the employees of the Auburn and the Bonner Worth who walked out because of low wages," Hon. G. N. Gordon told The Examiner today.

"Mr. Barrett's statements in the press indicated that he refused to meet the committee that was appointed because one member of the committee was not an employee of the plant.

"This shows that Mr. Barrett is hedging and trying to starve out the employees who went on strike because of low wages," Mr. Gordon said.

"The Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited had a better year in 1936 than they had in 1935 according to the survey of Corporate Securities of 1937. They have a depreciation reserve of one million and a half dollars, and they took over a watered stock proposition in which over 60 per cent of the watered stock did not represent actual assets.

Able to Pay Decent Wage.

"An examination of the financial statement of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds shows that they are able and capable of paying a decent wage and they have the reputation of paying the lowest wages in the City of Peterborough," Mr. Gordon said.

The real fact is that the company is attempting to take out of the employees enough money to pay the dividends on their watered stock, and if all the employees worked for years for nothing they could not make up the unpaid dividends, and the 6 per cent required to be paid on the preferred stock which was issued by the company.

Mr. Gordon said that A. O. Dawson, the president of the company and his directors were the greatest friends that the C.I.O. had, because the employees had been driven into a strike on account of wages which married men got, running as low as $16.18 for one hundred hours work, and Mr. Gordon said that he had another cheque for $18.18 representing another married man's one hundred hours work, or two weeks.

One girl drew $7.41 for 98 hours work, and any set of directors that will pay wages like that, have so little conscience that the people of Peterborough should get behind the employees and support them, and make this company pay a decent scale of wages.

"I particularly feel that the members of church and fraternal societies should assist the families of these employees, either by contributions of money or food at their relief headquarters opposite the old Grand Trunk station on Bethune street," Mr. Gordon concluded.

Rev. Soford Dixon Taken By Death

BELLEVILLE, Ont., July 16—(CP)—Rev. Soford E. Dixon, 66, superannuated minister of the United Church and Press Secretary of the Bay of Quinte Conference, died suddenly in hospital last night, where he had been a patient for the past 12 weeks with a fractured hip suffered in a fall at his home. After his ordination he served in Milford, Bath, Rednersville, Odessa, Lakefield, Rawdon Circuit, Courtice, Tamworth, Wooler and Tyrona, retiring from active ministry one year ago.

Gets Punched, Jailed For Roof-Top Love

Chicago, July 16 (AP). SUBSTITUTING a roof for the balcony Shakespeare made famous, Tom Talmeter, 20-year-old youth from Mount Vernon, Ill., played Romeo today and was fined $200 for it.

Talmeter told judge Justin F. McCarthy he was interrupted in a roof-top love-making scene with 19-year-old Nancy Anderson, by her father, Thomas, who knocked him out with a single punch.

Talmeter went to a cell to serve out the fine, and as he passed Nancy she cut him cold.

2 FLYING BOATS CROSS ATLANTIC ON RETURN HOPS

Caledonia Beats Clipper's Time East By Reaching Ireland In 12 Hrs., 7 Mins.

BOTH TRIPS UNEVENTFUL

FOYNES, Irish Free State, July 16 (CP-Havas).—The huge Imperial Airways flying boat Caledonia alighted at Foynes today, completing the return trans-Atlantic hop of its commercial survey flight to the United States.

The 16-ton ship swooped down to a graceful landing on the River Shannon at 10.32 a.m. (5.32 EDT) after a 12 hour, seven minute flight from Botwood, Newfoundland. This bettered the eastward flying time of the Pan-American Clipper III by 27 minutes. The time of the Caledonia's arrival at Foynes indicated she had maintained an averge speed of 179 miles an hour over the 1,670-mile run.

The Caledonia hopped off from Botwood at 5.25 p.m. EDT. A few hours after the Clipper III roared aloft from Foynes and sped westward on its return across the Atlantic.

On its westward flight June 6, the Caledonia negotiated the difficult run against head winds, fog and rain in 15 hours and nine minutes.

Clipper at Botwood

BOTWOOD, Nfld., July 10 (CP Cable)—The Pan-American Clipper III settled on the mirror-like waters of Botwood Harbor at 7.52 a.m. A.D.T. (6.52 a.m. EDT) today after completing the return flight across the Atlantic.

Takes 11 Pages To Detail Murder

PITTSFIELD, Ill., July 16 (AP)—An 11-page signed statement of a soft-spoken pastor that he struck his "devoted friend," Mrs. Dennis Kelly, with a hammer during a roadside quarrel after she deserted her husband was claimed by authorities today. They said it solved the bizarre Mississippi River "floating body mystery."

Meticuously, the Rev. C. E. Newton, 51, a married man, toiled in rolled shirt sleeves and stocking feet for six hours at the jail here over his version of how his 43-year-old former Paris, Mo., parishioner met violent death.

Newton was quoted as saying Mrs. Kelly insisted he accompany her to California on her flight from home and husband which began Monday night at Paris in Newton's automobile.

YOUNG TORONTO WIFE ACCUSED SLAYING CHILD

Worry Over Daughter's Incessant Crying Blamed By Police

TOT ONLY FIVE WEEKS OLD

Accused Said Happily Married —Relatives Seek Counsel For Defence

OAKVILLE, Ont., July 15—(CP)—Preparations were made to-day by relatives to provide Mrs. Doris Keetley, 25-year-old Toronto mother with counsel to defend her on the charge of murdering her five-weeks-old daughter. Police, meanwhile, probed a motive behind the alleged crime and learned only that Mrs. Keetley was worried over the child's incessant crying.

Its head cleft by an axe blow, the baby's body was found yesterday in the basement of the home of Mrs. Keetley's father, Harry Burtinshaw, with whom she was visiting. She was immediately arrested and is being held in Milton Jail on remand until next Friday.

Frederick Keetley, the husband, was in Toronto when the slaying took place. There will be no inquest, Coroner Dr. J. H. Snead announced. He said also the baby appeared to be in excellent health and well-cared for. He described Mrs. Keetley after her arrest as being "perhaps a bit indifferent." She did not appear to him to be upset.

Disturbed at Seeing Jail.

During the 14-mile trip from Oakville to Milton Jail alone with Police Chief David Kerr, Mrs. Keetley had little to say, he said, but she was not weeping or hysterical. "When we got to the jail, though, she was a little disturbed," he said.

"Both her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Burtinshaw, were at work," the Chief continued. Both are employed at the Oakville Tannery, it was explained.

From wounds on the dead child's head, the Chief believed the first blow with the long-handled chopping axe almost missed, and a second and lethal blow was given.

HEPBURN DEFENDS STAND ON STRIKES

Credits Preparations In Oshawa Affair For Later Peace He Tells Police Heads

LONDON, Ont., July 16 (CP) — Election of officers and selection of a site of the 1938 gathering will bring to a close today the three-day convention of the Police Association of Ontario.

Delegates last night heard Premier Hepburn defend his actions in the Oshawa strike. The premier asserted the peaceful labor conditions in Ontario in the last two months justified his fight against the Committee for Industrial Organization at the time of the General Motors walkout.

"Subsequent events have justified my stand," he said. "We have had strikes but they have been orderly strikes."

Late yesterday Judge Joseph Wearing, one of the featured speakers, surprised the convention with the announcement he was "Going to make no address."

"I haven't got over the effects of the last one," remarked Judge Wearing, referring to his address in Toronto June 30, when his comments concerning the Dominion government's failure to void certain provincial legislation provoked criticism from Premier Hepburn and Arthur W. Roebuck, former provincial Attorney-General.

Extends Good Wishes As Conference Opens

Alex Welch, United Textile Workers organizer (Left) who was refused recognition by company officials, shakes hands with Alex Townsley, chairman of the striker's negotiating committee and wishes the twelve employee representatives success as they are about to enter the office at Bonner Worth mill to confer with the management of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited, when negotiations opened Thursday afternoon.

Koreans, Nipponese And Wealthy Chinese Flee Scene Of Conflict

DEFENDERS MASS TROOPS

PEIPING, July 16.—(AP)—Chinese intelligence reports indicated today Peiping was being cut off from reinforcement by a semi-circular line of Japanese trenches south of the city.

Japanese and Korean civilians as well as wealthy Chinese residents were fleeing the city although the Japanese embassy said there had not been an official order to evacuate.

No fighting between Japanese troops and the 29th Chinese route army was reported anywhere in the area for the first time since the Chinese reports said the Japanese army had taken advantage of the lull in fighting to rush work on the line of entrenchments that would cut off Peiping and the 37th division of the 29th army from the rest of China.

Chinese Preparing.

TOKYO, July 16—(AP)—The Japanese war office, mobilizing its forces for war on a wide scale, announced today it had received reports the main forces of the Chinese army were advancing on both Peiping and Tientsin to support the 29th route army in its opposition to Japanese troops in North China.

The war office estimated more than 30 divisions — some 350,000 troops—were concentrated on the border of Shansi province just south of Hope province.

TWO DIE, VICTIMS GANG VENGEANCE

Burned Bodies Found Following 42 Bootlegging Indictments In Brooklyn

NEW YORK, July 16 (AP).—Two murders bearing earmarks of typical gangland "rides" confronted Brooklyn police today, within 24 hours of the biggest batch of federal bootlegging indictments since prohibition repeal. The indictments numbered 42.

One of the victims, found early today, had been taped with adhesive, his skull cloven open, gasoline poured in and his body fired. Police said identification of the body would be difficult.

The other identified as Samuel Silverman, 25, was found yesterday in the charred ruins of an automobile, three bullet holes in his head and his body saturated with kerosene. A blond woman reported in his company earlier was taken into custody for questioning.

"We can not overlook the coincidence of these two killings, following on the heels of the first big bootlegging indictment since the end of prohibition," said William McGainess, Assistant District Attorney. "Both killings have all the signs of prohibition-time gang vengeance.

Police Chief Tries Hitch Hiking Tactics

Oakville, Ont., July 16 (CP). CHIEF OF POLICE David Kerr, called from London where he was attending a police convention, hitch-hiked his way to Oakville yesterday to attend the investigation into the killing of the five-weeks-old daughter of Mrs. Doris Keetley. The chief discovered bus and train schedules would not allow him to return for several hours, so he had a London policeman flag an oakville-bound automobile for him.

MISSING WOMAN SEEN IN KINGSTON

Boarding House Proprietor Sure Roediger Brought Bride There

KINGSTON, Ont., July 16 (CP)—Possibility Mrs. Christina McKenzie, missing wife of George Roediger, was in Kingston, August, 1935, developed here today with the story of a boarding house proprietor. Roediger was sentenced at Winnipeg to nine years for bigamy and theft.

The woman who operated the boarding house where Roediger lived while here, said she was almost certain a woman who called at the house in August, 1935, was Mrs. McKenzie who married Roediger, then known as George Rodgers, in Barrie in 1935.

The boarding house proprietor said the woman accompanied Roediger who was returning to Kingston after a short absence. Roediger referred to the woman as his bride and said he was on his honeymoon. Records in the Baptist Church at Barrie show the marriage of George Rodgers and Mrs. Christina McKenzie in August, 1935.

Roediger, while here was seeking a wife. On April 26, 1935, he inserted an advertisement in the Kingston paper: "Canadian widower, 45 years old, in good position and good financial standing, wishes acquaintance of elderly lady, farm or business woman preferred. Object matrimony." It was not known whether this advertisement brought him his wife.

He worked in the meat department of Anderson Brothers where fellow workmen said he was an excellent sausage maker but was bossy and hard to get along with. Roediger had a son, George, who also worked at Anderson Brothers during the latter part of 1934 and early in the following year.

NELSON, B.C., July 16.—(CP)—An entire Doukhobor family of five were drowned in the Columbia River between here and Trail, B. C., last night when their rowboat overturned.

The dead are William Stoopnikoff, 29-year-old rancher; his wife, and their three children, Polly, eight, William, five, and Mabel, three.

The family were rowing from the shore of their Columbia River ranch to the other side of the mighty stream to pick berries when their craft overturned.

The swift river waters sucked under the three children but the parents clung to the boat, while it drifted 300 yards, then it disappeared under the surface. When the boat reappeared, the figures of the father and mother had disappeared.

Equipment Seized Raid, Pelee Club

KINGSVILLE, Ont., July 16—(CP)—Royal Canadian Mounted Police have seized thousands of dollars worth of United States equipment at the exclusive Pelee Club on Pelee Island. The officers also seized a 35-foot cabin cruiser.

Half the equipment, estimated to be worth $1,500 was brought to Kingsville after yesterday's raid and stored in a dock warehouse. Police said they seized gambling devices, a refrigerator, canned goods, washing machines, kitchen utensils and other articles.

Ted Hubbell, proprietor of the recently-reorganized club, left last night for his Cleveland home, where Mrs. Hubbell has given birth to a daughter.

Views Exchanged But No Concessions At First Conference

Wage Increase Seriously Harm Status Of Company Is Claim

OPERATING LOSSES

Biggest Rally Of Strikers Yet Vote In Favor Of "Staying Out"

This much was learned by the press in a brief statement from Alex Townsley, chairman of the employee representatives committee as he and his fellow committeemen hurried from the Bonner Worth office for a brief respite, pending the resumption of negotiations at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon.

D. G. H. Melton, manager of the Bonner Worth mill announced, "Negotiations are proceeding in a satisfactory and friendly manner". Beyond that he said there was no official statement, though he intimated there might be a statement issued later in the day.

Seeking settlement of the 17-day-old dispute involving 700 textile workers at Auburn — Bonner Worth Mills, negotiations between employee representatives and the management of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited resumed at ten o'clock this morning.

The opening session of the conference adjourned shortly before five o'clock yesterday afternoon, having progressed to a point, where views were exchanged on either side, but without any concessions being won or lost. Direct refusal was made by management to make any wage concessions.

Strikers who are demanding wage increases and improved working conditions are being represented by a committee of twelve made up of six from the Auburn and six from Bonner-Worth Mills, under chairmanship of Alexander Townsley. The management of the firm is represented by Henry Barrett, managing director; D. G. H. Melton, manager, and C. B. Merrett, superintendent, both from Boner-Worth plant; and P. Barber, manager, and H. S. Leybourne, comptroller, both of the Auburn Mill.

While there was no official statement from the company at the close of the opening conference, Mr. Melton expressed the hope that an early settlement of the dispute might be negotiated.

Asked if the company's acceptance of the representative committee could be construed as meaning recognition by the company of the United Textile Workers' Union, Mr. Melton stated:

"We met a committee this afternoon representative of all employees of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited pure and simple. We were not talking to any group of a union. We made that quite clear at the outset of negotiations and entered into discussion of the terms of settlement on the basis that the committee was representative of the employees."

At a closed meeting of strikers held in Ashburnham Community Hall a large gathering representing practically the entire strength of both mills learned from the committee of employee representatives that Mr. Barrett had refused wage concessions and had presented figures detailing the firm's operating losses during recent years.

After the mass meeting the Strike Publicity Committee released

ACE DETECTIVES INVADE TORONTO, BIGAMY MYSTERY

SKULL CLUE DISCARDED

TORONTO, July 16 (CP)—Ace investigators of George Fritz Roediger's marital adventures were expected to arrive here today, swinging the spotlight to the Ontario episodes in the much-married bigamist's career. Inspector George MacKay, Provincial Police, and Sergt. A. M. Veitch of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who traced the 55-year-old, German-born butcher to Winnipeg, were returning to Ontario.

Their Winnipeg work was done—Roediger was under nine-year sentence there for bigamy and theft—and now intensive investigation centred here on the two-year-old mystery of Mrs. Christina McKenzie of Allandale, Ont., one of the nine women Roediger was known to have wed.

Police here held a trunkful of Roediger's personal effects, including two long, keen-bladed butcher knives, found in the Vaughan Road home where he lived as George Rogers with his Allandale "wife." It was from this Toronto home the woman disappeared in 1935, a few weeks after her marriage and police were frankly working on the theory she was slain.

Reopening of an old inquiry into a skull found March 30 in a dump near the Vaughan house was ordered yesterday but last night police said they held little hope it would prove a useful clue. They were inclined to believe the first theory regarding its finding; that it had been discarded by some medical student.

Roediger's Record

In tabloid, these were the marital episodes in Roediger's career that held police attention:

New York state records indicate his acquittal of murdering an unnamed wife in 1929 or 1930. The woman's body was found in a well.

In 1926 his first wife, Meta, died of poisoning at St. Catharines, Ont., after 22 years of married life, two of which were spent in St. Catharines. A coroner's jury found it was unable to decided who administered the poison.

"Marriage" with Mrs. McKenzie under the name of George Rogers at Allandale in August, 1935, bringing her to Toronto. Neighbors missed her two days after they moved into the Vaughan Road house. Police searched house.

June 1, 1930—Elizabeth Schmidt married Roediger and she was found dead in a bathtub at Froehold, Green County, N. Y., in January, 1931. A jury said, "Death from natural causes" but Roediger was

Queen Mary 'Sunk' Off Ireland Raider's Victim In Sham Battle

"Shelled" To Bottom Before Rescue Arrives—Gas Attack Takes "Toll" On Coast

EXCITING WAR GAMES

SOUTHAMPTON, July 16—(AP). The liner Queen Mary rested mythically to-day on the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean south of Ireland, "sunk" by an attacking cruiser in Great Britain's war games.

The steamship, bound for New York, was theoretically shelled by the cruiser Southampton of an attacking "Blue" battlefleet before the "Red" fleet and aid squadrons protecting the English Channel located the "invader."

The "attack" was staged in the closing hours of a fortnight of naval "combat" over an area stretching from the Azores to the English Channel, in connection with land manoeuvres that for the last two days kept all southern England west of a line from London to Bristol in a "state of war."

Boy Scouts and women who acted as "war casualties" were taken to hospitals here, while Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare looked on.

A mysterious "gas" accounted for most of the "casualties" among the women, who are members of the Southampton Women's League of Health and Beauty.

Warships and planes of a mythical "Blue Land," 600 miles out in the Atlantic, "attacked" the ports of Southampton, Portsmouth, Portland and Plymouth. British forces were mobilized to drive off the "invaders."

Daughters Try To Bail Out Father Held For Attempt To Murder Them

Lansdowne, Pa., July 16 (AP). THREE DAUGHTERS of Albert R. Knight, 55 tried today to raise $10,000 bail to release him from jail at Media, where he was held on charges of attempting to murder them to collect $130,000 in insurance.

Knight was arrested on a charge of arson in a fire at his home, May 28. The murder charge was filed yesterday by William R. Toal, assistant district attorney of Delaware county.

Toal said he learned Knight had taken out policies aggregating $60,000 face value, with a double indemnity clause, six months before the fire.

The daughters insured were Ruth, 23; Sue, 19; and Mary, 17, with their brother, David, 15, they escaped from their burning house.

A fourth daughter, married and living in Honolulu, was named beneficiary.

Civil War Shows Machine-Gun Holds Leading Role In Fighting

SURPRISES DIFFICULT

BERLIN, July 16. —(CP)— The Spanish civil war has afforded an ideal opportunity for experimentation with the most modern weapons of war which might be expected to play an important part in any future clash, says a military expert writing in the Berliner Boersenzeitung.

According to the writer, General Francisco Franco, insurgent leader, can no longer hope to win the war by force of arms, as a balance has been established between both parties rendering surprises by either side more and more impossible.

On the strength of experience gained in the Spanish war, the article says, the Soviet military committee has recommended a particular type of light car for motorized infantry and urged replacement of a number of airplane types by speedier and better equipped craft.

Machine-guns retain their dominant role in all fighting, just as in the Great War.

Modern weapons, like tanks and bombing airplanes, seem to lose their terrifying effect on soldiers and civilians alike the longer war lasts.

Modern attacks do not seem to be possible and effective without tanks.

The 37-millimetre anti-tank gun used by the insurgents has proved an effective defensive weapon against this phase of warfare.

Drop Commission Will Sue Estates In Supreme Court

Cannot Afford Any Unnecessary Delay Says Premier Hepburn

46 CASES AT STAKE

May Call Special Session And Amend Law If Held Invalid

TORONTO, July 16 (C.P.).— The Ontario Government has revised its procedure in attemps to collect "millions of dollars" in allegedly unpaid succession duty taxes from some 45 Ontario estates. In these estates, Premier Hepburn said, the Government "cannot afford any unecessary delay."

As a result, instead of proceeding by way of Royal Commission inquiry the Government intends to launch civil actions against the estates in the Supreme Court. Premier Hepburn made the decision on two Toronto estates, those of Robert and Jessie Cameron Laidlaw.

In the Laidlaw cases, estates counsel questioned jurisdiction of the Royal Commissioner, Mr. Justice G. P. McTague, and was granted permission to take a stated case to the Supreme Court for decision. Mr. Hepburn believed this would cause delay, and yesterday anounced he had rescinded Mr. Justice McTague's appointment.

Declaring his intention to press investigation into all the estates the Succession Duties Department has questioned, the Premier said he would, if necessary, call a special session of the Legislature to amend succession duties legislation should it be held invalid.

INDIANA BLAST COSTS 20 LIVES

Two Of Nine Injured May Die— 174 Others Escape Explosion Deep In Mine

SULLIVAN, Ind., July 16 (AP)—State and federal investigators groped today through a fog of gloom enveloping this community for an explanation of an underground gas explosion which cost the lives of 20 coal miners.

Seared, mangled bodies of the victims were removed from the scene of the blast 212 feet below the surface of the Glendora Coal Company's Baker Mine near here.

Nine other miners were injured. Two of them may die.

One hundred and seventy-four miners escaped the force of the explosion yesterday. They organized rescue efforts and brought the injured to the surface, but fire and poisonous gases prevented them from reaching the dead.

Representatives of the Federal Bureau of Mines, the State Bureau of Mines and the Indiana Coal Operators Association joined in an investigation of the disaster, one of the worst in Indiana's mining history.

ECONOMIC PHASE IN DISARMAMENT

Political Science Expert Says League Missed Important Point

WELLESLEY, Mass., July 16.—(CP)—Economic disarmament is quite as essential to peace as military disarmment, says Dr. Charles G. Fenwick, professor of political science at Bryn Mawr.

"A fairer distribution of the world's resources, a lowering of the barriers to commerce and trade and an open-door policy in the markets of the world," is what the doctor means by "economic disarmament."

"The framers of the Covenant of the League of Nations," he said, "put too much stress upon the prevention of violence, upon a maintenance of territorial boundaries and the existing status quo. They did not sufficiently realise that the League, if it was to be successful, must give equal attention to removing the causes of war."

FLEEING CONVICTS FREE OIL CHIEF'S SON IN OKLAHOMA

Held Eight Hours While Fugitives Race From Posses In Captive's Car

TWO OF GANG WOUNDED

SAPULPA, Okla., July 16 (AP).—Possemen stood watch on blockaded highways today for Roy "Pete" Traxler, No. 1 bad man of the Southwestern United States, believed fleeing northward after releasing the kidnapped son of a wealthy New York oil man.

The youth, 21-year-old Baird H. Markham, son of Gen. Baird Markham, an official of the American Petroleum Institute, was seized near Ada, Okla. Traxler, his left arm shattered by a bullet, and two companions, all escaped Texas convicts, took young Markham's automobile and forced him to accompany them.

Markham was released near here after eight hours and 15 minutes, during which time he said the men criss-crossed through the country, dodging a posse from which they had escaped by abandoning their own car and taking to the woods only a short time before.

Markham, a Yale student, is working for an oil company for experience during the summer.

Besides Traxler, Markham identified a second man as Charles Chapman. Chapman was wounded in the shoulder, Markham said. The third man, Markham said, was referred to as "Fred." Fred Tindol of Jasper, Tex., was one of the nine men, who with Traxler and Chapman, escaped the farm amid gun-fire July 8. Four of the nine were recaptured, one was killed and a guard was wounded.

BUFFALO SUSPECT QUIZZED IN MURDER

Prisoner Friend Of Slain Taxi Man Said To Have Vanished Day Of Death

FORT ERIE, Ont., July 16 (CP)—Search for the slayer of Edward Kassirer, Fort Erie taxi driver, became international today with the questioning of an unnamed suspect in Buffalo. Ontario Provincial Police were called to Buffalo last night to examine a man being held there.

The Buffalo prisoner is said to have been a close friend of Kassirer, found dying in a thicket near Erie Beach Monday. His skull had been smashed with what physicians said were repeated blows from a heavy blunt weapon.

The suspect is said to have left the cottage where he was staying in Fort Erie the day Kassirer was killed. Police declined to make any statement after questioning him.

No trace has been found of the weapon described at the inquest yesterday by Dr. T. W. Mulvenny. He said examination of the dead man's head led him to believe a lead pipe was used in the beating.

GEORGIAN BAY HYDRO RATES ORDERED CUT

Means Saving Of $110,991 In Next Year In Power And Refunds

$47,268 TO COME BACK

Of 59 Municipalities Served, 16 Will Get Major Benefit— Raise In Three

TORONTO, July 16.—Hydro consumers in the Georgian Bay system save a total of $110,991 in the next 12-month by reason of reductions in rates and refunds to be put into effect immediately by the Ontario Hydro Commission, according to an announcement from the commission yesterday.

There will be a saving of $52,132 per year in domestic, commercial, street lighting and power services, and a refund to consumers in nineteen municipalities totalling $47,268. In addition, there will be refunds to twenty-nine municipalities in respect of power for municipal purposes, totalling $11,591.

16 Areas to Benefit.

Of the fifty-nine municipalities served in Georgian Bay, sixteen will receive a reduction in the interim rate, three will receive a slight increase, and in the remainder no change in rate will be made.

The Commission also reviewed and analyzed the financial situation in connection with the distribution of power within these municipalities. From the results of this analysis, which was based upon the 1936 revenue and operating costs, the Commission recommended that the rates to be charged to domestic, commercial and power consumers be reduced in a large number of cases.

In addition to the fifty-nine municipalities served on a cost basis, there are four municipalities served direct by the Commission, or a total of sixty-three municipalities. Of these sixty-three municipalities, fifty-one will receve a substantial reduction in the rates to be charged to consumers, and the rates in the other twelve will remain unchanged. The total estimated saving to consumers served by this system by means of the reduction in rates is as follows:

Domestic lighting service	$30,959
Commercial lighting service	10,483
Power service	8,954
Street lighting service	1,736
	$52,132

Refunds Also Authorized

In addition to the above-mentioned rate reduction, refunds to consumers in nineteen municipalities were also authorized. The total estimated refund to these consumers will amount to $47,268.

OTTAWA, July 16 (C.P.). — Continuing its policy of treating the drought disaster in Western Canada as a national emergency, the Dominion Government has moved to bring relief to sufferers and take steps to guard against recurrence of existing conditions.

Responsibility for direct relief of those actually deprived of their sustenance in the drought areas, assistance in depleting without great monetary loss the herds for which there is not sufficient feed, and provisions for maintenance of the nucleus of live stock herds and milking cows were part of the program approved by Cabinet Council yesterday.

Hon. J. G. Gardiner, who studied conditions on the Prairie Provinces, returned to Ottawa early yesterday and laid his recommendations before Cabinet Council.

While measures proposed are mainly a continuation of what has been going on the past year, the minister also proposed to establish large Lumber Official Plunges Off Yacht at Dalhousie.

DALHOUSIE, N.B., July 16 (C.P.).—J. Maurice Harquail, 30, vice-president of the J. and D. A. Harquail, Limited, lumber manufacturers of Campbellton, was drowned last night off Fleurant Point, Quebec.

In company with 30 friends he left Campbellton on a yacht. As the craft approached the Quebec shore at Fleurant Point, directly opposite Dalhousie, Harquail dove from the yacht to swim the 40 feet to the wharf. He failed to come to the surface.

FISH-WORMS SCARCE

LINDSAY, Ont., July 15 (CP)—Anglers report unprecedented dearth in this year's crop of fish-worms. As a result worms are selling retail at a good price and ingenious methods are being employed to bring them to the surface of the ground. One worm dealer bores a hole in the ground, then pours in a mixture of mustard and water and the worms just have to come up.

PRAISES UNIONS OF OLD ENGLAND

U.S. Publisher Points Overseas For Example To Labor People

NEW YORK, July 16 (CP).—Returning from a survey of labor conditions in Europe, Colonel Frank Knox, Chicago newspaper publisher, pointed to British trade unions as an example to United States labor. His tour took him through 10 countries, including Germany, France, and Great Britain.

The publisher, who ran for the Vice-Presidency on the Republican ticket in last year's presidential election, praised the "sense of responsibility of British labor leaders and the sensitiveness to discipline of their followers."

"It is the lack of exactly those things that seems to be spoiling the work of the Committee for Industrial Organization and John L. Lewis in the United States," he said.

"Labor unions in England are responsible organizations," Knox declared. "They register themselves, make a public yearly accounting of their funds and keep open books. Employers can deal with them in the sure knowledge that their pledges are sound and their contracts will be faithfully kept.

"We should have something like the British 'Court of Inquiry' which investigates strikes and publishes the facts as a guide to public opinion. It is hopeless for either side to fight on if the public decides that the opposite cause is just, and that has taught both sides that violence is the worst enemy to the cause."

Knox said France was carrying out interesting labor reforms but the political situation there was so muddled that conclusions could not be drawn at present.

Under the Fascist system, he said, labor unions simply "wink out." "There can't be such a thing as a real union in the organization of a Fascist state."

COSTLY HOSPITAL FOR BRAMPTON

Million Dollar Structure Will House T.B. Patients From All Ontario

LONDON, Ont., July 16 (CP)—A $1,000,000 hospital will be constructed by Ontario at Brampton, northwest of Toronto, Premier Mitchell Hepburn said last night. It will be an isolation hospital for tubercular patients from all Ontario.

Beside the new institution, the government is studying plans to enlarge other sanatoria through the province, the premier said. Free travelling clinics to test for tuberculosis germs will be sent out.

Legislation is expected in the near future which will compel tuberculosis sufferers to undergo treatment.

The new mental hospitals at St. Thomas and Port Arthur will only relieve present congestion and will not take the place of present institutions, he said.

In the business period material for aprons was distributed among the members, and it was decided on motion, when made, the aprons would be sold through the travelling suit case system. Several contributions were received from the members to add to the collection in the suit case.

The August meeting will be a picnic for the Little Helpers, and will be held at the home of Mrs. George Hoover. Mrs. Earl Braithwaite, the Little Helpers' secretary, is convenor for a program of sports. Miss Eunice Webb presented a chapter in the study book. The greater part of the program was contributed by the juniors. Merle Braithwaite sang "Hear the Pennies Dropping"; Gene Brown recited, "Can You Say?"; Helen Braithwaite recited, "He Careth". Doreen Nichol sang "The Old Rugged Cross"; and Elsie Yale recited "Just a Little Greeting to the W.A." Two contests were arranged by Mrs. Frank Brown and Doreen Nichol.

Steel Firms Deny Compromise

With both sides claiming a victory in the long-drawn out struggle, workers returned to the strike-besieged steel plants of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company at Indiana Harbor, Ind, apparently glad to get back to their jobs without more ado. The C.I.O. union which called the strike claimed victory on the basis of a purported agreement between the company and the state governor; but to make their position completely clear the company posted this sign at their gates. Workers returning after seven weeks of strike idleness pause to read. The sign declared that "no agreement or contract had been made with any person, official or organization" by the steel company.

Latest In Dental Pain Killers 100 P.C. Effective 80 P.C. Cases

Claimed 48 Per Cent. Ahead Of Preparation Developed By Canadian

COST CENT A TOOTH

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP).—A new "pain killer," described as the most effective anesthetic yet devised for tooth-drilling, was announced before the American Dental Association convention today by its discoverers, Drs. Harold A. Osserman and Abraham Taub of New York city.

The new chemical, developed at Columbia University's college of pharmacy, has been named "Tabesthesin," and was said by Dr. Osserman to be "100 per cent effective" in 80 per cent of the cases in which it has been tried so far, and totally ineffective in only four per cent.

It works on much the same principle as the anesthetic brought out two years ago by Dr. Leroy L. Hartman a Canadian of the same university, and contains one of the same ingredients—thymol. The first district Dental Society of New York city reported Dr. Hartman's preparation was effective in only 32 per cent of the cases in which it was tried during a special test.

The new desensitizer is applied directly to the dentin, a thin film underlying the hard outer surface of the tooth. In ordinary cases it is kept on the tooth about three minutes before the dentists starts to drill, but on extremely sensitive teeth the dentist waits five minutes.

Dr. Osserman calculated today the cost of applying the new anesthetic would be about one cent per tooth. It has been manufactured on a large scale during the past few days, he said, and will be available in all cities after today.

Before applying the desensitizer, he said, it is necessary to use a compound of chloroform and acetone to dry out the dentin at the spot where drilling is to be done. This makes the tissue highly absorbent and permits the desensitizer to penetrate.

Uncle Sam Erases His Famous Slums

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(16)—Public works officials are rejoicing that Cleveland's Whiskey Island, Memphis' Greasy Plank, Toledo's Lucas Alley and other slums have given way to carefully named home developments costing $135,000,000.

University homes have gone up on the site of Beaver's Slide in Atlanta; Jane Addams' houses have supplanted the "Bloody Eighteenth" in Chicago, and Brand Whitlock homes are rising in Lucas Alley. The federal program began two years ago. Officials said about 21,000 families would be living in the 51 modern developments by August, 1938.

The seven completed projects of modern homes already are fully tenanted. Applications are pouring in for five more that have been finished. All the 39 uncompleted ones are under contract.

Construction of the gigantic Williamsburg houses in New York is termed "The biggest slum clearance project in American history and one of the biggest in the world." Twelve square blocks of Brooklyn slums gave way to modern homes for 7,000 persons.

BRITAIN'S CONTROL PLAN FOR SPAIN FINDS OPPOSITION

Officials Uneasy, Expecting Lengthy Negotiations With Border Patrol Abandoned

FAILURE MEANS DANGER

By George Hambleton
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, July 16.—(CP Cable)—Great Britain's control plan for Spain is running into choppy seas. France, Germany and Italy are all ready to examine it but they have all got reservations in mind.

British officials look forward rather uneasily to a series of protracted negotiations while neutral observers on both Spanish frontiers remain suspended from duty.

Yet in the British view time is the essence of the scheme. Great Britain has warned the powers that if the scheme fails the nations of Europe will be faced with a new and infinitely more dangerous situation.

With submission of the scheme the British authorities feel they have completed their mandate from the non-intervention committee. It is now for the powers to act.

Objections All Around

From opposite angles both Paris and Rome look questioningly at the provision for granting limited belligerent rights at sea provided satisfactory progress is made with the withdrawal of volunteers. France wants volunteers withdrawn before belligerent rights are granted. Italy objects to the withdrawal of volunteers.

The British Labor Opposition party intends to protest in the House of Cemomns against the granting of belligerent rights. They hold the granting of belligerent rights to both sides would give an advantage to General Franco, because Italian and German ships would assist the insurgents in imposing a blockade. Receiving with little enthusiasm Eden's proposal to grant "limited" belligerent rights to both government and insurgents in Spain, a source close to the Foreign Office in Paris said:

"The question is always the same: in what measure is Great Britain's policy to allow Germany and Italy to take advantage of the Spanish situation to crush France and cut off her Mediterranean communications?"

First reaction from Berlin and Rome indicated the plan would receive at least careful consideration from the two Fascist powers which have recognized the Spanish insurgent junta as the true government of Spain; but general objection by both France and Soviet Russia was feared here.

Criticism at Home.

Opposition at home was indicated when members of the Labor Party, after a meeting at the House of Commons last night, decided to press for debate on the proposals today.

Government critics promised to attack the plan as a "climb down" on the part of Great Britain, hitherto opposed to granting belligerent rights to the warring factions.

Eden proposed:

"Limited" belligerent rights contingent upon steps toward withdrawal of foreign volunteers;

Termination of the naval patrol;

While the Government hoped members of the non-intervention committee would be able at a session tomorrow to give some indication of their governments' views, it was not expected that meeting would bring decision action on the plan. It was conceded modifications would have to be considered. Interested powers were thought likely to seek to improve the clause most affecting them.

A source close to the French Foreign Office termed the proposals "ambiguous" and said they were not sufficiently specific.

On the other hand, it was argued Eden's plan might lead to fresh problems if adopted outright.

"Recognition of General Franco as a belligerent," one authoritative source said, "remains something particularly delicate for France. The plan itself counts for little. With France it is not only the intentions of the British Government which count."

Breaking Up A Family

Colin Fraser, a lad of seven years, is in Windsor, while his mother, sisters and brothers are in Detroit. The river and the international boundary are in between. Naturally the boy wants to go home and he has written a letter to President Roosevelt to see what can be done about it.

Thomas Fraser, the lad's father, and Colin, the son, were deported from United States last October when authorities found the father was in United States illegally. Colin was born in Edmonton during the short time the family was there, so he was deported to Canada and the father was sent back to Scotland. Mrs. Fraser was a native of United States and the other children were born in that country so they remained in Detroit. Under existing regulations the father cannot rejoin his family until October 31.

All nations have immigration laws and officers to see that they are enforced, but the working out of such laws seems to roll heavily over the homes of those folk who are trapped by them. Of what practical benefit has it been that Thomas Fraser should have been sent back to Scotland and that a lad of seven should have been shipped across the river to Windsor while the wife and mother stayed with the rest of the children in Detroit. The family in Detroit has been on relief because there has been no one to attend to the serious business of making a living. Mr. Fraser can secure work when he is allowed to enter the country.

When one tries to put the pieces together in this puzzle picture there are too many which cannot be made to fit into a common sense solution. No person has been benefited; an entire family has been tossed about when the members desire only to live happily together.

And while all this has been going on—that is, while Thomas Fraser has been staying in Scotland, his son in Windsor, Canada, and the rest of his family living on relief in Detroit—United States has been paying for the operation of a good many courts where family differences may be adjusted and has been employing a number of skilled people for the purpose of making certain that as many families as possible are not broken up or separated. So in all it looks rather foolish.

Paying Poll Tax

The assessment commissioner of Windsor, Ont., is preparing to go gunning for those who are not paying their poll tax. He claims a number of ladies who keep boarders or roomers fail to report them when the assessors call. They know their lodgers do not want to be placed on record so that a notice to whack up $5 can reach them from the city offices.

The assessor also breathes heavily on the clause which says there can be a fine of $100 placed on those who give false information to the assessor. If he really wants money then it would be more profitable to call in all the landladies and take $100 per head from them than to bother with the smaller game in the form of boarders at $5 per head.

The average tax is not popular. One exception is probably the income tax and that is popular with those who do not have to pay it. The poll tax is one which is hard to explain and possibly as hard to justify. It is difficult to make a young fellow understand that when he reaches the age of manhood he must start and whack up five good dollars and he cannot understand why a young lady also working should not be called upon to do the same thing.

The young fellows in Windsor probably do not understand that they should now be taking their first lessons in citizenship. It is a process which helps to harden the neck so that the payment of more taxes in later years will not come as a blow. Instead it will come as an addition to a burden which already exists in a lesser way. If the young chaps cannot understand or appreciate the thing on that basis then it should be explained that the rules and regulations are all written in a great book and therein is set forth that they shall pay. No reasons are given, but then laws governing taxation seldom or never bother to state reasons. The young fellows in Windsor and the young fellows in Peterborough and elsewhere have to pay poll tax. We can't explain exactly why it is good for them to do so apart from the belief that it is a preliminary training to harden them against the days when they will probably have to pay on a much larger scale.

We Are Much Concerned

A local man was making reference today to the condition in which many people in the Canadian West found themselves at the moment. And "the moment" is something which has been existing for a number of years. He spoke as though Canada were divided in two parts, East and West, and that the hardship of the West was pretty much its own problem.

But that is not the case. One report coming from Perdue, Sask., tells of a meeting representative of more than 1,000 farmers in the federal riding of Rosetown-Biggar, and a resolution was passed asking the Ottawa government to become resonsible "for the care of the people and live stock" in the entire area.

According to the Parliamentary Guide there were 17,676 votes cast in the federal riding of Rosetown-Biggar in the last general election (1935) and it would be a fairly safe estimate that based on that number of voters there would be about 60,000 people in the riding. So the suggestion of the meeting at Perdue is that the Dominion government undertake to look after—entirely—60,000 people in one riding as well as whatever live stock may exist there.

Rosetown-Biggar riding is probably no better and no worse than a number of other areas, so if the request there is well founded then a similar request from similarly stricken areas elsewhere could not be denied.

It does not call for the use or expenditure of many words to come to the conclusion that the condition of a large portion of the population of the West is very much a matter of concern to the people of the East. Ontario and Quebec are the large contributors to the central fund from which Ottawa pays its bills. The people of Rosetown-Biggar riding cannot put anything into the fund because they apparently have nothing, but they ask that a great deal be taken out to help them live. So what is going on in the West today is very much our concern.

Those Who Failed

The Examiner has carried a good many columns of examination results in recent days and weeks. All manner of them. The adult of today can recall the feeling with which these printed results used to be awaited. To the boy or girl whose name appears as having passed there is something which feels like relief and exuberance combined.

But the pupil who has not passed feels differently. Provided there has been an honest effort made there is nothing about which to feel ashamed at failing at examination time. Perhaps it is difficult to keep down a sensation of disappointment and all that, but failing to pass the first time is not a new experience. There have been thousands who have done the same thing, and a good many of them have been able to go ahead in after years and get along very well.

Perhaps a little crack like failing to pass an examination is what some of the pupils needed. Might be better for them to fail this year than to get through by the skin of their teeth and find themselves up against something in the next class for which they were not prepared. To the pupil who has failed—keep the chin up; you may top the list next time.

Might Drop It

Members of the Police Association of Ontario are in session at London, Ont. At such gatherings the delegates will talk of many things. One favorite topic is the parole system and the danger which comes from its abuse.

One report of the London meeting started this way:

"The thunder of a murderer's gun in Sarnia echoed here today, and the ghost of Red Ryan stalked again—each of them in his mind's eye saw Ryan, the smiling cop-killer, the gunman-on-parole, blasting with his guns in Sarnia on that day when Police Constable John Lewis was slain."

Red Ryan was admittedly a shining example of the man who should not have been paroled, but a good many months have passed since Red Ryan shot and in turn was shot, and his case has been reviewed at length and with frequency. So the ghost of Red Ryan—if there is such a thing—could not have bothered the police officers at London in a serious way. Likewise it would have required a magnificent stretching of the imagination to hear the thunder of Red Ryan's gun once more in a banquet hall at London. The case of Red Ryan will not soon be forgotten, but it can for the time being be laid away on the shelf.

Pitching A Rolling Pin

We doubt if there ever has been much thought given to the arranging of programs for picnics. Within recent years it has become quite popular to call upon the ladies to throw rolling pins either for distance or at a mark. Throwing at a mark is probably a more dangerous thing from the standpoint of training than flinging the thing a great distance but in no accurate direction.

There has been much said for many years about women ruling the house with a rolling pin. Occasionally women have used a rolling pin to knock some common sense into the dome of a foolish husband, but the custom is rare at best. We would like to keep it in that class.

But when a lady goes to one of those picnics and pitches a rolling pin straighter and harder than any other contestant we fear there is danger of her beginning to realize she possesses a peculiar power which ought to be more generally utilized. Like the nation which secures a great assortment of new fangled artillery, she has a yearning to make use of it. If a slight crisis arises of what might be done in the home far in domestic affairs and she finds her usual charm and sense of fair argument availeth nothing, then the memory of what she did at the picnic is apt to come as a taunting and challenging suggestion of what might be done in the house far removed from the picnic grounds. We have not heard of such results, but being of a peace-loving disposition we feel moved to bring the matter up to the surface where it can be viewed in the light of possible later and unhappy developments. The little lady who has learned by public competition that she possesses to an unusual degree a talent for flinging a rolling pin better than the thing can be flung by other flingers should also make certain she is possessed of an unusually sweet disposition and the maximum amount of restraint when surrounded by provocative circumstances.

Not Much Surplus Wealth

Not many weeks pass without the theory of distribution of wealth being presented in some form or other. This morning one gentleman in Peterborough admitted to the Examiner that he was $3,800 poorer than he was eight months ago. No thief had entered his premises and taken things away from him. His business is just as it was and his house and lot stand in his own name. But he held stocks which have decreased in market value. If he were forced to sell today he would have to take $3,800 less for his holdings than he could have realized by selling eight months ago.

It is useless trying to find out where his $3,800 has gone. The man himself admits a portion of it may return, but he has no guarantee that it will. This gentleman is probably in the class often referred to as having more than he needs, and if the theory of even distribution were put into effect he would probably be one of those from whom things would have to be taken. It would be found that there would be many so-called assets included in this business of distribution to equalize wealth which would not live up to expectations.

There are a good many people who believe that if they had access to what they call wealth of richer people we would have settled a good deal of our trouble. And people will keep on believing such is the case.

Arthur Sauvy of the French Statistical Service, has knowledge of what we call the "riches" of France, and France is one country where the doctrine of equal distribution of wealth has been presented in many attractive forms. The conclusion of Mr. Sauvy is simply this:

> The 200 biggest incomes in France make a total of 500 millions, from which 100 million are to be deducted for income taxes. If the remaining 400 million were confiscated by the state then the latter (the state) would barely have enough to live on for two days.

And of course if the state took the entire amount of those large incomes it could not go back and ask for more for there would be no more to take. Mr. Sauvy has come to the conclusion that there is not a great surplus of actual or liquid wealth in any country.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Russia has captured the long distance flying honors and at the same time has turned the passage over the North Pole into a new All-Red route.

The Montreal man who was beaten and robbed of $100 and a watch by two women will smile cynically from now on when anyone speaks about the weaker sex.

The Russian fliers who made the long-distance record in the air are unable to speak English. Their flight was over too soon for them to get a chance to learn the language enroute.

President Roosevelt says the citizens of United States are paying too much in rents. Perhaps that condition can be explained by the fact that the landlords are paying too much in taxes.

An Edmonton man was trapped for half an hour with ice up to his neck while working in a packing plant. There were days last week when such a predicament would have seemed decidedly worthwhile.

Galt Public Utilities Commission has decided to refuse to pay a bill for $6,000 from the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission. We hope the Galt folk have studied all the recent Hydro legislation because it might be possible under that to give them a life sentence for mutiny.

LIKE THAT

(By A. R. K.)

¶ I thought I'd grow more hay this year, last season it was rather dear, the price was fairly high; so if this year the folk had none, I figured that they'd start and come, of my good stock they'd buy.

¶ And I'd get cash for surplus hay, I'd take and soak the coin away, my plan could not go wrong; and I could use the cash I knew, and of the scads I'd save a few, till tax time along.

¶ I never grew such hay before, I filled the barn clean to the door, I strained my legs and back; when barns were full right to the top, why then I had to turn and stop, I piled it in a stack.

¶ My hay was clean and salted down, I'd truck great loads of it to town, I felt inclined to brag; for men would come to me with dough, and want to buy a ton or so, to feed some hungry nag.

¶ But every other farming man, had worked according to my plan, I noticed that one day; along concessions where I went, I found that every other gent, had most two crops of hay.

¶ It always seems to run that way, when I have many tons of hay, it's odd but it is so; when I have mows and stacks as well, and figure on the tons I'll sell—the price is always low.

MAY be an old custom in Scotland, but a bit of a bother for the man who wants to rent a house. Reading the Ayrshire Post of recent date these announcements were found in the advertising columns:

Reward £5. Wanted to rent house, two or three apartments.—315 Ayrshire Post.

Reward £10. Wanted to rent one or two apartment house immediately.—4852 Ayrshire Post.

These announcements mean just what they say. A person wants a house and cannot find one, and the time is coming close when he will have to have a residence, so he offers a reward of from £5 to £10 for the party who will tell him just where he can find the place he needs.

One explanation is that the government has been taking over quite a number of poorer and smaller houses and destroying them in order to make way for the expansion of the industrial section. The people know their house is going to be torn down at a certain time and they also learn in many cases that it is growing exceedingly difficult to find another house. So that is how the reward idea has made its start in the Ayrshire district.

Lincoln Played Ball

WHEN a committee went to tell Abe Lincoln that he was nominated as president of the United States he was playing baseball. He said: "Tell the gentlemen who are coming to see me that I shall be glad to meet them but they will have to wait a few minutes until I make another base hit." Which he did.

William A. Hulbert who helped to organize the National League in 1876 and was its president, never played a game of ball in his life. He enjoyed watching.

The first baseball club ever organized was the Knickerbockers in New York in 1846. An inning was then called a hand. It took 21 "Aces" (runs) to win a game. In early Massachusetts baseball 100 runs were necessary to win.

Hub Pruett of the St. Louis Browns, was the only pitcher who ever had the Indian sign on Babe Ruth. Hub fanned Babe 13 out of 15 times at bat. He is now a doctor in St. Louis and humorously offered to treat Babe Ruth's eyes for him any time he liked to call around—at no charge.

Bull Fighting Brutal

Bull-fighting was not originally Spanish, but it got its start in Egypt, was adopted by Rome, and from there was introduced into Spain by the Moors.

One writer who has seen a number of bull-fights says: The bull of course has not even a small chance. They call it a fight and a sport but actually it is neither. Time may have been when a bullfight was an actual contest between a wild animal and a man and there may have been some element of doubt as to which would win. But nowadays the outcome is a foregone certainty—the bull will be plagued, mistreated, tortured and slain. The crowd gathers merely to see the "fun of butchery."

One school for bull fighting which was recently opened in Palma, Mexico, charges six dollars for a course of fifteen lessons.

Spanish bull-fighting is a major industry. More than $70,000,000 has been invested in bull-rings and bull-farms. Fifteen hundred bulls and 6,000 horses are killed in the arenas annually.

Fond of Big Figures?

SOME people fairly dote on figures so large they cannot understand what they mean, and some wise men have been busy within recent times providing something which should satisfy. Here for instance:

The outpouring of energy from the sun is so great that if it was to fall and we wished to supply equal energy from some vast power house we would have to burn coal at the rate of three million million million tons per minute.

On a summer day when the sun has a chance to get through and shine with its usual brilliance enough sunshine goes to waste on top of a motor car to drive it for 40 miles.

John Nix is authority for the statement that sunshine is hotter on top of ice-bound Mount Everest than in the most heat-scorched deserts known to man.

Something more about the sun and we hope it will not be sufficient to cause a state of general alarm. The sun is losing weight at the rate of about 250 million tons every minute, or about 360 billion tons every 24 hours.

How do we know? We don't. We are just recording what some other person has said.

This Ought to Help

ONE company in United States has started production of dishes which will not break. They are being made of rubber and the rubber has been treated so that it is tasteless and odorless.

Recently in London at an exhibition there was exhibited a teapot with three spouts so three cups of tea could be poured at the same time. It was looked upon as a curiosity and as an idea that had no chance of being generally accepted.

The dishes which we generally use from the least expensive to the most costly china are submitted to a temperature of 2,200 degrees for a period of 50 hours before they are considered to be ready for the glazing process.

Enlightened Capitalism

(From the Ottawa Journal.)

THE new capitalism should not want government direction of industry, for, admitting all its past mistakes and blunders, it must know, better than government, how to plan, how to produce, how to distribute, how to perform every industrial function. It should welcome, however, the protection of government—for itself and for every man, woman and child; not the kind of protection that consists in the bestowal of special favors, but the kind that forbids those unjust and destructive things that none of us should do. But when it comes to the constructive things, the things that only industry can do, it should ask for only one boon of government—that it be left free to work out its own destiny.

This should involve no new political philosophy. It should involve merely a race of industrialists and employers who would respect the public's rights and its employes' rights and behave themselves accordingly. No need would exist for a paternalistic government to interfere on behalf of labor or of the public. No rich soil would be cultivated for Socialistic or Collectivist experiments. No weapons against the capitalist system would be placed in the hands of "reformers." The interpretation of economic laws would be based firmly upon the rights, welfare, satisfactions and standard of living of the Canadian family. A full flow of trade, regulated only or largely by the law of supply and demand, would be accepted in the interests of the Canadian consumer. The fallacy of overproduction would be discarded and the principle would be embraced that hard work is the true means of creating wealth and the living standards we should all be eager to provide as the basis of the Canadian home.

These reflections are not offered in criticism of any government, and least of all in criticism of the capitalist system. They are set forth merely as our conception of what capitalism is, or should be—of what it could be made to be. They are offered in the humble hope that capitalism, through a more enlightened humanity, through more of a sense of justice and fair play, will save itself— save itself from either destruction or the deadening consequences of control and supervision by government. For we are convinced that it is only by such means, by arrival at a clearer appreciation of what capitalism and human liberty mean, that we shall solve the difficulties of capital and labor, seeing to it at the same time that no government shall attempt through its own fiat to direct the course of economic law, nor impose shackles on industry limiting its capacity for great human service.

Heat Wave Compensations

(From the Woodstock Sentinel-Review.)

WHEN summer sets in and the temperature rises to uncomfortable degrees, there is an increase in the death list to an extent that might be avoided if the population were educated to regard these mid-summer heat-waves as emergencies against which special preparation ought to be undertaken.

It is perhaps difficult to control the extra casualties that seem to be so numerous during hot weather. Many of these result from activities in business promoted by hot weather especially in transportation operations, while a great many fatal traffic misadventures are due to the hurry and excitement attendant on the plans for vacation or the holiday activities themselves in which people do things that they are not accustomed to and thus are awkward to the danger point. This is also true of the many fatalities associated with water recreation, drownings that result from lack of knowledge of swimming and boating.

Aged people and the very young seem to be especially susceptible to the hardships of excessive summer temperatures and it is their case wherein there seems to be opportunity for intelligent instruction with regard to warding off the menace of heat. The health departments have been taking more aggressive steps to inform the population with regard to high temperatures and while there may be a better conception of effective methods for combatting heat waves, there is still a lot of ignorance concerning the problem and a great deal of unnecessary hardship. It is impossible for human beings to be as comfortable and complacent when the thermometer is at 95 or higher as they are when the mercury registers only 70 but it is possible to alter the program of activity to suit the conditions and thus escape some of the penalties.

It is said on good authority that the heat in these torrid waves in the temperate zones is more distressing than the normal temperatures much nearer the equator. Thus 95 degrees in this latitude is likely to be far more oppressive than a similar degree of heat in Florid, mainly for the reason that we do not have such temperatures steadily enough to acclimatise us sufficiently. We are compelled to fight a heat wave after emerging from a protracted cool spell in which furnace heat in homes is necessary at times. The resident of Florida is hardened into resisting condition by a more gradual application.

However, when the hot wave strikes the northerly latitudes, the wise course is to make adequate dispositions to guard against the mishaps that it can produce. That relates to housing conditions, free circulation of fresh air in the home, a change to a much lighter diet and appropriate clothing. Many people pay no attention to the attire detail yet it is one of the most important in the contest with heat. Light, loose clothing is a first requisite and the restriction of diet is also contributory to comfort. In the case of the aged and the very young, it is necessary that they should be restrained from physical activity as much as possible and that they should be protected from the rays of the sun especially for several hours before and after midday.

Despite its many discomforts, summer in Canada is the healthiest season and the compensations that it brings in that regard offset the obvious difficulties.

Those Noise Fiends

(From the Montreal Star.)

ARE our civic authorities totally incapable of dealing with the noise problem in this city? It is fast becoming one that must be tackled—and tackled without gloves. The Star has recently published a good many letters—only a tithe of those received—complaining about the day, and particularly the night, being made hideous by all sorts of raucous noises, the great majority of them entirely unnecessary and easily avoidable. We have protested again and again in these columns about the callous neglect of those in authority at the city hall to deal with this nuisance,—surely one of the most irritating and most indefensible any city can endure.

There is absolutely no justification for drivers of automobiles keeping their fingers on their syrens for five minutes outside restaurants or hotels or apartment houses, as a signal to somebody inside to come out. It is simply a waste of energy for any driver in a line of automobiles to keep on sounding his klaxon when the line is held up, in the vain endeavour to get it started again. Traffic policemen often deliberately keep a line waiting when this is done, as a lesson to the offender, but it does not seem to have any effect.

There is due provision in the city by-laws to deal with all noise offenders, and if the law were strictly enforced it would eliminate at least seventy-five per cent. of the cacophancus ear-splitting that goes on in this city all day long. Inspector Belanger, chief of the city traffic police, yesterday issued general orders to lay charges against those guilty of needless horn-blowing in the streets. Unfortunately, such general orders have been issued again and again, but they never seem to have much result, so far as either prosecutions or reduction in noise are concerned. Let us hope this time will prove to be the sorely needed and long awaited exception to the rule. If it does, office workers in the down-town district will rise up en masse and call the Inspector's name blessed. It only needs a score or so of stiff fines to bring the heedless, careless, inconsiderate, and down-right selfish drivers to their senses. But the penalties must be strictly enforced. It would not take long. It has not taken long in many other cities to bring the noise-makers to heel. Let us try it here, and let us begin as soon as possible.

Holiday Hints

(Brantford Expositor)

BRANTFORDITES, being such good citizens, probably will not need them, but in case the heat causes occasional lapses of memory, here are a few timely vacation reminders.

First, when you leave, be careful, also, to leave your holiday address with the police. Then, if anything untoward happens during your absence, they can get in touch with you. Also they can keep an eye on your property. And it wouldn't do any harm to notify the milkman, so that you won't have to return to a side-door vista of daily-deposited bottles, a la comic cartoons. Then, too, remember your pets. If you are not taking them with you, board them out, or make some such provision for their well-being instead of leaving them to the mercy of their own food-hunting expeditions, or the charity of the neighbors, or the offices of the Humane Society.

The Right Way.

(Chatham News)

I've spent almost a week driving up and down your country roads, admiring you crops, talking with your farmers meeting people of every degree and station in life," says an American tourist who confessed he could not receive a proper impression of Canada by tearing along the highways at 45 or 50 miles an hour. This tourist wanted to see what Canadian life was like and, according to his remarks, it must have been the first time he entered the country because he was thrilled by scenes of well-ordered farms, rivers and other things that are common to residents of Western Ontario.

This tourist has the right idea. Instead of bowling along the highway with the rest of the traffic he turns off and takes sufficient time to learn something of the country besides high speed highways, gasoline filling stations, hotdog stands and the like. We are not slamming the filling stations and other services that dot the highway routes of the province because these are necessary and furnish employment to people. But we do feel that more American tourists can afford to emulate the action of the above tourist who wanted to know something more of the countryside than impressions gained from fast travelling over the highways. This particular tourist was "thrilled" over our commonplace things and he will take back to his native city and state something more enduring because he saw a whole cross-section of our Canadian life at its best.

They See Enough.

(Niagara Falls Review)

PITTSBURGH liquor clerks held a big picnic on Sunday, but there was no hard liquor served, no whiskey, gin or brandy, or even beer, the association ruling that only soft drinks and ice cream cones would be available. As is well known some hotels insist on their bartenders being total abstainer, so there is nothing unusual in the Pittsburgh association, holding it would be unseemly for the wives and sweethearts of the liquor clerks to see them drinking hard stuff. Probably some bartenders see so many temperance lectures, in the faces of some soaks who patronize them, they find it quite easy to keep away from the stuff.

Getting Used To It

(New York Times)

FROM our Commissioner of Health come some encouraging statistics as to the effect of hot weather on human beings. Deaths in New York City due directly to sunstroke, Dr. Rice points out, have declined steadily from the astounding figure of 734 in 1901 to the low mark of 54 in 1936. During that period our population more than doubled, so that the average citizen stands only about one-fifteenth as much chance of dying of sunstroke this year as he did thirty-six years ago.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, July 16—(CP). — Wheat future skyrocketed the five cents allowable limit on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day, establishing new high levels since 1929 and seasonal highs in all futures. At the close, prices were 5 to 3¾ cents higher, July at $1.53⅞; October $1.45⅝, and December $1.41⅝.

Zooming prices came back to the exchange after an absence of two days and wheat futures bounded up a seven-cent scale from earlier low points.

Disregarding bearish weather reports from the Canadian Prairies, brokers here and at Chicago purchased liberally on the Winnipeg market, principally on reports of unfavorable United States northwest crop conditions.

Rust damage and badly lodged wheat fields in U.S. due to heavy rains, sent all North American markets higher. Just before the close all Winnipeg wheat future made new season highs: July at $1.53⅞, October, $1.46¾, and December, $1.42.

Yesterday's Quotations.

WILL SOAR ALOFT TO STUDY STORMS

Expert To Seek Data For Getting Better Weather Prophecies

ELMIRA, N. Y., July 16.—(CP).—By soaring into the sky in a sail plane, a Harvard University meteorologist expects to solve some of the mysteries of thunderstorms.

At a meet of the Soaring Society of America, the meteorologist, Dr. Karl O. Lange, internationally known for his work with radio meteorographs — instrument-equipped balloons which he has sent up as high as 100,000 feet—said:

"We know little about the thunderstorm, its temperature, the character of its wind, the barometric pressures and the humiditiy. When we learn that, it will be of inestimable value to the science of aeronautics, just as gliding and soaring the world over are adding to our knowledge of aerodynamics and meteorology."

Dr. Lange will co-operate with the United States weather Bureau in establishing various radio meteorograph stations including one in Fairbanks, Alaska.

Police Are Silent McKenzie Search

TORONTO, July 16 (CP).—General V. A. S. Williams, commissioner of Ontario Provincial Police, today conferred with officers who have been sifting the marital tangle left by George Roediger, sentenced at Winnipeg to nine years for bigamy and theft.

Inspector George MacKay of the criminal investigation department, Provincial Police, and Detective-Sergeant A. M. Veitch of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police were closeted with the commissioner. Inspector MacKay and Sergeant Veitch returned today from Winnipeg, where they questioned the German butcher.

The two officers have been attempting for six months to solve the disappearance of Mrs. Christine McKenzie of Allandale, Ont., married to Roediger, then known as George Rodgers, in Barrie in August, 1935. The officers refused to give any information on Roediger's answer to questions regarding Mrs. McKenzie.

MOVIES FOR THE SCHOOLS?

NEW YORK, July 16 (C.P.). — Thousands of obsolete motion picture films as well as the present facilities of Hollywood will be evaluated for their educational possibilities by a committee of educators and then made available to public schools throughout the nation under a project sponsored by the motion picture producers and distributors of America, it was revealed yesterday by Dr. Mark A. May, Director of the Institute of Human Relations of Yale University.

YOUNG TORONTO WIFE ACCUSED SLAYING CHILD

Convention at London to take charge.

"I've known Doris ever since she was nine months old," said Mrs. Hughes. "She always called me aunt. She has been perfectly well, it seemed, and was apparently quite happy. She was a wonderful girl."

The blinds of the trim little white and black cottage were down. Inside sat the father and the husband of the arrested woman.

Terribly shaken by the tragedy, the white-faced, quivering husband could say nothing.

"There's nothing to say. I don't know what happened," the girl's father said.

The child was born at Toronto General Hospital on June 11, the coroner said.

Clever in School.

Mrs. Keetley attended school in Oakville and Collegiate in Toronto, it was learned at the home of Paul Perkins, close neighbors.

"She was one of the cleverest girls in the whole school," a daughter said. "She was always a couple of years ahead of the rest of the girls of her age. She wanted to become a nurse. We used to work at a restaurant in the summer. I can remember how she always asked to get off on Sundays so she coul dattend church."

Mrs. Keetley spent a very good night, according to Jailer Frank McNiven.

Strong At Opening List Soon Weakened

NEW YORK, July 16 (AP)—After an advancing gesture at the opening, stocks turned downward in today's market and many of the leaders yielded fractions to 2 or more points. U. S. Steel ran up above 117 to a new high for the move in early proceedings, but lost most of its gain later when Chrysler dropped sharply and the rest of the list exhibited signs of weakening. Transfers were about 800,000 shares.

Escaped Prisoners Find Haven In Jail

London, Ont., July 16 (CP).

FINGER-PRINTED ONLY when convicted, scores of Canada's public enemies, escaped convicts and parole violators are finding safe havens in the country's county jails.

Declaration to this effect was made today by James R. Wilkinson, superintendant of the Windsor Bureau of Identification. Supt. Wilkinson cited the case of Ed. Harlton, who shot and killed county constable Jack Waddell. Harlton, he recalled, was sought all over the continent while for months he hid in security in the county jail at Ottawa, under an assumed name. He had been given a six-month term for damaging a street car.

WOUNDED OFFICER GAINING STRENGTH

hospital cot picked a picture of Gray as that of the gunman.

Inspector Knight said the wanted men were well-known in the district. Numerous persons reported they knew Gray and three persons told Inspector Knight they knew Pornomarenko.

The pair moved from Toronto to the north some time ago, the inspector said. Gray is wanted in the Ontario capital on a wounding charge. The inspector said Toronto officials said they learned the men headed north with certain plans they intended fulfilling.

"It is quite possible the men might have established a hideout, caching a supply of provisions in it while waiting their plans to mature for pulling off some holdup in this district," said Inspector Knight. "We know that the men came to the Sudbury district from Noranda three days before the shooting occurred. The stolen car proves this.

Police officers, armed with high-powered rifles, besides service revolvers, worked in pairs on the search today. Old tote roads into abandoned mining camps were combed in the belief the pair established a hideout while preparing for a robbery at the Falconbridge Mine.

TRADING IS QUIET MARKET LIFELESS

List, Particularly Golds, Repped Up In Last Half-Hour

TORONTO, July 16 (CP).—Today's stock market was lifeless with prices slightly lower on the whole and trading quiet. The list pepped up a little in the last half-hour, particularly the golds, erasing the losses for some of the more active issues. But other mines along with the western oils and the industrials closed with narrow net losses outnumbering gains.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN WANTS TO KNOW

Choice Dishes Summer Time

A Miscellany Of Good Recipes As Offered By Mary Moore

BECAUSE I do what I do and am what I am good cooks see that many good recipes gravitate in my direction. Now Aunt Lila is the sister of a best friend of mine and while school teaching is Aunt Lila's vocation, cooking is her avocation.

If I understand my friend rightly, Aunt Lila created this dish herself—when she entertained a great number of her school teacher friends in her own attractive garden—just after school closed.

Aunt Lila's Spaghetti Casserole.

Two lbs. spaghetti (no more), 1 lb. lean pork cut in ½-inch cubes, ½ cup oil (olive, Wesson or Mazola), 1 large green pepper, 1 medium-sized bunch of celery, 3 large cloves garlic, 2 large onions; 1 cup grated Tillamook cheese (we would use mild Canadian cheese in place of this Pacific Coast cheese), 2 cans tomato soup, 2 cans hot sauce (tomato), 2 cans IXL mushroom sauce (Italian style).

Cook the spaghetti in plenty of water throughout—so that it does not stick—when very tender drain. Saute the cubed pork in the oil until it is tinged golden, then add the finely cut green pepper, celery garlic and onion and saute them all together until vegetables wilt but remain a little crisp. Pour this over the drained spaghetti and mix well. Mix together the cheese (save a little out to garnish the top), soup, and sauces and mix well. Pour into large baking pan (we used the bottom of our roaster) and sprinkle cheese over top and sprinkle paprika over this. Bake at 300 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. Long slow cooking adds to the flavor so cooking a little longer if you have the time will improve the dish.

Now some of the ingredients require a little explanation — If you cannot buy hot sauce in your town go to some of the little Italian fruit stores and get their tomato paste—this is tomato pulp highly seasoned. You will need two cans of this diluted by half with water to give you the 2 cans of hot sauce called for in the recipe. To get a substitute for IXL mushroom sauce either purchase a bottle of mushroom catsup and dilute it with the same quantity of water—or buy ½ lb. fresh mushrooms and chop them finely and saute them in 2 tablespoons of butter, stirring constantly, until they reduce to about ½ their volume—then add ½ cup water. This amount will approximate the mushroom sauce called for.

We kept this hot by wrapping it in first a heavy brown paper, then a heavy bath towel, then several newspapers. In this way it kept hot for 2 hours—while we drove to our picnic grounds and while we were setting out the rest of our food.

The above amounts will serve from 16 to 18 people.

Dr. Donk's "Hollens" Potatoes

Dr. Donk is an American born of Dutch parents—he is a clever cook in his own right besides being engaged in the food business.

In his home he has a Chinese cook who delights in surprising them with delightful but unanalyzeable Chinese dishes. One day he said, "Now Frankie, make way for me—for I'm going to show you some Dutch dishes."

"Hollens" (the Dutch word for "Dutch") potatoes can take about three forms. The best one is made thus: Prepare mashed potatoes just as you usually do—boiled until very tender, drained, shaken over the heat to dry them mashed well, hot milk and butter and salt added until when beaten for about 5 minutes they are fluffy. Now add about the same quantity of bright green leaf lettuce (not head lettuce — but the outer leaves from outdoor grown lettuce) which you have pressed tightly together in your hand and sliced with a sharp knife into as thin shreds as possible. Mix these well through the hot potatoes over low heat, stirring for about 2 minutes, until potatoes have heated through after being chilled by addition of lettuce. To about a serving for 6 people add 1 tablespoon vinegar and serve.

Second Version of "Hollens" Potatoes

Mash potatoes exactly as above and to a serving for 6 people add wafer thin slices of peeled raw cucumber—these slices must be so thin you can almost see through them. Mix well into the hot mashed potatoes over low heat until potatoes are heated through well. Serve while cucumbers have some of their crispness left. Vinegar may or may not be added, as desired.

Third Version of "Hollens" Potatoes

Add canned or peeled chopped fresh tomatoes to mashed potatoes, and stir over low heat until very hot. A little extra butter and salt are necessary with tomatoes. No vinegar, though.

Madge's Mother's String Beans.

Madge's mother is English and thinks it is most careless to chop beans across in pieces, boil them and serve them with skimpy amounts of butter. After tasting her way, you will too.

Two lbs. green or yellow snap beans, ¼ cup salad or olive oil (or if you have not acquired the oil habit in cookery use the same amount of butter), 1 cup peeled and finely sliced onions, 1 tablespoon minced garlic, 1½ teaspoons salt, shake of white pepper, ¼ cup water, 2 beaten egg yolks.

Snip the ends from the beans and wash the beans, and cut into shreds by cutting in halves lengthwise and once crosswise. If you have time they will look nicer if you shred them finer than in halves. (There is a simple little gadget on the market that will shred beans). Place the oil (or butter) in a kettle with a cover that fits it well. Heat the oil (but do not let it smoke) and add the onions and garlic to it and saute them until the onions are soft and transparent but do not change color. Then add the prepared beans. Stir well and add the salt and pepper, and water. Cover tightly, reduce heat to very low, and for about 30 minutes or until tender, stirring about every 5 minutes. When done beat the yolks very well, then stir some of the liquid from the beans into them, then return all to beans and stir. Serve very hot garnished with sprinkling of paprika.

Minnie's fame is widespread in our parts—she is the cook extraordinary in my brother's household. I have already published some of her recipes, especially those that come into their own around Christmas—but this salad deserves a hallowed space. She serves it with Italian spaghetti—I think it is equally nice with the spaghetti dish described above.

Minnie's Salad

One medium head of lettuce, a one-inch bunch of watercress (by one inch she means the stems held tightly together were about 1 inch in diameter), if you can find it 1 bunch French endive, 2 sliced hard-cooked eggs, 1 8-oz. can shrimps, ½ cup well-seasoned French dressing, and when Minnie serves this to important company she adds 2 tablespoons mashed anchovy fillets. Wash and dry the lettuce, watercress and endive and break them up with the fingers into rough pieces, about two inches long, in a wooden bowl. Remove the black veins from the shrimps, mash the anchovies, slice the eggs (occasionally Minnie forces the eggs through the ricer). Combine all ingredients, mixing the French dressing by mixing and moving them about with two forks until all are coated with it. It is best to add about 1 tablespoon of the dressing at a time.

This is of course can be served alone, but is nice with potatoes au gratin or spaghetti as suggested above.

Chiffon And Net Afternoon Dress

(By Central Press)

CHOOSING an afternoon dress for the more formal daytime activities is no problem at all this summer. There is plenty of variety. Floor length dresses are no longer the thing, although in England there were still some garden party dresses worn at the important races.

Your smartest street length frock is the proper length. Veda Ann Borg, featured film player, is pictured wearing the favorite of the season—an afternoon redingote—of brightly printed black chiffon alternated with bands of black net over a heavy black crepe slip. The horizontal bands of material form the body of the redingote and the elbow-length sleeves.

Slimness, Pleats Important.

Dresses for fall are contradictory—both pencil slimness and all-around pleats being equally important. The separate skirt is a large factor in autumn fashions. The all-around stitched gores and "swing" fullness that marked the spring skirts, has largely disappeared in the new lines. Narrow folds down the centre front that give just enough concealed width for comfort, without fullness, are incorporated.

Shoulder lines are not so exaggerated either, in the newer type of dresses. The shoulder is "saner," according to stylists.

Blueberry Roll Is Most Timely

Tomato Loaf Salad Quite Substantial Enough To Serve As Main Dish

By MRS. MARY MORTON
Menu Hint
Cold Boiled Ham
Creamed Potatoes Pickles
Tomato Loaf Salad
Blueberry Roll Iced Tea

The tomato loaf salad is quite substantial enough to serve as a main dish, but it may also be used as a salad in a cold meat menu, such as this. Blueberry recipes always are timely at this season of the year. Any shortening that you prefer, of course, may be substituted for the vegetable oil.

Today's Recipes

TOMATO LOAF SALAD—Two cups tomato soup, one-fourth cup chopped olives, one cup grated cheese, one-fourth cup chopped onions, one-half cup cold water, one-half cup chopped celery, one-fourth cup chopped green peppers, one cup mayonnaise, one teaspoon gelatin. Dissolve gelatin in water. Heat soup to boiling point, add cheese and gelatin. Beat until smooth, set aside to cool. Add other ingredients. Pour into loaf tin or into tomato shells. When firm, slice and serve on lettuce.

BLUEBERRY ROLL—The pastry: Two and one-fourth cups pastry flour four teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, four tablespoon sugar. Three-fourths cup milk, one-third cup vegetable oil, butter, one pint blueberries. Mix and sift dry ingredients and stir in oil quickly, with fork or knife. Stir in liquid quickly; remove to well-floured board and kneed until dough is smooth (about one-half minute). Roll one-half inch thick. Filling: Spread dough with one tablespoon butter, and place berries over dough. Sprinkle with one-fourth cup sugar. Roll like jelly roll, cut into three-quarter inch pieces. Place on cut ends close together in oiled pan. Surround with three-fourths cup sugar and one cup hot water. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit) 20 to 30 minutes. Baste occasionally with the sauce in the pan.

Swedish Steamed Fish

Use a kettle large enough to hold the fish without crowding. Place in the bottom an onion cut in half, a few cloves and a bay leaf, one-fourth cup vinegar and one-half teaspoon salt. Add water to cover the fish. Let this boil before the fish is added for 10 minutes. Place the fish in a piece of muslin or gauze (to help in lifting it out) and lower into the hot liquid. Cook slowly for 10 to 15 minutes, lift to a hot platter and pour over a generous quantity of melted butter with chopped parsley.

Women Veterans Are In Bad Way

Head Of Uncle Sam's Service Body Pleads For Comrades In Distress

NEW YORK, July 16 (CP).—Disabled women war veterans of the United States are in dire distress, Miss Dorothy Brooks, national commander of the Women World War Veterans, told a committee of social workers organized to raise funds for the women.

Nineteen years after rolling drums and blaring bugles called them to the "great adventure," wounded, gassed and shell-shocked women live out their lives in dreary hospital wards, powerless to improve their state, she said.

Drastic reduction in compensation paid, even to those 90 per cent. disabled, has reduced their pensions from $60 a month to $28 and less, she continued. Many hospital cases receive only $6 a month and linger on in the institutions until some have become insane.

Dinners of The Week

(By MARY MOORE)

All These Meals Have Been Served, Eaten and Approved

SUNDAY DINNER
(Prepared Saturday—Guests.)
Bruswick Stew (see note)
Celery Hearts
Raspberries and Cream. Iced Tea

Note.—Brunswick Stew as most of you know who are close readers of this page, is made with chicken. I order one weighing at least 6 lbs—if it is larger I am better satisfied for there is some left for a second meal and the second day the stew is even improved impossible as it may seem. Disjoint the chicken in pieces for serving and dip it in flour. Now the vegetable ingredients are variable except that there must be a quart o ftomatoes added, either fresh or canned, four halved onions, and fresh beans, either green or yellow, added without cutting. Stew the chicken in water to cover for 2 hours, then add vegetables. True Brunswick stew starts off with a cup of diced salt pork so that it never scorches—that is sauteed before anything is added. Potatoes and even a disjointed squirred (if you have one up your sleeve) may be added. True Brunswick Stew is made with black squirrels instead of chicken. Salt and pepper added to taste—the whole cooked about 3¼ hours. If you do not add potatoes I have occasionally served a small mound of rice on the plate and pour the stew over it—a nice variation.

MONDAY
Reheated Leftover Brunswick Stew
Cabbage and Tomato Coleslaw
Deep New Apple Pie. Coffee

TUESDAY (Hasty)
Baked Sausage
Whole Little New Potatoes in Cheese Sauce
Shredded Green Garden Lettuce with Chilled French Dressing
Deep Berry Pie (see elsewhere on page). Coffee

Note.—Make your pastry in the morning—line the pie plate and put it and the rolled-out top crust (folded and covered on plate) in ice box to chill. Clean berries and put sugar mixed with 1 tablespoon cornstarch or minute tapioca over them and let stand until you return from the office. On your return immediately turn on oven, assemble pie and bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes; reduce heat to 350 deg. Fahr. to finish, and put in sausage to bake when heat is reduced. Cheese for sauce could be grated in the morning.

WEDNESDAY (Vegetarian)
New Green Peas
Poached Egg on Round of Toast with Tomato Sauce
(In centre of plate)
Chopped Beets and Greens with Butter
Garden Lettuce and Tomato Salad
Byng Cherries, chilled. Crackers and Cheese. Coffee

THURSDAY (Economical)
Deep Sasserole of Spaghetti, Tomato and Hamburger
Radishes and Raw Carrot Slivers
One Crust Sour Cherry Pie. Tea

FRIDAY
Boned Fried Lake Herring
Steamed Green Onions, with Butter
Stewed Tomatoes
Raspberries and Cream. Coffee

SATURDAY
Wilted Lettuce with Bacon (see note)
Baked eBans
Individual Fruit Salads of Cheese Stuffed Byng Cherries and Halved Bananas Dipped in Mayonnaise on Lettuce. Coffee.

Note.—Whether wilted lettuce is a German or Dutch dish does not matter—it is good. Dice ½ cup breakfast bacon and saute it until it frizzles. To it add 2 tablespoons sharp vinegar heat through and pour over bowl of green garden lettuce—mix by lifting with 2 forks and serve at once.

Enquiry Column

Conducted by
Mrs. MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I have been reading your columns in our paper for a number of years and must tell you that I derived a lot of benefit from them. Now I would like your recipe for home-made ice-cream. I do not think that I ever came across one in your page. There is a very simple way of making ice-cream by cooking it first and then freezing it in a lard pail. They say you do not have to stir it at all. If you could send me such a recipe or any other that is good and simple to make I'd appreciate it very much.—Thanking you, O.N.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

The frozen desserts that can be made without stirring come under the headings of "Mousses" and "Parfaits."

Vanilla Mousse.

One and one-quarter tablespoons gelatine, 4 tablespoons water, 1 cup sugar, 1 quart cream, whipped, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Soak the gelatin in the cold water for 5 minutes. Stand the bowl in hot water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Then add the sugar and vanilla to it, remove from heat, and fold in the cream which has been whipped but not stiff—it should be pourable. Pack in clean mould (or lard pail or tray of electric or gas refrigerator), cover having waxed paper between ice-cream and lid) and seal crack between cover and mould with a 2-inch strip of cotton dipped in melted fat, and wound tightly around. Bury mould in mixture of 3 parts ice and 1 part rock salt. Let stand 3 hours to freeze. (This may be frozen in freezing trays of ice box.)

Golden Parfait.

One cup sugar, ⅓ cup water, 2 cups cream, whipped, 1 tablespoon vanilla, 6 egg yolks. Boil the sugar and water to 238 degrees Fahr. (when syrup will form a soft ball when ½ teaspoon is dropped in cold water). Pour slowly on very well beaten egg yolks. Cook in top of double boiler until mixture thickens, then cool and fold in the cream which has been whipped but which will still pour. Add the vanilla and freeze in mould, tightly covered, or trays of mechanical ice box. For this use two parts ice to 1 part salt and freeze 4 hours.

White Parfait.

Boil one cup sugar, and 1 cup water to 238 degrees Fahr. Pour on 3 egg whites which have been beaten frothy and beat until cold. Add 2 cups beaten cream and 1 tablespoon vanilla and pour into mould and freeze as directed in Golden Parfait.

We hope these suit your purpose. Please see cookery page of two weeks ago for other ice-cream recipes.

QUESTION: I see in your page a reducing diet, but as we live in the country it is very hard to get any vegetables, so I am writing to ask you if a person on a reducing diet can eat such things as corn flakes, shredded wheat and brown bread? I weigh 183 pounds and I would have to reduce at least 30 pounds on account of my health. So I would like some advice as I read your paper continually. I will be watching for an answer.—Mrs. F. C.

ANSWER: I am always dismayed whe readers ask for reducing diets for it is not safe for any one but a doctor who has examined the prospective reducer to prescribe the method—especially in cases like yours where your health is involved.

Since fruits, vegetables, milk, eggs, cheese, butter and nuts are the staff of life for reducers, I should think the fact that you live in the country and can thus raise your own fruit and vegetables would make it very easy for you to obtain the required foods.

Corn flakes, shredded wheat, and brown bread are all starchy foods—the very type you must avoid, if you really wish to reduce by 30 pounds. If you eat potatoes, only do so about twice a week and then bake them and eat the skin, using plenty of butter with them.

Since you are not to eat bread or rolls or biscuits you must think up ways of getting butter into your diet—using plenty on vegetables.

To overcome the terrific hunger amateur reducers feel drink plenty of water, and before meals drink drink tomato juice, buttermilk, or any fruit juices you can get, thus the stomach is partially filled, and has no room for the excess slice of bread (or other starch food) that otherwise might tempt you before you leave the table.

Eat four or five vegetables per day—half of them raw in salad form—eat fruit every meal—eat no cake or pie or puddings—eat plenty of eggs and drink plenty of milk—see that cheese and nuts are taken often—the meat intake could be one serving per day—and get plenty of fresh air, exercise, and sleep and much of the fat that is unnatural will come off.

Hoping that this information will be of practical help and that you will watch the cookery page for weekly menu hints.

Woman Traffic Being Studied

Questionnaire Prepared And Sent To All Delegates At Conference

VANCOUVER, July 16. (CP).—Traffic in women and children in countries of the Pacific is being discussed at the conference of the Pan Pacific Women's Association being held here July 12-24.

Mrs. Bessie M. Rischbieth, of Perth, Australia, who prepared the questionaire for this study, said the League of Nations Secretariat desired co-operation of the association.

Delegates from each member country have been asked to give facts concerning licensed brothels, whether they are legal or illegal and any measures taken for their abolition.

They are asked to name the age of consent, punishment, if any, for procurers, for brothel-keepers, and for those living on the immoral earnings of women.

Rehabilitation of prostitutes is regarded as important and information is sought on provisions for training them for work, and steps taken to educate public opinion to a single standard of moral responsibility. Chairman have been asked to outline laws of their countries affecting traffic in women in children, and to indicate what, if any, amendments were needed.

Tested Favorite Recipes

(By MARY MOORE.)

One of the reasons Fried Chicken is such an all-time favorite is that when it is left-over and discovered by a hungry prowler in the ice box, nothing is quite so toothsome to eat.

Hot weather makes cold food desirable—Veal Birds as described below can be baked for one meal and served hot and the excess stored in the ice box for the next day's dinner, cold if you wish or reheated if the day is not a scorcher.

Glorified Veal Birds.

Dutch oven is excellent for these.

One and three-quarter pounds of veal sliced ¾-inch thick, ½ ponud side bacon, toothpicks, 2 cups thin white sauce, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 4 tablespoons cream or top milk. Cut the veal into strips the shape of the bacon. Place the veal on the bacon and roll up like a jelly roll and fasten each roll with a toothpick. Brown quickly on all sides in a Dutch oven or heavy iron frying pan, then pour over the white sauce (made by melting 3 tablespoons butter, adding 3 tablespoons flour, stirring until blended, and then stirring in 1¾ cups hot milk until thick). Sprinkle with salt and a little white pepper and cover tightly and bake at 300 degrees Fahr. (very slow) for about 3 hours. Pour over the cream just before serving. If you have a glass casserole with cover, this is ideal for it may be taken to table.

Murray—Clancy

The wedding of two popular young people of the city was solemnized by Rev. Father E. Grant at eight o'clock, on Thursday morning, July 15 at St. Peter's Cathedral, when Rose Ann ("Rosalie") Clancy, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Clancy of Charlotte street, became the bride of Michael John Murray, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Murray of Braidwood Avenue.

The petite, fair-haired bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an exquisite toe-length frock of white chiffon over white silk crepe. The entire skirt was finely accordion pleated, and the same treatment featured the full elbow-length sleeves. The simply-fashioned bodice had a V-neckline, and the waist was girded by white grosgrain ribbon which tied in a bow at the front, with streamer ends falling to the hem.

The bride's close-fitting hat was of halo type, made with a crown of white stitched taffeta and a wide flange of white accordion pleated ribbon. Her slippers and long gloves were of white kid and she carried a

Noted Lady Doctor Korean Missionary

VANCOUVER, July 16 (C.P.). — Dr. Induk Pak, little Korean woman missionary, here attending the Pan-Pacific Women's Conference, is today a noted medical doctor and speaker, but her education in the beginning was obtained under false pretences.

Her father, a Confucianist, and teacher of Chinese classics, died of cholera when she was only five years of age. Her mother became a Christian and was determined that her "girl child" should be educated—but there were only schools for boys.

Young Induk was given a boy's name, dressed in male attire, and entered the boys' school. Her sex was not disclosed until graduation day when she appeared in feminine attire much to the chagrin of her male classmates.

Since, she has championed any movement she believed to be in the interests of Korean women, and has even been jailed for political activities. She is a graduate of Ewa College, Seoul, and took her M.A. at Columbia University, New York.

The present is Dr. Pak's second lecture trip to America, where in 1928 and 1929 she gave over 200 lectures, on missionary work in Korea. She will spend several months in Canada and the United States lecturing under the auspices of the Missionary Societies of the United and Presbyterian Churches and the Students' Christian and Volunteer movement.

Colonial nosegay of Briarcliffe roses and white sweet peas and gypsophilia. Her only ornament was a chip diamond lover's knot, pendant from a delicate platinum chain.

The bridesmaid, Miss Aileen "Bud" McCoy was gowned in pink combined with yellow in a charming color scheme. Her lovely gown was of shell-pink net over pink taffeta. The full "swing" skirt was edged with narrow bands of pink taffeta and a similar banding outlined the front and trimmed the full elbow sleeves of a waist-length jacket of net.

The gown had a corsage closing in a trio of pink and yellow roses in silk organdy. The bridesmaid's little hat of yellow taffeta had an upstanding front flange of halo type and was trimmed at the back with a bow and long streamers of the same material. She wore yellow gabardine slippers, yellow gloves and carried a Colonial nosegay of yellow roses, mauve sweet peas and gypsophilia.

The best man was Allan Medd brother-in-law of the groom.

The wedding music was played by Miss Veronica Scollard, A.T.C.M., and the soloist, singing "Ave Maris Stella" and other appropriate hymns during the progress of the Nuptial Mass, was Miss Josephine Clancy, sister of the bride, wearing a blue chiffon dress with white hat and white accessories and corsage bouquet of pink and white sweet peas.

Following the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the new banquet hall of the White House Hotel, where decorations were in gold and white linen, with silver candlesticks and silver baskets filled with pretty flowers with the bride's table centered by the cake.

Assisting in receiving the guests, including a number from out of town, were the bride's mother, Mrs. Clancy, wearing black chiffon with a black hat, slippers and gloves, and a corsage bouquet of Pernet roses and gypsophila.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Murray, received wearing flowered chiffon, a white hat, white shoes and gloves, and a corsage of roses and gypsophila.

Her dress of white blistered crepe in tailored mode with a pin-tucked front panel featured by large white buttons, was worn under a jacket, crepe combining white in the jacket with a cape of navy blue silk crepe pin-dotted in white. The wide-pointed revers of the jacket were edged with bands of navy, red and green dotted in white, and the same intriguing combination of colors appeared in the narrow tie belt and in the rosettes which trimmed a tiny grey hat of grosgrain ribbon, its bands of navy blue ribbon showing the wearer's pretty blonde locks.

The accessories for the going-away suit were white kid.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Murray will live at 507 Murray street.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included the following: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clancy, Mrs. W. H. Artkin and daughter, Ann, all of Toronto; M. J. Clancy, father of the bride, who has been seriously ill in Christie Street Hospital for the last four and a half months; Mrs. Margaret O'Brien of Toronto.

Chicken Feathers Deck Fall Hats

NEW YORK, July 16 (AP)—Women's fall hats will either tantalize men or drive them distracted until they get used to the new tricks.

Some of the new hats, shown today by John-Fredericks, a leading designer, were gay with chicken feathers from the barnyard Plymouth Rock.

Some had a brush trimming, like the end of a shaving brush, and some were shaped like witches' hats, with a tall peaked crown.

"Hats are very, very, very I don't know what," said the blithe John, who called it "one of the most important collections of my career."

"This," he said, "is my little chicken number."

It was a peaked hat covered with black and white Plymouth Rock fathers, with a short chicken feather sports coat to match.

A ruff of rooster feathers was another new note.

"Skirts are shorter, hats are higher," said John. "Don't ask for a lower crown. I won't give it to you.

"Casual chic is the thing for fall, absolutely soft, no more hard-boiled look. Everything is feminine and squashy.

"Handbags are big enough to put everything but your husband in."

STEP OUT IN COTTON OR LINEN FOR STYLE THESE HOT DAYS

STEP OUT in cotton or linen these hot days, and you step out in style.

You no longer need to fear too much the wrinkle bugaboo which has long been attached to vacation trips and summer visiting with such dresses in your bags, for even organdies, linens and dotted Swisses pack with a nice degree of assurance against wrinkles. This is all due to modern permanent treatments of the fabrics, in many cases crease-resistant and vitalized.

The dress sketched on the right is a big, bold pattern in sheer, cool linen. It is just the model to take to the seashore or lake, or to wear in town. Everything about it is new—yet so simple and smart. It may be had in white with black, wine or navy.

Big, bold, but not bad, buttons are all the way around on the other linen dress, left. This frock unbuttons and can be ironed out flat. It comes in black and navy.

It's a colorful season, any way you look at it. City and village streets are gay with brightly colored prints in cotton, linen, silk. One sees many one-piece and two-piece dresses in various styles and fabrics, and there is more variety than for many seasons, the nearest thing to a vogue being the numerous dresses that button straight up the front from neck to hem, of which the dress sketched here at right is a variation. There are, too, many lace dresses worn.

White, always a summer favorite, is very much in evidence at clubs, afternoon affairs and on the streets. Black, too, is having an unusual season for warm weather. Navy is everywhere, and brown seen occasionally and always effective.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

YOU WANT SUCCESS? Are you willing to pay the price for it? How much discouragement can you stand? How much bruising can you take? How long can you hang on in the face of obstacles? Have you the grit to try to do what others fail to do? Have you the nerve to attempt things the average man would never dream of tackling?—O.S.M.

Dear Friends:

Do you really want success? No fooling? And what will you pay for it? Will you keep the thought of failure out of your mind, and the thought of success ever before you? Everything has it's price, not maybe in money, but in effort, in belief in your own self.

"All things are possible to him who hath faith," and you must have the long look that sailors have, not the short-sighted look which most of us seem to acquire.

You hear of people who have "vision." They can see the finished thing before it is really begun. And so it must be to get success, you must see it while it is still far off.

It is said also that anticipation is better than realization, but I think it lets you enjoy things twice. For instance you are going on a holiday, you think while at work of the good times you will have when vacation times arrive.

Maybe the cottage does not prove so alluring when you get there, too much sun, or too many insects, too little money, or too much of anything. Yet if you will think of it as you did before you came there, you will have all the pleasure you expected.

Then you forget all about the things that discourage you, and so it is with success. If you feel successful one day, and a failure the next, it is the one that predominates which will win out in the long run.

But if you expect to loll in the sun and let success sneak up on you, you will be badly disappointed. There is a time for relaxing and a time for keeping on your toes. Too much keeping your nose to the grindstone will give you a short-sighted look, and too much relaxing will make you soft.

And what to do about it. Are we to go around with a strained look on our face, thinking success and not enjoying each other, that's no good either.

But, just as a captain of a ship goes on day and night, knowing his destination, so must we go on knowing ours. Just as he has only the moving waters over which to steer his course, so have we the ever changing days over which to steer our ship to the harbor of success.

Just as he has to put up with fog, and wind and storms, sometimes getting turned right around, then having to find his course again, so must we put up with the fog of doubt which will assail us, the storms of criticism, and maybe be all turned around by the wind of unbelief in our journey ever ending as we want it, yet like the sailor we must keep on.

And believe it or not, you may find just as much fun and satisfaction in getting the best of these difficulties as you will when you achieve success. And if you ever knew the difficulties under which I am writing this, you would understand what I mean. But I will tell you about that later. Hoping you have a happy vacation.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Suits are still the favorites as seen at the French races. And summer suits combine colors interestingly. A pale pink suit is worn with black lace blouse and matching hat. Most of the black blouses are in lace or net, and some in chiffon. Lace gloves are worn with this type of suit.

CALVES WEAKER ON WEEK'S SALES TORONTO MARKET

HOGS GO $10.25-$10.40

TORONTO, July 16—(CP)— Calf prices dropped 50 to 75 cents on the Toronto Livestock market this week but other sections were unchanged.

The cattle supply was made up of 4300 western stockers and about 3000 killing cattle. Prices on killers were generally steady with some strength early in the week on choice weighty steers, cows and fed calves. The best weighty steers sold for export at $9 to $9.35 with common ranging down to $8.75.

Butcher steers and heifers were priced from $4 to $7.25 and a few choice light steers reached $8.25. Butcher cows sold from $3.25 to $5 with canners and cutters at $2 to $3. Butcher bulls brought $4.25 to $5 and bolognas $3.50 to $4.15. Fed calves of choice quality went at $9.50 to $10 with a few tops at $10.50. Medium grade fed calves sold downward to $8.

Exporters took a half-dozen loads of good light and weighty steers for the United States as well as some heavy bulls. There were also a few loads of medium quality steers exported to Great Britain.

Stockers were steady at the beginning of the week but prices were shaded somewhat on the common kinds to effect a week-end clearance. Good western stockers brought $5 to $5.50 but most sales on stockers were from $4 to $4.75. Some of the culls were sold to packers at $2.50 to $3.50 cwt. There were some 500 plain stockers still unsold at the close. Milkers and springers went at $50 to $60 for tested tops.

Highest Prices Since '29

Reports from Buffalo indicated the highest cattle prices since 1929. Two loads of Canadian yearlings sold at $15.25 on the Buffalo market with other Canadian steers from $8.50 to $14.

The calf run included 830 western stockers, most of which were sold on the cattle market at current stocker prices. Veal calves started the week at $8.50 for tops but dropped to a general top of $7.50 by the close. Common ranged down to $4. Thin grassers sold at $2.75 to $3.50.

Export inquiry for good calves was keen but the United States market was lower.

Hogs held steady throughout the week at $10.35 to $10.40 for off-truck bacons. A large number of the hogs received on the Toronto market were re-shipped to outside packers. Dressed hogs were quoted on a delivered basis of $13.65 to $13.75 cwt. Buffalo reported best Canadian hogs selling on that market at $12.50 to $13.10.

Good ewe and wether lambs held unchanged at $11.50 while other grades moved between $8 and $10.50. Bucks were sold generally at a $1 discount. Sheep brought $1.50 to $4 cwt with yearlings $5 to $6 cwt.

an official press statement as follows:

"U.T.W.A. Local 2551—At an overflow meeting held tonight, the Bargaining Committee representing the employees of the two mills of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited presented a report of today's negotiations. Minutes of the conference kept by a company official were read to the audience and detailed accounts of actual negotiations by members of the committee were made.

"A lively discussion of the report of the committee followed and the vote on adoption of the report was without dissenting voice. Recommendations of the committee were endorsed and tomorrow the committee will be accompanied by a stenographer to take more detailed notes on what transpires. The services of this stenographer are being donated by G. N. Gordon, K.C.

"The committee was instructed to continue to negotiate a settlement with the company's representatives, and to ask that, if Mr. Barrett is not empowered to conclude a settlement on behalf of the firm, a special meeting of the Board of Directors be held as soon as possible for the purpose of settling terms.

"The company representatives claim that to increase wages would seriously affect their status in the market, but that workers are free to belong to the union and that no discrimination will be practised as a result of the strike.

"A further meeting of both parties takes place tomorrow at 10 a.m.

"A telegram of greeting to 'women strikers and those in the home' to 'stand firm behind the workers' was read from the Women's Auxiliary of the Oshawa Local U.A.W.A.

BLUE MOUNTAIN FELDSPAR USED FOR CERAMICS

Mineral Deposit Rich In Alumina Attracts Glass Manufacturers

SODA CONTENT IS HIGH

Considerable interest has been aroused in the commercial possibilities for ceramic purposes of large bodies of nepheline syenite in Peterborough and Hastings Counties, according to the Canadian Resources Bulletin. The nepheline-bearing rock consists mainly of a mixture of the mineral nepheline—a silicate of alumina, soda and potash—and albite, the soda-rich variety of feldspar, with some potash feldspar. As the rock is higher in alumina than pure feldspar, it is attracting attention as a substitute for the latter in the glass industry.

As its soda content is higher than that of feldspart, less soda ash or sodium sulphate is required, and 1,500 pounds of the syenite will replace one ton of feldspar in glass batches.

The rock contains small but objectionable amounts of iron-bearing minerals, principally magnetite and biotite and muscovite mica, and requires treatment before it is suitable for ceramic uses. It has been found that crushing, followed by magnetic separation, delivers a product sufficiently low in iron to be entirely acceptable to the ceramic industry. Tests made on the cleaned product have shown that it possesses highly desirable properties for many ceramic uses.

In 1935 the Canadian Nepheline, Ltd., was incorporated to acquire a large deposit of the syenite rock in Ontario and the company has erected a small grinding and cleaning plant at Lakefield. The plant, which was in the nature of a demonstration unit, has a capacity of about twenty-five tons of finished product a day and has been in steady operation since early in 1936. It has proved successful in the grade of product, and the company has found a ready sale for its entire output, with demand greatly in excess of present capacity, the bulletin says.

The success attending the development has resulted in considerable prospecting by other interests of further known nepheline-bearing areas in the same region.

DRUNKEN DRIVER IS GIVEN 10 DAYS

Havelock Man Asks For a Fine But Is Given Term In Jail

Pleading guilty before Magistrate Langley at police court this morning of having been drunk in charge of a car B. Ellis of Havelock was sentenced to ten days in jail.

Asked as to whether he had anything to say Ellis asked the court to be as lenient with him as possible. "Can you not make it a fine?" he suggested.

Magistrate Langley replied that he did not propose to let the accused off with a fine, even if the Crown were to ask such a thing and he was sure that it would not.

"I May Recover – But I Haven't Yet" Judge Says Of Speech Repercussions

LONDON, Ont., July 16.—Such were the explosions and echoes when Judge Joseph Wearing of London spoke in Toronto of power contracts and Government action that his Honor sought sanctuary in the United States.

The Judge disclosed this here today when he appeared before the Police Association of Ontario in convention, scheduled to speak on "The Relations Between Municipal Councils and Police Departments."

"I'm not going to give an address," he said right away, "for I haven't yet recovered from that address in Toronto on June 30."

He recalled how he had gone down to the Kiwanis Club and, finding that the speaker from Quebec was not there, "filled in the breach."

"And," he thought, "I gave a good, patriotic speech, fitting for Dominion Day."

But then, he said "the explosions followed," and he figured that he would have "a good many grey hairs as a result of that experience," for he felt that he was the victim of misrepresentation, and it was "a terrific experience" for a man in public life.

"A paragraph or two was lifted out of the address and highlighted with a false heading," he explained, "and it gave a wholly different impression than was intended, and a wholly different impression than that given those who heard me.

"Why, last week," he declared, "I went to the United States for a few days, for one reason only—just to pick up a newspaper so I couldn't see my name there. I'm really not seriously hurt," he added, "but for the present I've lost all zest I may have had for public speaking. I may recover—but I haven't yet."

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, July 17

A day of unusual excitement, flurry and commotion is the augury based on very important planetary configurations. These have powerful influence in unsettling the affairs with decisiveness and abruptness, but possibly of basic importance is reorganizing the life into more progressive and prosperous channels. Much initiative, enterprise, hazard and hard work loom, with elders officiating in some way to stabilize the affairs and promote the fortunes.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of much sudden excitement, turmoil and commotion, with radical readjustments of the plans and activities to new brackets of progress and prosperity. Change and adventure of particular importance are involved in this reorientation of the life and its fortunes in which elders, strangers and writings have prime influence.

A child born on this day may be enterprising, adventurous, bold and courageous, with much creative ability and originality, which may take it far afield and land it in a conspicuous place, possibly through hazards and dangers.

RAIN HAS AIDED PASTURE FIELDS CROPS ARE GOOD

Turnips, Mangolds And Corn Have Taken On a New Vigor

EVERYTHING PROMISING

Fall wheat is in the stook on the Roberts farm east of Little Lake; grain crops in the townships around the city have escaped serious damage from wind; pasture fields are recovering from the recent heat as a result of this week's rains; turnips, mangolds and corn have taken on a new vigor and sturdiness, and generally the countryside presents a highly promising appearance as harvesting operations broaden out.

The flow of milk ten days ago had begun to diminish, and one dairy report indicated an actual insufficiency. Improvement in the receipts at cheese factories during the last few days is a direct result of the heavy rains that have fallen throughout the county, giving pasturage a timely renewal of growth and freshness.

A Hastings man in the city this morning reported a considerable area of oats more or less flattened or tangled along the road north from the village to Norwood.

CAFE PROPRIETOR IN COURT ACTION

Joseph Dean Charged With Causing Employee To Work Later Than Regulations

A charge under the Factory Shop and Office Building Act against Joseph Dean, proprietor of Dean's Cafe of having caused an employee Viola De Carlo to work later than the regulations provided was heard before Magistrate Langley this morning and after the evidence and argument had been submitted judgment was reserved for a week.

George L. Penwick, provincial inspector under the Act testified that on the night of July 3 he had visited Dean's Cafe about 12.20 daylight saving time and had seen Miss De Carlo behind the counter and taking the tops off soft drink bottles which she served to customers. Later he saw her carrying trays of dishes out into the kitchen. Dean had told him that the girl's wages were $8 a week and that he kept no record of the hours of his employees.

Constable P. J. Sexsmith of the Peterborough police department who had accompanied the inspector on his visit corroborated his testimony.

For the defence Miss De Carlo stated that on the night in question she had remained at the cafe waiting for some one to take her home because she was afraid to go alone. The inspector might have seen her take the top off a bottle of soft drink for herself, she said. Her time to stop work was 11 o'clock but on some occasions she had remained later for the reason that she did not care to go home by herself.

Joseph Dean, proprietor of the restaurant said that the girl's hours ended at 11 o'clock but that some times she was there after that hour, waiting for an escort home. He had seen her leave accompanied by some one on a number of occasions.

Magistrate Langley reserved judgment until July 23. Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., appeared for Dean and F. D. Kerr, K.C. acting Crown Attorney prosecuted.

HAIR PALE BLUE OR MAY BE MAUVE

Visitor To Paris Startled At First By New Coiffure

BELFAST, July 16 (C.P.)— This year's visitor to Paris is struck by the amusing things Frenchwomen have done to their hair, says a writer in the Northern Whig and Belfast Post.

"Grey Hair is often dyed pale blue or mauve. As soon as the first shock is over the onlooker realizes it is far more becoming to the face than duck-yellow or red hair, and there is no pretence about it. With a black hat it sometimes is charming, but the courage of the first woman who had the audacity to adopt it must be admired."

Three-quarters of the Frenchwomen have allowed their hair to grow sufficiently long to make a half-penny bun, or a horse-shoe, or a flat snail-shell of a curl at the back of the head, says the observant North of Irelander in Paris.

"All hair is flat and looks sculptured. If it is short it is smoothed down at the back and the ends are waxed into a small tight roll. On the forehead it is waxed to stand up like stone curls, and the skullcap of a hat fits neatly on the head. No fluff allowed anywhere; no ends, no tendrils; only 'sculptured' curls or large polished waves.

"The horse-shoe fashion is very attractive. The two ends point upwards, the thick centre rests on the nape of the neck, and it looks as if the hair were wound round a flexible wire ribbon and twisted into shape. Hats worn with this style are small boats, perched on the nose, so to speak. The halfpenny bun is worn anywhere—on the neck, under the upturned brim of the hat, at the back of the head, or over one ear."

An "Electrical" Welcome

Rev. Dr. C. V. McLean, formerly of Peterborough, who took over his new pastorate of Dundas Centre United Church two weeks ago, expressed thankfulness that services were not being conducted at his church on Sunday morning when lightning struck the steeple, showering the street below with broken slates from the steeple roof. For a number of years the congregations of Dundas Centre and St. Andrew's United Church have been holding joint services during the summer months. Sunday morning the service was held in St. Andrew's Church. In the above photo taken a few minutes after lightning struck the church steeple, Fire Chief Charles Scott (left), is advising Dr. McLean, at the right, that not every new minister in the city receives a shower of fireworks as a welcome.

HOW TO LEARN TO SWIM.

CLIP OUT AND SAVE.

LESSON EIGHT

Life Saving — Introduction

Every Monday morning paper in the summer months contains enough reasons why Life Saving Classes and methods should be emphasized. Every Non-Swimmer is a liability to the community, whereas a Life Saver is a decided asset.

The best way to save life is to take every precaution to prevent accidents. Before anyone is allowed to dive or swim in a lake or river, a careful survey should be made of the bottom to ascertain the depth, possible dangerous holes, rocks, sunken piers, timbers, glass, etc. If you cannot swim do not jump in after a drowning person; you can better aid him by summoning help and throwing him a rope or some object that will float. Very often a would-be-rescuer has drowned while the one he has tried to help has been rescued by a third party.

In case of emergency where an actual rescue must be made, some authorities maintain that it is a waste of time to remove any portion of the clothing, but it seems quite evident that if while running to the water's edge a man can divest himself of coat, throusers and shoes, he is in a much better condition to do the work confronting him. In no event should a man remove only his coat if he has no vest on and wears suspenders, as the latter will cause trouble by slipping off and allowing the trousers to slide part way down, perhaps just when the rescuer needs absolute freedom of movement of the legs.

In going after an individual who has disappeared below the surface of the water, do not wait until he has reappeared, for he may stay down; therefore make a surface dive for him at once. It is a common but false notion that drowning people come up to the surface three times before they stay down. They may not reappear, or they may come up a dozen times depending on the amount of air in the lungs.

If you find it difficult to get down to any depth, carry a weight in one arm. To get hold of a body it is sometimes advisable to use grappling hooks or a weighted garden rake.

A rescuer must always keep cool and use his best judgment as to which method to adopt in conveying the subject to shore. Care must be taken to avoid wasting one's strength against a current. It is best to swim with the current or wait until a boat or other aid arrives. It is of utmost importance to keep the nose and mouth of the subject above water but do not carry him too high as this adds to the burden of towing.

KIWANIANS HEAR COL. R. I. MOORE WEEKLY LUNCHEON

Responsibility of Personal Service Basic Quality Of Kiwanis Membership

KARNIVAL SEPT. 16-17

Each member of the Kiwanis Club was reminded by A. B. Gates at today's luncheon of the obligation of selling one hundred books of tickets for the drawing of an automobile at the Club's "Karnival" at the armouries September 16 and 17. The car will be displayed on Peterborough streets Saturday, and to the person selling the winning ticket a prize of $25 is awarded.

The responsibility of personal service as a basic quality of Kiwanis membership was mentioned by Col. R. I. Moore of Lindsay, Lieutenant-Governor of the southern division of the Kiwanis Clubs of Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes as one of the featured subjects at the international convention last month in Indianapolis. As today's luncheon guest Col. Moore congratulated Peterborough Kiwanis on their achievements, and urged members to attend the district convention in Hamilton next month. Dr. C. B. Waite and W. A. Richardson were appointed delegates with Cliff Hall and D. J. Fitzgerald alternates.

Col. Moore emphasized the fact that international Kiwanis had elected a Canadian as president, although only eighty-seven delegates attended, representing more than 6,000 Canadian Kiwanians. This was the first time the honor had been paid to Canada in fifteen years.

An interesting incident of his visit to Indianapolis Col. Moore said, was to find white marble from Bancroft surrounding the tomb of an unknown soldier in the $15,000,000 war memorial building erected in the capital city of Indiana. The fact that the marble had come from a neighboring county created a feeling, Col. Moore remarked, that after all he wasn't so far from his own district of Central Ontario.

OUSTER IS FACING GYPSUM DIRECTORS

Outcome Of Vote To Eliminate Col. Cockshutt And Board Known Thursday

PARIS, Ont., July 16.— (CP) — Shareholders of Gypsum, Lime and Albastine, Canada, Limited, must wait until next Thursday to know the result of an ouster movement against Chairman Col. Henry Cockshutt and his board of directors.

A resolution calling for the board's removal was voted upon at a shareholders' meeting here yesterday. It was moved by C. E. Silcox, Toronto, and Ernest W. Kay, Hamilton. Col. Cockshutt and other directors took no part in the discussion during which their record was under fire.

Mr. Silcox said his family had been connected with the company for 40 years and expressed dissatisfaction with the present directorate's policy. Another shareholder, Frank Beggs, Dundas, declared if changes were not made "we shareholders will be papering our homes with the shares."

Mr. Kay thought the company was seeking big orders, but letting small ones go. He said he had lost faith in the present directors. While the legality of the ballot was questioned, Col. Cockshutt, as chairman, announced it would be accepted.

FIVE ARRESTED COBOURG POLICE

Dismissed on Vagrancy Charge And Later Re-arrested For Cobourg Authorities

Arrested at the outskirts of Peterborough on Tuesday after information had been received from Bewdley of an attempted theft of gasoline and remanded until today on a vagrancy charge, a quintette consisting of John Davis, H. Disell, W. M. McConnell, Harry Delaney and Gordon Smith appeared before Magistrate Langley at police court this morning.

In each case the Crown announced that no evidence would be offered and the magistrate accordingly dismissed the vagrancy charge.

The look of relief on the faces of the five disappeared however when they were immediately re-arrested as they left the courtroom on a warrant from Cobourg charging them with the attempted theft of gasoline from Mrs. J. R. Cooper of Bewdley. They will be taken to Cobourg this afternoon to face trial in this charge.

HAD BROKEN NECK FOR THREE YEARS

But Virginian Unknowingly Got Away With It Until Doctor Came

PARSONS, W. Va., July 16 (CP)— Medical science disclosed to W. D. Close, of St. George, that he had a broken neck for three years. So Close went to bed to wait for his neck to mend, as it will, the doctors say.

Dr. Samuel Weisman, of the Parsons Clinic, said X-ray photographs showed four broken vertebrae. Close was in an automobile accident three years ago. His neck remained stiff and both thumbs, two toes and an arm became numb, but the 42-year-old man continued to do odd jbs.

"He complained of pains in his neck and heard cracking sounds," the doctor said. "When we saw the X-ray, we say the back and put it in a cast."

W. F. JOHNSTON DIES IN CITY 75 YEARS OLD

Practised Law In City Of Peterborough For Great Many Years

KEEN STUDENT OF LAW

The legal fraternity and his many friends in other walks of life today mourned the death of William Francis Johnston who passed away at Nicholls Hospital at the age of 75 years.

A son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Johnston, he was born at Bombay, India, where his father was in the government service. He received his early education in the country of his birth and later attended Cobourg Collegiate Institute.

Deciding on law as his career, Mr. Johnston was articled to the Hon. Sydney Smith, Q.C. (former Postmaster General of Canada) at Cobourg. Subsequently he graduated from Osgoode Hall Toronto being gold medallist in his class.

He practised in Peterborough as a partner of the late A. P. Pousette, K.C., and later as a member of the law firm of Dumble and Johnston, the senior member of the firm being his father-in-law the late D. W. Dumble, K.C. (one time Police Magistrate here).

Paying tribute to the late Mr. Johnston whom he had known for a great number of years, F. D. Kerr, K.C., one of the senior members of Peterborough Law Association, stated:

"Mr. Johnston was recognized by all lawyers as a man of wide legal knowledge and sound judgment and had few equals as a lawyer in connection with real estate matters and commercial law."

At the time of his death he held the chairmanship of the Court of Revision. He was first appointed to that body on August 23, 1909, and had been chairman for the past twenty-one years.

Orillia Folk See Things In Channel; Sea Serpent Is Their Best Guess

ORILLIA, July 16 (CP).—Orillia and Atherley residents have their own sea-serpent to talk about. They call it "The Sea-Serpent Whistle."

Mrs. Lorne Tudhope and Mrs. Douglas Lough, sisters, with their father, W. F. Hayes of Toronto, saw the creature as dusk was falling last Sunday night. It was swimming in mid-channel of the narrows connecting link between Lakes Simcoe and Couchichiching.

The sea-serpent was heading toward Washago, believed its home territory, according to Mr. Hayes and the two women. They were standing on the roof of their cottage when they saw the fast-moving object in the channel.

"At first we thought it might have been a dog or some other animal," said Mrs. Tudhope. "But it had no head. It couldn't have been a pair of loons, for it was going much too fast for that, and besides it was a great deal too big."

She said the sea-serpent, or whatever it was," was a long shimmering, eel-like creature.

"It may have been a huge fish, but at any rate it was swimming toward the bridge, half out of water," she added.

Inquiries revealed a seagull was seen about the same time struggling for its life against something trying to drag it under the water.

SPIRIT OF ANCIENT EGYPTIAN DISCOVERED IN GIRL ATHLETE

Experts in Psycho-Research Find Blackpool Medium True Reincarnation

HIDE HER IDENTITY

Blackpool.—Rosemary, blonde, 25-year-old Blackpool sports girl, is claimed to be a reincarnation of an Egyptian of high birth, who lived 1,000 years before Christ.

But only a few people know her identity, and they are all sworn to secrecy.

Dr. F. H. Wood, church organist, student of psycho-research, and A. J. Howard Hulme, Ovingdean, near Brighton, have written a book "Ancient Egypt Speaks," in which they claim that this Blackpool medium was a maid of honor to an Egyptian princess, and that she has reached back through the spirit world and has often spoke to her former mistress.

Found Authentic

Dr. Wood said "I will not divulge her name under any circumstances. We are convinced she is a re-incarnation.

"We have checked all she has said when in touch with the spirit world and her phrases have been examined by Egyptologists. In each case they have been found to be authentic.

"We have been able to supply hither unknown vowels of this dead language. Rosemary has helped to revive the spoken language of ancient Egypt. This is the greatest instance of immortality that has yet been used in evidential form."

SOS FOR CLERGYMAN IS WEDDING ROUTINE

Rectorless Parish Depends on Grocer to Secure Needed Churchman

Dorchester.—Whenever a couple want to marry in the village of Frampton, near Dorchester, the village grocer sends out an S O S for a clergyman.

For, though Frampton has about 270 inhabitants, it has had no vicar for six months, and the grocer, A. S. R. Gray, has to run all parish affairs.

Mr. Gray knows the trouble. "The stipend is only £290 ($1,450), and the vicarage includes a large house and two acres of land. Clergymen will not take the living," he said yesterday. "They say they cannot afford to do so."

The villagers are to protest to the Archbishop of Canterbury. They complain that there is no one to visit the sick or bereaved. Church attendances are dwindling and the children have no Sunday school.

All this year a retired clergyman, the Rev. E. Jones, has travelled 15 miles from Weymouth every Sunday to conduct services in the 14th century church.

RETIRING FROM NAVY HORSE GIVEN HONORS

"Bobbie" Served 20 Years at Devonport Royal Naval Barracks

Devonport.—With full ceremonial honors usually accorded an officer when he leaves a warship, a horse retired from the British navy.

Bobbie has been for 20 years serving at the Royal naval barracks, and 500 ratings lined the pathway from his stable to the gate when he left.

He was preceded by the sailors' band playing "Boys of the Old Brigade," and the guard presented arms and boatswains' pipes shrilled their farewell.

He left in a horse-box for Dawlish, where a local resident will care for him.

His successor, Betty, arrived just before he departed, carrying two attache cases, significant of the re-cent change in naval equipment—the substitution of attache cases for ditty boxes.

'MILD USE OF BIRCH' ADVISED FOR PUPILS

Only Punishment for Some, But Care Urged by Speaker

Leeds—Mild use of the birch for some boys was advocated by Chairman G. E. Cooke-Yarborough, at the opening of west riding quarter sessions here.

Referring to the "deplorable increase in juvenile crime," he said: "It seems to me that in a great many cases the only punishment appropriate for some of the boys is a mild dose of the birch.

"It is no use imposing a small fine on parents, nor does binding over seem to have had any effect, because they come again and again to be bound over.

"In applying the remedy of the birch—if it is a remedy — magistrates have to be very careful as to the kind of boy they are dealing with. For some boys, I think, it is the only punishment, but there are a great many boys to whom corporal punishment of this type would do more harm than good."

INVALID'S EVIDENCE HELPS CONVICT MAN

Croydon.—The bedroom of Mrs. M. Crozier, in Rymer Rd., Croydon, became a police court temporarily.

Sitting in her arm chair George Hodgsden, aged twenty-nine, of Elmwood Rd., heard her give evidence against him while propped up by pillows. She has been bedridden for fourteen years.

Mrs. Crozier said she saw through her window the occupants of the house opposite leave. A little later, a man knocked twice at the door, then entered. He left ten minutes later. She was quite sure Hodgsden was the man.

Hodgsden was committed for trial, charged with stealing money and a gold ring.

PAGAN SHRINE FOUND DURING EXCAVATIONS

Richly Designed Tesselated Pavement in Several Colors Is Discovered

London.—A Pagan shrine, at which a wealthy Roman citizen and his family probably worshipped over 1,500 years ago, has been unearthed during excavation at Colliton park (Dorset), on the site of the proposed new county offices.

Coins and women's ornaments have been found within the walls, and recently a richly-designed tesselated pavement in several colors was discovered.

So far only one corner of the pavement has been laid bare. As this extends about 20 square feet, the pavement may prove to be one of the finest examples yet found in England.

Excavation showed that it was 360 feet in length. The discoveries included a bath house well preserved.

The villa had a cold shower bath with a lead pipe.

It is believed that the building is probably the mysterious Villa Faustini mentioned in Roman itineraries as being 35 miles from Colchester.

MAN MUST DECIDE BETWEEN WIFE, DOG

Married only three years, William Frank James, lorry-driver, of Rylston Rd., Fulham, S.W., must decide which he prefers—his wife or his dog.

Mrs. James, seeking a separation order at West London police court, said her husband spent all his money at dog races. She had to supply him with money for his fares and to buy cigarettes.

They had quarrelled over a greyhound he owned, which cost him 10s ($2.50) a week to keep; and he had struck her.

CONSTABLE FORGIE ENTITLED TO AN M.A.

Glasgow.—Police Constable Forgie, of the southern division, added M.A. to his name recently, and several of his colleagues in the Glasgow force decided to concentrate still more on their university degree studies.

With probably one of the best educated forces in the British Isles, Chief Constable Sillitoe encourages every young officer to study in his spare time.

ROYAL ARCHERS GREET THEIR MAJESTIES ON EDINBURGH VISIT

Long bows were polished and arrows refeathered when the royal family paid a state visit to Scotland at the beginning of the month. Chief among the ceremonies held was the review of the Royal Company of Archers, who are the King's bodyguard there. After receiving the silver keys to Edinburgh, their majesties went to Holyrood palace, where Lord Elphinstone presented the King with the "Reddendo," a gift of three barbed arrows on a green and gold cushion, which archers give the King by terms of an ancient charter. On the lawns of the palace, where the ceremony took place, the King and Queen chatted with officers of the company and civic officials while Princess Margaret Rose, apparently tired of standing on one leg, and Princess Elizabeth listened to Lord Elphinstone's stories.

GOES THROUGH RAIL TO FALL 200 FEET

Three Women Fight to Save Fourth From Death

Bristol.—Three women fought on the cliff edge above Avon gorge to save a fourth from death. But they saw her fall 200 feet to her doom.

Miss Mary Wills of Clifton, and Mrs. Doris Cohen of St. Michaels, Bristol, saw a woman go through the railings at the top of the cliffs near the suspension bridge.

They called to another passer-by, Miss M. Blythe of Ipswich, who is on holiday in Bristol, and all three made a desperate effort to save her.

"The woman was already halfway down a little slope at the top of the sheer drop when we ran to the railings," said Miss Blythe. "She was holding on to the trunk of a tree, and Miss Wills talked to her while I tried to catch hold of her clothing. I could not reach her, so I cried 'Come back, come back.'

"Then suddenly she disappeared over the edge."

The woman's body was found on a ledge 40 feet from the foot of the cliffs. She was identified as Mrs. Emma Trout, aged 77, of Dover place, Clifton.

'LOCH NESS MONSTER' IS THOUGHT PARENT

Fort Augustus—The "Loch Ness Monster" is a father (or mother), according to two boys of the Fort Augustus Abbey college, close by the loch.

Dom Basil Wedge, natural history master at the college, told that the boys, named Smith and Considine, saw a creature, "not more than a yard long, moving along on the surface with an undulating movement."

"The boys, who have a good knowledge of fish and birds, say that its head resembled that of a giant lizard, and it had a rather arched back. I am convinced that there are monsters in the loch, and I see no reasgn why they should not have offspring."

SOCIAL CREDITERS WEAR GREEN SHIRTS

Luton, Eng.—Three members of the Social Credit party of Great Britain and Northern Ireland were charged with wearing political uniforms at an open air meeting here but the magistrates dismissed the case.

There had been one previous prosecution under the public order act at Leeds in January, when a man was fined about $10 for wearing a black shirt, black tie, a black leather motor coat and a black cap, signifying his association with the fascists.

BLACK-SPOTTED LEOPARD BRINGS DEATH TO KEEPER

Desperate Struggle Fails to Save "Fearless Man" From Sleek Cat

LOCKED DOOR FATAL

Liverpool.—After a desperate struggle with a powerful, sleek, black-spotted leopard, John Ashworth, its keeper and friend, was killed before attendants could drive the animal to another compartment, where its companion, Satan, lay asleep.

Mr. Ashworth, a single man, aged 35, of Island Rd., Garston, had nursed Death and Satan from birth two years ago through illnesses and minor accidents, becoming known as "The Fearless Man" for the way he handled the animals.

He used to tell friends that they were his pet cats.

He had driven Death and Satan into one of two compartments in the cage and slipped the safety sliding door into position before unlocking the iron entrance door, to go into the empty section to clean it.

He signed his own death warrant, however, by re-locking the entrance door when inside and slipping the key into his pocket.

As he turned to attract Satan's attention Death leaped across his shoulders and embedded his teeth into his neck, flung him to the floor, and dragged him into a corner of the cage.

An attendant who heard Mr. Ashworth's cries, knew that the cage was locked and summoned help.

BEAR BITES PIECE FROM KEEPER'S LEG

Dudley.—Richard Kerwood, a keeper, of Dudley, had a remarkable escape when he was attacked by a female Malayan bear which got out of Dudley zoo and was at large in the town for four hours.

The bear fastened her teeth in Kerwood's foot and dragged him down and then bit a piece out of his leg.

Eventually, after a chase, E. Hatch, the head keeper, knocked her senseless with a blow from an iron bar.

DOG SWIMS EIGHT MILES

Crikvanica, Jugoslavia—A dog's attachment to his master impelled Vuki, a wolfhound, to swim eight miles through rough water from the island Krk to this town where he headed straight for his owner's home.

'NO MORE CIRCUS LIFE' CRY RUNAWAY GIRLS

Two Girls Found by Mothers Posing as African Beauties

London—Ethel Evans and Doris Wilson are friends, each 16 years old. Ethel lives in Balvernie Gr., Earlsfield; Doris in Battersea. They vanished. After 10 days they were home again, subdued but happy.

Their worried mothers learned they had joined a circus, were at Hitchin, Herts.

The two mothers jumped into a car and drove to Hitchin. But the circus had moved on.

Then the police told them the circus would be at Newcastle-on-Tyne. The mothers took train to Newcastle.

They found Ethel and Doris in a side show—"Bride of Frankenstein." They were painted brown all over, and wearing straw skirts. For the benefit of the public they were African beauties.

Said Ethel: "I cried when I saw mother. I'll never run away again.

"We didn't really like it, but we were too proud to come home, I suppose."

Said Doris, simply: "No more circus life for me."

TYPING SLIP CAUSES LITIGATION OF WILL

Lawyer Leaves Will With Many Mistakes and No Date

London—A lawyer borrowed his clerk's typewriter to type out his own will—and the result was litigation in the chancery division.

Mr. Justice Luxmoore was asked to construe the undated will of John Clement Carpenter Gatley, an authority on the law of libel and slander, who died in 1936.

Charles Russell, who appeared for the executor of the will, said Mr. Gatley left his residuary estate to his son, "Clement Mervyn Gatley, and his daughters Meraud Janice Gatley," in equal shares.

In fact there were three daughters, and the question was whether two who were "infants" and were not named in the will, were excluded from the gift.

Charles Harman, K.C., who represented the son and daughter named, argued that the addition of the letter "s" to "daughter" was due to a typing slip.

Mr. Harman said Mr. Gatley left his will undated, which was a curious omission. He mis-spelt his son's name by putting two v's in Mervyn and he described his daughter as Meraud Janice Gatley although he knew her married name was Mason.

Mr. Justice Luxmoore held that the gift failed for "uncertainty" and said the residuary estate would be disposed of as an intestacy.

WOMAN IS AWARDED DAMAGES FOR ATTACK

Court Holds Lunatic Should Not Have Been Released

Liverpool.—A jury at Liverpool assizes awarded damages of £3,500 ($17,500) to Mrs. Bertha Holgate of Lytham St. Anne's, Lancashire, for injuries received when she was attacked by a man released on license from Calderstones mental institution, near Blackburn.

Her husband, William Holgate, was awarded £708 ($3,500).

Their case was that the man was a dangerous lunatic and should not have been released.

The jury found that all the defendants, Lancashire mental hospitals board, Dr. Frank Gill, superintendent of Calderstones institution, and Dr. Guy Robertson, deputy superintendent, had been negligent.

The defence was that the man's condition had improved and that Dr. Roberson, who signed the license, acted on an honest belief, which was not negligence.

Mr. Justice Lewis, summing up, referred to a statement that Mrs. Holgate was now in "a twitter" of nerves, and said: "Some years ago people used to talk scoffingly about people with nerves, but nerves are a very real illness."

TALL MEN TELLS TALL STORY TO TALL CADI

Long Magistrate Sympathizes With Man Who Bumped Head

London.—Claud Mullins, one of the tallest of the London magistrates, had a good deal of sympathy with 6ft. 3in. James Britton of Battersea, S.W., who came before him at the southwestern police court.

Britton was charged with damaging a show case in a shop.

He told Mr. Mullins that he was walking along Northcote Rd., Battersea, when he bumped his head on a shop blind. The blow felled him.

"I have done the same thing before," he said. "I went into the shop to mention the matter to the woman, but I have no clear recollection of what happened after."

Mr. Mullins—I have a good deal of sympathy with you. You are about the same height as I am, and I have also hit my head on these blinds. It is very difficult to walk from here to Clapham Junction without doing so. It is clear that you had a grievance but you went the wrong way about righting it. Fined 5s.

BOXER COMMITTED FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Bootle, Lancs. — Gerald Gerard Fook, aged 23, a professional boxer, of Upper Hill St., Liverpool, was committed for trial at Manchester assizes, charged with the manslaughter of Joseph Kehoe, aged 24, a joiner's laborer, of Bootle, who died following a contest with Fook at a booth at Bootle.

Fook, who pleaded not guilty, was granted bail.

Len Johnson, the former middleweight boxer, said he refereed the contest, in which eight-ounce gloves were used.

SEEKING TO RECOVER MONEY CONVICT SURRENDERS SELF

(1) To flee to Paris;

(2) To leave the fortune he had amassed, £10,000 ($50,000) behind;

(3) To reveal himself to-day, in order to claim the fortune, as a convict who escaped from Devil's Island 15 years ago.

Under an assumed name he had established himself as an honorable business man in Bilbao. When compelled to board a refugee ship a few days before the fall of the Basque capital he placed all his fortune in a safe in the French consulate.

Hearing, in France, that the consulate had been ransacked and his entire fortune stolen, he gave himself up to the police in order to claim from the French government repayment of his fortune, for which he had a duly signed receipt.

When he escaped with seven other convicts from Devil's Island he had one more year of his sentence to serve.

He landed on the coast of Venezuela, went to Canada, where he made some money, moved to Spain, started a successful export business at Bilbao, and became a leading figure in the French colony.

"I am giving myself up," he said to a police official, "with a view to obtaining both a pardon and the refunding of my fortune."

MANY FOREIGNERS RESIDE IN BERLIN

Visitors Without Definite Nationality Worry Police

Berlin.—Every 40th inhabitant of Berlin is a foreigner. Of these every fifth is a Pole and only every 43rd an Englishman. Americans number one in 46 foreigners, according to the latest statistics of metropolitan police.

At the end of 1936, 103,154 foreign nationals had their permanent home in Berlin. In addition, 15,659 came to the Reich's capital as visitors during May last. Of these, much to the distress of local police, 120 possessed no definite nationality.

STREAM DISAPPEARS AS CANOEISTS PADDLE

Once Suddenly Rose Six Feet Curtailing Sail

Dalgety, Australia. — Arthur L. Hunt and Stanley Hanson, completed their canoe trip down the Snowy river to Marlo, Victoria, leaving behind them here the tale of a stream that rose six feet in a few minutes and at times disappeared completely underground.

They said at several points the river ran underground for more than 50 yards. Once a quick rise of water forced them to haul their small craft high on the river bank and wait several days before proceeding here.

PICTURE OF HITLER ON GERMAN STAMPS

Berlin.—For the first time since he came to power, Adolf Hitler has permited stamps to be issued with his picture, showing the Fuehrer's right half of his face in semi-profile. The stamps are issued in celebration of Hitler's 46th birthday.

The stamps can only be bought as a bloc of four six-pfennig stamps on a white sheet of paper of the size of a postal card. The card bears the inscription: "Who wants to rescue a nation, can only think in heroic terms." It is a quotation from one of Hitler's speeches.

The bloc is sold at one mark a piece, meaning that beyond the value of four times six or 24 pfennigs purchasers are charged one pfennig for extra costs of the card and another 75 pfennigs for "cultural funds."

The stamp is expected to attract a lot of interest in philatelist circles, and the post-office hopes to make a bit of money from the sale of the welfare stamps.

Dr. Dietrich, press chief of the National-Socialist party and one of the closest advisers and companions of the Fuehrer, explained to the public that Hitler gave permission to use his picture on stamps only because of the "national-political purpose" of the issue.

DEFEND FOOD SUPPLY BABOONS FIGHT PEST

Parasite Was Introduced by S.A. Farmers to Check Prickly Pear

Capetown, S.A.—Baboons in the Cape midlands are rallying to the defence of the prickly pear, which the government had hoped to eradicate by the introduction of the parasite, "cactoblastis cactorum".

"Cactoblastis" lays its eggs on the succulent leaves and, when the grubs hatch out they feed on the leaves. Already the parasite was making headway against the prickly pear, which has been spreading alarmingly, and the farmers of Graaf Reinet and other districts were confident that their sterilized lands would be reclaimed.

The baboons, however, who feed on the prickly pear fruit in summer, have taken a hand. They have discovered the parasite, and throng the infected areas in troops, breaking open the leaves and eating the grubs. Since the baboons are also killing lambs, the farmers are organizing to exterminate them.

SEE LARGEST SMOKE REQUIRING 610 HOURS

Berlin.—The largest cigar in the world is to be seen at the cigar museum which has been established in the small town of Buende in Westphalia, where some 3,000,000 cigars are manufactured every year. This "world's greatest cigar" is nearly two yards in length and nearly 28 inches in circumference. Anyone who smoked at it an hour a days would take a year and 245 days before the cigar could be finished.

SWIMS FOR 6 HOURS IN SEA AFTER TUMBLE FROM LINER

IN OSTEND HOSPITAL

Ostend—After being in the North Sea for several hours, a London man who fell from a steamer bound on night service from Ostend to Dover, was picked up by a sister steamer and taken to hospital here.

He is Frederick Ernest Michaelis of Callow St., Chelsea, S.W. It was stated at the hospital that his condition was not serious.

The accident occurred late at night when Mr. Michaelis was a passenger in the Josephine Charlotte, a Belgian steamer, which left Ostend at 6 p.m. for Dover. No one saw Mr. Michaelis fall into the sea and the steamer continued its crossing.

Mr. Michaelis continued swimming for several hours in the darkness before he was sighted by the look-out man aboard a sister ship, the Queen Astrid, which had left Dover for Ostend at 1 a.m.

A lifeboat was launched and Mr. Michaelis was picked up and taken aboard the Queen Astrid, which arrived at Ostend at 5 a.m.

CHAUTEMPS REFUSES POSTS FOR WOMEN

Won't Keep Blum-Appointed Cabinet Members

Paris.—French feminist circles are in an uproar. Premier Camille Chautemps refused to have any women in his cabinet.

Madame Louise Weiss, French feminist leader, protested strongly and requested him to at least keep the three women under-secretaries of the Blum government in their positions. But Premier Chautemps was adamant.

Now Madame Irene Joliot-Curie has returned to her laboratory but Madame Leon Brunschvigg, former under-secretary for national education, and Mlle. Suzanne Lacore, former under-secretary for child protection, are out of jobs.

BELLEVILLE MAN FACES 2 CHARGES

Robert Gibson Arrested Following Two Crashes On Highway Near Odessa

KINGSTON, July 16.—Robert Gibson, Moira Street, Belleville, was arrested late yesterday by City Traffic Officer Gerald Downs, and will face charges of reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Gibson is alleged by police to have sideswiped a car driven by Edward Bielski of Rossford, O., a quarter of a mile east of Odessa on Highway No. 2 shortly before 4 o'clock Thursday morning.

Gibson is reported to have told Provincial Traffic Officer Percy Downley, who was called to the accident, that after colliding with the other car, he turned around and chased it, but was unable to find it. The United States car, Downley said, did not leave the scene until after 6 o'clock.

As if one accident was not enough, Mr. Bielski, after leaving the scene of the accident, ran into a herd of cows which were crossing the road a short distance from Belleville and caused considerable damage to the front of his car.

Mr. Bielski's wife and Mrs. Mazui and her son, Adam, of Hamilton, who were riding with him, were unhurt. Considerable damage was done to both cars in the accident.

MOTORISTS
Try Courtesy
and See How Others Will Follow

WHEN NEXT you go motoring resolve to "Try Courtesy" every inch of the way and see how much more enjoyable your trip will be and how quickly other drivers will respond to your courtesy. If I could but persuade half of the motorists to "Try Courtesy" I am confident that the other half would follow suit and then we would have established the greatest single factor for safe motoring—courteous driving.

Again I suggest that you "Try Courtesy" the next time you are driving. Try to refrain from "pocketing" your fellow-motorist when he gets into a traffic difficulty. Try to give him some warning of what you intend to do next whether it is to slow down, stop, change direction or overtake him. Try to give him his share of the road so as not to unnerve him by a "close shave." Try to remember to dip or dim your brilliant headlights when you meet him at night so that he will not be "ditched" or drive straight on when he should take a curve. Try to remember that hills, curves and other blind spots are danger spots—keep to your right side of the road when you come to them.

In these and the dozens of other ways, which will occur to you, I sincerely recommend that you "Try Courtesy" every inch of the way.

TOP TOSSERS In the Majors

LEE GRISSOM

Lefty Lee Thomas Grissom, rising young left-handed pitching star of the Cincinnati Reds, may or may not be the fastest pitcher in baseball, but such is the claim of many National leaguers. In fact, some ball observers say he is the fastest southpaw of all time, even surpassing Lefty Grove.

Lee has been priming for the majors for several seasons. The Reds purchased him from Beckley, W.Va., of the Middle Atlantic league as far back as 1934, and he did pitch a couple of games with the Reds that season. However, he was as wild as a goose, and was sent to Fort Worth of the Texas league.

Lee showed plenty of stuff this year in the training camp and he was given plenty of rookie ballyhoo. It looks now as if he's arrived, for he boasts of an impressive record.

Born in Sherman, Tex., in 1912, Lefty Lee is six feet two inches tall and weights 200 pounds. He bats right-handed. He lives in California. Once he pitched two shut-outs in one day. He was one of the National league pitchers in the recent all-star game.

Soccer Notes

The only game scheduled for tomorrow afternoon is a game in Deloro when the Smelters will have the C.G.E. as their guests for the afternoon. Local players please be at the Market no later than two o'clock.

Canada Packers players are having an off day and are all taking in the plant excursion at Cobourg on Saturday. The game last night will not count and will have to be replayed at a later date.

Another soccer player made his debut as an official referee, last night, when George Blowers handled the league game of the C.G.E. and Packers very effectively. George gave many years to soccer and should make an efficient official who has studied the finer points of the code that will be introduced as he officiates. He first made his local appearance in a G.W.V.A. sweater.

The players got the first opportunity of using the new shelter on King Edward Park, last night, and are highly delighted with the new facilities that have been arranged, in fact, it will be more appreciated when visiting clubs are in Peterborough.

Alex Burgess, C.G.E. is the oldest local soccer player still taking an active part in the game and he was in the best of form, last night, against the Packers. He cultivates the close dribbling style that makes nice openings for the forwards and can teach some of the newcomers the effectiveness of positional play.

A game has been scheduled for next Tuesday night. There is no soccer game here on Saturday.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES By Alex Morrison

Number 42

Most golfers think that the most difficult thing about the game is to realize when you are doing the wrong thing. The truth of the matter is this—it is the easiest thing to know. The way of knowing is quite simple.

The most successful swing is one in which your movements are decidedly smooth and deliberate. In other words, in hitting a good shot you take it slow and easy. This is the feeling you have when your club-head travels in the proper arc at the right speed. Naturally you experience a feeling of good timing but the most impressive sensation is that connected with the slowness and ease of your movements. You will always have this feeling when hitting any shot properly.

Now the most simple way in the world of knowing when something is wrong is through the speed at which you move and the amount of effort required to make the various movements. If you find yourself moving in a hurry or using more than the usual amount of strength, you can be sure that you have developed faulty positions or movements.

Haste and effort are warnings clear enough for anyone to heed if he will. Remember, too, that you can pick up plenty of faults by hurrying or forcing your swing.

Keene Softballers Defeat Rangers 4-3

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, July 16. — On Thursday evening Keene defeated Rangers 4-3 in a smart tussle on the former's diamond before a fair crowd. Hunter pitched a fair game for the losers, but he was touched for 12 hits, walking 2, and striking out 1, and his support was fair. Burke in centre for the losers made some neat catches.

Donald McCarthy started for the winners, gave way to Bill Wood in the latter part of the sixth. The former allowed one hit, walked 4 and sent 7 out swinging in six innings. The latter allowed 2 hits, walked 1, struck out 2, in three innings. Both received fair support.

Boyd Renwick and Fred Whalen led the winners with three hits apiece. Watkins, Darwin, and Robinson connected for one hit each, Boyd Rendwick got a double, while Victor Powers hammered out a triple.

The line-ups:

The summary:

SPORTS DAY by DAY

Dirging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

AT NINE TONIGHT, the lacrossers go at it again—weather permitting—under the lights at their new arena. Extra seats have been installed for this exhibition match between Brooklin and the Auburns, so a big crowd of rooters can be handled comfortably. Both teams are smart and a fine gutted-stick game is anticipated. Auburns have yet to taste the bitter brew of defeat but they may get a swallow of it this e'en. At any rate, they don't believe in loafing and, idle this week in their C.O.L.A. schedule, they turned out for stiff workouts and then lined up an exhibition contest for tonight. Personally, we can think of possibly 14,702 things we'd rather do than play this strenuous sport in the hot summer, but it's oke with us to sit back and watch other gents doing it.

* * * * * *

THERE IS PLENTY of color on the Auburns' outfit this season. Red Creighton supplies a lot of it, including his flaming locks and his spectacular dashes down the arena once or twice a game. He is a good goalie, too. We have a rugged, effective defence that is worth watching—and any rival that runs the gauntlet toward our goal is a brave man. He will never be a henpecked hubby, nossuh! Lot of dash up front, too—even if Pete King confines some of his dash to a small circle. The best passer and receiver in Central Ontario, Pete is a heady, tricky player. Naturally he is not as fast as he used to be but still doesn't run all evening in a wash-tub, not by any means. Ira Dundas is another veteran who is still a mighty effective forward.

* * * * * *

IT IS A MISTAKE to start singling out players on a good club, because you just keep on and awn and ohn. The windmill stick-work of the speedy Don Crowe, the ghosting of Mick Magee as he disappears in a maze of sticks, the rocket takeoff of Ned Vitarelli on a long jaunt, the leech-like qualities of Emmett Creighton in hanging onto a check—and so on, and so on. Yeah, there is plenty of color and class on this crew and every player is doing his part in winning games for the club. The officers, too, are young and not afraid to roll up the sleeves and go to work. They deserve plenty of support and they're just liable to bring an Ontario title this way before the next snow storm.

* * * * * *

BALL FANS CAN WANDER over the bridge to Riverside Park tomorrow aft and get a load of the locals doing battle for dear old alma mazuma with Napanee Gibbards. With Russ Kitchen and Lefty Pointer likely to do the hurling, folks can expect a pretty fair fixture. It is liable to develop into a pitchers' duel, if both flingers are going right. With the Petes apparently prepared now to play the ball they are capable of playing, we look for a lot of nifty baseball tomorrow, 'cause the Gerowmen are playing for keeps these days, too, battling for a playoff berth. They can lick other clubs in the circuit but haven't had any luck against the Petes—but maybe the old jinx will be kicked out the cellar window this time.

* * * * * *

THE PETES HAVE BEEN hitting fair lately, not too good but not too ousylay, either. There is nothing seriously wrong with that infield when you start dissecting it. Ash is going good on first, Whatley is as much at home on second as any other spot—except the mound, maybe—Clark is playing fine ball at short, and Calladine is a neat third-sacker. We have a fair outfield, too; good defensively but not too hot with the willow. But aside from Kitchen, our mound staff is the manager's main worry at present. However, that may come along okay shortly now. On paper the Petes look good but they've been below form the first half of the season. If they start to click now, there is no reason why they shouldn't go along fine.

* * * * * *

KINGSTON PONIES were minus three regulars when the GM-men took 'em for a ride the other day. The two Scruttons were absent due to a death in the family and Jimmy Arnell couldn't play. Corkey caught, Goodfellow was on second and Webber in left field. Tommy Foley was with the Oshawa team but didn't see action, and Tip Miller went in at short instead of Osborne. Doc Rowden drove in four runs, three of 'em with a mighty homer. While Biddle allowed but three hits and fanned nine, Tony Paczkowski was nicked for 10 hits as he sent eight back swinging. He gave no walks but Jake issued three. Compeau at short booted three. These teams clash again on Saturday in Oshawa and Jamieson should win this time.

* * * * * *

BOTH LOCAL SOFTBALL struggles were washed out last p.m. by a heavy downpour of rain. At the Bowl, a goodly crowd saw C.G.E. with a 4-3 lead over Cobourg when the fracas was terminated in the third heat. It was shaping up like a win for Freddie Martin's Electrice but you never can sometimes always tell. At Central, Motorists had a 2-0 lead on the Barons when rain halted the fray early in the third inning. Probably the Motorists would have shifted into high gear and copped this one, too. These same two teams play here Monday while Young Petes and Barons meet on Tuesday. In gals' softball tonight, C.G.E. go to Omemee and Keene head for Cobourg. Westclox play in Keene on Monday. Young Petes play Omemee here tonight.

* * * * * *

"WHY ALL THE HOLLERING in Belleville about Trenton Fliers losing a couple of hockey players?" Frank Buckland asks us. He goes on to say that Capt. Carling-Kelly informed him that Des Smith of Wembley Lions and Cholette of the Hull Volants are either at the R.C.A.F. camp now or will be before next hockey season. Yeah, no need of worrying about the Fliers, they'll ice another strong team if they have to enlist puckists from as far west as Winnipeg. Join the Air Force and play hockey! But it is somewhat distant yet—even though puck officials right now are making plans. And even this breeze of ice chatter fails to cool the air much.

Elroy Robinson of the Olympic club, San Francisco, Cal., is seen here flashing over the finish line to set a new world's record for the 880-yard run during the second annual world labor athletic carnival at Randall's Island, New York. His time was 1 minute, 49.6 seconds.

Lacrosse Contest Lined Up Tonight

Brooklin and the Auburns have an exhibition lacrosse match at nine o'clock tonight here. They will play under the lights at the George Street arena, and it should be a fine game. These teams are of strong intermediate "A" calibre, are experienced and in excellent condition. The locals have not lost a game yet this season, generally winning by large scores. Brooklin and Roden A.C. have been battling all season in their Toronto grouping for first place, each team holding that spot at different times. The Brooklin boys will give Auburns a hard fight, one that ought to provide plenty of action for fans here.

Coach Rowan Chute and his team are all set for the scrap, having worked out through the week—being idle in their C.O.L.A. schedule—and they hope to add to their victory string. With such smart players on the lineup as Red Creighton, Don Crowe, Mick Magee, Pete King, Ira Dundas, Ned Vitarelli and the rest, the Auburns have a squad that will be mighty hard to beat this year. They have visions of bringing an Ontario lacrosse championship to Peterborough in 1937. The new seats at the arena are now ready and will provide ample accommodation for a large crowd.

Salmonbellies Head Lacrosse Circuit On The Pacific Coast

New Westminster Club On Strenuous Drive To Regain Mann Cup

AFTER TEN YEARS

VANCOUVER, July 16 (CP).—New Westminster Salmonbellies and Trail held the lead in British Columbia's two senior amateur box lacrosse circuits today as the 1937 season rounded in to the last half stretch.

Salmonbellies, driving toward the Mann Cup last brought westward by them ten years ago, held an eight-point edge over their intra-city rivals, the Adanacs, in the five-team Vancouver-New Westminster Inter-City League.

North Shore Indians, last year's British Columbia champions, who lost in the Canadian final to Orillia Terriers, barely hold their place 10 points behind Adanacs. They are close-pressed by Richmond-Homes, two points back, and the league's youthful newcomers, Burrard Olympics, who trail Indians by four points.

Trail Has 4-Point Lead.

In the West Kootenay circuit, which only this year "grew up" from a junior league, Trail has a four-point lead over the Rossland Redmen. The other team, Nelson Maple Leafs, dog the Redmen, four points back.

Though the schedule is but half completed in both leagues, already the teams have an eye to the provincial final and the Mann Cup series here this year.

In previous years the strong coast winners have had no trouble in crushing all interior challengers, but the interior leaguers are reported considerably strengthened this season and may turn the tables in the British Columbia final which follows their respective best-of-five game league playoffs.

Willie Lamb Leads Field In Ontario Open Golf Play

Alston, McWilliams And Noble Deadlocked With Score Of 69 Each

LEADER LOWERS PAR

ANCASTER, Ont., July 16 (C.P.).—Willie Lamb, Lambton Club professional, Toronto, was assured of a large gallery to-day as he started the second day of the Ontario open golf championship, favorite to win the trophy he captured in 1932. Lamb ended the first 18-hole round yesterday with a 67, two strokes better than the three pros in second place. His score included 15 pars and three birdies in a sensational round.

Bill McWilliams, Toronto St. Andrew's; Dave Noble, Simcoe; and Bobby Alston, Chaudiere, Ottawa, each posted 69 over the west wind-swept course. The four leaders had each beaten the 70 par.

Jack Nash, London, was leading amateur with 71. Ross (Sandy) Somerville, London, whose Ontario amateur title this year gives him a place on the Ontario team for the Willingdon Cup matches, carded a 74.

Prize money for the tourney was increased this year. The winner will receive $200 instead of the $100 awarded last year, second prize has also been doubled from $75 to $150; third prize, $60; fourth prize, $25; and five prizes of $10 each. Three non-cash prizes will be given the leading amateurs.

BISONS-LEAFS TIED FOR THIRD

Herd Takes Double From Wings, While Toronto Loses To Montreal

GAMES RAINED OUT

TORONTO, July 16—(CP)—Back in the first division, their vaunted batting power once again hitting on all cylinders, Buffalo's defending champions were a happy lot today.

After a fruitless week in which they lost seven games and couldn't do a thing at the plate, Bisons found their slugging ability hadn't deserted them altogether.

They waded into Rochester Red Wing pitching last night and belted 24 hits over their home park to take both ends of the bargain bill by 16-3 and 10-3.

As a result the Bisons were back in the first division today, tied with Toronto, which lost to Montreal 10-2, for third place, and a half game in front of the Syracuse Chiefs, who dropped back to the second division.

Big Gun of Attack

Eddie Boland was the big gun of Bisons attack. He belted out six hits. In the first game he smashed out two homers, his first coming with the bases loaded in the third inning to climax the Bisons 10-run uprising in that frame, and his second in the fifth with a mate on.

Ten hits were rapped out by the Bisons during the second fray with honors going to Catcher George Savino. George drove out a single and a homer and batted in four runs.

Toronto couldn't do much with Crip Polli, of no-hit fame, but the Montrealers found the offerings of Mike Meola and Yale's Ted Horton, very agreeable.

The Royals, with big Bernie Cobb and Irv Jeffries leading the attack, pounded out 14 hits. Big Bernie rammed out two doubles that drove in five runs while Jeffries got four hits to score three runs himself and send another pair home.

Newark-Jersey City and Baltimore-Syracuse tilts were rained out.

YANKEES GET SECOND GAME FROM TIGERS

Lefty Gomez Scores His 12th Victory Of Year—Rowe Treated Harshly

MACKMEN STOP CHISOX

NEW YORK, July 16.—In the American League, the leading Yankees took their second straight from the Detroit Tigers 13 to 6. Lefty Gomez scored his twelfth victory of the year, distributing five hits in the six innings he hurled, before retiring because of the heat. Schoolboy Rowe, making his first start for Detroit since May 25, was driven from the box in the first inning by four straight Yankee hits, when the Yankees scored five runs. Rookie Tom Henrich, with a home run and two doubles, set the pace for the Yank fourteen-hit attack. Lazzeri also hit one for New York, and Greenberg and York circuit-clouted for Detroit.

Red Sox Succumb.

The second-place Boston Red Sox succumbed 5 to 3 to the St. Louis Browns when Oral Hildebrand went the route and scattered eight hits. The Brownies got to Marcum and Ostermueller for thirteen. The Chicago White Sox failed to take advantage of a chance to overtake Boston when they were nosed out 2 to 1 by the Philadelphia Athletics. George Caster turned back the Sox batsmen with four hits. With the score tied 1-1 in the ninth, Jesse Hill doubled, and scored the winning run on Brucker's third hit of the game, a single to centre. The A's totalled eight hits off Bill Dietrich.

Two For Indians.

Cleveland made it two straight over Washington, winning 6 to 2. A five-run rally in the fifth inning, featured by Hal Trosky's nineteenth home run, brought the Indians from a one-run deficit to victory. Whitehill went the route for the Tribe, limiting the Senators to nine hits.

Fairer Sex Play Polo Now

Apparently the fairer sex have entered another phase of men's sports. This picture shows Mrs H. Hewlett of the "Long Island Freebooters" women's polo team taking a shot at the ball during a game with the "California Ramblers" at Farmingdale, L.I. At one time only men played this game which is very strenuous and sometimes extremely dangerous. Incidentally Mrs. Hewlett's extra chukker goal gave the New York team a 7-6 victory over the Californian four.

Wallace's Manager Appeals Canadian Boxing Federation

Vancouver Pilot Asks That His Boxer Be Declared Dominion Champion

HEARING ON SATURDAY

TORONTO, July 16. — Deacon Jack Allen, manager of Gordon Wallace, the decision-victim of the last boxing show, has forwarded details for his case to the Canadian Boxing Federation "as a last court of appeal." He wants them to overrule the decision of the Ontario Athletic Commission contending that the bout, as a Canadian championship affair, comes under C.B.F. jurisdiction.

In letters to Frank Hogan and Elmer Ferguson of Montreal, respectively President and Secretary of the Canadian Federation, the Deacon itemizes the reasons for his appeal with particular stress on the fact that the C.B.F. rules calling for neutral judges and referee for a Canadian championship bout were not met. He points out that this was the case in the Wallace bout with Luftspring and both battles with Genovese. What he didn't add, because he wasn't interested, was that similar conditions applied to the fight in which Baby Yack took the Canadian bantam title from Frankie Martin of Montreal.

What would happen if the Canadian Federation were to listen to Allen and cancel all those decisions? First, the Ontario Athletic Commission probably would withdraw its affiliation. That would leave Wallace at liberty to defend the Canadian championship outside of Ontario and, if so inclined, to challenge for it in Ontario. Martin would be in the same positon. And Genovese and Yack, Canadian champions now, would still be champions within this Province and challengers outside of it.

The Canadian Federation is extremely unlikely to take any such action, of course, but might insist that the Ontario Commission appoint neutral officials for any future bouts involving Canadian titles.

Allen, who overlooks no possibilities, has tossed another letter at the Ontario Commission, in which, for the second time, he asks them to reverse the Wallace-Genovese decision. So he's going to the "last court of appeal" while awaiting the verdict of the lower court. The Ontario Commission, by the way, will meet tomorrow.

Napanee And Petes Are Here Saturday

Napanee and the Petes have a C.O.B.L. fixture tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon here, playing at three o'clock in Riverside Park. It is an important game in the loop standing as both squads are now battling for a third-place playff berth, Oshawa and Kingston being out in front at the time. Walt Gerow's gang lost their last start to the locals but they will be rarin' for revenge at this meeting and trying all the time to keep in the race. It promises to be an interesting tussle and one that is not likely to see much money wagered either way on the outcome. Another good crowd of diamond fans is expected out tomorrow.

Manager Fred Collins expects to start Russ Kitchen right back at the Gibbards in this game, provided the big righthander's throwing arm feels okay in pre-game practice. Kitchen has been pitching fine ball all season, and may chalk up his fifth win Saturday. Lefty Pointer is the probable starting flinger for the Furniture Men, and when the lanky southpaw is right he is practically unbeatable. The Petes will be at full strength for this game, and should play nice baseball as they did in Napanee on Wednesday.

WET GROUNDS SPOILS GAME

Canada Packers Leading 2-0 When Rain Makes Pitch Slippery

LEAGUE FIXTURE

The inclemency of the weather last night spoiled the termination of a clever exhibition of the code between the Canadian General and Canada Packers in a league game, when the latter were leading by 2 goals to 0, which is not a criterion of the run of play because the players were in the perfect mood of sportsmanship. Towards the end of the first half, rain threatened, and after the second half had only gone a little while the field became flooded, thereby making the footing dangerous for the participants. George Blowers handled his first game of the season as referee.

Goal in a Minute.

The choice of goals fell in favor of the Canadian General, but within a minute they were down a goal when Atkins sent a beautiful shot across the goalmouth. With a steady drive Adkinson bulged the net inside the post. From the centre kick Chamberlain ran out of his goal to fire a dangerous shot out of danger. Earle trapped the ball quickly to send his forwards into the Packers goal. Burgess dribbled his way around two players and let his outside man have an opening that went past. The Electric boys kept up the attack to have Curtis all over his goal blocking their efforts. Both teams at this point were playing clever combination which brought out the positional play by the halfbacks close checking that confined the tactics to midfield. Jones relieved the pressure by a long punt up the centre. Buchan headed the drive forward to his wing man, who drove hard and fast into goal. The official adjudged that a goal had been scored, and consulted his linesmen and abided by his decision to make the count 2-0 in favor of the Packers. Time and again, the players indulged in the finer points of the game that was effective outside the goal area, but it brought out the alertness of the defensive full backs in which the head was most prominent when a goal seemed in the horizon, although Tommy McPhate deserved a goal after he had outwitted the opposition to carry the ball right on the top of the goalie, who stopped his efforts at close range. The C.G.E. halves forced the issue, but their forwards lacked the finish whenever near the citadel. Todd and Asa Downer intercepted at the logical moment to hold the score at half-time—Canada Packers 2, Canadian General 0.

Rearranged Team.

On resuming it was evident that the Electrics desired a scoring punch and introduced Deb Whatman at centre with Ben McMaster at inside left, also Keith at inside right, who seemd to be effective in that position along with Lovat. After ten minutes of play in a steady downpour of rain, the ground became dangerous, and the referee called the game. Canada Packers 2, Canadian General 0.

O.G.E.—J. Chamberlain, goal; J. McKenzie and Deb Whatman, backs; H. Stewart, F. Earle, and K. Mitchell, halves; G. Lovat, H. Keith, Ben McMaster, A. Burgess, and T. McPhate, forwards; subs., W. McCracken and H. Murduff.

Canada Packers— W. Curtis, goal; F. Todd and A. Downer, backs; N. Downer, E. Jones, and B. Wilson, halves; J. Atkins, G. Downer, J. Buchan, E. Adkinson, and W. Harris, forwards; subs., W. Shea, W. Cribbs, T. Foster, and A. Downer.

Referee—George Blowers.
Linesmen—J. Isle, J. McMaster.

Aimers-Remillard Score Double Wins

TORONTO, July 16—(CP)—Jockeys T. Aimers and Pat Remillard each scored double wins on Fort Erie's racing card yesterday. Remillard guided the Cosgrave's stable's favored Jack Patches home in the featured Buffalo club purse.

Patches came up from well back to overtake Movieman afte Samoan had set the pace nearly all the way. Samoan faded badly at the end and finished out of the money. Stormy Lass moving into third place ahead behind Movieman.

It was a good day for the formbettors, as there was not a long-shot winner all afternoon. Aimers' second winner, Bunty Lawless, paid the day's best price in the third race, but it was little better than four-to-one. Bunty Lawless and Pewter Crest in the fourth were easy winners.

TUDOR PRETENDER ISSUES CURRENCY

Former Police Inspector Expects British Throne In 1940

LONDON, July 16.—(CP).— The Tudor pretender to the throne is expecting another battle any moment now with the Bank of England, that sturdy "Old Woman of Threadneedle Street."

The adamant "King Anthony the First," prints his own money. And each whirl of the press with its fresh blue-faced £1 notes of Anthony's own design makes Scotland Yard's eyebrows beetle.

"I hope Montagu Norman and Bank of England do kick up a fuss about my currency," he told Scotland Yard emissaries who called on him. "The Bank of England's charter of 1694 is worthless, and they know it. I shall continue to issue my specimen currency."

The pretender is Anthony Hall, former police inspector. He asserts he's descended from Henry VIII and Anne Boleyn, although history does not grant them the birth of a son.

"History made a lot of mistakes," he says. He adds he will redeem the notes at full value "when he ascends the throne." He prophecies that will be about 1940.

ALIMONY DODGERS LOSE GAY FRIEND

New York State Judge Famous For Decisions On Betting And Paying

LOCUST VALLEY, N.Y., July 16 (C.P.). — Justice Paul Beynge of the New York Supreme Court, patron saint of alimony martyrs and crusading hero of countless victims of quixotic legislation, is dead. He was 61. Complications followed a cerebral hemorrhage.

Judge Beynge was a peppery jurist with a flair for satire. He enlisted himself as champion of alimony payers in 1933 when he gave Jeremiah Fives, imprisoned paralytic, 42 years to pay $515. A month later, in a decision replete with scathing references to "waspish women" and "petticoated government," he freed from jail Umberto Politano, a war veteran who had been incarcerated two years and seven months for failure to pay his wife $12 a week alimony.

One of his most famed decisions was that in which he upheld the legality of selling options on dog racing in the state—a scheme in which wagers are placed similarly to parimutuel betting on horse racing. The judge said: "A state fair or bazaar would scarcely be complete without a bevy of winsome damsels selling chances on bed quilts, radios, electric irons and a lot of other things. If the proceeds are to be devoted to the ladies' sewing circle or the dominie's vacation, no sin is perceived and the local prosecutor, whoever or wherever he may be, stays his hand. But if a couple of dusky youths are apprehended rolling bones to a state of moderate warmth, blind justice perceives the infamy of the performance and th elaw takes its course.

"Sweepstakes and lotteries are unspeakably vile, and yet through them we have contributed so many millions to the Irish hospitals that it is rumored patriotic Irishmen cheerfully volunteer to have their tonsils and appendices removed just to keep the hospital beds occupied and the nurses employed."

STORM HITS OTTAWA

Several Sections of City Left Without Light.

OTTAWA, July 16 (C.P.). — Accompanied by torrential rains and high wind one of the worst electrical storms of the season passed over the Capital early to-day. Several sections of the city were in darkness when lightning struck transformers, and all-night plants were forced to shut down for a short time when the power failed.

The storm missed some districts north and east of Ottawa entirely, while west of the Capital suffered heavy rains and power troubles.

No other damage was reported.

LOVE IS FOR TOMORROW

By VIRGINIA SCALLON

CHAPTER 34

For the next few weeks Marcia was plunged into work that engrossed every waking hour. True to his word, Garrett had given her more than a fair chance to prove her ability with his publishing firm, and she was finding a genuine thrill in her work. No longer concerned with the old axioms for advertising—to create an overpowering demand for some item through various subtle appeals to pride, hunger, love or other vital emotion—she now was concerned with interpreting fictional characters. Her prime aim was to capture the spirit of the author's story, to create illustrations that would make the story live and breathe for the reader. Somehow she relished the idea of trying to satisfy people, rather than to make them yearn for something they couldn't or shouldn't have.

Wisely Garrett led Marcia into her new work gradually. Once he was convinced she had the ability, he gave her some broadsides to design, advance notices that were to go to book dealers. Then he gave her short stories to illustrate stories never destined to be printed but which served the important purpose of training. Finally, he entrusted to her care the illustrations for the lead story in their deluxe magazine, "Golden Era." Marcia's efforts were rewarded for the drawings of amusing sophistication were destined to find their place readily in the hearts of the readers.

She had been working with Garrett slightly over a month, when she realized suddenly that she had seen or heard little of Sandy. True, he had called several times, but only once had he brought the conversation around to anything personal. That was when he asked somewhat pointedly if she had "anything new to tell me?" The telephone was no place to confide romantic secrets, and furthermore Marcia had not forgotten her resolve to wait for Sandy to make the first move.

Ironically enough, she realized that the work she was doing now might more logically be combined with marriage. It did not drain all of her energy and enthusiasm as did the more pressing commercial work. At first she missed the ever crowding deadlines, the hustle and bustle of the agency. But gradually she came to appreciate the unhurried hours when she was left to her own devices. Sandy had said he was pleased with her new work, but it seemed to present to him no change of their problem.

Marcia had established her office at home, and one day while experimenting with some color work, the bell jangled viciously. She jumped up and her irritation at the interruption vanished as she saw Ellen in the doorway.

"Why, you old fraud! Where've you been keeping yourself?" and Marcia gave her friend some appraising glances.

"At least not on the shelf as you've been doing. Why don't you come out and mingle with decent folk once in a while? You're too young to be a hermit," Ellen said, putting her arm across Marcia's slim shoulders.

"And then I haven't any beard. There's always that drawback to being a hermit," the artist replied, pulling out a chair and offering her guest a cigaret. "Heavens, but I'm glad to see you. What's new with you?" She almost dreaded the answer, remembering the impasse Ellen and Tony had met in their married lives. Were they still together?

"Well, did you know I was working again? With another agency—this time the Walthers company," Ellen admitted. Marcia was more disappointed than she wanted to admit, remembering Ellen's ardent desire to have a husband and a home.

"But Tony? Does he approve?" she asked, hoping she wouldn't find the two had separated.

Ellen took a long breath, then told her how she had worked their problem out to this solution: "I seem to be a born manager, Marcia—and Tony just won't be managed! When I wasn't working I was making him my business, trying to make him do the things I thought he should. And with nothing else to worry about, I found myself imagining things he was doing, with the result, well— you know."

Marcia nodded. She never could erase the horror of that night from her mind...when she and Tony had sat in the barren hospital halls waiting to learn if Ellen would come back to love and laugh again.

"I never did thank you for what you did that night," Ellen said then, realizing Marcia's thoughts. "I don't think I could have taken the trouble to fight back if you hadn't challenged me the way you did."

"And so now you've decided to take your managing out in an office, and just save Tony for loving?" Marcia teased. In her heart she thought it a good decision, things being as they were. But she resented the necessity that would force Ellen back into an office. "It seems that we can't any of us do what we really want to do. You only wanted a home yet you've found it best to go back to work. I wanted a home and some outside interest, and—look at me!"

Ellen inquired about Sandy and was disappointed to learn that things were no nearer a settlement than before. "You two kids need a good spanking," she said. And Marcia reminded her that it had taken her grandmother and a regular comic opera plot to bring them together in the first place. "But it looks as if it would take grandma and all the king's horses and all the king's men this time," she fretted.

"Well, what I came to ask you primarily is to have dinner with us tonight. We're going over to the Ambassador to hear the broadcast tryouts for a new national account Walther is handling. It should be a lot of fun," Ellen said, and she was relieved when Marcia agreed to come. Ellen felt the responsibility of Marcia doubly, since she had been so instrumental in saving her from the consequences of her own rash act. With a sudden thought she said, "Want to bring anyone to make a fourth?"

Marcia considered, then decided against asking Garrett. She'd been seeing too much of him lately, and she feared things were rapidly reaching an unsought climax. Explaining the situation to Ellen, she expressed a preference to come alone.

They went to dinner down in Olvera street, the reconstructed "Old Mexico" of Los Angeles. In the midst of the towering buildings of the city hall and the civic centre, these sprawling little buildings with their authentic Mexican and Spanish faces were inviting. They browsed among the quaint shops, then ate to the mellow music of an old guitar as a sombrero-clad troubador sang soft songs.

From the streets of Olvera to the ultra-fashionable Grove was a far cry, and the three friends felt the difference in the atmosphere reflected in themselves the minute they entered the portals of the Ambassador hotel. Wending their way between stylishly gowned women and hurrying men, they found the special room reserved for the audition. They were early, and Tony turned frankly to Marcia.

"Seems as if I hadn't really seen you until now," he said, and Marcia thought the same of him. In the brilliant light of that room she saw new strength in his usually carefree face, and a new respect for Ellen in his reflective eyes. Doubtless he had first been impressed by Ellen's smart efficiency, and when she settled into another role he lost a certain esteem for her. Now that she was once more back in her old world, they seemed to have achieved a new basis for understanding. Marcia thought gratefully that at least they had their feet on solid ground.

"How is romance?" he bantered. "Hear you're working for a handsome and eligible young publisher these days. More power to you!"

Disregarding Ellen's warning glance, he went on to say, "Well, then you can't cry when the ex-boy friend steps out on his own. It's getting to be pretty steady combination, that Paula-and-Sandy affair. See'em everywhere I go. Suppose you gave him the go-by for this other fellow?"

Too late Tony saw what he had done, and thought he tried to explain it most likely was "purely business," Marcia felt he was covering up. While she had been waiting around trying to find herself, the ever watchful Paula must have made good her threats. Paula, instead of the rush of business, probably had kept Sandy from Marcia's side these past weeks when she was so busily engrossed in her new work.

Instead of jealously rising to claim her own as Sandy had hoped it would do, Marcia felt a sense of final defeat. She couldn't fight Sandy's intolerant attitude of her ambitions, his jealousy, and Paula all at once. Thinking he might have been fair enough to send her final "evacuation notice" if he was going to give Paula her place in his heart, Marcia sat wide-eyed, trying to keep the tears from splashing down the front of her most attractive blouse.

Jerking her head suddenly when she heard her name called, she encouraged one traitorous tear to slip down her cheek. Smiling at the newcomer she said with more warmth than he'd ever heard in her voice, "Gary, I'm so glad to see you!"

SAYS GOLD PRICE SHOULD BE HELD

Financier Would Retain Yellow Metal As Commercial Yardstick

LONDON, July 16.—(CP)—Creation of numerous free markets and a fixed international price for the metal in the not too distant future is certain to bring stability back to the gold industry, says Claude de Barsanales, chairman of the Boulder Proprietary Gold Mines, Ltd.

"I personally have no fear for the future of gold," he said. "I believe that the final test of true value namely its re-entry into circulation, would soon prove its ratio value to paper currencies on a basis entirely favorable to the gold industry."

ed to be no legitimate or commonMr. de Barnales said there appearsense reason why gold should be displaced from its world-wide accepted position of the financial centre of the world.

It would be suicidal, not only in the interests of world prosperity, but in the interests of Britain's stability and strength, if gold were to be at $35 per fine ounce. Actually an lowed to be reduced in value below advance beyond that figure would bring about untold advantages, in his opinion.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE GOBBLER

"Gobble! Obble! Obble!"

That was the turkey making a loud noise with his beak, while the red plume over it flopped from side to side. And the bunch of black hairs on his neck dingled and dangled like a dusting brush.

"Gobble! Obble! Obble!"

By that noise and by the red plume over his beak and by the bunch of hairs on his neck the big fowl made himself known as a Turkey Gobbler. For the mother, or hen turkey, has none of those ornaments, nor can she go "gobble, obble, obble!" It is only the daddy turkey who can do that.

"Well, you are making a great deal of noise, Mr. Gobbler," said Uncle Wiggily to the turkey the day after the corn roast. "What is the trouble?"

"There will be plenty of trouble for me in a few months," sadly said the turkey.

Not for Him

"What kind of trouble?" asked Uncle Wiggily, who was sitting outside his camping tent in the woods near Blue Lake.

"Thanksgiving," said the turkey.

"Why, I think Thanksgiving is a lovely time," said the rabbit gentleman.

"I don't," said the turkey. "Thanksgiving means the end of my gobbling for then they start to gobble me up."

"Oh, I see what you mean," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "You mean you will be eaten when Thanksgiving comes."

"Please don't talk of it," begged Mr. Gobbler. "It is too sad to think about. But I was thinking perhaps if I could stay here in camp with you, those who want to gobble me up for Thanksgiving can't find me. May I stay with you?"

"Indeed you may," said Uncle Wiggily kindly. "But I am not going to stay here at my camp until Thanksgiving. Before then I shall go back to my hollow stump bungalow for my little rabbit children will be returning to school in September."

Will They Forget?

"Well, let me stay until then," begged the turkey. "Perhaps they will forget about Thanksgiving then."

"I think not," said Mr. Longears, laughing. "But you may stay. You did me a favor by nipping the tail of the Fox who came to bite me at the corn roast, so I'll do you a favor."

"Thank you," said the turkey gobbler. "But I should like to make myself useful around your camp."

"Well," said Uncle Wiggily, puzzled like but wanting to be complimentary, "I don't see what at."

"I do!" squeaked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy. "There is a way you can be very useful around camp."

"How?" asked the gobbler hopeful like and eager.

"By calling the little rabbits to their meals," said the muskrat lady housekeeper. As it is they wander off in the woods and they can't hear my little squeaky voice. But they can hear your loud one."

"Oh, joy!" sang the turkey. "Now I have a job.

"Let me see how well you do it," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Yes," said Nurse Jane. "Call the bunnies to dinner."

"Gobble, obble obble! Gobble, obble, obble!" cried the turkey.

In the woods the rabbit children heard this funny dinner bell and came hopping to the dining tent.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed Mr. Longears. "Fine, Mr. Gobbler!"

So everything was fine and dandy. And when the rice pudding gives the cheese cake a piece of pie for the coffee pot I'll tell you about Uncle Wiggily jumping down.

More Than $125,000,000 Expected To Be Spent by U.S. Tourists

TORONTO, July 16—(CP)—More than $125,000,000 is expected by government statisticians to be brought into Ontario this summer by tourists. Authorities said today they estimated 9,000,000—or 1,000,000 more than last year—would spend vacations in the province.

Traffic at Niagara Falls and Windsor bridges and at Sarnia ferry dock is greater than in the peak year, 1929. By actual count 28,500 automobiles crossed the Peace Bridge into Fort Erie July 4.

CANADIAN DOES WELL

Lieut. G. E. Matchett Of Hamilton Scores 3rd Win. Taking Challenge Cup

BISLEY CAMP, England, July 17 (C.P. Cable) — Cadet-Officer D. L. Birney of Cambridge University Officers' Training Corps to-day won the King's Prize, classic of the Empire meeting of the National Rifle Association.

Birney finished the gruelling shoot with an aggregate score of 283 out of a possible 300 in the second and third stages, to win the King's Prize of $1,250 in cash, the N.R.A. Gold Medal, Gold Badge, and Coronation Medal.

He had led the field going into the final distance of to-day's last stage. The final stage was at 900 and 1,000 yards, and after the 900 yards Birney's aggregate of 72 for 215 was two points better than the next man, Lieut. J. Smith of the Royal Artillery.

Third Win for Matchett.

BISLEY CAMP, England, July 17 (C.P. Cable). — Only Canadian winning at the Coroation Bisley to date, young Lieut. G. E. Matchett of Hamilton, to-day scored his third triumph when he was posted winner of the valuable Challenge Cup in the All-Comers' Aggregate. The Hamilton youngster also tied for the St. George's Challenge Vase and lost out in the shoot-off with R.Q.M.S. B. Spence of the Lincolnshire Regiment.

Matchett previously had won the Grand Aggregate, carrying a challenge trophy and Gold Cross and Gold Medal, and the Duke of Gloucester's Prize of $250 and Badge. There were also cash prizes of $60 in the Grand and $25 in the All-Comers'.

Matchett's Trophies.

Birney's victory in the King's Prize marked the end of the Coronation Bisley in which Lieut. G. E. Matchett of Hamilton was the only Canadian gaining victories. Matchett accounted for all three of Canada's first places, capturing the Challenge Trophy, gold cross and gold medal in the grand aggregate, and the Duke of Gloucester's prize of $250 and badge.

No other Canadian reached a first place and the Canadian teams were beaten in the shoots for the Kolapore and Mackinnon Challenge Cups.

THREE CHILDREN VICTIMS OF RIVER

Young Girls Step Off Ledge Into 30 Feet of Water North Of Hawkesbury

HAWKESBURY, Ont., July 17.—(CP).—Coroner J. H. Mason of Lachute, Que., has decided no inquest will be held into the deaths of three Bell's Falls, Que., children, drowned yesterday in the Rouge River. Wading beyond their depths, the children drowned before the eyes of a woman whose frantic calls for them to turn back went unheeded.

The dead were Alma and Allan MacLean, 11 and 10 years old respectively, children of Mr. and Mrs. David MacLean, and Alma MacNeil 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas MacNeil, all of Bell's Falls.

Mrs. Thomas McMahon, accompanied by her three children, had gone with the others to bathe. The MacNeill child ventured out into the centre of the river, the MacLean children following her.

Mrs. McMahon, who was unable to swim, called frantically for them to come back. Apparently stepping off a ledge into 30 feet of water, the children disappeared. Mrs. McMahon's children remained close to shore and did not follow the others.

Bell's Falls is 10 miles north of Hawkesbury.

Last Minute News Flashes

MIDLAND—Leslie H. George, Toronto, and a woman, believed to be Miss Louise Cotter, or Toronto, were killed today in a highway accident near here. The Machine crashed into a guard rail, knocked down seven posts and landed in the ditch. Walker was taken to hospital with a slight fracture of the skull. Stella Russell, suffered from severe shock and other injuries.

Fish Smashes Skiff Tosses Boater Out

Shelbourne, N. S., July 17 (CP).

POSSIBLY IT WAS a sea-serpent, or maybe it was just a big one that got away and came back for revenge. Anyhow, Ivan Smith has a skiff with a hole in the bottom for proof of his story. Fishing here the other day, Smith suddenly felt his boat lifted into the air and found himself plunged into the water. When he regained the skiff he noticed a hole in the bottom and had to be towed to shore by Ralph Reed, who heard his cries for help.

MILLION DEAD 1ST YEAR TOLL SPANISH WAR

General Franco Proclaims It 12 Months Of Triumph For The Insurgents

CALLS CELEBRATION

Fascists Now Hold Six Of Nation's Eleven Major Cities

By Edward J. Neil
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

SALAMANCA, Spain, July 17 (A. P.). — The price of one year of Spain's Civil War: 1,000,000 lives of men, women, and children.

The figure is an approximation, for the toll was levied in devious, unaudited ways — collected in the heat of battle, checked off against packed walls by a firing squad or marked up to the account of artillery shells and aerial bombs.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco, leader of Spain's insurgents, proclaimed it a "year of triumph," and ordered all communications and public documents for the next 12 months to be dated as the "second year of triumph."

Other "years of triumph" will follow, according to the insurgent view.

Starting yesterday, all of insurgent-held Spain took on a fiesta spirit in celebration of the close of one year of conflict. Franco inaugurated the celebration with an oration in an ancient cathedral of Salamanca, his capital and general headquarters.

The future....an old Spanish proverb says that revolution in Spain always runs through a cycle of seven years. If that proves true, this war has at least another year to run, for it was five years or so in the making.

But the spark that touched off the conflagration flared just a year ago to-day in Spanish Morocco.

The insurgent forces, improving daily as a war machine, have captured by direct attack six of Spain's 11 major cities: Seville, Malaga, Zaragoza, Cordoba, Granada, and most recently Bilbao.

The three great civil centres—the former capital, Madrid, and the huge seaports of Barcelona and Valencia (the latter is temporary seat of the Spanish Government)—form the basis of the government's defence against Franco.

Arch-Bigamist Faked Suicide, Toronto Police Learn

Following the weird trail left by George Fritz Roediger, convicted of bigamy in Winnipeg and sentenced to nine years' imprisonment, Toronto police, who seek the whereabouts of his wives who mysteriously disappeared from the Ontario espital, have discovered that Roediger was married at least 20 times. They also learn that he has accounts in numerous banks throughout Canada, sufficient to make him a very wealthy man. A macabre angle is added to the former German butcher's career by the fact that he tried to fake a suicide last summer by disappearing from a Lake Ontario steamer and leaving, as evidence of his "death", the suitcase and contents, shown Top Right. A new picture of the arch-bigamist is at Left and below at Right one of Mrs. Meta Roediger, the wife who accompanied him from Bremen, Germany, and who died of mercury poisoning in St. Catharines, Ont., in 1926.

Orangeville Mob Threatens Victim After Spicy Hearing In "Wife-Stealing" Case

ORDERED FROM TOWN

ORANGEVILLE, July 17.—F. W. Johnson, paunchy Toronto travelling optician, had to run the gauntlet of a throng of jeering, booing men and women here yesterday when he left court after hearing eleven men fined $5 and costs each for having tarred him on the night of July 4 for "stealing a man's wife."

The elderly, dapper man was followed by the mob that yelled: "Get out of town," and "Don't ever come here again," while he ran to his car and scrambled into it. And while he attracted the attention of the crowd, which for a moment looked so angered that Provincial Police ran from the Courthouse to protect him, Mrs. Robert Lennox, who had murmuringly admitted in court that

JAPANESE FORCE 50,000 PRISONERS MAKE MUNITIONS

War, Navy And Foreign Offices Lay Plans For Unified Action In China

WANT NO FURTHER DELAY

TOKYO, July 17—(AP). — The Japanese Government to-day announced the situation in North China "does not permit further procrastination" and declared Japan had decided "to accelerate negotiations" in the Sino-Japanese crisis.

The Government did not disclose, however, what measures were contemplated in the tangled situation.

Officials of the War, Navy and Foreign offices were in conference to determine a unified policy in the face of what Japan terms a threat to her nationals and property in the North China zone, where her troops have clashed repeatedly with Chinese soldiers.

While Japan pressed 50,000 prisoners into service as munition-makers to supply possible war needs as Japanese negotiators on the mainland

On recommendation of its Resolutions committee, the association voted for the appointment of a committee to wait on the Minister of Justice, the Attorney General of Ontario, and the Royal Commission Investigating Prisons, with a view to having a stricter policy enforced with regard to paroles and tickets-of-leave.

Management Threatens To Close Auburn Mill Refuses Pay Increase

Employees at Mass Meeting Decide They Will Stay Out As Long As Need Be in Their Fight for "A Living Wage"

ALL OTHER DEMANDS GRANTED EMPLOYEES EXCEPTING THE ONE PERTAINING TO WAGES

Strike negotiations are "deadlocked" as the management of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited refuse to meet the demands of 700 employees of their two local mills for pay increases, and threaten to close the Auburn mill.

Notwithstanding strikers turned out in full force at a mass meeting in Ashburnham Community Hall last evening, and after adopting the report of the committee of twelve employee representatives without a dissenting vote, expressed the determination to stay out as long as need be in their fight for "a living wage."

Henry Barrett, managing director returned to Toronto at the conclusion of the negotiations Friday afternoon, after yielding to every demand of his employees with exception of those pertaining to pay increases and union recognition.

To Meet Local Managers.

Chairman Alex. Townsley said at the mass meeting, Mr. Barrett had informed the committee he could sign no agreement with employees without authority of the Board of Directors, and that the negotiating committee had asked for a special meeting of the board. Strike negotiators will confer with the local plant management here on Monday afternoon to ascertain whether the agreement will be signed.

"We've got the company's back to the wall. They want to get the mills going again," Mr. Townsley told fellow-strikers. "Barrett said they would shut down the Auburn mill but we know that's the bunk. They know it is a paying proposition to keep the plant open. They considered closing it once before and found they would have to continue paying taxes if they did so."

Mr. Townsley was one of five members of the "committee of twelve" who presented verbal reports bearing on the outcome of the day's conference with the management. Other members of the employee representatives' committee who spoke included Michael E. English, Mrs. Edith Frizzelle, Elmer Hickey and Kenneth Bayliss.

Told To "Stand Firm."

Addressing the meeting in the above named order after the minutes of the negotiating conference had been presented by Alex. Welch, United Textile Workers' organizer, each of the speakers earnestly enjoined the strikers to "stand firm" and expressed the belief that if they would do so "victory would be their's within a week."

One of the features of the meeting which was maintained at a high pitch throughout an hour-and-a-half was Mr. Welch's denial of the charge that he was an "agitator" levelled

PROBE SUICIDE SEEKING CLUES MISSING GIRL

Thirty Strands Of Different Women's Hair Pasted On Paper Have Police Baffled

NINE MONTHS' MYSTERY

Man Held After Young Woman Vanished Last Year Found Hanged In Cellar

MONTREAL, July 17.—(CP)— A strip of soiled brown paper with strands of women's hair pasted on it in a neat row, the picture of an unidentified woman, and a crudely-written testament by a man found hanging in a basement were laid out in a police laboratory here today, possible clues to the unsolved nine-month-old disappearance of a pretty girl and the apparent suicide of her companion.

The strange assortment was gathered yesterday by police after discovery of the hanged body of Henri Fissiault, 33-year-old cement company executive, questioned last November, charged with kidnapping and then murder after Elianne St. Pierre failed to return from a midnight motor ride with him. The charges were dropped when long police search for the girl drug store clerk proved fruitless.

The paper bearing the strands of hair, police found on a table in a kitchen just above the basement where Fissiault's body was discovered. The picture lay on the dusty basement floor, about two feet beneath the boots of the grotesque dead figure, strung from a pipe with a piece of clothesline. The testament was found later in a safe at Fissiault'soffice.

A wisp or two of woman's hair clung to a detective's hand when he felt curiously through the clothes on the body. The detective also discovered a few more strands of hair in the dead man's open mouth.

Most puzzling of the collection of articles found on the hanging's scene seemed to be the strip of brown paper. The 30 strands of hair carefully laid out on it all were of different shades, and, police thought, from the heads of many women.

American Clipper Off For N.B. Base

BOTWOOD, Nfld., July 17 (CP Cable).—Two trans-Atlantic flights successfully completed the Pan-American Clipper III took off today for Shediac, N.B., enroute to her home base at Port Washington, N.Y. The Giant 20½-ton flying boat was expected to complete the hop in five hours.

The United States ship, pioneering a commercial air route across the ocean in co-operation with Imperial Airways' 18-ton flying boat Caledonia, arrived at Botwood yesterday after a flight from Foynes, Ireland. The Caledonia flew from Botwood to the other side at the same time.

The clipper ship will stop overnight at the New Brunswick point and continue her flight to Port Washington, Sunday.

12-YEAR-OLD BOY IS 5TH VICTIM OF OTONABEE RIVER

Jack Stinson Drowned While In Swimming At Foot Of Douro Street

GALLANT RESCUE EFFORT

The Otonabee River on Friday afternoon claimed the fifth drowning victim of recent months, added to the toll of local tragedies in water and on land.

He was Jack Stinson, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stinson of this city, who was drowned in the "deep hole" near the old dam at the foot of Douro street, while swimming in company with a group of small companions. No inquest is to be held, Coroner Dr. H. N. Young decided.

Hearing a cry of alarm while strolling in his bathing suit along Driscoll Terrace, Harold Shaw, 23, 152 Mark street hastened down the steep embankment to the river's edge, swam a distance of about 75 feet to the point where the lad was seen to disappear and dove in a

DISCOVER POISON ROEDIGER'S TRUNK

Analysts Seek To Learn If It Is Same His First Wife Died Of In 1926

TORONTO, July 17 (CP)—Piece by piece, police today piled up evidence regarding the way George Roediger, philandering sausage-maker, had with women. He married at least nine of them and proposed to many more, police learned in an international check-up along his matrimonial trail.

While the much-married German remains in a Winnipeg jail cell under nine-year sentence for bigamy and theft, police here continued to pry into a trunkful of personal belongings he left before going west. Latest discovery, it was learned last night, was a quantity of poison, hidden among his possessions.

Analysts were to determine whether this was the same kind of poison as that which caused the death of Meta Roediger, his first wife with whom he lived in St. Catharines and whose death in 1926 was investigated by a coroner's jury. The jury could not determine who administered the poison.

Two long-bladed butcher knives were also in the trunk left at a Vaughan road address where Roediger lived with Mrs. Christina McKenzie, whom he wed at Barrie in August, 1933, and into whose disappearance police now centre their investigations.

Eighty Tiny Balloons To Carry Piccard On Stratosphere Test

Proposes To Go Up Two Or Three Miles In Open Gondola Of 65 Pounds

USE 2,000 IN REAL FLIGHT

ROCHESTER, Minn., July 17 (CP) —Dr. Jean Piccard of the University of Minnesota watched development of a high pressure area which may enable him to make a stratosphere test flight in his multi-balloon craft today.

Piccard hopes to demonstrate the feasibility of his craft of two clusters of 80 rubber balloons, each about four feet in diameter, for scientific observations in the upper layers of the stratosphere.

Piccard planned to ascend only two or three miles. If the test bears out his theory his 80 sounding balloons have a greater lifting power than the large one-bag fabric balloons previously used; he will build a craft of 2,000 balloons for a stratosphere flight. Piccard will ride in an open gondola weighing 65 pounds.

Ambulance compartments, containing first aid supplies for use in case of street accidents, have been installed in public clocks in Berlin.

Church At Beach For Sunday Bathers

London, July 17 (CP).

REV. DONALD MANNERS, vicar of Felpham, believes it is the inward intent and not outward appearance that counts when it comes to worship.

As a matter of fact he plans to take the church to Sunday bathers at Bognor Regis.

"Come to these little acts of worship dressed as you naturally will be," he says in announcing his special beach services. "If you are in your bathing suits, or beach dress, come as you are."

MATTERN'S PLAN READY

LOS ANGELES, July 17 (AP).—Jimmy Mattern said today he expects to start his non-stop flight from San Diego to Moscow early in August. Returning from Washington, the veteran flier said the United States Navy is co-operating in the scientific venture to learn what happens to magnetic instruments in the highly magnetized polar regions. He said he will test newly-improved radios for the army.

London Suspects Phantom Plane Night-Working Spy Photographer

London, July 17 (AP).

THE AIR MINISTRY set up a special court of inquiry in an effort to track down a night-flying "phantom plane" which has irritated light-sleeping Londoners.

In some of the press it has been suggested the mysterious twin-engined ship might be carrying an aerial photographer, equipped with an infra-ray camera, in the hire of a foreign power.

While this possibility has not been entirely ruled out, it is understood it is not regarded seriously in official quarters.

London and His Majesty's government, however, want to learn just why the flights are being made.

The ship, carrying regulation green and white navigation lights, made its first appearance about three weeks ago. Since then it has made several nocturnal flights, swooping low over housetops and jolting London from its sleep with the roar of its two motors.

Youth Hikes 2,000 Miles East To Escape West's Choking Dust

Claims Relief Only Thing Keeping 5,000 In Swift Current Alive

NO WORK, CROPS OR CASH

WINGHAM, July 17 (Special). — To try to find work in a district not constantly menaced by dust-storms, Gordon Mack, 18, arrived here last night at the home of his cousin, Arno Kelly, after a ten-day hitch-hike of 2,000 miles from his home in Swift Current, Sask. He gave relatives a bleak picture of conditions in Southern Saskatchewan, now facing drought for its seventh and worst year. There was no work in the little Prairie town of 5,000 from which he came, no money, and the only hope of settlers was that relief would continue, he said.

"There is dust everywhere, dust that chokes you and smothers all the crop," he said. "I went to sleep one night with my window up about an inch. A blow came up and the whole room had a covering of dust next morning of about two inches. My two brothers were caught out in a dust-storm, became lost, and next morning were found half-suffocated.

"A few spindly oats remain on the occasional ranch. This winter will be the hardest yet, and relief is the only thing that keeps people living.

Eight years ago the Matador Ranch was across the river from Swift Current, and it was a show-place for the community. There were 265,000 acres and they grazed over 10,000 head of cattle, besides raising crops. To-day the ranch is deserted and neighbors are tearing down the buildings for firewood."

He came East to avoid "dust madness," he said, and the "sight of people starving, the country going to waste, and no hope for the future."

MANAGEMENT THREATENS TO CLOSE AUBURN MILL

against him by Mr. Barrett during the negotiating conference.

"If Barrett says that I agitated the strike, I am prepared to meet him before all his employees and debate the subject with him," Mr. Welch declared.

Maintaining that the strike had been "agitated" solely as a result of low wages and poor working conditions, Mr. Welch characterized the attack against him as having been for the purpose of "neutralizing my efforts as a leader."

Points To Public Support.

He pointed to the public support the strikers were receiving on all hands and declared that the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., had lined up behind the strikers without being asked because "it was his sense of duty and desire to see fair play that prompted him to do so."

Mr. Welch said he had been denied a place on the committee of employee representatives, not because he was a "non-employee" as the management had termed him, but because he was the union organizer. "They feel if I am not there they can put anything over you, because they believe you are so downtrodden."

"I want to see the strike settled speedily, peacefully and successfully. But I am not going to see it settled at the expense of my duty. If they believe I would sell you up the river I do not want to be your leader but prefer to be called an agitator," he asserted.

"Any leader who would fall for the bunk the company has handed out in the last couple of days would not be a leader who was taking you on to your objective. But he would be the type of leader the management would like to see you have," the speaker said.

Conference Minutes

Minutes of the meeting held between twelve employee representatives and the management of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited, as compiled by a company representative, and read and adopted at the striker's mass meeting last night, are quoted as follows:

"At a meeting held today at 10 a.m. and continued during the afternoon at 1 p.m. a committee of twelve employees met with Mr. Henry Barrett and the management of Bonner-Worth and Auburn Mills represented by Messrs. Melton, Merrett, Barber and Leybourne. The names of the employees of this committee are as follows:

"Norman Haigh, drawing department; Michael E. English, Elmer Hickey, K. M. Baylis, weaving; Lucy Ronco, spinning; Lily Slaughter, twisting; Marie Thompson, winding; Edith Frizzelle, Fred Smith, spinning; Clifford Willis, finishing; J. Vinette, spinning; Alex. Townsley, weaving.

"Mr. Barrett stated that he wished to have read into the minutes of this meeting figures which he discussed yesterday regarding female workers in the textile industry, as set out in the evidence before the Royal Commission on the Textile Industry as follows:

"The weekly earnings for females employed in the primary textiles industry in all Canada as compared with the average of all other principal industries, exclusive of the textile industry, including girls and adults, were:

Females	Average per week
Textile Industry	$12.41
All other industries	11.82

"'In any country the textile industry is not a high wage industry, nor is it a low wage industry. The comparatively light nature of the work, permitting the employment of a large proportion of females and younger persons between the age of leaving school and marriage, and the steadiness of its operation will be found to place it in the medium position in every country'."

"On being questioned on certain hourly rates being paid to other female operators in the city," the report continues, "Mr. Barrett pointed out that we were not in the happy position of some of these industries, which virtually had a monopoly on the type of goods they manufacture due to the fact that they are not subject to foreign competition. He pointed out that any such firms are enabled to pass on additional labor cost to the consumer in these industries for the reasons as stated.

"However, the Textile Industry in Canada is one which is governed to a large extent by world competition, in view of the fact that every major country in the world is a producer of textiles and to some extent an export country.

"When questioned regarding tariffs on goods entering this country, Mr. Barrett stated that he worked with the Tariff Board in 1934 when that Board determined that with exception of very slight differences the duties then in force were just what were required to compensate the Canadian manufacturer for the higher wages paid to Canadian help. Since that time there has been further reduction in these tariff rates. It was then stated that even since the lowering of tariffs some industries have made increases in their wage scales. His reply to this was that these firms in all probability made a much larger reduction in wages during the depression years than was made in the plants of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited. He further stated that he is confident that the wages paid in the local plants of the company are, as high or higher, than those of other plants since wages have been adjusted, in them. He also stated that a great deal of the competition of our company is from Quebec manufacturers whose wage scale is considerably lower than that paid in the company's plant.

"Elmer Hickey, one of the employee representatives then asked if this comparison could be made directly between the company and another local company employing female labor.

"Mr. Barrett stated that he wished to make it plain that he was not comparing the wages of the company to any individual company but to the average of all companies in Canada.

"Alex Townsley then questioned whether or not it is a fact that companies continue to allow amounts for depreciation even after the plants have been duly depreciated. Mr. Barrett stated that it is possible, but he is unqualified to venture any opinion as his knowledge on this subject pertains to his own company only, and in the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited, such is definitely not the case. In fact he stated that the money used for the purpose of purchasing new machinery at the Auburn Mill recently could not be taken from Depreciation Account, where it would have been available if earned, but was borrowed from the bank. This machinery was purchased in order to make more economical production, in view of the fact that the old machinery which is replaced was too costly to operate.

"When questioned by Mr. Baylis on the average loss of $175,000 suffered by the company since its inception, which included a provision for depreciation of $106,000 and bond interest of $63,000, Mr. Barrett pointed out that this was a definite loss in view of the fact these amounts were not earned, and, therefore, not set aside for depreciation and bond interest.

"When questioned by Alex Townsley as to the statement he made yesterday regarding the advice which the company had received to close down the Auburn plant, he stated that this advice came from parties outside our own firm and non-residents of Peterborough.

"In the discussion of the proposed agreement which the employee's committee entered for consideration, Mr. Barrett stated that it would be impossible to accede to the requests that:

"The rates of employees on day rate be increased by 10 cents an hour and the rates of employees on piece rates should be increased by 25 per cent. over the rates previously paid. He pointed out that if these requests were granted, it would no longer be possible for the company to sell their merchandise at the advanced cost necessarily resulting from wage increases, in the present highly competitive market, and that it would be to the interest of all employees that such increases should not be granted in view of the fact that the loss in sales naturally resulting would reduce the volume to such serious extent as to seriously curtail operations in the mills necessitating very short hours of labor.

"Regarding the elimination of the grading of work, he stated, that this could be given full consideration.

"With reference to the suggestion that if piece workers were kept idle for any longer than fifteen minutes, they should be paid day rate, he replied that the company would be willing to pay all such piece workers for the time which they were kept idle for any period longer than fifteen minutes, computed from the time of cessation of work, and would pay such employees for such lost time to the nearest quarter hour.

"With reference to overtime, Mr. Barrett stated, that all time worked over the normal hours per week shall be considered as overtime, Sundays and holidays included, and shall be paid for at the rate of time and one-half. It is understood that normal hours means to the Auburn Mill fifty hours, and to the Bonner-Worth mill, for the time being, fifty-five hours.

"With reference to rest periods for female employees, he undertook 'Rest periods, 10 minutes duration shall be provided all female workers at or about 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. when the ordinary discipline of the plant shall be relaxed, providing machines are not stopped'."

Under general conditions with reference to a shop committee, Mr. Barrett agreed to the following:

"The company agrees to discuss any grievances with a shop committee of five employees, or their successors, who are duly elected by their fellow employees of each mill.

"He also stated that when the mills reopen all employees would be enabled to return to work without discrimination.

"With reference to certain recommendations regarding sanitary conditions and certain other small grievances, he stated, full consideration would be given to these points and if possible this would be remedied.

"With reference to holidays with pay, he stated, that this matter was in the same category as the request for increased wages, and for the same reasons as stated regarding alterations in rates, would be impossible.

"Mr. Barrett agreed that in the Weave Room of the Auburn Mills there is the possibility that a different method of payment should be adopted, and with this in view he offered to institute a minimum rate of 32 cents per hour to all weavers, such to be paid if these weavers have been unable to earn, on the present piece rates, this amount or more.

"The committee of employees, through their spokesman, Mr. Michael English, stated that they had been instructed to hold out in their demands for the wage increases as submitted, and also for a signed agreement on all points.

"Mr. Barrett replied he was fully empowered by the Board of Directors of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited to negotiate with the employees regarding wage demands, and that, for the many reasons which he had mentioned before, it would be impossible to grant these increases.

"With reference to the agreement, however, he stated that the committee had his definite undertaking on the various points discussed and that the company would certainly carry them out. He is not, however, empowered to sign any agreement binding the company, without authorization of the Board of Directors. The committee then asked for a special meeting of the Board of Directors. In view of the fact that the next scheduled meeting is not until the 2nd or 3rd week in August, to discuss these points. They stated that the employees were determined to stay out if necessary until the next scheduled meeting of the Board of Directors or until the wage demands are granted.

"Mr. Barrett agreed to arrange a meeting of the Board of Directors and to advise the committee which will meet the management of the local mills on Monday at 2 p.m., when it will be possible for the directors to hold this meeting.

"He advised the committee, however, that he felt sure that the Board would be in agreement with the course which he has taken and would, in all probability, decide if work is not speedily resumed to close down the Auburn plant as they had in the past been advised to do. The meeting then adjourned until Monday at 2 p.m. when they will then convene at the Bonner-Worth office."

Verbal Reports

Mr. Townsley told the strikers, "Mr. Barrett thought he was going to get us back to work on Monday, but he received a set-back when he learned we demanded a signed agreement as to wages." Admitting that the employees had received some minor concessions, he declared, "The real thing we are out for is an increase of wages."

He declared the management had insinuated the strike had been organized, and that Mr. Barrett had termed their leader an "agitator" and charged the strike was mixed up with politics.

"Have we anything to do with politics?" he demanded.

"No," the strikers chorused in unison.

"It is merely a matter of pay. Isn't it," Mr. Townsley interrogated.

"Yes," a mighty shout went up. "And we don't go back till we get it."

Mr. Townsley claimed that Mr. Barrett had maintained the demonstration at the Bonner-Worth Mill was proof that Welch was an agitator, but he declared, "I drove home the point that Welch had nothing to do with us coming out on strike, but that low wages and poor conditions had been the sole cause. And I made it plain that we would not go back till we got our wage demands," he said.

Michael English, who declared he had little to add to what had been previously said, tendered a brief verbal report of the conference with the management. "There is only one thing left for us to do," he said, and that is for us to stand solid and determine not to return to work till we receive a just living wage."

He declared, "Barrett was asked if he considered $11 a week a fair living wage," and he added, "He had no come back. He just sat there."

"I tell you it is not a living wage. All we are holding out for is justice and if we hold together that justice will be ours within a week," he said.

Three Items Unsettled

Elmer Hickey said there were approximately 25 to 30 grievances to be settled. All were settled except three. He enumerated the three items on which settlement had not been reached as being:

"Wages of employees on day rates shall be increased 10 cents an hour.

"Wages of employees of piece work shall be increased 25 per cent. over rates prior to July 1st.

"Employees with 2-years or longer service shall be granted holidays with pay."

Mr. Hickey said he had told the managing director, "If you are not going to give us what we ask we are prepared to stay out till the 19th of August (the date of the next scheduled meeting of the Board of Directors, or longer."

The speaker said he had asked Mr. Barrett if he would recognize the union and he had replied that he could not commit himself. "He has got to recognize the union. If not on paper then verbally," Mr. Hickey commented.

With reference to average weekly earnings of $12.41 for female workers in the textile industry as contained in the Royal Commission figure written into the minutes of the negotiation conference, Mr. Hickey asked, "How many girls are earning $12.41 a week at Bonner-Worth Mill. Put up your hands."

Not one hand was raised. Instead there were shouts of "We can't make that much."

POLICE CONDEMN PETTY POLITICS IN THEIR AFFAIRS

sented by Chief Draper of Toronto, said the ticket of leave was being used to shorten sentences, and was being applied to criminal repeaters.

It urged that each application be investigated thoroughly and its claims proved before the concession was granted.

The greatest lesson the criminal had to learn, the report continued, was his responsibility to society.

The Toronto chief reported little progress had been made in the move to obtain legislation for police pensions.

Chief Draper said one of the major concerns to-day was the increase in juvenile delinquency, which he attributed to lack of control and discipline in the home.

Standardized Conditions

Chief David Lowden, of Sudbury, in a paper comparing the police system of Canada with that of Britain, said the chief difference lay in the British uniformity, or standardization of conditions. The British force was not a national one, but rather a closely-linked system of forces.

The chief believed there were too many police forces in this country. In every town of any size, he said, there are local, Provincial and R.C.M.P., each with jurisdictions overlapping in many cases. He deplored the lack of central control.

He asserted a centralized system with a definite police structure would be more satisfactory than having to depend on a degree of co-operation between men and various units.

At present efficiency and conduct varied, and often the situation arose where one force was being investigated by another.

Petty political interference was a constant hazard. Even in cities where a force is under control of a Police Commission this is felt. Particularly here the commission undertakes to dictate not only matters of policy, but also of administration. Elections were often run, he said, on the platform of "Fire the Chief of Police."

The COMPASSIONATE CHRIST

Jesus and the Impotent Man at the Pool of Bethesda . . .

By Rev. A. A. McGahey

TEXT: BEHOLD THOU ART MADE WHOLE: SIN NO MORE LEST A WORSE THING COME UNTO THEE—JOHN V:14.

THE WORDS of my text concern a scene quite common in Palestine in the time of Christ—the afflicted and diseased lying in the streets awaiting help. In those days there were no hospitals for the sick, and the afflicted in mind or body. The lame, the halt, and the blind, the sick, the diseases, and the insane thronged the streets and highways, no one cared for them. It was left to the dogs to lick the wounds of Lazarus as he lay at the rich man's gate.

Within sight of that great Temple in Jerusalem, near the Pool of Bethesda, in the five porches of the House of Mercy, there lay an immense throng of poor sufferers. Some were suffering for their own sins, and some were suffering for the sins of others. There was every evidence of sin and its inevitable accompanying penalty—suffering. Sin always brings suffering. This is one of the saddest truths of life. No wonder that the apostle Paul said: "The wages of sin is death."

On this Sabbath day in question while the great feast was in progress, Jesus watched the crowds surging past the sick and diseased and pressing into the Temple. Intent on worship, they had no time or thought for the impotent man lying there. They passed by him. Some saw him for the first time, perhaps, but paid no heed to him, since such sights were common. Some, no doubt, had seen him so often that they had grown accustomed to him lying there in the same place, and cold walk past him in callous unconcern. How soon we can grow accustomed to anything—even to sights of human suffering! How soon we can become hardened to the appeal of helpless humanity! This helpless man had lain there a long time in that place, but thus far no one had helped him. Think of it, within a stone's throw of the Temple. Yes, in its very shadow, misery and suffering abounded!

On this Sabbath day as before, the crowds passed him as they thronged into the Temple, more intent on serving the Temple than they were in serving humanity. God help us when we grow callous and indifferent to human need, human suffering, and human helplessness! God help us when were church worship takes the place of a vital Christianity which applies itself to the deepest needs of humanity! God help us when mere church membership and church affiliation take the place of Christian principles and Christ-likeness!

As Jesus passed by, He stopped and looked at the helpless man. He was drawn to the poor sufferer, and knew that he had been for a long time in that condition. Jesus looked upon him. In that look the poor man saw pity and compassion. He felt encouraged by it. Others had stopped and looked at him, but from curiosity. They offered him no sympathy, no help. Like the priest and the Levite in the parable, they looked on and then passed on. Not so with Jesus. He did not stop to gaze in curiosity. He stopped that He might help the man, and satisfy his deepest need. Looking compassionately upon him, Jesus said: "Wilt thou be made whole?" Thinking perhaps that Jesus meant to assist him in getting into the pool after the angel had troubled the water, he told Jesus that since he had no one to help him into the water, others got in first and were healed—a grim case of the survival, not of the most fit, but of the most selfish! How true this is in life with very few exceptions! Not only self-preservation, but also self-enrichment and self-aggrandizement, constitute the first law of nature.

We can almost imagine this poor man lying there day after day, hoping against hope that some passer-by would take pity on him and get him healed. How eagerly he must have scanned the faces of those who thronged past him into the Temple! How intently he must have looked at those people in search of a kindly face to smile upon him! How expectantly he must have listened for a sympathetic word and a kindly offer of help! How human we are after all! How we crave human sympathy and help in the hour of need! Day after day, year after year, the poor man had lain there without evoking compassion. Hear his pathetic appeal to Jesus: "I have no man to help me." God pity a form of religion that blinds our eyes to the deepest needs of our fellow-beings. We can carry a Bible under our arm, yet at the same time carry but little of it in our heart. God pity the heart that never yearns with compassion over helpless humanity.

After hearing the appeal of the helpless man, Jesus said to him: "Rise, take up thy bed and walk." This may have seemed strange on the part of Jesus. It may have seemed like mockery to some, telling a helpless man to rise, take up his bed and walk. If a careless passer-by had spoken these words, they would simply have mocked the man's helplessness and misery. But spoken by the compassionate Saviour, they had a far different effect. With the command there was also given the power to obey it, and immediately the man arose, took up his bed, and walked.

He was made whole. What Jesus did in the physical realm was symbolic of what He came to do in the spiritual realm. Where he restored physical sight to blinded eyes, He manifested His power to restore spiritual vision to eyes spiritually blinded. When He restored a man to physical wholeness He manifested His power to restore to spiritual wholeness. The healing of the sick and diseased, the restoring of sanity, the working of certain miracles, manifested the power and the purpose of Jesus in the spiritual realm.

In the fourteenth verse of this same chapter, we discover the reason of the man's impotence. When Jesus found him afterward in the Temple, He said to him, "Behold thou art made whole sin no more lest a worse thing come upon thee."

Before dwelling upon these words of Jesus, we will turn our attention for a moment to the man whom He had found healed. At first we found him lying helpless among the sick and suffering. Now, we find him in the Temple among the worshipers. He is a changed man. He is healed. He goes to the house of God and worships and gives thanks. What a good thing to do! When we find God, and know Him for ourselves, we should worship Him, and like Thomas cry out "My Lord and my God." It is the turning point in a life to meet God and worship Him.

We may safely infer from the words of Jesus, that the man was reaping the fruits of sin as he lay impotent and helpless. There is a sad truth in the words "Ye shall reap whatsoever ye sow." Sin does not pay well. It pays ill. The experience of life proves this to be true. What is sin? It is transgression of the laws of God, of nature, and of the laws governing our moral and physical well-being. Transgression of these laws brings sometimes swift, but always sure and certain punishment. In a sense, sin seems easy and even natural. It appears to be along the line of least resistance. Yet the way of the transgressor is hard. Transgression is really the doing of violence to our own nature. We have to break bounds in order to transgress. We have to climb over certain barriers, and trample under feet things which are sacred—heredity, memory, instinct, conscience, and the moral law written on our own heart. This makes the way of the transgressor hard. The first lie is not easy to tell. The first step from the path of rectitude is not easy to take. Moreover there is the barrier of physical limitations. We can not break the laws that govern our physical well-being, and sin against our own bodies with impunity. The moral and physical laws that govern us, the penalties inflicted upon us for their violation, are God's own restrictive and protective measures for our own well-being. Written in plain script over the laws of life is the warning: "The penalty for the violation of these laws must be paid."

We can safely say that God's law and love are inseparable. His law springs from his love. It is the sterner expression of His love. Physical pain, lost power of mind and body are tell-tale evidences that His laws are still in operation. His law and His love, expressions of each other, are in separably intertwined.

This poor man reaped the fruits of sin in impotence and helplessness. Now that Christ had healed him, He also gave him a warning, indicating that, although he was healed, he was not immune from the penalty consequent upon the violation of the physical laws of his life.

In a certain sense our well-being is conditional. We can not safely ignore the laws that govern our physical lives. Our faculties, our powers of mind and body, are given to us that we may attain a great, a grand, and a glorious destiny. Therefore these faculties, these powers, should not be squandered or misused. The man who had sinned and suffered for it, and who was restored, was given this warning: "Sin no more lest a worse thing come upon thee." To sin against clearer light and greater knowledge, merits heavier punishment.

We may feel as spiritually helpless as this poor man felt physically helpless while he lay at the pool of Bethesda. We may feel the physical pain, the pangs of conscience, the mental agony, for the transgression of God's law. We may have soiled our souls, and defaced the divine image. We may feel powerless to break with our past, or to blot from our minds its awful memory. We can not undo the past, but we can have it forgiven.

If this is our hopeless, helpless, hapless condition, let us come to Jesus Christ, the Saviour of mankind. Into His presence we can come, whatever our state. His promise is, "Him that cometh unto me, I will in no wise cast out." He still says to the sinner, as He said to the man at Bethesda, "Wilt thou be made whole?" He has power to forgive sins. He can take away the guilt of sin and also the power of sin. At first it draws, then it drags, then it drives. There are many people in the world who would give all they possess if they could only free themselves from the shackles of some besetting sin. Oh, how sin shackles our nobler selves, debases our fine instincts, and defaces the divine image in us! Jesus is an unfailing power and help. He will pardon our sins, save us from their guilt and power, and cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

"He breaks the power of canceled sin,
And sets the prisoner free.
His blood can make the foulest clean,
His blood avails for me."

If we will but call upon Jesus, we too, shall be made whole. Let us come to this loving compassionate Saviour, the Friend of sinners. He will forgive our sins, cleanse our hearts, purify our minds, and give us power to rise on the stepping-stones of our dead selves to higher and better things.

$4,140,810,000 Tax Bill Is Sanctioned

LONDON, July 17 (CP Cable).—Britain's great rearmament budget passed its final stages in the House of Commons today when the Finance Bill, which gives Legislative effect to the budget proposals, was given third reading by a vote of 171 to 95.

The discussion closed in an atmosphere different from the exciting day when Neville Chamberlain, as Chancellor of the Exchequer, disclosed the budget secrets. Then the benches were packed. Today the House had a Friday air with Friday attendance.

Sir John Simon, Chamberlain's successor as Chancellor, closing the discussion, frankly admitted that a finance bill designed to raise £834,000,000 ($4,140,810,000) in taxation was unprecedented in these days.

"It is a very, very sobering figure," Sir John said.

Britain's Control Plan Is Studied

LONDON July 17—(C-Havas).—Great Britain's compromise proposal to solve the non-intervention deadlock was unanimously accepted here to-day by the 27-power "Hands Off Spain" committee as a basis for further discussion.

A sub-committee was expected to meet Tuesday to consider details of agreement.

French Ambassador Charles Corbin and Ivan Maisky, the Russian representative outlined their governments' position when the committee reconvened at 4 p.m. after a one-hour earlier session at which the German and Italian representatives had recorded their government's approval in principle of the London recommendations.

THE HOUSE YOU ARE BUILDING

(Conclusion)

JESUS said: And the rain descended and the floods came and the winds beat upon that house and it fell and great was the fall of it.—St. Matthew 7, 27.

Our Lord tells us that the storm falls upon both buildings; that the storm is sure to come. He develops for our instruction in righteousness the nature of the storm. The rain descended representing the sorrows and trials of life; the floods came signifying the tides of temptations which sweep upon men from time to time. Above all the winds beat upon that house, that is, the spirit of our age, the spirit of atheism and the denial of spiritual things. These are more terrible because we breathe them into our mental and spiritual lives, very often unconsciously.

When these beat upon a man whose house is built upon the sands of emotion and mere approbation of the Gospel then comes the black horror of spiritual failure and desolation. We are not to forget that these words were spoken to men who are attracted to religion, to God and to good works. But they do not desire to make any sacrifice nor to build upon the rock that Jesus Christ is the God-Man. Whose strength can enter into us and enable us to stand in the day of storm.

This thought of disaster to decent, apparently religious people, runs through many of our Lord's parables. The Tares and the Wheat. The rich farmer devoured by covetousness. The ten virgins. The rich man and Lazarus. It is good for us to remember that this rich man had done nothing really wicked. He was simply living for himself; self-centred; so selfish that he had no pity on the beggar who lay at his door, merely glancing at him as he passed. He had no compassion on the miserable man, his brother, a man like himself. He answered the age-long question—"Am I my brother's keeper?" with the definite "NO." So he went to his own place.

Christ entered this world to show us what God is like. He is the perfect image of God. He is the fulfilment of God's desire—"Let us make man in our own image." But above all Christ is come to give us of His strength and power to live that life and to reveal God's likeness in us.

What must you do? Like the prodigal son you must say: "I will arise and go to my Father and will say unto Him: Father I have sinned against heaven and before Thee and am no more worthy to be called Thy son"

There is forgiveness with God. But there must be confession before God also.

A wise and able teacher of the Christian Faith suggests that you write your sins on paper, those sins which do so easily beset you. Then kneel down and read them out before God. Such an act brings them before your mind clearly and definitely. We are so accustomed to say: "We are miserable sinners," or "Lord, have mercy upon me, a sinner," that the words make little or no impression upon our minds.

Then follows the Father's command—"Bring forth the best robe (Christ's righteousness) and put it on him." It is restoration to the Father's presence and the Father's family. Further you hear Him saying: "This my son was dead and is alive again; he was lost and is found."

We close this series with the inspiring words of Christ, spoken on the eve of His Passion:

"In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer, I HAVE OVERCOME THE WORLD."

A National Message

But above all. The bacterial and insect life of the soil is operating and living under the law of the seven years' plan. This may be illustrated in life sufficiently large to be visible to the eyes of the ordinary man. We will take the "varying hare" of the central plains of North America. This animal is a most prolific breeder. More than one family is generated and raised in a season. They mathematically increase and form the staple food of the meat-eating families of animals. When at the peak, they swarm everywhere under foot. But at the peak they are taken with a periodical disease which sweeps away the whole generation, except for a very small margin which nature protects to renew the species. For a year or two they are not in evidence. Then they begin to swarm again, and the process recurs.

So with the bacteria of the soil. Every seventh year, LET THEM ALONE. Do not pluck the fruit of the tree. Do not harvest the crop of cereals. Do not dig the roots from the furrow or garden. Allow the bacteria and insect to prey upon bacteria and insect. Allow the law of nature to function undisturbed over the whole earth. This is God's seventh year Sabbath law. It is also nature's law. The septic process will be complete at the end of the year. The soil life will be restored to perfect balance. The food supplies will be grown from a regenerated earth; and the health of all will be assured.

So the scientist is demonstrating the scientific nature of the law of the Lord. It is not a law that has been imposed as simply the will of God. The Bible law is the expression of the law of nature, to disobey which is death.

So, what the religious leaders have not been able to do, because they could not explain Bible things in the Bible way, the scientific leaders are now setting themselves to do, namely, to lead the people back to the law of the Lord which is perfect, converting the soul.

The same thing applies to economics. The same thing applies to national government. The same thing applies to religion.

Let us restore the law of the Lord and all will be well.

For the general reader of the law, the Bible puts the matter very simply.

To the question, "What meat shall we eat?" the answer is: All those animals which cleave the hoof and chew the cud.

What fish shall we eat? All those which have both fins and scales.

What fowl shall we eat? A list is given of those to be refused. They constitute the flesh-eating birds.

What insects may we eat?—for countries where insects are a serious article of diet. All those insects which have legs above their feet, as for instance, locusts have.

Eat nothing that runs on four paws. Eat no bird that goes on all fours, such as a bat.

These are directional laws. They form a generalization which is wonderful in its simplicity. Obey these directions, and we shall do well and avoid many dreadful diseases.

The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul. The statutes of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart. The fear of the Lord is clean, enduring, for ever-voicing eternal principles.

CATHEDRAL MUSINGS

When we speak of the continuity of life we mean exactly what we say. Life is a cosmic energy without halt or gap, two-fold in its phase, three-fold in its manifestation. "Death" is but a word indicating a shifting of the phase from the lower earth life to the higher spiritual octaves. There is, nor can there be cessation, for all is infinite duration alternating between the two modes of being on the ever ascending spiral of evolution God-wards. Therefore, the mystic dwelling in eternity and not in time, living in the spirit while yet in the flesh, is in the world but not of it. He knows the "great illusion" for what it really is, the training school and proving ground of the inner personality, the descent of the soul into hades, the "fall" of man into ignorance and separateness in regard to his Maker, and he works toward the glorious resurrection of the Christ enlombed within him. We say "he knows," and this is so, for he has tasted death and experienced Life. God's laws are eternal and immutable so that the experiences of the Apostles and others are not unique; they are open to all who seek in humility, knock with sincerity, and enter fearlessly. The spiritual world is not some far distant place; it is all around us, within and about us, but having eyes we see not, neither do we hear. Man has forgotten what he once knew.

The knowledge of the Mysteries is hidden from the worldly-wise. The symbolism is called fact, and the Spirit seeks vainly to inform the hears of man, to rekindle the Light of God in the uncomprehending darkness of the abyss. "Love is the Law." To love as God loves, friends, enemies rich and poor alike without distinction is God-like, the perfection of the Father that Jesus spoke of. The Ancient Wisdom bids us kill out self; kill out ambition; kill out every thing that hides from us the vision of God. All these things are the outer idolatries barring the way to the inner sanctuary, and as Jesus said, no man can serve two masters. God works through man just as He did in times of old, if we will but let Him. If a man knows God, if he has killed the snake of self, then will the Father within him work through him, and while from him much will be expected, yet to him much will be given. The mystic knows or does not know. As his knowledge expands so does he unfold the powers of God with him in his never ending progression through eternity. He walks in white as he treads the three-fold way of knowledge, of action, of becoming, for he bears the Cross of Christ.

AN EMPTY CHAIR

Eisteddfod Tribute is Paid President Lord Londonderry

CARDIFF, Wales, July 17 (CP).—The presidential chair at the opening concert of the National Eisteddfod of Wales at Machynlleth, North Wales, on August 2 will be vacant—A tribute by the organizers to the "sporting action" of Lord Londonderry. He had accepted the presidency offered him by the Eisteddfod committee, but withdrew "in the interests of the Eisteddfod" when he learned selection of an English president was not approved by members of the Welsh Nationalist party, who threatened to howl him down.

Eight adjudicators resigned as a protest against the selection. The Eisteddfod committee now refuses to accept the withdrawal of resignations and has appointed new adjudicators.

One Thing Leads To Another

It generally works that way. No one event or condition is a factor in itself; it is tied to something else. To illustrate: In great areas of southern Saskatchewan there will be no crop this year, and for that reason the farmers ceased their efforts at placing poisoned bait for the grasshoppers. In several places government stations which supervised this work have been closed. There was no crop, therefore there would be no grasshoppers, because the pest goes only where there is something to eat.

Reports coming from the irrigated lands of southern Alberta where there is growth this season tell of swarms of grasshoppers moving in that direction and farmers have been warned to do what they can in the placing of sufficient poisoned bait. The grasshoppers in flight will cover several hundred miles in a day and will keep on moving until they find something to eat or die in the attempt.

So the outcome of the drought in Saskatchewan is that the irrigated lands of southern Alberta appear to be in danger of getting the grasshoppers which under normal conditions would have remained in Saskatchewan.

Can Secure The Pictures

The provincial government is ready to undertake another campaign to make drivers of motor cars "fear conscious," and an effort to produce this condition will be made through a newspaper campaign by the publication of pictures of accident scenes. There will be no trouble getting such pictures as every newspaper office in the country could on short notice provide a supply of crash scenes.

If it is the desire of the government to have printed more realistic pictures than are generally presented in the newspapers that too can be done. There was a crash not far from Peterborough within recent weeks and an Examiner photographer was there taking pictures. There was a dead man lying on the side of the road with no covering and it was decided not to take that. In other accidents it would be possible to secure pictures of men, women and often children battered and torn and yet living. They would not make pleasing pictures at which to look, and we are certain many readers of newspapers would not want to see them. Police officers, coroners, members of juries and reporters have seen many of these scenes and they have witnessed the extent of injuries which cause death.

Whether motor drivers can be appealed to in that way is something we do not know. There was a report from Windsor recently of an accident where a young man was killed when thrown from a car, and his body was lying where it would impede traffic. There would have to be a wait until a conveyance came to remove it. It is a matter of correct record that horns began to honk and one driver called out "Put him over here." In other words, get him out of the way so we can proceed. There was no particularly impressive scene as the passing motorist paused for a moment in the presence of death. Whether that attitude of hardened indifference represents a cross-section of human understanding we do not know.

But one thing is certain—if the government desires to secure pictures which will tell in rugged detail the full horror of motor crashes the pictures can be produced, and there will be plenty which a sensitive person would not want to see. But they would tell the whole story and they would be true.

Discovering Toronto

Rev. J. R. Muchmor has changed his place of residence from Winnipeg to Toronto. He is secretary of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church. He has not been in Toronto long, nor does he think much of the place; says there is no place in the country with such nondescript places passing under the name of "hotels" and Mr. Muchmor is certain he has never seen so many drunken people in Winnipeg as he has noticed in Toronto and other places in Ontario. Evidently the gentleman from the West has stepped right into territory where there is much to be done.

Going over Toronto with specific rather than general denunciation Rev. Mr. Muchmor says he spent some time at night on Jarvis and Sherbourne streets, "and I witnessed conditions which are without parallel anywhere in the country." For one who has just recently arrived this man from the West appears to be finding his way about hurriedly. He is probably stating something of which most people in Toronto are aware, because what might be called the downtown end of Jarvis street is not particularly sweet and wholesome. Large cities have a habit of going that way. Years ago Jarvis street was a dandy; a great place for fine homes and fine families, but the tendency has been to move out to new sections and Jarvis is now pretty much a section for rooming and lodging houses and some of them are not what might be termed high-class. Toronto knows that; Toronto police are aware of it. Now that Mr. Muchmor has made the discovery as well, the question is—what is he going to do about it?

Shot Seven Times

The case of Police Sergeant Fred Davidson of Sudbury is attracting attention. He came across a stranger who was changing the plates on a car on the outskirts of his community and stopped to inquire what was going on. The answer came in a volley of fire. When the third shot was fired the officer went down and the stranger kept on shooting until he had put in all seven bullets in his body and all of them at close range. One shot is said to have gone through the body and it came out at the shoulder.

But Fred Davidson was not dead when found, nor is he dead now. Latest reports say he is making progress toward recovery and that there was only one of the seven shots which came close to ending his days. The thing seems almost unbelievable, but it actually happened. Possibly the Sudbury officer feels that he has been called upon to receive his full share of gun play for some time to come.

Making Money Out Of War

The Manchester Guardian makes the plain statement that German volunteers and large quantities of war material are entering Spain. The volunteers leave Hamburg as tourists or sportsmen, but in reality they are technicians with a proper knowledge of planes, guns and all manner of equipment which is being sent from Germany to Spain. There has been so much of this traffic going on for so long a time that one of the docks at Hamburg is known locally as the Franco wharf—Franco being the leader of the rebel forces.

When the Manchester Guardian makes such a report it will be received as reliable information with no questions asked.

The war in Spain would have been over months ago had it not been for the assistance given to the rebel army by Germany and Italy. Germany is also selling arms and munitions to the Arabs who in turn are disputing with the Italians the settlement of the land formerly ruled by Haile Selassie, and the Italians are well aware of what is taking place. The German firms shipping and making war material are getting paid for it, otherwise it would not be supplied.

So the war in Spain with all its butchery has been kept in operation because the makers of armaments need profits. Had there been nothing sent in from the outside the struggle would have been over long ago.

The Modern Plant

There was a strike at the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. in Kitchener, but it did not last long. In the department where the strike took place there were but 16 employees, but when they quit work it meant the stoppage of employment for the entire staff of 650 people.

The more highly modernized a plant becomes the more readily can it be brought to a standstill. A newspaper plant is a good example of that because newspaper offices have about as modern equipment today as any industry can possess. The linotype machine for instance will set as much type as five good hand compositors of the old days, and the type it produces is more easily handled when it comes to making up pages. The automatic receiving machine is as accurate as can be for bringing in telegraph and cable news; it will take around 24,000 words per day. The rotary press now in use in nearly every daily newspaper office will print, fold, cut and deliver papers of almost any size at from 40 to 60 thousand copies per hour, while in the old days the flat-bed press used to print a single sheet at about 1,500 impressions per hour.

And yet if there were a break in the machine known as the mat roller the whole process would be stopped right there; if something went wrong in the stereotype department the plates could not be cast there and no paper would be printed, and if the electric energy is shut off the whole business ceases. If the power is off for any length of time it will be a good hour and a-half before the work can again begin.

And yet the newspaper plant is modern. Modern as can be. There are a good many people working in newspaper offices today who came from smaller places such as village or town offices where there was no modern equipment in their day. When it came to setting type for the paper there was no outside agency such as a power plant to be considered. The compositor either sat or stood in front of a case and picked up a letter at a time and kept on doing so. When there was enough type for the paper the pages were made up and placed on the old flat-bed. In a good many places there was no motive power to make the press go apart from strong arms and backs of those who worked there. If power went off elsewhere it made no difference; the paper was not depending on that and it always came out on time. And yet the village plant was not modern; it was perhaps almost primitive in its methods. But it was never tied up.

Jumping On The Church

The American Magazine by the method of asking questions directly and through the mail, received sufficient answers to come to definite conclusions as to why people do not go to church. Those from whom answers were received were folk who had previously been numbered with churchgoers. Most of them readily admitted they believed in God and believed in prayer, but felt the church had nothing further to offer them. There was nothing said in the direction of whether they had anything to offer to the church, and that angle of the question is not often developed.

There were reasons found which were considered commonplace because they are so frequently heard. Listing the major ones in the numerous class the American Magazine gives them:

Sunday morning is my only chance to catch up on sleep.

I think I can worship better by going to the countryside.

Church buildings are so gloomy and depressing.

The people around the church and the minister are always asking for money.

Those excuses were placed together as not amounting to much. Going deeper others were placed in another group. Summarized they ran like this:

The church no longer is known for its good works because it has been replaced as a centre of charity by secular and government agencies.

The poor people do not go there because their clothing is not as good as that worn by others. The church is a place for well dressed people. Others are not made to feel they are wanted.

The church as a fountain of healing which once had miraculous results through faith has been replaced as physician by the science of medicine.

The church which once exorcised devils from the minds of man and restored tranquility of soul has lost its place to specialists who now claim that crime is the result of disordered glands, poor nourishment, disease, poverty and ignorance.

The church, once the cradle of education and the founder of many colleges, has lost that form of leadership.

Then there were those who held that church members were no different to non-church members; they were ruthless in competition for business, their social habits were just the same as other people.

The editors of the American Magazine have asked their readers to comment on the findings of the questions asked. In such a case the comment would add little. Picking the church to pieces is something which can go along in midsummer just as well as in any other season, and always does the discussion centre around that same wording: "What is wrong with the church. Little time seems to be spent on discussing anything which is right about it. The answer to a great deal of the questioning and criticism can be found in two little lines, the name of the writer of which we cannot recall:

If all church members were just like me

What sort of a church would my church be?

If people would answer that little question plainly and honestly perhaps the discussions about the church would start to amount to something.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Ontario Highways Department is going after the slow drivers, doubtless on the theory that the fast drivers will eventually get themselves.

Mr. Roebuck has been saying things about the Hepburn Hussars and that about ends any chance of a reconciliation between the premier and his former Attorney-general.

The Ontario government may give municipalities a subsidy of two mills next year but it is not yet known just what the Queen's Park crowd expects to take in exchange.

More loans were made under the Home Improvement plan during the first two weeks of June than in any other similar period. The spurt in building operations may be traced to that increase.

Pictures of traffic crashes are to be used by the Ontario Department of Highways in a safety campaign. If they want photographs of real wrecks they should snap some of the vehicles for which licenses are issued.

The Hepburn government has decided to use the courts to recover further settlements in succession duties instead of trying to gather in the money through a Royal Commission. The wisdom of the decision should be generally apparent.

COUSIN EZRA

(By A. R. K.)

¶ My Cousin Ezra got a car, nor has he run it very far, because it's very old; most every time he makes a start, why sections of it come apart, it leaves him flat and cold.

¶ He had some experts see the thing, but they just laughed like anything, they said the thing was dead; they chanted then a hymn of hate, told Ezra fast to scrap the crate, or smash it up instead.

¶ But Ezra's such a funny jay, he's kind of stubborn in his way, he says he bought the thing; he knows that car has lots of woe, but he is going to make it go, if he works there till spring.

¶ So Ezra buys that part and this, renews some section that's amiss, he renovates the thing; some bolts and nuts he gets today, and when he gets them tucked away, he buys another spring.

¶ He bothers dealers quite a bit, for they can't find the parts to fit, for Ezra's car is old; and often they dig down so far, to find some gadget for his car, it's covered with blue mold.

¶ For nigh three month's he's been that way, and whacks out money every day, he fears fine days will pass; then Ezra's spent so much for stuff, of cash he hasn't got enough—to go and buy some gas.

PEOPLE living in the town of Harriston complain about a piano tuner who has been carrying on business there recently. He gets a chance to look over the instrument and then makes the startling discovery that the piano is infested with moths and they will do serious damage if not attended to. In this way he has been securing on an average of from $5 to $7 from the people with whom he comes in contact. Those who paid over the amount claim there was little actual exterminating of the bugs done.

Gordon Pogue, swimming instructor of Toronto, had something to say about what to do when a canoe tipped. He thinks people ought to be able to swim before venturing far from shore in a canoe. But people who do get dumped out of a canoe should try and stick around the thing because it won't sink. He says "It would have to be about the worst old death-trap on the lakes before it would sink. I have dumped dozens of them at various times and never yet have I encountered a canoe that would sink."

Mr. Pogue suggests that whenever possible it is best for a canoe occupied by people who cannot swim and who are not skilled in its operation should remain in the section of the water not far removed from other boats

The Kindly Court

COURT is not always a tough place to go with a group of officials seeking to sink a man in trouble. Not at all. George D. Rattray appeared on a charge of bathing his dog in the city aqueduct, and Recorder Plante was hearing the evidence. Rattray in giving his side of the story first stated the dog was only having a drink, and after that he got to the point where he spoke about his feet having slipped in. Recorder Plante smiled and advised Rattray to "watch out or you'll soon have him up to the place where only the tip of his tail will be showing." Rattray ceased talking and was relieved to find he had received suspended sentence.

Hon. J. G. Gardiner is living mostly in the West, but he returned to Ottawa to pick up the loose ends of business in his department. He has covered much of the drought area and he is certain that at least 100,000 people in Alberta and 300,000 in Saskatchewan will need some measure of relief assistance. Recent rains, he said, had improved the situation. They were of no help to the grain crop but they would be of some assistance when it came to providing something to feed the cattle.

Unearthing Pompeii

POMPEII was the victim of Mount Vesuvius in A.D. 79, but it is comparatively easy to walk through much of it today. Unearthing Pompeii has been rather easy, and more than half the city now lies open for inspection. It is possible to walk through the streets on the same paving stones which the Romans used, stand in their living rooms or behind the counters of their shops and sit in the seats they occupied in the theatre. One can see the mills where they ground their corn and the ovens where they baked their bread. Travellers say they are sure the Romans were a people living a life much the same as we do today subject to the limitations which invention and science have added in our favor.

Use Coal Oil Headlights

BRITISH railways continue to favor the modest but reliable oil lamp for their headlights. The reason is that English lines are efficiently fenced and there is really little danger of animals straying on their tracks. All the drivers of the the engines need to see are the signal lights which are more easily picked up without the glare of the powerful headlights.

Disappointed in Love

IF you are one of these individuals with a hankering for unorthodox souvenir collecting, you probably have been disappointed in love. This is the explanation offered by a London psychologist regarding the "disappearance" of 62 spoons at the House of Commons dinner on Coronation Day. This is what the expert said about the episode of the spoons. "It shows that the primitive mentality is with us still. There is good deal in common between the mind of the souvenir hunter and the mind of the kleptomaniac—Inquiry usually shows these people have been disappointed in love; being unable to get the love for which they yearn, their acquisitive instincts are diverted to others and other peculiar habits."

A Creepy Subject

(Kitchener Record)

PERHAPS City Council acted in self defence Monday night when the alderman decided to move infested transients from their free lodgings to more comfortable quarters in a private lodging house at 25 cents a bed.

Fear lest the infestation of the police cells might move upstairs to the council chamber may have animated the aldermanic move.

Kitchener's hospitality to transients has always been kindly and considerate. These poor unfortunates who tramp the roads, many of them mere youths who have never been able to obtain work since they left school, have an aimless present to contend with and an aimless, vague future to look forward to.

They gather much in their travels and it is not without reason that objection has been raised to their leaving part of their gatherings in the police cells which after all must be kept clean and wholesome for prisoners.

Providing them with a lodging ticket instead is a kindly gesture to unfortunate men who meet but little kindness along the hard and for the most part luckless road they travel

How To Be Happy.

(St. Catharines Standard)

TEN New Enland couples who have lived happily, married from 50 to 70 years, asked how they did it, provided ten reasons:

1. Learn to operate on a 50-50 basis;
2. Be honest;
3. Be tolerant;
4. Be companionable;
5. Work hard;
6. Strive for mutual understanding;
7. Try to please each other;
8. Keep your own individuality;
9. Be loyal;
10. Be thoughtful.

Followed by all married couples that decalogue would soon put the divorce mills out of business.

Moving Too Slowly

(Galt Reporter)

THE motor vehicle moving too slowly on the highway now comes to the front as a traffic problem. The Ontario department of highways and the provincial police are holding consultations with regard to this difficulty. They have had many complaints concerning 'draggy' drivers who have held up traffic. Recently it was reported that a large truck moving at five miles an hour delayed other traffic for two hours, on the Kingston road.

The provincial officers are said to have instructions to watch for slow drivers and warn them. It is pointed out that under some circumstances slow driving can be equally dangerous with speeding.

It is pointed out that often several trucks, following each other, maintain a speed that slows down lighter traffic yet no opportunity is offered the latter to pass because of density of traffic coming in the opposite direction. The result is that in a short time there is dangerous congestion, especially on narrow highways.

Poison Ivy

(Chatham News)

THE Ontario department of agriculture will sponsor a drive on Poison Ivy, through the District Agricultural representatives. Poison Ivy is a noxious weed and as such must be destroyed. It would be well to have all weed inspectors of the country instructed as to the appearance and character of this weed, so that it may be eliminated from the list of nature hazards that man is compelled to endure.

This campaign will be of interest to a number of Chathamites in a certain district of the city where several children, and older people, have already become affected. But the inspectors cannot do it all. Persons who recognize Poison Ivy growing in the city limits, or in any part of the county, should immediately notify the proper authorities.

To the Editor

LIVING AND WAGES

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Enclosed is a clipping taken from the Star. This has been sent in by some Peterborough working man and the information is to my mind very valuable to both employer and employee. Is it any wonder we are having a strike in two plants with others planning the same action?

We have in this city about 1,500 men working for less than $16 a week. Rents are going up, yet taxes have been reduced. This should not be. Cost of living is now $2.50 per week higher than a year ago. The working man is finding it harder to live now, than last year for any man who got an increase in wages, it does not meet the higher cost of food and rent, so he is getting poorer instead of ahead. Can anyone else in the city give a statement as to the exact cost of living as is stated by the writer to the Star?

I read a few nights ago where a family in Toronto were living on milk, potatoes and bread, with meat once a week, and no butter. Yes a camel can go without food or water for a week but if we feed dumb animals like some families get fed we would be arrested. It is about time we got back to God's way, live and let live.

ANOTHER PETERBOROUGH WORKING MAN.

The letter in the Star is as follows:

COST OF LIVING

To the Editor of the Star.

Sir: I have read in The Star many editorials and letters on low wages, cost of living, etc. Does anyone know what it really does cost a family of, say, four or six, to live? May I say we do. My wife and I have kept account of every nickel spent for the past three years, and we know what it costs to keep one family of four children and ourselves.

This is based on an average per week for a year: Rent, $5; meat, groceries, vegetables, $4; milk, two quarts a day, $1.50; bread, $1.50; fuel, $2; light and water, $1; clothing, $3; recreation, $1; insurance, $1; miscellaneous, $1.50; total, $30.50.

Now what can one do without or where can one cut down? we have tried our best but it's impossible to do it, live with good nourishing food and respectable clothes.

Let Hepburn, Roebuck, and Croll give this the once over before setting a rate for wages for men. Give these men credit they are making a stop in the right direction, employers have for years taken advantage of help because it was plentiful. If I had not earned more than $20 last year, I would be in the hole for my doctor bill was $27.50 and dentist $37. This did not include medicine which was plenty.

Most working men who earn less than $20 are getting poorer every year. Some homes have little or nothing in furniture, bedding, or dishes in their homes. Besides living we should earn enough to save a few dollars to buy a home, or save for old age.

In any city with 15,000 or more people a man should earn $25 per week. In towns and villages under 15,000 people, rent, etc., is a little cheaper so $22 might do. Then in villages under 2,000 people $20 or $18 is little enough because rent and fuel is the only thing families can save on. In a city like Toronto, Hamilton, London and Windsor any laboring man should get $27.50 as it costs more to live in these places.

This is information I feel is valuable to all.

PETERBOROUGH WORKING MAN.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Juy 17 (C.P.) — Booming wheat prices came back to the Winnipeg Grain Exchange after a two-days' absence and all futures climbed to new seasonal highs with July and October up the five-cent daily allowable limit. Reports of good rains in Western Canada almost entirely disappeared as a market factor. At the close, gains of 5 to 3¾ cents remained.

After a nervous start when wheat values sank nearly two cents below the previous close, prices steadily climbed under leadership from Chicago where a feeling was said to exist that Canada's exports next crop year will be limited due to drought in the West. Local operators quickly followed outside support.

Some overseas buying was reported and a Canadian crop estimate of 150,000,000 bushels this year, made by Hon. J. G. Gardiner, was said to have been an influence on the Liverpool Exchange also. The estimate is about 50,000,000 bushels below normal.

Liverpool ended an irregular session ½d to ⅝d higher and Buenos Aires at noon was 2⅜ to 2¾ cents up.

Argentina's wheat shipments this week totalled 670,000 bushels, less than half of those a week ago. Australia cleared 1,120,000 bushels of wheat.

Small sales were reported in cash wheat, but a fair trade in oats for domestic mills were noted.

Rye futures rose five cents, with July at $1.53⅝, the highest price in twelve years. Other coarse grains were firm.

GALLANT RESCUE IS MADE BY BOY

Eight-Year-Old Akron Boy Rescues Jimmy Coons From Drowning

A little American boy, eight-year-old Paul Darr of Akron, Ohio, was the central figure in a gallant rescue at Sandy Lake the other day when Jimmy Coons, the three-year-old son of J. J. Coons, proprietor of the garage at the lake was saved from drowning. The little Coons boy had fallen from the wharf into the water and was going down for the third time when young Darr whose attention had been called to the affair by the screaming of a little girl plunged into the lake, seized the smaller boy and succeeded in bringing him to shore where he was quickly revived. The courage and presence of mind of young Darr are to be brought to the attention of the proper authorities so that his brave action may receive official recognition.

WHEAT IS HIGHER ON WEEK'S SALES

All Three Futures Touch New Seasonal Peaks With July At $1.53 7-8

WINNIPEG, July 17—(CP). — A booming wheat market dominated by rust developments in the United States spring wheat states and Manitoba, to-day left wheat prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange substantially higher for the week, despite the normally bearish factor of rains in Western Canada.

General rains on the Canadian Prairies proved a secondary market influence, as prices jumped ahead the full five-cent limit on two different days to finish the week Friday 9¾ to 7⅛ cents higher, with July at $1.53⅞, October $1.45⅛, and December $1.41⅝.

Estimate of this year's Western Canada wheat crop at 150,000,000 bushels made by Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Federal Minister of Agriculture, proved a bullish factor Friday to override favorable Western Canada weather news and aided in the five-cent advance of July and October futures. December came within ⅛ cent of the five-cent limit.

All three futures toucher new seasonal highs, and July at $1.53⅞ was the best price for any future on the Winnipeg Exchange since the first week of December, 1929.

Tuesday all three futures zoomed up the five-cent limit on a sudden influx of overseas demand for Canadian wheat plus speculative buying. Trade throughout the week was active with good investment buying and further inter-market spreading in evidence.

The Rambling REPORTERS

BRAVE, YES, BUT EASILY FRIGHTENED.

Walking nonchalantly along a lane near a main thoroughfare on Friday, a lad about so high and in very tender years (about eight of them) was seen puffing contentedly on a fag. The boy was doing such a good job he looked like a veteran of the old school, but he hurriedly threw it away when yelled at. There have been reports heard that the boy has been seen with his father's pipe also.—D.W.

were instructed to renew demands for settlement of the crisis.

The Government, gravely concerned over the situation developing from clashes between Japanese and Chinese troops near Peiping since July 7, wired instructions to Shigeru Kawagoe, Ambassador to China, and Lieut.-Gen. Kiyoshi Katsuki, Commander of Japan's North China forces.

(Peiping dispatches reported the main armies of both Japan and China were moving toward the trouble zone, creating the danger of much more serious engagements than the small clashes that heretofore have disturbed North China.)

successful effort to recover the body.

Shaw who is one of the striking employees of Auburn Mills said he recovered the body of the child in about 6-feet of water. Hurrying ashore with the unconscious little form he lost no time in applying artificial respiration, pending arrival of the Fire Department Rescue Squad.

Assisted by Playmates.

In his efforts at artificial respiration Shaw was assisted by some of the playmates of the drowning victim. Under his instructions they chafed the child's arms and legs in an attempt to induce circulation.

Answering an alarm around 4.20 p.m. the Fire Department Rescue Squad made a sharp response with inhalator equipment, working on the body for an hour or more before Dr. G. Murray Fraser pronounced the child dead.

Bill Sullivan, 10, of 472 Rogers Street, who said he was one of a group of boys who had been playing around the "deep hole," related: "We were going to swim across. But we told Jack not to go because he could not bottom it. He was diving there for a while. Then he put his arms up over his head and disappeared."

Jack Guerin, 13, of Charlbond Apartments, said that he and young Stinson left home about 2 o'clock and had been playing on the old dam for some time before the drowning occurred. Others in the vicinity who witnessed the fatality included: Fred Garvey, Driscoll Terrace, and Francis O'Toole of Driscoll Terrace.

John Spencer, who recently figured in a rescue from drowning at the "deep hole' when two of his brothers were in danger of drowning was on the east bank of the river when he heard the lads yelling and witnessed Shaw bring the body from the water.

The lad, who lived with his mother, Mrs. Edith Stinson, at Apartment M, Charlbond Apartments, leaves his parents and also two brothers and two sisters.

The funeral will be held on Monday at 3 p.m. from the Funeral Home of A. Comstock & Sons.

11 FARMERS FINED $5 EACH, TARRING TORONTO OPTICIAN

they were "going together," escaped almost unnoticed.

Accused Lose Limelight.

Their departure climaxed two hours of court hearing, in which far more was heard about Johnson's and Mrs. Lennox's relations than the charge of assault which faced the accused. C. R. McKeown, K.C., of Toronto, counsel for the thirteen accused, two of whom were dismissed, harangued the court at length about "the sheep in wolf's clothing" until it was difficult to determine whether Johnson, Mrs. Lennox or the collection of Mono farmers was on trial.

Throughout the course of the hearing, feeling was high in the audience, plainly evidenced by the laughing which greeted the remarks of Mr. McKeown. Sweat glistened on the faces of the gaping men and women who jammed the room and packed the corridors. As Magistrate L. J. C. Bull of Brampton rendered his verdict and levied the penalty, there was a concerted rush for the doors and stairs, with the audience forming in a mob outside to wait for the appearance of Johnson.

Dragged From Car.

On the night of July 4, after he and Mrs. Lennox and the latter's 15-year-old daughter, Flora, had spent the day together on a picnic, Johnson was dragged from his car by a gang of 40 or 50 men, his clothing ripped off and copious daubs of tar applied to his body. Feathers were not used because, it was revealed in court, Mrs. Lennox broke loose from the captors who held her, and "chased the gang away with the automobile crank."

Half an hour after court adjourned today, the following eleven men lined up to pay $5 and court costs for participating in the tarring, having pleaded guilty to reduced charges of common assault: Mervin Smith and Percy Smith (brothers of Mrs. Lennox), Boyd McLean, Ormsby Smith, Cecil Smith, Tom Green, John Willerton, Malcolm Brown, Addison Allen, Douglas Donaldson and Reg Hagerman. Magistrate Bull reduced the charge from assault, causing bodily harm, because of the previous clear records of the men and because no evidence had been adduced of actual physical injury.

Cars Line Streets

For an hour before court opened cars lined the streets leading to the neat, red-brick building. They were the cars, mostly, of farmers, who were unanimously favorable to the gang that had taken the law into its own hands. They were vague about the law but they wanted to see justice done; they were in a mood to do it themselves if they weren't satisfied.

It was a few minutes after 2 o'clock when Magistrate Bull ascended to the Bench. A. G. Davis, K.C., from near-by Brampton, accompanied R. David Evans, Crown Attorney, to the counsel table. The crowd sat down in a rustle of noise as the constable finished his chant, declaring the court open.

Two Charges Withdrawn

There followed a few minutes of bickering, after which charges against Clarence Denny and Ed Henderson were withdrawn, Mr. McKeown stating he could prove they were not even near the scene of the alleged fracas. Crown Attorney Evans then explained that Mr. Davis would take the Crown's case because he (Evans) felt he should withdraw from the hearing because of his personal relations through being legal representative in the past of several of the figures in the case. It was decided to hear the charge against Richardson Robinson first.

Johnson, bald, thin-lipped and steady-eyed, then took the stand. He had known Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lennox for six or seven years, he said. He knew many people around their district. He often visited the Lennoxes and on July 4 had met Mrs. Lennox and Flora near her father's farm. They had had a noon picnic lunch near-by, in a little grade where other picnickers had also gathered.

Identifies Clothing.

In the evening they started home, he said. The car was moving slowly when suddenly two men grabbed his arm, dragged him from the car, tore his clothing off and began daubing tar all over his head and body. He identified the torn clothing, entered as an exhibit, and pointed out the tar daubs on it. When the men fled he had telephoned Provincial Police at Alliston, awaited their arrival and aided in trying to locate the men. He had suffered several bruises, but described his most serious injury as "not been any good since."

Then Mr. McKeown entered the scene and the crowd stirred hopefully. He referred to a Mrs. McElwain near Mono, but Johnson denied ever having "got into trouble about her." He agreed that he had made the acquaintance of the Lennox family, had visited them often in both a professional and friendly relation, and had taken Mrs. Lennox out occasionally, but insisted the latter were "purely business trips."

"And then your attention to Mrs. Lennox became very secret?" asked Mr. McKeown. The crowd leaned forward tensely.

"No," replied Johnson.

"Didn't Robert Lennox," demanded Mr. McKeown pounding the rail of the witness box, "take his phone out so you couldn't phone and make arrangements to meet her?" "Not that I know of."

"Well, you made arrangements through neighbors' phones?" "Yes."

"And you wrote her?" "Yes."

"And didn't Bob Lennox threaten to kill you?" "Never."

"You have an apartment in Toronto where ladies stay some times, haven't you?"

At this point Mr. Davis objected. Mr. McKeown turned slowly and, with gesture, declaimed:

"Then I shall say it. An apartment where Mrs. Lennox stayed and stays." Johnson's prompt reply: "And Bob Lennox, too." was almost lost in the ecstatic gasps of the crowd.

Witness Angered.

"Ah," said Mr. McKeown. "Bob sometimes but Mrs. Lennox all the time." Johnson cracked back—an angry, "No."

"You knew Bob Lennox was angry about the attentions you paid his wife?" "I suppose so."

"And you promised this group of citizens, who could stand it no longer, that you would get out of the country and stay out?" "Absolutely not. I'm here now."

"You knew that common assault was the result of your actions towards this woman?" "Certainly not."

"You knew there was trouble in that home and that there was liable to be a separation?" "I have heard that for eight years."

"And yet you took her away." "On a business trip to see a lawyer."

"And kept here from Saturday night until Tuesday at your apartment?" "I did not. No sir."

"And do you know you broke up the home of Bob Lennox?" "It was broken up eight years ago."

Didn't Know It.

"And you knew a man was being deprived of that priceless asset, a wife, and two children of that loving care of a mother?" "No Sir."

"Do you know now that two brothers and their neighbors then sought to get rid of you that night?" "I suppose so."

"But they didn't, did they?" "No."

Mr. McKeown then declared that Mrs. Lennox's brother had come to Johnson long ago and warned him to stay away from his sister. Johnson then left the stand, after telling Mr. McKeown that he "might ask a few questions" himself that would be difficult to answer.

He was followed by Provincial Constable Elliott, who recounted events of the night of July 4, of answering a call, finding Johnson pantless and in an overcoat, covered with tar. He had then worked until 4 o'clock in the morning, locating some of the men who took part in the affair. Richardson Robinson the man, specifically on trial at the moment, had admitted holding Mrs. Lennox and Flora while others daubed Johnson, he said.

Mrs. Lennox Questioned.

Mrs. Lennox then took the stand, a slender, sallow-faced woman, wearing a wide white hat, a blue frock and two gold rings on her left hand. Beneath the hat, streaks of grey showed in her dark hair.

She corroborated details of Johnson's story of the nocturnal fracas and agreed that Robinson's main part had seemed to be trying to keep her and Flora out of the affair. She identified James Hand as the other man associated in this task with Robinson.

"You and Johnson," demanded Mr. McKeown, "have been keeping company some time now?" "Yes."

"Why didn't Johnson call at your home for you?" "Because Bob didn't approve of me going out this way."

"So Johnson would write or telephone you and meet you?" "Yes."

"This has been going on for a couple of years now, hasn't it?" "I wouldn't say that."

Told of Rumors.

Well, you had heard this was being circulated around the countryside?" "My husband said so."

"And you still went out?" "I said I would go out when I felt like it."

The audience murmured, and the constable cried for order.

"And Bob said if you were bound to meet this man to go on with him, didn't he?" "Yes."

"And Johnson knew all this?" "He may have."

"Affection between you and Bob was gone by this time?" "Yes."

"And notwithstanding all this, Johnson kept coming to see you?" "Yes."

"Your two brothers finally came to him and told him to get out of the country, didn't they?" "I don't know of it."

Mrs. Lennox then said she had no idea on the night of July 4 that her two brothers were among the gang of men. She was certain she hadn't known they were the ringleaders, as Mr. McKeown described them.

"You have seen Johnson since then, haven't you?" "Yes."

"And," said Mr. McKeown, weightily, "you've more than seen him. You have been with this man who broke up your home, this wolf in sheep's clothing?" "Yes."

"Right from laying this charge he went and met you?" "Yes."

"So that what happened that night was not enough to keep him away, to keep this community clean?" Mrs. Lennox didn't answer. As Mr. McKeown sat down, the crowd exhaled slowly, and began to wipe streaming brows.

Mr. Davis then stated he prefered not to put 15-year-old Flora in the box. Magistrate Bull agreed. Mr. McKeown then asked that the charge against Robinson and Hand be dropped. Despite Mr. Davis' objections, the Magistrate dismissed the two. The case of the remaining eleven was then considered and after much argument, the charge was reduced to common assault.

Sees Result As Betterment.

Mr. McKeown then entered a plea of guilty for the eleven, addressing the court in their behalf, deprecating the taking of law into gang hands, but declaring that the result had been for the "great betterment" of the community. Mrs. Lennox, he said, was now at home.

Mr. Davis, after a whispered colloquy with Mrs. Lennox, rose to state that the woman wished Mr. McKeown corrected, that her husband had agreed to them being separated and that such arrangements were being made.

Magistrate Bull then ordered the eleven to stand, declared that the attitude of Mrs. Lenox had earned her no respect in court, the action of Johnson was undefendable, but that the law must be respected and obeyed. In view of the previous records of the men, and the little injury done, he would fine them $5.00 each.

So the crowd rushed for the doors, jostling for first place in line outside to greet Johnson.

PRICES DECLINING ALL INDEX GROUPS ON STOCK MARKET

Closing Figures However Are Still Up On Lows Of Week

RECOVERY SLOWS

TORONTO, July 17 (CP)—The first phase of the stock market recovery from the year lows set up in the final 10 days of June, appears to have ended with Monday's and Tuesday's sessions and since then prices in all index groups have been slowly declining.

The gains registered in the first nine sessions of July show little impairment as yet however and the setting down of prices is still well within the bounds of a normal reaction from a sharp rally.

At the close of the market yesterday industrial shares, as measured by the Toronto exchange index, stood at 164.06, showing a margin of 6.43 above the year's low while the golds were 13.59 and the miscellaneous mines 19.74 respectively above their low points.

Brazilian Traction shares advanced $1 to $35. Other utilities, with exception of Beauharnois and Shawinigan which were higher, were not conspicuously strong.

Leaders Weaken

Interlisted leaders, including Ford of Canada, the senior oils, the distillery stocks and a few of the heavy industrials reflected the general firmness of the New York market while in the average the food, steel, bank, paper and miscellaneous shares weakened in the period.

The common shares of Hiram Walkers-Gooderham and Worts anticipated Thursday's satisfactory earnings statement and advanced to a new high for the year at $51.50. Profit-taking reduced the gain, but the price closed yesterday still up $2 for the week. Distillers-Seagrams acted sympathetically, adding 75 cents.

Although the market position of the metals continues to improve slowly leading base metal shares registered declines in the week. Noranda and International Nickel lost 75 cents each. Some of the cheaper stocks of the group improved, among them, Sudbury Basin, Sherritt-Gordon and Chromium.

Trade in the golds lacked features. Lake Shore and McIntyre advanced 75 cents each and Dome and Hollinger registered small declines. Narrow net gains were boarded for Wright Hargreaves, Tech Hughes, Little Long Lac, Macassa, Central Patricia and San Antonio and minor losses apeared for Pickle Crow, Siscoe, O'Brien and Sylvanite.

Mary Elizabeth Mackay Home From the Coronation

Chosen to represent the girls of Hatfield Hall, Cobourg, Miss Mary Elizabeth Mackay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Mackay of London street, was one of the twenty-five girls from private schools across Canada, who saw the wonderful pageantry of the Coronation, to be followed by many other thrilling experiences.

Three crowded weeks in London began with Coronation Day when the young visitors, in seats opposite to Buckingham Palace, had a splendid view of the processions both as they set out and returned, and of the Royal family when they appeared on the balcony.

They were present at an Empire Broadcast of the British Broadcasting Corporation.

On the Tuesday following the Coronation, they heard Earl Baldwin speak to the Empire Rally of Youth at Albert Hall. The Duke of Gloucester was present also and made a short speech. The next day the girls saw the State Drive and then attended the Service of Youth at Westminster Abbey, after which they had the honor of being presented to Queen Mary at Marlborough House.

They visited the Tower of London and had the unique experience of seeing the "Ceremony of the Keys" when, at ten o'clock, the doors are locked and no one after that allowed to enter or leave. They visited the Houses of Parliament. Mary Elizabeth Mackay was one of eight girls allowed in the House of Commons, when she heard the present Prime Minister, Neville Chamberlain, and other members, speak. The same night they saw the Royal Tournament at Olympia.

The Canadian scholars then spent three weeks at different girls' schools, Elizabeth Mackay going to "Queen Anne's" School. She was given the opportunity of visiting Cambridge, Oxford and Stratford-on-Avon. The twenty-five girls all gathered in Eastbourne for one final glorious week.

The young traveller arrived in Peterborough only a few days ago, having been on a motor trip with her parents in Quebec province.

Youth Movements And World Peace

VANCOUVER, July 17—(CP).—Nature, objects and influence of "Youth Movements for Peace" are being discussed at five round-table conferences of the Pan-Pacific Women's Association conference in Vancouver on July 12-24.

Miss Constance Duncan, director, urged each member country to present a report of what is being done to educate young people in the ideals of international co-operation and world peace.

Miss Duncan, of the Bureau of Social and International Affairs, of Melbourne, Australia, has given as discussion questions:

To what extent are youth societies, school children, university students, and other groups organized by youth for youth?

By what methods do these societies hope to bring about world peace—by the pacifist method of refusal to take part in war; by the League of Nations; by organizing the workers of the world so that the threat to peace would be met by a general strike; by working for an economic and political revolution and the establishment of a Socialist, Communist or Fascist regime?

What methods do they adopt for propaganda purposes—parades, processions, plays, articles for the press, publishing of newspapers, pamphlets or sending out teams to do "evangelistic work" for peace in their own countries?

Lastly the subject will be developed as to its international outlets and general comments made as to most effective results.

Miss Maragret Clay, Victoria, is the Canadian chairman.

Pill Banquet Now Possible

EDMONTON, July 17—(CP).—Long predicted as the ultimate in culinary science, tiny pills, loaded with food value, are now in use as emergency rations on the United Air Transport Lines running from this city.

Officials have installed a gallon container of the tablets in their north-bound tri-motor, and calmly assert, that in event of forced landing the supply would be enough to feed a party of 12 for two weeks.

For instance, there are the "lunch tablets." Twenty-five of these, each about the size of a quarter, possess high-powered food value equivalent to a large order of milk and vegetables. Then there is the quart-sized the hypothetical party of 12 for one week, prevents scurvy, and possesses an overpowering smell.

For dessert, the marooned passengers could fall back on four vest pocket-sized tins of saccharine, 300 times sweeter than sugar, with each minute container equal to 10 pounds of sugar.

Srtiped Frocks Are Modish This Year

(By Central Press)

YOU SEE a lot of plain blacks and navy blues, and many gaily printed fabrics with designs of everything from flowers to funny little figures of people and animals.

So if you want to look distinctive this very smart season, why don't you choose a stripe for your next frock. Here we have pretty Ann Sheridan, motion picture player, wearing a brown linen dress brightly striped in white lines for that spectator sports dress than will take her anywhere an informal frock may be worn.

A dress such as this is cool and comfortable when you are watching the horse races, the tennis match, the ball game or following the golfing stars around the course.

Plaids Are Good

If you don't like your stripes straight up and down or across, many of the best looking spectator sports dresses are in plaids in such materials as chiffon, or crepe or even a lightweight plaid wool, which is very popular this year.

For the beach the new halters, to be worn with your shorts or your slacks, are very intriguing. They may be had in stripes, too, in printed cotton, linen or pique, and they are very inexpensive.

A washable dress that is very pretty and practical for summer is in a spun rayon fabric with a raised pattern that looks like needle-point.

Drop-stitch jersey is another popular fabric for summer, and it comes in black with white trimmings or in white. Then there are the so-called "better" summer fabrics — angeiskin crepes, the more expensive cotton prints and printed seersuckers, etc., all to give you that well-dressed look, whether you stay at home or travel hither and yon.

FLIES CARRY THESE "EGGS"

This is the time of the year that children also adults will contract roundworms. The tiny invisible eggs are carried on the feet of flies. They may be in the grass where pets will pick them up and pass them along to children. They may be on fruits, berries, lettuce, cabbage and other leafy vegetables; also found in impure drinking water. Roundworms are destroyers of health. Not so long ago a frantic mother rushed into our office with a two-year-old child in her arms. The little one was skin and bones and its little stomach was bloated twice the size. In a bottle the mother had a specimen of roundworm that measured 12 inches long. The mother wanted to know if the child could possibly have any more of these vicious pests. Of course we could not tell. We suggested that she try giving her little one our child's medicine called "MOTHER'S FRIEND". The mother purchased a bottle and gave it according to directions and the next day she returned with 17 more of these ugly pests. At a later date the mother returned with the little one; you wouldn't believe it was the same child. It had improved so rapidly. This mother was lucky to see the specimens, as roundworms seldom expel themselves. The symptoms of worms differ and are many. You may be led to believe a child is suffering from an entirely different ailment. Wise mothers take no chances! They give their children "MOTHER'S FRIEND" even if they only suspect worm trouble. It is a splendid intestinal and stomach regulator. It purifies the system to such an extent that worms cannot exist in its presence and are expelled from the system. Adults will have these pests, too! For them we recommend "E-WELL". This remedy acts similar to "MOTHER'S FRIEND", but is many times stronger. Sold by druggists. Five convenient sizes at T. EATON'S. Tomorrow (I.D.A. Week) stores and at over 1,000 other druggists. Insist on these remedies by name; they are a Mulvey product.

Beauty Is Reported Engaged

London society circles are abuzz with reports that charming blonde and blue-eyed Virginia Cherrill (Above), film star, will shortly announce her engagement to the wealthy and youthful Earl of Jersey. Miss Cherrill was formerly married to Cary Grant, stalwart screen hero. Their marriage ended in divorce.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

I am one, my liege,
Whom the vile blows and buffets of the world
Have so incens'd, that I am reckless what
I do to spite the world.
And I another,
So weary with disasters, tugg'd with fortune,
That I would set my life on any chance,
To mend it, or be rid on't.
—Shakespeare.

Dear Friends:

Did you ever get so fed up with things in general that you felt reckless and as if you would like to kick everything to smithereens? Something cropped up which angered you so much, that most of the ill things that ever happened before came along to keep this thing company, feeding the fire of your anger, so that caution was thrown to the winds.

And sometimes we need the spur of anger to make us do what we should do. We have tried the soft answer, we have turned the other cheek, when what was really needed was for us to get up and fight for our rights, so we get the spur of this anger to make us do it.

They say, you get from life what you put into it, which is all very well but from what I see, we get from life what we demand from it. And what is this "life" we mean when we talk like that? It is what we give to one another, and what we accept from them.

If we are content with the short end of the stick, that is what we get. If we take unkindness, and injustice without raising hand or voice to better conditions, whom can we blame but ourselves? And many times if we simply say we will not stand these things, we find we don't have to.

I truly think we take ourselves and everything in general, too seriously. We have a set-back, or someone does or says an unkind thing, so we fret and stew and lose all confidence in ourselves. And instead of standing up to life and flinging some of these things back, we let it dwell inside, corroding our nature till at last we get reckless and knock things haywire.

Nobody can do their best work if they do not have a decent regard for themselves, and how can they have it if they let every little word spoken by someone else take all the gimp out of them. We put starch in garments to stiffen them, and many of us need the starch of decent self-esteem put in us to stiffen our resolve to get the best from life.

And why shouldn't we do a little starching to ourselves? Why must it always come from another? They cannot know the inner part of us as we do ourselves, the strivings, the longings, the desires, everything that goes into our make-up.

Many's the one who has been considered a grouch, is only trying to hide the pain they are suffering, and rather than give into it, knowing they have so many dependant on them, they suffer and grouch a little, and are sorely misunderstood.

One man I knew slightly, suffers so intensely with dyspepsia, that life is a burden to him, yet those not knowing of it blame him for not being more affable, when all the time he is working at a disadvantage, carrying a double load which no one sees.

And so when life has become insupportable, relax and catch up with yourself. "Blessed are the meek," but I think it means that we are to be meek within ourselves, to be meek with everyone else. None of us can pride ourselves too much on any of our accomplishments, but we can take a pride in ourselves as individuals and so prevent this feeling of wanting to kick things over.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Waitresses Tactful Dealing With Men

"The wife who lets her husband start off the day in a bad temper could learn tact and diplomacy from my waiters," says Katherine Crumbaugh, supervisor of hostesses and waitresses for one of the largest restaurant chains in the world. For the waitress of today is no longer a waitress. In the best modern vernacular, according to Miss Crumbaugh, she has become a server. And her training is no longer a matter of learning where to put the silver on the teapot, but includes an encyclopediac knowledge of food terms, food origins and recipe ingredients, the development of personality and the art of soothing ruffled tempers.

"This last is especially important," explains Miss Crumbaugh. "Suppose a man—let's call him Mr. Jones—gets up on the wrong side of bed, cuts himself while shaving, and slams out of the house never to return again when Mrs. Jones chooses that morning to ask him for extra housekeeping money. He storms into a restaurant, looking very, very unhappy, but the efficient server is ready for him. She doesn't wait to write down his order, but gets food in front of him as quickly and smoothly as possible. It might be fatal if the sugar bowl wasn't right at hand or if she uttered an unnecessary word. Then she gives him the morning paper and stands where he can call her if he wants to. Under this calming treatment the worst morning grouch usually disappears and Mr. Jones will depart for his office in a genial mood."

Most men, Miss Crumbaugh observed, want the same table, the same waitress and the same breakfast every morning. They are disgruntled if someone else has taken their regular table or their particular waitress has a day off. The server repays him by remembering just what he wants for breakfast. She knows whether he wants his toast buttered or his rolls heated, how his bacon is to be cooked, and if his eggs are cooked a second too long, she doesn't take any chances, but starts another set.

"And," concludes Miss Crumbaugh, "eighty-five per cent of our waitress are married."

DRIVER OF CAR IS EXONERATED ATKINSON CASE

Inquest Is Held Into The Death Of Gordon Atkinson Of Campbellford

"HEADLIGHT" MENACE

Alex. Post, 20, of Havelock, driver of the car which struck and fatally injured Gordon Atkinson, 45, of Campbellford on Highway 30 near Trent River on the night of July 1 was completely exonerated by a coroner's jury under Dr. J. C. Smith which investigated the fatality in the police court here on Friday night.

"From the evidence submitted," read the verdict in part, "no blame is attached to the driver of the car, Alex Post, whose vision was momentarily blinded by the glaring headlights of an approaching car."

In a rider the jury recommended that the Ontario government take steps to control the "menace of glaring headlights on the highways as we believe this to have been a contributory factor in this accident."

The evidence in the case was clean cut and left no doubt as to the facts. It was shown that Atkinson had been struck while walking on the highway and that the accident occurred while Post was passing another car coming from the opposite direction with glaring headlights that blinded the youthful driver of the other machine so that he did not see the unfortunate pedestrian who was struck, hurled off the road and so badly hurt that he died in Nicholls Hospital on July 14.

Miss Susan Atkinson of Campbellford, a sister of the victim of the accident, gave identification evidence. She said her brother was 45 years of age and she had last seen him about three days before the accident when he was in his usual health. He was on his way to Peterborough to have his watch fixed when the mishap occurred.

The Driver's Story

Alex. Post, driver of the car involved in the accident, placed the scene as on Highway 30 between Havelock and Trent River and about one-eighth of a mile from the cheese factory on the outskirts of the latter place. Post was driving south shortly after 9 o'clock standard time when he met a car moving in a northerly direction, and having very bright headlights. He had slowed down his car to 30 miles an hour as the two machines approached each other and just as he was passing the other car, he felt a slight bump. He realized he had hit something, stopped his car and ran back to find Atkinson badly hurt in the ditch.

"Did you have any idea before the accident that there was a human being on the highway before you?" asked Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K.C., who examined the witnesses throughout the inquiry.

"No, sir," replied Post.

"How do you account for the fact that you did not see the man?"

"I was meeting another car that was coming at a high rate of speed and with bright headlights which were not dimmed," was the reply.

"Were you blinded by the light of the other vehicle?"

Post replied in the affirmative, adding that if it had not been for the effect of the other car's lights his own lights were bright enough for him to have seen a person on the road.

Atkinson, he said, was wearing a dark shirt and dark trousers on the night of the accident.

Dr. Holdcroft, Jr., of Havelock, told of being notified of the accident and of having Atkinson removed to his private hospital in Havelock that night and sent to Peterborough in an ambulance on the following morning. He had ascertained, he said, that Atkinson had sustained a fracture of the front of the skull and he realized that his condition was critical. He had not been surprised to learn of the man's subsequent death.

Evidence as to the post-mortem examination was given by Dr. Russell Magee who said that it had been discovered that Atkinson, who died in Nicholls Hospital on July 14, had had his skull broken into six or eight pieces and, the brain had been disorganized and a local infection had been found. These injuries had caused the man's death, Dr. Robert Young supported this evidence and added that Atkinson had apparently been in good condition before the accident.

No Drinking Done

James Covert of Havelock who was in the back seat of Post's car corroborated Post's testimony that their machine was travelling about 30 miles an hour when the accident happened. The other car was travelling faster than they were and the lights, which were very bright, were not dimmed. Covert said he felt a slight bump at the moment of the accident and knew they had struck something.

"Had there been any drinking in your party that night," asked Mr. Kerr.

"No, sir," air the witness emphatically.

"I am not trying to insinuate that there was," explained the Crown Attorney, "but some people would be sure to ask if there had been any liquor in the case and it is just as well to clear up that point."

Bert Hagerman, who was in the front seat with Post when the accident occurred, agreed with the version of the affair given by Post and Covert. He judged that the other car, whose bright lights figured in the accident, had been travelling about 50 miles an hour. He himself did not see the man on the road and the first he knew of the accident was when he felt a slight bump.

Valentine Chaplin of Trent River said that he had spoken to Atkinson a few seconds before the accident. Witness was walking south toward Trent River when he met Atkinson travelling north and said good night to him. From that point Atkinson had gone only thirty feet when he was struck down by Post's car.

Heard the Sound

"I heard the sound," said the witness. "It was just like a wheel dropping into a hole." Chaplin had known Atkinson since boyhood, he said, but he had not recognized him that night when he spoke to him just before the accident.

Chief Constable Aikins of Havelock told of being notified of the accident and of being at the private hospital to assist in moving Atkinson out of the truck on his arrival there. There were absolutely no signs of drinking among the members of Post's party, he said.

Chief Constable Silvester described the scene of the accident and told of finding a considerable amount of blood in the ditch near a large stone which had broken in two. No trace had been found of the other car which figured in the accident.

Mrs. V. McEachern of Toronto, a nurse and sister of Alex Post, said that she had gone to Dr. Holcroft's hospital that night and taken care of the injured man and had accompanied him to Peterborough the next day. Atkinson, she said, had never recovered consciousness sufficiently to make any statement.

Isaiah Boyd, operator of the Campbellford power plant and Charles Duncalfe, former chief constable of Campbellford, both testified that they knew Atkinson well and that he suffered from defective vision, so that he had to wear very powerful glasses.

Miss Atkinson was recalled and asked about her brother's eyesight. "He had poor eyes but he certainly could see a motor car," she said.

In his address to the jury, Dr. Smith said they should have no difficulty in arriving at their verdict. If they felt as he did that there was nobody to blame.

Crown Attorney Kerr suggested that the jury might also consider the part played by the other car with its glaring headlights in the tragedy and the coroner concurred. "There are too many drivers on the highways," he said, "who persist in driving without dimming their headlights."

Alex Elliott was present, holding a watching brief for Post, the driver of the car.

M. J. Maher was the chairman of the jury, the other members of which were: Pat Coursey, Percy Golds, W. S. Merrell, L. L. Maguire, John McGrath, Fred Marshall, Joseph Bolton, Clare McDonald, J. H. Campbell, Joseph O'Dette and Thomas Blanchard.

JUDGE ALLOWS BOARD'S APPEAL ON ASSESSMENT

North Monaghan Township Unable To Tax Peterborough Exhibition Park

EXEMPT FROM TAXATION

The Peterborough Exhibition Boards appeal against North Monaghans assessment of the Exhibition Park at $30,000 for the purpose of taxation by the municipality was allowed by Judge Smoke at a session Friday afternoon in Confederation School.

Both the Assessment Act and the Agricultural Societies Act were invoked by J. W. Stevenson, in his argument that the park should continue to be exempt from taxation. By a special bill passed in 1907 the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition was declared to be an agricultural society. Other legislation affirmed that the property of an agricultural society shall be exempt if it is used for the specific purpose of such a society; and furthermore, that if the tenant is eligible for exemption the owner of such property cannot be assessed and taxed.

The owner of the Exhibition Park is Harold A. Morrow, and it has been stated that council of North Monaghan suggested assessment of the park for the reason that the owner received rent from the Exhibition Board. Mr. Stevenson argued that the township could not, under the statute, assess the owner. Mr. Morrow, because his tenant, the Peterborough Exhibition, was declared to be exempt from taxation.

Judge Smoke announced his decision at the conclusion of the hearing of evidence and argument, granting the Exhibition Boards appeal.

The only witnesses examined were F. J. A. Hall, secretary of the Exhibition, and Hilliard Strong, township assessor. F. D. Kerr was present in the interests of the municipality.

Secretary Thirty Years

Fred J. A. Hall said he has been secretary of the Peterborough Industrial Society for nearly thirty years. The society is incorporated under the Agricultural Societies Act, and is generally known as the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition.

The grounds occupied by the society are leased in ten-year-periods from H. A. Morrow. According to the lease the tenant society apparently would be required to pay the taxes, but had not been taxed, except for local improvements, until this year.

The revenues of the Society are used for agricultural purposes, according to the provisions of the Agricultural Societies Act, and Mr. Hall said he had on file letters from a Minister of Agriculture congratulating the Society on the manner in which its funds were expended.

To Mr. Kerr, witnesses said the grounds were used for a week for exhibition purposes. Some horsemen use the track during the summer for training their horses. "They are charged a nominal fee and it is expected they will race their horses at the Exhibition."

The park has also been used as a tourist camp; several of the buildings are sometimes used for storage purposes; and the grounds have also been used by service clubs, carnival shows and circuses.

All the revenues received for the use of the grounds go into the Society's treasury and are expended for its agricultural purposes, Mr. Hall stated, in reply to a question by Mr. Stevenson.

Council's Proposal

Hilliard S. Strong, township assessor, testified he assessed the Exhibition Park to H. A. Morrow, as owner of the property.

"I didn't assess the buildings because I understood they belonged to the Exhibition Society," Mr. Strong said. This is his first year as assessor, and in assuming his work he found that the park was not assessed. He denied that he was instructed to assess it for any specific amount, but the council did suggest that he should place some valuation on the property for taxation purposes.

In giving his decision in favor of the Exhibition Board, Judge Smoke said the main question was whether the park was the property of an agricultural association. In his opinion, he said, the lease held by the Board was sufficient without a legal title to place the Agricultural Society in a position to claim the land should be exempt from taxation. Legal title was not necessary, His Honor said, and as further compliance with the statute the Exhibition Board used its revenues solely for the purpose of an agricultural society.

Tom Brown, president; P. J. A. Hall, E. P. Mason, and Roland Denne represented the Exhibition Board, and Reeve James Milby, Deputy-reeve M. H. Johnston, Bruce Johnston, clerk, and Mr. Strong, assessor, were present in behalf of the township.

It is further stated, "Alderman G. N. Gordon, K.C., has also come out four-square on our side, and what is most significant, is leading the way with more than generous donations of foodstuffs, money and moral support".

Week-end events scheduled by the strikers include a mass meeting at Nicholls Oval on Sunday at 2 p.m. A parade from Inverlea Park to the Market Square on Monday at 6.30 p.m. to be followed by a weiner roast and dance at the Oval; and a mass meeting in Ashburnham Community Hall on Tuesday at 9 a.m. to hear a report of employee representatives bearing on the outcome of a further conference with the local management scheduled for Monday afternoon at Bonner Worth Mill.

At the mass meeting of strikers on Friday evening, approximately 500 strikers in attendance stood for a minute of silence as a mark of respect and sympathy for two fellow employees of Bonner Worth Mill who recently suffered bereavement in the death of their mother.

Local 2551 of the United Textile Workers of America voted unanimously to send a floral expression of sympathy to the two girls in their bereavement.

BEES TO KEEP STING

Experts Doubt If Stingless Breed Will Ever Be Developed

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—The First National Bee Breeders Conference adjourned today without solving that age-old problem—the sting.

"You may be able to take the squirt out of the grapefruit," said J. J. Hambleton of the United States Agriculture Department, "but I don't think we'll ever separate the sting from the bee."

The breeders, convinced it would be about as hard to develop a stingless-bee as a trunkless elephant, have been concentrating on bee character training.

Mr. And Mrs. R. Killen Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary Of Wedding

Richard Killen and his wife, the former Catherine Hicks, who were maried at Ennismore fifty years ago today, this morning opened the observance of their golden wedding anniversary by attending High Mass at St. Peter's Cathedral.

Mass at the cathedral was celebrated by Rev. Father Killen of Rockyford, Alberta, while present in the sanctuary were Rev. Father Kelly and the Rev. Father Carroll. After the mass Father Kelly congratulated Mr. and Mrs. Killen on the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary.

At noon with their family of eight daughters and a son gathered about them, they sat down to a wedding breakfast at their residence at 346 Dublin street and during the remainder of the afternoon and evening were "At Home" to a host of friends.

Both of Irish pioneer stock, they were married at St. Martin's church in Ennismore by the late Rev. W. J. Kelly on July 17, 1867. Born and raised in Ennismore Township, Mr. Killen farmed until 1915 at which time he became village postmaster. On his retirement thirteen years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Killen took up residence in this city.

Mr. Killen is 75 years of age, and his wife is two years his junior. Both are blessed with a good measure of health in the autumn of their lives, and both carry the weight of the years most graciously.

The couple have a family of nine children who were all at the home of their parents today for the occasion. They are: Mrs. Edward Crough, Mrs. Peter Galvin and Mrs. Bernard Sullivan all of Ennismore; Mrs. Arnold Crough, Mrs. Clement Hagerty, Miss Agnes Killen, and Mr. Patrick Killen all of Detroit; Mrs. William Lacoby of New York City; and Miss Nora Killen at home.

Celebrate Their Golden Wedding

They opened the observance of this day with attending High Mass in St. Peter's Cathedral and at noon their family of eight daughters and a son gathered about them for a wedding breakfast.

HOW TO LEARN TO SWIM.

A Course of Lessons Specially Arranged By Gordon Minty, Swimming Director of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A.

CLIP OUT AND SAVE.

LESSON NINE.

Methods of Approaching a Drowning Person.

Many a good swimmer has lost his life in attempting to rescue someone from drowning, simply because he had no knowledge of how to avoid being caught in the subject's grasp. There are three methods of approach but the simplest and safest is from the rear.

The Rear Approach.

Swim to a point a foot or so to the rear of the subject, reach one hand under his chin and pull his head back, taking care not to cut off his wind by allowing the hand to slide down on his throat. At the same time, place the other hand under the small of his back to raise him to a horizontal position and kick vigorously with a frog or scissor kick to start the subject moving through the water. Still holding his chin, start to swim with free hand and scissor kick until he is moving along smoothly, then change to one of the carry positions.

The Underwater Approach

In clear water when it is impossible to approach from the rear, the underwater approach may be used. Swim to a point about six feet in front of the subject. Dive under the surface of the water and grasp his knees, keeping your arms extended in front to avoid being caught by the subject by coming too close. Turn the subject about by the knees, come up behind him and proceed as in the rear approach.

The Surface Approach.

Where the water is muddy and you cannot approach from the rear, swim toward the subject, facing him. Reach forward and grasp either the subject's right wrist with your right hand or his left wrist with your left hand. While treading water, lean backward pulling the subject toward you. A quick pull in this manner will turn the subject until his back is toward you. Then proceed as in the rear approach.

In using this method of approach it is most important that you grasp the proper wrist. If you grasp his right with your left or visa versa you will pull him directly toward you giving him a good opportunity to secure a hold on you.

In attempting the rescue of a violently struggling subject, it is wise to wait a safe distance away from him until he quietens down, then an underwater or rear approach may be made.

City Church Vacation School Concludes Successful Session

Students And Group Leaders Combine For Closing Day Program

SHOWS GOOD PROGRESS

Friday night's demonstration of the work accomplished at the Church Vacation School, directed by Rev. M. C. Parr, of George Street United Church, during the past two weeks, leaves no doubt of the success of such a venture in Peterborough.

The large school auditorium was well filled with interested parents and friends, who expressed much pleasure and satisfaction in the far-reaching work of the Vacation School just closed. Children, from the ages of four and five years up to 'teen age boys and girls, were grouped under their very efficient leaders, to demonstrate in a concrete form their happy hours of holiday work and play; each group taking part in the splendid program, which opened with a hymn and prayer by Rev. Mr. Boyter of Park Street Baptist Church.

The whole school joined in the Church Vacation School song, led by Miss Loretta McDougall, with the primary department singing the first verse. The chorus, indicative of the happy spirit of the school, ran like this:

"If you want to have some fun,
Come along with me;
Peterborough Church Vacation School,
That's the place to be."

A group of songs by the beginners, included "Jesus Bids Us Shine" (with action), and "Thank You, Mr. Postman," led by Mrs. K. Jarvis with Mrs. John Donaldson presiding at the piano.

Primary Presentation

From the primary, the children directed by Miss Bannister, sang with fine effect three very taking numbers: (1) "Band Concert"; (2), "Wide-Wide as the Ocean," and (3), "At Work Beside His Father's Bench."

The major part of the program was presented by the juniors, showing first the splendid work accomplished in memorization, when a group of 12 led the department under Mrs. Collis, in reciting the passages from St. Luke's gospel 2: 39-52, while Miss McDougall led them in the memory hymn, "I Would Be True."

An enthusiastic sing-song, including peppy action songs, "One Finger—One Thumb," "Crocodile Song" and "Chestnut Tree." A jolly contest in nursery rhymne singing was enjoyed, equally by participants and the audience. Their closing number was sacred in type, "The Beauty of Jesus."

A Genial Chairman

Rev. Mr. Parr as principal of the school, acted in the capacity of the genial chairman, keeping fine order among his classes. He expressed appreciation to the parents, who so loyally supported the Vacation School; to his efficient staff of leaders. He especially thanked Silverwoods and the Campbell dairies, Purity and Stock's Bakeries, and Porter White's, who contributed in a very material way to the happiness of the children throughout the two weeks.

On behalf of the school, Mrs. Collis voiced their appreciation to Mr. Parr for his energetic leadership, to which he graciously responded.

The list of those receiving certificates was read by the principal and took in about 150 pupils, or 50 per cent. of the entire class.

The requirements for a certificate included attendance for eight mornings out of the ten and the completion of memory work and handcraft.

The closing feature was one that will linger in the memory of all who saw the dramatization of "The Good Samaritan" by a group of the junior boys: Ken Graham, Bob Morton, Billy Packer, Stewart Brown, Bert McBride, Jim Hooper, Stanley Packer, and Gordon Best.

Miss Merrill Smith acted as pianist for all the numbers, and Ronald Watson had charge of the curtain.

A fine exhibition of the handcraft done by al lages, drew the interested attention of the large audience. A hymn, and benediction by the pastor, Mr. Parr, closed this very successful two-week Church Vacation School.

WHITE WHEAT IS BEST IN YEARS INSPECTORS SAY

Fields Entered In Exhibition Contest Are Inspected By Department Men

PROGRESS BEING MADE

Nineteen stands of white wheat in the Peterborough Exhibition Board's field crop competition were inspected Thursday and Friday by W. M. Michel of Belleville, district seed inspector, accompanied by A. D. Runions, and on Friday also by J. E. D. Whitmore, Ottawa, of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association. Farms visited were in South Monaghan, Cavan, Otonabee, Smith, Ennismore and Douro.

"This is the third year for this competition," Mr. Runion said to The Examiner today, "and it was probably the best. The wheat crop is particularly good, and the other grains are doing well if there is no lodging caused by wind and rain. We noticed some rust, and there is the possibility that it may increase because the weather of the last week or so is ideal for that enemy of the grain crop."

To Test Soil.

R. J. Bryden of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, will be in the city next Wednesday and will test samples of soil that are brought in to Mr. Runions' office.

Meet On Wednesday.

Seed growers are holding a meeting next Wednesday at 7 p.m., Standard Time, on the Toronto Savings and Loan farm, for a fertilizer demonstration on spring grain.

Pick County Herd.

G. A. Brethen, Robert Holtby of Port Perry and Mr. Runions selected this week fourteen head of cattle for the Peterborough County herd to be shown at the Toronto Exhibition.

A MOTHER SAVED

Spectators Prevented Her Jumping In Current After Child

GATINEAU POINT, Que., July 17 (CP).—Spectators held back a frantic mother yesterday as searchers looked for the body of her two-year-old child, drowned in the Ottawa River.

Mrs. Oscar Lachapelle, spectators said, wanted to throw herself into the water to find her baby, Alexandre, who drowned in the swift current when he fell off a raft on which he and other children were playing.

Sparks from the Preacher's Anvil

The Pied Piper story is no myth. We have him with us to-day. A change of name is all that is required—"Pious Pipers." There are legions of church leaders leading young people into a blind street of materialism, into a Christless spiritual experience and under the sure wrath of God. These men have turned from God's message concerning sin, condemnation, salvation through the slaying of God the Son at Calvary, and faith's application of this salvation in that personal experience of New Birth. They refuse to be so antique as to speak of the terrors of hell. It may be popular to believe in the Fatherhood of God, the brotherhood of Man, the leadership of Jesus, salvation by character, the progress of man, onward and upward for ever; but it is also deceiving and damning. Young people led by these posing prophets are growing up godless—worse than pagan: What a rebuke to our Churches of Modernism.

A doctor who gives a faulty prescription, a pilot who marks a wrong course, a careless mountain-guide, and any responsible party who fails in duty comes under severe criticism; so the Word of God denounces these soul-destroyers. It calls their heresies damnable, their ways pernicious, their words feigned vanity. They are both wells and clouds without water, fruitless trees, twice dead, wandering stars, filthy dreamers. Jesus called them vipers, blind leaders. John the Baptist spoke similarly. Jeremiah of apostate days, spoke of brutish pastors that destroy the sheep and by false vision belie the Lord. Isaiah called those of his time, blind watchmen, dumb, greedy dogs, shepherds that cannot understand. Paul said of those who pervert the Gospel, "Let them be accursed." They are enemies of the Cross of Christ, deceitful workers, ministers of Satan. Suitable designations are these for the modern preacher who preaches everything but the Gospel. Let those who still believe the Old Book fulfil its command: "From such turn away." The last days when evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving and being deceived are upon us. Let those who believe the Gospel come out from among them. Their false hope of peace and safety will end in sudden destruction. Therefore, have no partnership with this evil thing; but be ye separate. These should be days of separation preparing for the coming of the King.

There is Fulness of Acceptance for us in Him, therefore do not doubt Him; there is Fulness of Peace, therefore trust Him; there is Fulness of Life, therefore abide in Him; there is Fulness of Power, therefore wait on Him; there is Fulness of Grace, therefore receive from Him; there is Fulness of Joy, therefore rejoice in Him; there is Fulness of Light, therefore walk in Him.

NORWOOD ADDS VICTORY LIST LACROSSE LOOP

Neat Combination Gives The Villagers 12-5 Victory At Cobourg

A FAST TUSSLE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

COBOURG, July 17. — Norwood took their second straight win in the Central Lacrosse League last night (Friday), when they defeated Cobourg 12 to 5, in the Cobourg arena.

Norwood's passes were clicking beautifully, while Cobourg's were missing like a model 'T' Ford.

Cobourg opened the scoring after 3 minutes of the first period, when Cancilla took Henderson's pass. C. Puffer tied it up for Norwood when he sank Heard's pass a minute and a half later. Cobourg again took the lead when Henderson scored on a pass from Cancilla at the five-minute mark. Baker of Norwood then scored at the ten-minute mark and again 4 minutes later, both one passes from G. Puffer, to give Norwood the lead.

Baker scored after 1 minute and 30 seconds of play, when W. Rogers, Norwood goalie, streaked to centre and made a perfect pass. Cancilla scored his second goal of the night when he took P. Morford's pass after 4 minutes of the second period, but Hunter came right back with 1 for Norwood on Rathwell's pass one minute later. Hagerman took P. Morford's pass at 6 minutes to reduce Norwood's lead to 1 goal, but Smith slammed home a rebound at the 10-minute mark to make it 6 to 4 at half-time for Norwood.

Fast Third Period

Norwood opened the fast third period when Baker scored his fourth of the game on Godin's pass after 3 minutes. Rathwell took Heard's pass at the 10-minute mark and scored again 1 minute later on Baker's pass. G. Puffer took Baker's pass 2 minutes later to give Norwood a 10 to 4 lead. P. Morford scored Cobourg's fifth and last goal of the game at the 14-minute mark, and Rathwell scored his third of the period on a pass from G. Puffer, 20 seconds before the period ended.

After 50 seconds of the second period, Richardson scored the final goal on a pass from Baker, to give Norwood a 12 to 5 lead. The game ended with Cobourg pressing hard, but W. Rogers, in goal for Norwood, could not be beat.

Lining up a putt seems rather difficult for many players. In some cases they fail to pick the right line and in others they lose the line before the ball has been struck. In either of these cases it is failure to see and keep seeing the proper line. I don't mean by this that the player's eyes are not good enough really to see the line he wants to follow.

What I am trying to bring out is the fact the player's attention strays away from the desired line of play. In other words the proper line is not sufficiently impressed on his mind. Naturally he doesn't realize this or he would take steps to rivet his attention on the line and keep it there until after the ball has been hit. This is the job he must do.

Now one sure way of doing it is to pick spots on the surface of the green between your ball and the hole. Picture the ball rolling right over one or two of these spots — take a second and even a third look at them if necessary to get them fixed in your mind and then putt.

Even though the putting surface may appear to be flawless you will find a blade of grass or some change in the color of the grass to serve as guide marks. When you pick the right spots your putts will drop or come mighty close to the hole.

SPORTS DAY by DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

DOWN COBOURG WAY on Civic Holiday, some sports will be run in connection with their Centennial. An outstanding event will be a 120-yard low hurdles race between Johnny Loaring of Windsor and Larry O'Connor of Cobourg—both of whom represented Canada at the 1936 Olympic Games in Berlin. Loaring was second in the 400-metre hurdles and Larry was sixth in the 110-metre high hops. Dit Clapper of Hastings will be one of the judges. Other events are: 100-yard sprint, 220 yards, running high jump, 5-mile race, 120-yard low hurdles, running broad jump, 440 yards, and 12-pound shot put. Three prizes in each, and no entry form needed. In order to enter, contestants must live, or have lived, in Northumberland or Durham. But the 5-mile race is wide open.

AT THE HORSE SHOW PARK in Cobourg, a Central Ontario Baseball League fixture will be staged between Oshawa GM-men and the Petes in the afternoon. It is a scheduled struggle transferred from Peterborough to help in the Centennial celebration. Final arrangements have not yet been completed but if the guarantee is suitable these squads will do their stuff in Cobourg. Quite a while since a C.O.B.L. contest was played in Cobourg—once a doggone good Central Loop centre.

* * * * *

SOMETIMES THE DICE roll seven and sometimes they come up snake-eyes. That's the way it goes in the old C.O.B.L. this season. The Petes are having fair luck licking Oshawa and fine luck trimming Napanee but not a nickel's worth in bumping Kingston. And the Ponies can't do much to the GM-men. Oshawa loses to Peterborough and Napanee every so often but sails merrily through the Daley dudes. And Napanee can get an odd nod over Oshawa and Kingston but find the Petes just plain rat poison to 'em—unless today saw a different story unfolded at Riverside. With three teams slated for playoffs, it is still a jumbled-up race and will be till the last out of the final loop playoff tilt. But we feel again that the Central League champ will wade right through Provincial playdowns and once more annex the Ontario senior title this year.

* * * * *

MANAGER FRED (RIP) COLLINS of the Petes is a genial gent. But not when his team is losing. Like Knotty Lee and Shiner Johnston, he is a hard loser—and, in fact, most ball pilots are. Folks used to gauge the locals' success by the way Knotty's lower lip hung down. With Fred it is easy for the initiated to tell the next a.m. how the Petes made out away from home. When the big guy is stepping lightly, as if on air, with his chest straining his vest buttons and his cigar pointing toward an eight-storey window, you know all is hunky-dory. But when he is trudging slowly down the street and with the cigar—like a divining rod—slanted toward the pavement at a 45-degree angle, you wonder how badly the squad lost yesterday. The cigar is a sure sign, and he is seldom without one.

THAT UMPIRE'S STRIKE in the Inter-County Baseball League will not be settled this season. The intermediate "A" clubs in the big Western Ontario loop had the league executive call a meeting the other day to see about it. But nothing came of the session. The loop moguls declined to raise the guessers' wages but did agree to throw open the application lists to ranother ten days. The returning strikers may thus send in their names, to be put on the bottom of the list, but they will still have to work at the current prices, which are $9 and $7 for senior and $6 and $5 for intermediate games. The present crop of umps isn't too good but the Inter-County League want no C.I.O. business in their baseball. Central League arbiters get $5 a game, plus expenses—and more in playoffs.

QUINTE KEY-MAULER SAYS: "O.B.A.A. officials expect the year 1938 to see a revival in the diamond game in Eastern and Central Ontario. Plans have been opened already by R. A. Elliott, past president of the O.B.A.A., to operate the old Trent Valley League. Mr. Elliott, along with his good man Friday, Bill Regan of the button-boot brigade hopes to see not only the Trent Valley but the Bay of Quinte and the East Peterborough leagues all back in the fold next year. In Deloro, Stirling and Campbellford independent ball clubs are being operated now. Hugh McGuire is sponsoring the game in Campbellford and boasts of a team of youngsters who have plenty of promise. Stirling is ready to enter the league, while the revival of ball in Deloro is assured by Mr. Elliott. One more club is needed to round out this circuit. Maybe Sam Curry and Alex Simpson could complete the loop by re-organizing the Tweed team, once a tower of strength in the old Trent Valley." Yeah, R.A. is the gent to bring about a district revival.

AUBURNS TOOK ANOTHER lacrosse win last night, beating Brooklin by an 8-4 score in an exhibition tilt before some 800 customers. It is their 13th win this season, four being exhibition games. A nice number last p.m., too. Plenty rugged with the boys laying on the hickory from the start and one fight breaking out, after several had threatened. Brooklin had eight juniors on their lineup and they made it a nice battle all the way. Using the old bean and saving the legs, Pete King figured in on four of the Auburns' goals while Red Dallin was in on three, and Miller and Whitton were in on two apiece. Crowe didn't play and Meayette and Red Creighton split up the goal-tending job. The fans seemed to like this tussle and made plenty of racket at times. They went for the new east-side bleachers in a big way.

* * * * *

COMING AWAY FROM the contest, the consensus of opinion seemed to be that all lacrossers are slightly insane. After watching 'em tear around, slashing and banging each other, in that heat we feel that they must be dangerously demented—though no doubt as happy as normal folk! Pick Hines and Pinky Clarke were in the press box viewing the Auburns in action for the first time and they were frankly amazed at the rugged play shown. The former remarked once: "That guy took the legs right from under the other bird and no one even looks for a penalty." And Pinky said: "Heck, he's still able to walk isn't he? Don't be a pansy!" Yeah, those boys can take it—and as far as we're concerned they can have it!

There's Trouble In The Camp Of Lacrosse Trophy Champions

Will Decide Early Next Week Whether To Replace Manager-Coach

DISAGREES WITH PLAYERS

ORILLIA, July 17.—Whether the Orillia Terriers, three times winners of the Canadian Senior Lacrosse Crown, are to have a new manager to replace Kenneth Macnab, the present incumbent of that position, will be decided early next week, Ivan Dick, the club treasurer, announced last night, following a private meeting of the executive at which it was reported, a partly successful attempt was made to smother a rebellion among the players.

"Nothing definite has been done," Mr. Dick said. "Macnab is going to St. Catharines with us tomorrow night, in charge of the team. If there is to be any change, it will be made early next week. I am not prepared to say there is going to be a change."

"The whole trouble is that they are not in shape," said Coach-Manager Macnab. "They don't want a man who will tell them that. They want a man who will take them out and tell them what great heroes they are. If they don't want me, all they have to do is say so."

"I am not interested in what they are doing, and I don't want the job of looking after them again," said Norman C. Cooke, who gathered the first of the Terriers, and was in charge of them before Macnab's appointment. "I am too busy with other things to look after them."

OTTAWA PLAYER IN FINAL ROUND FOR GOLF TITLE

Alston And MacWilliam Of Toronto Post Scores Of 139 In Open Event

NASH FINISHES SECOND

LANCASTER, Ont., July 17.—(CP)—Two Scottish-born golf professionals tied for the Ontario open golf championship played off here today, each trying for his first major golf title in Ontario. Both pros—Bobby Alston of Ottawa's Chaudiere Club and Bill MacWilliams of Toronto's St. Andrew's—had carded 139 strokes after 36 holes of play.

Besides the provincial play-offs, Sam Kerr, Toronto York Downs and George Kelly of Waterloo played off for the assistant professionals' championship. They were tied with 151.

Both Alston, Aged 28, and MacWilliams, aged 33, carded 69's for the first 18 holes. The second 18 saw them playing in the same three-some yesterday and each had a par 70 for totals of 139. At the 16th tee Alston was leading by two strokes, but he dropped one there to MacWilliams who picked up another on the 17th. Each two-putted on the 16th for a par four.

Inside Sportin' Dope

BY A. WISE CRACKER

Well, Mac, since my last epistle our ball club has broke even losing a sad game to the Kingston Ponies here Sat. and then walloping the Napanee talent down in Gibbardville on Wed. so that the lads has still a lead of 2 and a half games on the last slot in the playoff list.

Here last Sat. the old ball game was in the bag until the last 2 frames when somebody cut the string. It was a tough 1 to lose for in the first 7 frames the Petes had outscored their rivals 4 to 0 and looked good to gallop home with their 1st win of the year over that pesky outfit from the limestone belt. Then in the 8th the Ponies bust through Mister Kitchen's service for the 1st time in the game and helped themselves to three runs and Mister Kitchen departed from the scene in favor of our Mister Jakafoy.

The ex-Hamilton heaver got the side out in that frame easily enough but in the final spasm he didn't seem to have nothing in his repertoire that could fool the enemy. Anyway they poled out four runs and Mister Whitehill had to be called in to shoot down the rally.

A Real Heaver.

It was a sour ending to a glorious afternoon but for the life of us we don't see where all the shooting is justified. Personally we would of left Mister Kitchen in there because right now the big boy is tossing in about the steadiest and most effective brand of throwing the loop provides—and that goes for this new collitch sensation down at Kingston and for the left-handed Mister Biddle as well. But taking him out at that stage was nevertheless good baseball judgment in view of what had nappened.

The only logical reason to find fault with our pilot Mister Collins was that he didn't have Carl Hubbell or Lefty Grove to toss in there for a relief pitcher.

Anyway the game wasn't a dead loss old timer for it developed the fact that they ain't no shortage of managers in the burg if leaders for future ball clubs is needed. The stands seemed to be full of managers Sat. but most of them as usual did most of their effective managing after the game, when the guessing is easier and the answers is all out in the open.

Done a Neat Job.

The boys done a neat job of beating Napanee Wed. Walt Gerow's talent did manage to break through for a triple and a squeeze bunt off of Mister Kitchen in the opening frame to score their only run but from then he had them hog-tied, allowing only 4 hits through the pastime. The Petes tied it up in the 2nd and went 4 up a couple of frames later when the spectacled Mister Blazetich was blasted from the hilltop in favor of Mister Speedy St. Louis who wasted a lot of good relief hurling in a hopeless cause. The boys tell me that our Mister Al Clark who is playing a lot of shortstop these days pulled off a big league play when he tore over behind second to put a Napanee batter out of a hit. Mister Clark is our choice of the League in the short field position and besides his high class defence work he has been one of the important factors in the attack all season. He don't like left-handed pitching much as yet but he's young enough to overcome that handicap and we got a idea that if they give the kid a chance to overcome that weakness it won't be long before he'll be blasting the crooked arms just the same as he does the right handers.

Well old timers, the atmosphere is too hot to be writing any more of this stuff just now so I'm going to call it a day.

Sportfully Yours,
A. WISE CRACKER

Auburns Beat Brooklin In Lacrosse Game, 8-4

Locals Keep Victory String For Season Intact With Neat Exhibition Win

FAST AND RUGGED

Auburns took and 8-4 decision over Brooklin in an exhibition lacrosse game here last night before about 800 fans. It was the 12th win in as many starts—league and exhibition—for the locals this season, but the brooklin boys gave them their stiffest opposition to date. It was a good lacrosse game, plenty rugged in spots with Auburns earning the nod on their passing plays.

The locals had a 3-1 edge in the first quarter, but Brooklin outscored them 2-1 in the second. In the third, the home team again had a 3-1 margin, and they added one goal in the fourth while blanking the opposition. It was a speedy encounter with plenty of hard checking between the well-matched squads. Fights threatened several times, and one outbreak occurred in the fourth frame—which threatened to be a free-for-all—when E. Creighton and Vipond swung fists.

Two Goalies Used

Meyette played goal for two quarters and Red Creighton took over the rest of the route, both making some fine saves. King, Dallin, Magee and Vitarelli all looked good on the offense for the winners, with Whitton and E. Creighton flashing neat play in spots. The defence checked well. The losers' goalie gave a nice performance between the pipes while the Vipond brothers and Kivell carried the attack strongly all evening. There were few outstanding stars in this close-checking fray.

Early in the first quarter, Dundas and Lake roughed it up and got the gate. King scored first on Dallin's pass, the latter later passing to Miller for a counter. Magee tallied the third on Whitton's assist. Just before the quarter closed, L. Vipond blazed one into the hemp. Kivell's long shot counted for Brooklin to open the second heat. Whitton got the finger for tripping, and then Magee and L. Vipond were waved off for roughing it. Halfway through the inning, Dallin took Whitton's pass to sink it. Later, Kivell got through fast alone to make the score 4-3. Brooklin argued on the last local goal, claiming it was scored in the crease.

King Gets Three

After halftime, King came out strong to score three neat ones in a hurry. He had Miller's pass on the first, but picked up a loose ball in close for the next and intercepted a pass for the third. Red Creighton drew a hand for rushing, and L. Vipond came back fast to score one. The only goal of the third frame came from Ira Dundas' stick on a fine lone effort. Red rushed again in this period. Both sides missed some neat chances when in perfect scoring position and the pace kept hot most of the stanza. L. Vipond and E. Creighton mixed it up near the boards in a warm exchange of blows, with others joining in and a young donnybrook in the offing, but peace was restored and the culprits sent to the cooler. Auburns had a slight edge in this period but could only sink one marker.

The teams:

Auburns: Goal, Meyette; defence, Chute and Sloan; centre, Magee; wings, E. Creighton and Pammett; rover; G. Creighton; alternates, King, Dundas, McNaughton, Dallin, Vitarelli, Loucks, Whitton, Anderson Miller, R. Creighton.

Referee—Bud Planer.

CHICAGO FALLS TO BOSTON MEN RETAINS LEAD

Giants Lose Chance To Overhaul Cubs In Close National League Race

CARDS TAKE PAIR

NEW YORK, July 17.—The Chicago Cubs dropped a 6-to-1 decision to the Boston Bees yesterday, but remained at the head of the National League when the runner-up, New York Giants, also lost.

Lou Fette, Boston's 30-year-old rookie, allowed the Cubs only three hits for his eleventh victory of the year. Vince DiMaggio paced the Bee attack, getting three hits, including a home run, in four trips. He scored two of Boston's runs and batted in another pair.

A wild throw by Burgess Whitehead in the eleventh inning allowed the Pittsburgh Pirates to score the winning run in their 4-to-3 triumph over the Giants. After Bill Brubakers home run for Pittsburgh knotted the count, 3-to-3, in the seventh, Mace Brown and Cliff Melton dueled rumlessly until the eleventh.

Gain Third-Place Tie

St. Louis Cardinals moved into a third-place tie with the Pirates when they took a double-header from the Philadelphia Phillies 10 to 3 and 18 to 10. Si Johnson got credit for both wins. He scattered eight hits in the opener, then took a relief role in the ninth inning of the second game with the score tied 10-to-10, and the Cards blasted eight runs in the tenth inning to win.

Defeat Reds 6-3

A three-run rally in the ninth gave the Brooklyn Dodgers a 6-to-5 decision over the Cincinnati Reds. Five hits and an error spelled defeat for the Reds with Jimmy Buchers single off Lee Grissom driving in the deciding run.

YOUNG PETES WIN SOFTBALL FIXTURE

Take 16-4 Decision Over Omemee In Men's Game At Central School Diamond

The Young Petes took the Omemee crew into camp by the score of 16 to 4, last evening in the Central School grounds. At the same time Craig on their mound was doing noble work, striking out nine, while walking two, allowing 11 hits. On the Omemee mound Reed and Stephens had a harder time, striking out five, walking two, giving 16 hits.

The teams:

Mountaineers Win In Overtime Battle

TORONTO, July 17. — Mimico Mountaineers scored their fifth straight victory at Maple Leaf Gardens at the expense of the Marlboro team, handing the latter their second loss of the season. It took the winners ten minutes of overtime play to defeat the locals, the final score being 22 to 21, the winning goal being scored by Chuck Davidson, clever passing star of the Mountaineers, with less than 36 seconds to go.

After appearing hopelessly beaten, Marlboro rallied to deadlock the count 19 to 19 only to lose in overtime. The contest was well played throughout and was one of the most exciting games to be played here this season.

Yesterday's Stars

Si Johnson, Cardinals—Won both ends of doubleheader with Phillies, allowing eight hits and fanning seven for 10-3 opener decision, and pitching shutout ball in two-innings in nightcap relief.

Pinky Higgins, Red Sox—Hit homer with mate on base for winning margin in 6-4 victory over Browns.

Eiden Auker and Rudy York, Tigers—Each hit homer and double and drove in three runs in beating Yankees 14-7.

Pep Young, Pirates—Hit homer with one on base in 4-3 win over Giants.

Lou Fette, Bees—Stopped Cubs with three hits for 6-1 win.

MOORE HALTS TORONTO BATS

Syracuse Hurler Sets Leafs Down With Four Hits As Chiefs Gain 13-1 Win

WINGS DEFEAT GIANTS

TORONTO, July 17 (CP).—Old Bill Walker must be reading the papers these days. It was just the other day that foxy Sam Breadon, president of St. Louis Cardinals, was bewailing the Cards lack of hurlers.

Now this may not have anything to do with it, but old Bill, now pitching for the Cards' Rochester farm of the International League, popped up, opportunely enough, with a well-pitched game last night.

Bill held Jersey City Giants to nine hits to give Red Wings a 3-2 victory. While the performance was not anything to rave about, it still was a good, steady job.

It was the wily southpaw's eighth victory against five defeats for a sixth place club and record books show old William to be a few months short of the 34-year mark, with 16 years of organized baseball behind him.

Another pitcher, young Whitey Moore, came through with another one of his sterling performances. Moore set Toronto down with four hits and fanned 13 as the Syracuse Chiefs walloped Leafs 13-1. Victory put the Chiefs back on the .500 mark and boosted them into third place, a half game in front of the Leafs and Buffalo Bisons, who lost 10-6 to Newark Bears.

The Baltimore-Montreal game was rained out.

SEES COURT BILL HARD ON BUSINESS

Should Be Junked, Appropriation Measure Passed, Congress Go Home, Says Publisher

ROCHESTER, N.Y., July 17.—(AP)—"Business in the nation will remain upset until Congress junks the Supreme Court Bill, passes the Appropriation Bill and goes home," James G. Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville, Tenn., Banner, said here yesterday before taking off by air for Trenton, Ont., and a fishing trip.

Although president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, Mr. Stahlman, here visiting Frank E. Gannett with Elisha Hanson of Washington, attorney for the A.N.P.A., and Jerome D. Barnum, publisher of the Syracuse Post-Standard, declined to speak in that capacity.

Speaking as publisher of the Nashville Banner, he said that a "lot of people in the South hope Congress will junk the court bill immediately."

Sentiment is growing not only in Tennessee, but throughout the South against Supreme Court change without the proper constitutional amendment," Mr. Stahlman said.

"We still love our liberty," he declared, "and we do not want it jeopardized by any attempts to change the court without going to the people."

24-POUND MUSKIE CAUGHT IN STOCO

Ohio Party Plays Monster Forty Minutes Before Landing It

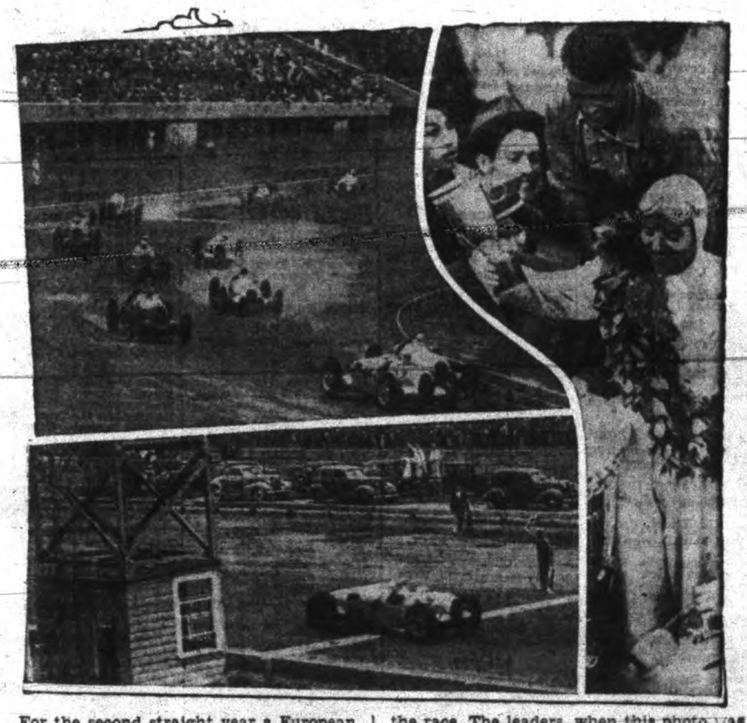
TWEED, July 17. — Russell White and H. J. Maxwell, of Akron, Ohio, who are occupying one of Albert Maynes' cottages at Kanata Beach, won the initial fishing honors on Stoco Lake this season, when they captured two lunge, one tipping the scales at twenty-four pounds and the other seven pounds, on Wednesday afternoon. Accompanied by Joseph Emmerson, the pair were trolling around the weeds at the eastern extremity of the lake when the big fellow hit. Mr. White was using a plug and an 18-pound test line and immediately struck for deep water when the king of the finny denizens took hold. He played his quarry for well over forty minutes before he brought him up to the boat. Having no gaff hook, it was necessary to exercise extreme caution in bringing him over the gunwale.

Master Pat Corcoran received rather nasty injuries at his home when he was struck on the cheek by a spring which became loose on a machine being taken into the house. The youngster had a narrow escape as the object nearly penetrated his eye.

Clarence Thompson of Denbigh, formerly of Kaladar, was arrested on Wednesday by Provincial Constable Barrett of Napanee, and has been charged with breaking and entering the Brydson Brothers' store at Kaladar on Friday night last.

Forty-five men, part of a force from this district engaged for the past three months on the Chats Falls Hydro development through the section, at the Ritchie Camp near Thomasburg, are jobless to-day as a result of the completion of work in this territory on Thursday. About half this force have been shifted with the camp to Sudbury district on further extension work. The men had been hired through the local Employment Service of Canada office and a number have registered for other work at the office.

German Driver Wins 30-Mile Vanderbilt Race



For the second straight year a European driver has captured the rich Vanderbilt Cup auto race, run at the Roosevelt raceway in Westbury, L.I. This year's winner was Bernd Rosemeyer, blond bombshell from Germany, who drove his Auto Union racing car over the 300-mile course at an average speed of 82.5 miles an hour. He was followed across the finishing line by Dick Seaman of England, who was a scant 51 seconds behind him. The action picture ao (TOP) shows the speeding autos taking the first turn in the race. The leaders, when this photo was made, were Rudolph Caracciola, No. 12, and Bernd Rosemeyer, No. 4, both German entrants and favorites. Caracciola was forced out of the race later with motor trouble. The other action picture shows Rosemeyer as he roared across the finishing line, the winner of the second Vanderbilt Cup race. The winner is also seen (RIGHT) with the wreath around his neck and the trophies that go with the glory of winning this daring speed classic.

LOVE IS FOR TOMORROW

CHAPTER 35

IT WAS June 1st. Marcia had been working with Garrett Warren for almost two months—days which had been profitably spent from a professional point of view at least. Her technique had improved tremendously, and while it was still too early to tell how popular her work was to become, still she had won the confidence of the executives of Garrett's firm. After the revealing interview at the radio audition, Marcia had resigned herself to accepting more and more of Garrett's attentions. Some days she worked until late in his office, then allowed him to take her to dinner or a theatre afterwards.

Garrett was sensitive enough to realize something under the surface had upset Marcia. Since that same night when he had joined her at the audition, he had noticed that she seemed to throw herself even more desperately into her work—and to accept him personally upon a different basis. He remembered their first talk on the beach at Malibu when Marcia's veiled talk of crinolines and men had revealed some underneath struggle between love and her work.

After they'd finished working that night, he took her gently by the hand. "You mustn't overdo it, my dear," he told her. "You've been working like a demon these last few days. Look as pale and frail as a lily."

"You forget. Lilies toil not, neither do they spin. And I seem to do nothing else," she said, wearily pushing her hair back from her forehead. Summer had come early that year, and the blistering hot day had left her enervated. Her starched blue blouse had wilted, and the white linen suit she'd chosen for coolness was a mass of wrinkles. Garrett's eyes smiled in sympathy at the crumpled picture she presented.

"You know, you needn't work so hard. In fact I forbid it," suddenly his emotions burst the dams he had so carefully built. "Oh, Marcia—can't you see how I love you, want you? Working with you all day and playing through these long evenings, I've known for a long time that you were the only woman for me. I didn't want to speak, for I felt that there was someone else. But now—"

"Now there's no one," she said with bitter finality. "I let the man I cared for slip through my fingers while I stretched them up to snatch falling stars," she said dramatically. "Gary, I was afraid of this, afraid you might misinterpret our friendship. I was so lonely I welcomed being with you, and now I've hurt you, too!"

Garrett was furious with himself for hurrying the girl, when his own intuition had told him her heart was too crowded with worry. He hastily soothed her. "It's not your fault, Marcia dear. And I'm not going to give you a chance to say 'no' right yet. You're just beginning to find yourself now; maybe the right answer will come pretty soon."

Marcia put her hand into his. "Can't we just stay friends?" she begged. Without realizing her selfishness in keeping him by her side under those terms, she pleaded, "I need you so, Gary."

This was small solace for a man who wanted her whole heart, but Garrett wisely appeared to agree. "Of course, dearest. Remember once I told you I was destined to be an old dog Tray? Well, you'll see. Just don't be afraid of my bark!"

He took her home directly from the office, fearing to trust himself with her any longer that night. Although he refused to be discouraged by her reaction, he regretted his impetuous haste in revealing his love.

After he had left, Marcia busied herself in the kitchen. She had been too hot and tired to enjoy her lunch that day, and she was desperately hungry. Raiding the ice box she found fruits for a salad, and despite the warmth of the evening, she brewed a fragrant pot of tea. Remembering the axioms of "Live Alone and Like It," she put on her most attractive Chinese tea robe and took her tray in to the window seat. There she found it pleasant to eat, and as she relaxed she began to regain her equilibrium.

She had been startled, though not surprised, by Gary's proposal. With woman's intuition, she had felt the man was nearing a declaration of some kind, and tried to forestall it. If only Sandy could have been saying those words to her! Viciously, she thought of Paula and wished she had her slim white throat between her own capable hands.

If Marcia could have seen Paula at that moment, she would have had even more cause to fume, for the young artist was still working under the electric lights of Sandy's office, and Sandy himself was checking budgets just a few feet away.

While he was totally unconscious of her presence, she was vitally aware of his every move. When she saw him jump up and start pacing the floor anxiously, she came to the door.

"Why don't you relax, Sandy?" she asked solicitously.

"Can't. I'm trying to see where the results justify spending all that money on advertising in that particular magazine. I've checked and double checked, and it seems a foolish expenditure to me—yet Ralston insists on including it in his budget."

"Well, he's boss, and you still get your 15 per cent," she said with a shrug that shifted the responsibility to Ralston. "I think it's about time we closed up shop! I'm desperately tired tonight."

Sandy looked at his watch and whistled. "Whew! Nine o'clock, and you haven't had your dinner. I should be shot." With some concern he looked at the childish face of Paula, now even paler than usual.

While he did not consciously admire her chic little dress, he admitted to himself that she seemed a more wholesome specimen than when she'd first come to his office. Absently he thought she must have a new heart interest. "It seems to work that way with everybody but Marcia and me," he thought, wondering how much longer Marcia would stand siege. He purposely had refrained from seeing her much of late, hoping that she would get things straight in her own heart and mind.

Sandy had started to patronize Paula as a promising young artist, then had conceived the idea of playing upon Marcia's jealousy by being even more attentive. Tonight he asked her tentatively to have dinner with him, and was startled by the vehemence of her reply.

"Sandy! Do you really mean it? Why I'd love to, really would!" With a hasty apology she hurried to the dressing room to make herself presentable, and then came eagerly to his side. "Will I do?" she said confidentially.

Still Sandy did not sense the impending climax. They had dinner in one of the drive-in cafes which catered to people while they sat in their cars. With the radio playing, they enjoyed the informal meal.

Sandy was grateful for any companionship that would take his mind off Marcia. And Paula was grateful for Sandy.

"Mister," she said teasingly, "before you take me home, would you drive me to the beach? It's such a heavenly night, and I'm too tired to go right home." She wriggled in excitement when the man agreed, and soon they were speeding down the familiar boulevard to the sea. Once there at the Palisades, where tall palms paraded majestically, they left the car.

Suddenly, as they leaned over the railing and looked down the steep incline toward the sparkling sea, Paula looked intently at Sandy.

"Do you know," she said solemnly, "if I really thought there was no chance of your ever loving me—really loving, I mean—I'd jump over this cliff, right now!"

Sandy jumped as if he had been shot, then grabbed her slim shoulders desperately. "You crazy little fool, don't ever think of doing such a thing! This is Poison Point—one drop would kill you," he said, then, trying to make light of the whole incident. But Paula was not to be deterred. Having finally spoken her mind, she was not the one to leave things up in the air.

"I mean it, Sandy," she said tremulously. "You don't love Marcia Madden, you never have. Her wishy-washy kind of love isn't good enough for you. She only wants you if she can have you on her own selfish terms. Me, why I'd come to you on any kind of terms you could mention—any kind! Nothing means so much to me as your love!"

Paula was trembling with the intensity of her desires, and she searched Sandy's puzzled face for an answer. For a long time he was silent, the swaying palms casting disturbing shadows upon his features. He still retained a tight hold on the girl lest she would make good her threat to step overboard. She needed his firm grasp when she heard what he had to say.

"By the Lord Harry, Paula, I believe you've got something!" he exclaimed joyfully, but not at all in the tone Paula had expected.

UNCLE WIGGILY JUMPS DOWN

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed the Fox.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed the Bob Cat.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed the Wolf.

"Well, now that we have had our fun let's get down to business," said the Fox in whose den the other Bad Chaps had met to talk over a plan to get something to eat.

"What's the first thing to do?" asked the Bob Cat.

"The first thing to do," said the Fox, "is to see which of us can best imitate the turkey gobbler. As I heard him the other day I think I can do it. I remember him well."

"I should think you would," chuckled the Bob Cat. "He nipped your tail at the corn roast, didn't he?"

"Please don't speak of it," growled the Fox. "Let me hear you imitate the turkey gobbler, Bobbie."

Why, Indeed.

"Why should I have to make a noise like the gobbler who lives in Uncle Wiggily's camp tent?" asked the Bob Cat.

"Because it's the only way we can catch some of the little rabbits to eat," growled the Fox. "Listen. Here's what we'll do. You know Uncle Wiggily keeps the turkey gobbler to call the children rabbits to meals in the camp dining tent. The gobbler is like a dinner bell."

"Then should we go 'ding-dong' to imitate him?" asked the Wolf.

"No!" snarled the Fox. "We must go 'gobble-obble-obble,' or as near like it as we can. Now let's try and see who is the best."

So the three Bad Chaps tried to gobble like a turkey.

The Bob Cat went: "Mew-obble! Mew-obble!"

The Fox went: "Yap-obble! Yap-obble!"

The Wolf went: "Yow-obble! Yow-obble!"

Neither of us is good at it," said the Fox. "So we had better go to the woods together and gobble together and maybe we can fool some of the little rabbits."

"But what's the idea?" asked the Wolf.

"It's like this," explained the Fox. "If we go to the woods and hide and make a noise like the turkey gobbling, some of Uncle Wiggily's rabbits will think it is time to eat. They'll hop toward the sound of the gobbling noise, thinking it is at the camp tent. And we can catch them and eat them."

Wants to Hurry

"Come on, then," said the Bob Cat. "Oh, mew! I'm hungry.

Soon the three Bad Chaps were hidden in the woods near where the rabbit children were playing. Uncle Wiggily was not far off. All of a sudden the Bad Chaps began to gobble as best they could. It sounded a little bit like the turkey calling.

"Oh, dinner is ready!" cried Baby Bunty.

"It will be our dinner!" chuckled the Bob Cat who was making his "mew-obble" noise with the other Bad Chaps.

Uncle Wiggily also heard the gobbling sound. He was on a hill.

"This is strange," said the rabbit gentleman. "It isn't dinner time. The turkey shouldn't gobble. I must see about this."

Looking down off the hill, Uncle Wiggily saw the three Bad Chaps in the bushes gobbling as hard as they could. Then Mr. Longears knew it was just a sly trick to call the little rabbits.

"Ha! I'll stop that!" said the brave rabbit gentleman. He made a big jump down the hill and landed on top of the Bob Cat's back.

This so frightened the Bad Chap and the othe rtwo that they ran away and that was the end of their gobbling. None of the little rabbits was caught and all was peace and happiness.

And if the front door keys will stop being proud and take the back door key to the movies, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the Hoop La.

WANT CROP CONTROL

The petitions expressed alarm over the possibility next year's farm surpluses will bring disastrously low prices.

JOSIAH PRESTON IS LAID TO REST

Deceased Prominent In Political And Church Affairs Of United Counties

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BETHANY, July 17 (One of the best known and most highly esteemed citizens of the County of Durham died after a very short illness at St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, in the person of Josiah Johnston Preston of Bethany, Ontario. He was born in Manvers on June 5, 1855, and was the last survivor of six sons of James Preston, a pioneer, who settled in that township nearly a hundred years ago. He went into business in his youth and was a well-known grain merchant at Bethany for many years. The deceased was several times Reeve of his township, a past Warden of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, township clerk for many years, and the representative of East Durham in the Ontario Legislature for eighteen years, serving during the whole Premiership of Sir James Whitney and Sir William Hearst. The late Mr. Preston was an Anglican in religion, a faithful attender a divine worship, and supporter of all church activities, a staunch Conservative, and unmarried.

The funeral on Tuesday, held at St. Paul's Anglican Church, was one of the largest ever held in this vicinity. His rector, Rev. A. R. Holden, officiated, having been previously instructed to make no personal allusions to this great man, whose religion was lived every day. The address by the rector was a message to the living, taken from the 12th verse of the 90th Psalm: "So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom." The chosen hymns, "Rock of Ages" and "Abide with Me," were favorites of the deceased.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. A. B. Sisson, W. L. Hanna, Harry Smith, Harry O'Brien, J. J. Clark, and Henry Ward, all of Bethany. Interment was made in the family plot at St. Mary's Cemetery, where a large gathering met the cortege.

Friends and relatives from a distance included: Mrs. E. L. Taylor, Winnipeg, Mrs. George Calder, Kenora, W. J. Elliott, K.C., Toronto, and Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Harry McKague, Toronto, Mrs. James A. RAINS CONTINUE SOAKING PRAIRIES

Feed And Crop Outlook Improves—Many Gardens Being Sown

WINNIPEG, July 17—(CP)—Rains drenched the Canadian prairies today as downpours continued in Northern and Central Alberta with good precipitation reported elsewhere in Alberta and Southern Saskatchewan and heavy showers in many parts of Manitoba.

The western feed and crop situation improved extensively with the rainfall, and in Southern Saskatchewan garden seeds were being sown and farmers of the drought-stricken areas looked for fodder crops where a week ago no harvest of any kind was expected.

Edmonton's deluge continued past its 48th hour last night with the six-inch mark exceeded and no sign of let-up. Officials believed no part of Alberta was missed by rain.

Rain was still falling in Southern Saskatchewan and at Ceylon 80 miles south of Regina four and a half inches have fallen since Sunday. Four inches have fallen at Pangman, west of Ceylon, since Wednesday. Two inches fell yesterday at Assiniboia, in the worst of the drought area. A similar fall was recorded at Moose Jaw.

The rain extended yesterday eastward from Assiniboia and heavy falls were reported as far as Estevan in the southeastern corner of the province.

Rain-sodden highways in all directions out of Edmonton crippled bus and truck traffic and the Provincial Government banned use of the province's five main highways by heavy vehicles because of softened surfaces.

CONDEMNS CURB OF 'SEA DEVIL'

Aussie-German Magazine Contends Luckner Should Have His Say

MELBOURNE, July 17 (CP-Reuters). — The German-Australian magazine Die Brueke condemns criticisms of the Australian Labor Party of the Nazi propaganda cruise of Count Felix Luckner, the famous war raider, in the motorship Sea Devil.

It says the ruling of the Minister of the Interior that Count Luckner should be permitted to land but must not engage in propaganda "Shames fair-minded people." The magazine says "Such action is anti-chivalrous to a former adversary and unworthy of Australia."

Count Luckner, known as the "Sea Devil" during the War, opened his world propaganda tour on April 18. He took with him film apparatus to assist him in lectures on Germany. His ship carries a crew of 13, provisions for six months, and sufficient fuel for a 6,000-mile voyage.

U.S. COURT BILL IS BACK TO LIFE

President's Demand For Action Brings Peeved Response From Opposition

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP).—An injunction from President Roosevelt that it is "the duty of Congress" to pass judiciary legislation at his session drew angry, defiant replies to-day from foes of the Bill for Reorganization of the United States Supreme Court.

The armistice called after the death of Senator Joseph T. Robinson was shattered even before his State funeral at noon.

"We will select our own leader and dispose of the Court Bill in our own way without dictation from any source whatsoever," said Senator Van Nuys (D.-Ind.).

Senator Burke (D-Neb.) commented: "If the President is determined to have the matter brought back to life, he will find the Opposition ready to welcome the contest."

Opposition Senators struck back vigorously at the President's statement he was expressing his views before Robinson's funeral because "I find that advantage is being taken of what, in all decency, should be a period of mourning."

The tone of his statement and the replies of the foes gave a hint of the bitterness with which the Senate debate will be resumed next Tuesday.

President Roosevelt made his demand for action on court legislation in a letter to Acting Senate Leader Barkley of Kentucky.

DISPLACE DATES WITH GEOGRAPHY

Reasons For Battle More Important Than Time And Place Says Expert

CHICAGO, July 17—(CP)—"Date" history and "place" geography are one the wane and a combination of both, known as "social science," may soon be in use in all junior high schools.

Sidney A. Denison, superintendent of schools of suburban Glen Ellyn, who made this statement, said the date of a battle is not so important as "the reason why the battle was fought and an understanding of the causes and conditions that led to the battle."

"The 'place' in geography is not so important, but the habits of the people, their culture and the effect they have had on mankind's progress are."

THREE BIG DAYS AT OTTAWA FAIR

Outstanding Features To Mark Jubilee Year—Show To Last Nine Days.

Pageantry, thrills and novelty will mark the first three days of the Ottawa exhibition, three special extra days to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary. Instead of a week, there will be nine days in all, August 19th to 28th, opening on Thursday, August 19th. Lucky Teter and his daredevil automobile riders will do their stuff for the first three nights. This is claimed to be the most sensational act in outdoor entertainment. With a cast of 800, suitably costumed and with an elaborate stage setting, a historical pageant, Chaudiere, will be presented, and indications are that it will be the most pretentious offering which has been staged in the Capital. A cavalcade with the riders of the ages and fireworks will be added features.

With the exception of the live-stock, all departments, including the big midway, will be in readiness for the opening day. Then on Monday, August 23rd, there will be a complete change of entertainments. Goldman and his band; a big song and dance presentation, The Revue of Tomorrow; vaudeville, the best obtainable; horse races, horse show, automobile show and a hundred and one other free attractions will combine to make the 1937 exhibition memorable.

Prize lists are available on application to the secretary, as is other information and illustrative literature.

MAJOR GRAFTON DIES AT DUNDAS

Vice - President Of Grafton Company Was Well-Known Here

DUNDAS, July 19. — Major J. Stewart Grafton, vice-president of Grafton and Co., and only son of Col. J. J. Grafton, died at his home here on Saturday, in his 48th year. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Lillian Butchart, of Owen Sound; one daughter, Catherine, both of whom are now in Europe; one sister, Mrs. Dr. J. A. He was for years an officier of the 77th Wentworth Regiment and served overseas in the first contingent during the Great War. He enlisted as a private and rose to the rank of sergeant. He was a past president of the Canadian Legion and keenly interested in the welfare of returned men.

JAP ARMY WARNS CHINA TO SETTLE AT ONCE--OR WAR

Troops Prepare For Action At Midnight Result Of "Incessant Outrages"

KAI-SHEK LIKELY FIGHT

NANKING, July 19 (AP). — The Domei (Japanese) News Agency reported today that the Japanese army has served a "last warning" on China to settle the North China crisis on Japan's terms or face war.

The virtual ultimatum, Domei said, was delivered to General Ho Hing-Chin, Chinese Minister of War, and General Cheng Chien, Chinese Chief of Staff, by Major General Seiichi Kita, Japanese military attache in China.

The news agency said Kita told the Chinese commanders they must "disregard minor differences" on the settlement of the dispute and "save the situation by prompt withdrawal of General (Nanking Government) troops and air forces to their original stations."

Action At Midnight

TOKYO, July 19.—(CP-Havas)—Domei (Japanese) News Agency reported from Tientsin tonight that commanders of the Japanese garrison in North China had announced that effective at midnight they would be obliged to take "independent action" as a result of "incessant outrages" by the Chinese.

Tokyo municipal authorities decided to make preparations for declaring a "state of emergency" in this capital.

EARHART DEAD NAVY DECIDES, GIVES UP HUNT

1,500 Men Cover 250,000 Square Miles Of Ocean, Reefs, Islands

16-DAY SEARCH

Every Possibility Of Finding Fliers Alive Conceded At An End

HONOLULU, July 19 (A.P.). — Mystery of Amelia Earhart lay locked in the silent watery wastes of the vast Pacific to-day. Four naval vessels of the United States and the 1,500 weary men who sought her and her navigator 16 days gave them up for dead, and sailed for home.

More than 250,000 square miles of equatorial ocean, reefs and islands were scoured by ship and plane in an almost hopeless search for the tousle-haired aviatrix an dher companion, Captain Frederick J. Noonan who dropped from sight on July 2.

Somewhere near the dot which is Howland Island, Miss Earhart and Noonan dropped from the skies in their fuelless land plane on a 2,570-mile flight from Lae, New Guinea, to the mid-Pacific sandspit.

The 39-year-old woman flier, known the world over for her aviation exploits, was circling the earth "just for fun," she said, but also to blaze possible new commercial routes.

The great naval hunt was called off yesterday when Navy authorities decided they had exhausted every possibility of ever finding the missing fliers.

Putnam Crushed.

The closing order crushed the last hope of rescue held by George Palmer Putnam, motion picture executive husband of Miss Earhart, who obtained leave from his duties to further her world-flight plans.

"I am deeply appreciative of what the Navy has done," the grief-stricken husband declared in Los Angeles. "That is all I can say."

The aircraft carrier Lexington, with its brood of 63 fighting planes, and three destroyers were the last searching vessels. Last week the doughty coastguard cutter Itasca, the minesweeper Swan, and the battleship Colorado steamed toward this port after searching thousands of square miles by air and sea.

By air and sea, the search extended for a radius of between 300 and 600 miles around Howland, 1,500 miles south of here.

The attempt on the Polish leader's life was made at his villa in the village of Swidry, not far from Warsaw. The assassin was said to have made his way into the garden of the villa with a powerful explosive. It apparently exploded before the time for which it was set.

More Hopes For Peace Than Year Ago Says Eden

Believes Nations Realize That International Ruin Follows War

GREAT LESSON IN SPAIN

By George Hambleton
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, July 19 (CP Cable)—Before the House of Commons this afternoon Foreign Secretary Eden surveyed the disturbed world and found the hope for peace greater than a year ago.

He frankly pointed out the danger zones and difficulties. Though he said there could be no lasting confidence until an international organization with world membership was entrusted with the arbitration of differences and the conciliation of disputes, he told the House:

"I stand at this box today with a greater measure of hope than was possible a year ago that the nations of Europe will yet compose their quarrels and that peace will be preserved."

The past year at times had been tempestuous in the international sphere. Yet the outlook was not wholly black. Storm clouds there were; yet also there were patches of clear sky.

"On the whole the atmosphere is less tense and less lowering than 12 months ago," the foreign secretary went on.

The mere fact of recurring crises over Spain, without the whole of Europe being involved, in itself was a cause for modified encouragement. No nation desired the conflict to spread.

Perhaps, too, Spain had taught another lesson. It taught that in modern warfare quick victory was not easily won. War of today was not fought between small, highly professionalized armies. It involved whole populations, their lives and homes. While it introduced new horrors it also increased the power of defence. No one today could hope to reap advantage from a long war. It would spell international ruin.

St. Dunstan's churchyard, in England, will become a children's playground.

BULLETIN

The Dominion Woollen and Worsted strike appeared to have settled down to a total deadlock when a statement from Managing Director H. Barrett re-affirming the refusal of the company to accede to wage increase demands was handed the committee of twelve Bonner-Worth and Auburn strikers this afternoon. The statement indicated that the strikers' request for a special meeting of the company board of directors would not be heeded.

Handed to the bargaining committee by D. G. H. Melton, Bonner-Worth manager, the statement follows:

"As it is not possible to arrange a directors' meeting this week, and to avoid unnecessary delay, the under-signed advises that he discussed the situation thoroughly with the president, who agrees that the company's policy as outlined to the Employees' Committee last week is in accordance with the policy already laid down by the directors, therefore a further meeting is unnecessary.

"A verbal undertaking that the points agreed to will be carried out is all the company is prepared to give, the president authorized me to state."

"H. Barrett, Managing Director."

"Halo" Hats Tabooed By Louisville Priest

Louisville, Ky., July 19 (AP).

"HALO" HATS—the latest feminine headgear craze were banned today as "inadequate" for wear in Roman Catholic churches in Louisville.

Father E. E. Willett, pastor of St. James Catholic church and Vicar-General of the Louisville diocese frowned on the open crown top pieces today expressing doubt they were adequate head covering under the church laws.

"I understand these (hats) are called halos," Father Willet said. "I am sorry that the ladies here will have to wait until they get to heaven before they can wear their halos."

THREATS MADE AGAINST GIRLS SPEAKERS SAY

Strikers At Sunday Rally Reaffirm Determination To Stay Out

WAGES CONDEMNED

Many Citizens Attend Meeting To Hear Grievances Discussed

Textile strikers reaffirmed their determination to hold out for wage increases at a well-attended open air rally at Nicholls Oval on Sunday afternoon and listened to criticism of an official at Bonner-Worth mill who was charged with having tried to cajole and threaten girl strikers to return to their looms.

Michael English, chairman of the Strike Committee presided over the meeting at which speakers included Alex Welch, United Textile Workers organizer; and Alex Townsley, Mrs. Edith Frizzelle, and Elmer Hickey, all employee representatives on the committee of "twelve" that has entered into negotiations with the plant management in an effort to bring about settlement of the 20-day-old dispute.

Below Subsistence Level

Mr. Welch maintained that textile workers generally and those in Peterborough in particular were having to live at two dollars below the government subsistence level. He declared, "They are being maintained at a lower level than the old Southern slaves. But we are not slaves, we are free British subjects merely seeking our democratic rights."

Each of the speakers acknowledged the generous public support that was being given to their cause, and Mr. Welch believed many influential people had declared themselves behind the strikers because they realized the low wages being paid by Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited was "a black eye to the City of Peterborough."

"The stories heard in conference this week about the abject poverty of the company would be amusing," he said, "were it not for the fact 650 people employed by the company are on strike."

Briefly reviewing the financial set-up of the company, Mr. Welch alleged 60 per cent of the stock was "watered," while of the five million dollars at which the firm was capitalized, he said, three million dollars was never invested.

Paradoxical Situation

He declared that the company's threat to close the Auburn mill was "an insult to the people of Peterborough," and pointed to the "strange paradox" that the company officials were nevertheless trying to induce workers to go back.

"One official has been trying to coax girls back to work at the Bonner-Worth Mill, and when he finds coaxing won't do he threatens them," the speaker claimed. He characterized such an attitude as "a betrayal of friendship that existed prior to the strike," and said apparently this official did not care a rap about the position of the strikers or if some of the girls might be branded as scabs or strike-breakers for the rest of their lives.

He warned them, "Do not be induced to go back to work until all go back," and concluded with the words, "Deliver us from our friends; we'll take care of our enemies."

Other Speakers

Mr. Townsley laid stress on the unfavorable reaction to the city as a whole, if the strikers should lose their fight for better wages and working conditions. He was deeply scornful of the company official previously referred to who was charged with trying to induce girls

Barrett Declares Reserve Obtained From Bond Holders

$3,660 Earned Last Year Applied To Company's Bond Interest

SAYS EMPLOYEES KNOW

Facts Were Placed Before Them, Managing Director's Statement Says

"The Hon. G. N. Gordon has used my name in an interview he gave the press", said H. Barrett, of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Ltd., to the Examiner, here today "and therefore it would appear to be in order for me to comment on his statement, on behalf of the company.

"Mr. Gordon is reported as saying that I am trying to starve out the employees. This statement is not in accord with the facts, which must be well known to Mr. Gordon. The company agreed to meet a committee of its employees on July 6th and there was no reason why the meeting could not have been held immediately except for tactics employed by outsiders whose interest in the company or its employees is limited to the extent to which they can be used to further their own ends."

"Mr. Gordon says the company had a better year in 1936 than in 1935. This is true. In 1936 the company earned $3,660 to apply on its bond interest, but nothing for shareholders."

Came Out of Capital.

"Mr. Gordon says the company has a depreciation reserve of $1,500,000. He omits to point out that this reserve was not obtained from earnings but was obtained from the bond holders and share holders. When I met the employees' committee last week they asked if profits were not hidden in the depreciation reserve, and I gave them the facts, which was that the depreciation reserve had not been obtained from profits but out of capital.

"The employees committee asked why increased wages could not be paid out of the companys surplus of $523,286. They were told the fact which is that this is capital surplus, with the exception of $3,660 and was not obtained out of earnings and therefore could not be distributed.

"The facts concerning the position of the company were explained to the employees committee. The present company was formed in 1926. Its assets were appraised at that time by competent persons and the necessary capital obtained. This venture was disasterous to bond holders and shareholders. Through cancellations of accumulative dividends, reductions in value of common share, cutting the bond debt in half, and replacing cumulative preferred stock with non-cumulative stock. The company through these sacrifices of capital was put in a position to continue operations. The statement credited to Mr. Gordon that the company is attempting to take out of the employees enough money to pay the dividends on their watered stock," has not a vestige of truth in it.

Rank Among Highest.

Bondholders and shareholders suffered during the depression years as they received no interest or dividends on their headings, while employees had continuous work at wages as high as, or in excess of, wages paid by our competitors. In recent months wages have been increased in some departments where we could afford to do so. Other departments where advances have not been made are paid at rates which rank among the highest paid in Canada to-day.

"The management asked the employees' committee to give the names of workers who had been cited by the press as receiving low wages so that the statements could be checked. The reply was they had been instructed not to divulge the names.

"Only one of the three instances cited by Mr. Gordon can be identified, that of one girl who drew $7.41 for 96 hours' work. The amount is correct, but the number of hours worked is in excess of what our records show. This girl is a weaver on piecework at the Auburn Mill. She is described by the mill management as a "learner and an inefficient apprentice" and has been retained in the hope that she would improve. She has been employed one year, and other female workers in the same department have earned, over the last six months, as high as 33 cents per hour, which is equivalent to $16.50 for a fifty-hour week.

"Any fair-minded person must agree that when Mr. Gordon cites this particular pay and infers that it is representative of wages paid by our company, he is guilty of gross misrepresentation. We refer Mr. Gordon to the Minimum Wage Board for the facts.

Unable to Locate Them.

"We are unable to identify the two

BRITAIN DEMANDS INSURGENTS FREE CAPTURED VESSEL

Second British Merchantman Is Snatched While London Fumes Over First

WARSHIPS SENT OUT

LONDON, July 19.—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Eden disclosed to the House of Commons today that Great Britain has demanded that the Spanish insurgents release the captured British merchantman Molton.

Eden said the request was sent to General Franco through Sir Henry Chilton, British ambassador to Spain who is at Hendaye on the Franco-Spanish border.

The note, he said, warned Franco that Great Britain would hold him responsible for any damage to the freighter.

Alfred Duff Cooper, First Lord of the Admiralty, announced Wednesday that the British ship had been captured by the insurgent cruiser Almirante Cervera.

The Admiralty said the Molton was stopped inside Spanish territorial waters trying to reach Santander, major insurgent objective on the Bay of Biscay coast.

Second Vessel Captured.

LONDON, July 19 (AP) — Two British warships steamed out from St. Jean De Luz, France today after the admiralty announced a British merchantman, the Candleston Castle, had been "captured by an Insurgent warship inside Spanish territorial waters."

An admiralty spokesman denied, however, the sudden departure of the battleship Royal Oak and the destroyer Basilisk was connected with the British ship's capture.

The Candleston Castle, which formerly sailed under the name of Seven Seas Spray, was captured Saturday and was understood to be under convoy of Insurgent warships to Ferro, on the north Spanish coast.

The vessel's owners received a telegram from the captain saying he and the crew were safe, but the message did not state the ship's position or whether it was still in Insurgent hands.

As the Seven Seas Spray, the ship was the first to run the Insurgent gauntlet and reach Bilbao in April with food supplies during the Insurgent siege.

Both the British warships departed in the direction of Spain so suddenly that five officers of the Royal Oak were left ashore. They overtook the battleship in a speedboat a mile and half at sea.

Officers at St. Jean De Luz expressed belief the ships were ordered to sea in connection with the Candleston Castle's capture.

The merchantman had been lying off Santander, her owners' stated, waiting for a chance to slip into Santander to take out refugees. Santander is the last important northern city in government hands.

A crew of 23 under Captain Herbert was aboard.

Just A Bad Scare Only Effect 3-Minute Quake In New York

Tremors Send Frightened Citizens Rushing To Phones As Homes Rock

11-52 SUNDAY NIGHT

NEW YORK, July 19—(AP). — Residents of New York State sighed with relief to-day as the third earthquake in the states history ended with no apparent damage except to the nerve of apprehensive residents of Long Island where the earth tremors centered.

The earthquake, described by Dr. L. Don Leet, Director of the Harvard Universitys seismograph station, as of "slight intensity" began at 11.52 p.m. E.D.T. last night and lasted for about three minutes.

The shocks were felt in sections of Connecticut and Long Island, but did not extend to Manhattan Island, where a majority of the metropolitan areas rock-bedded skyscrapers tower. Bungalows at nearby beaches rocked with the trembling earth.

Newspapers and radio stations were besieged by hundreds of telephone calls. Describing the tremors, a woman at Douglaston, on the north shore of the island, said she felt a distinct rumbling, "not severe, but bad enough to be frightening.

Farmer Shooting Bats Bags Driver Passing In Lorry On Hamilton Road

Hamilton, Ont., July 19 (CP).

AFTERMATH of two stray rifle shots which fell on highways in the district, a man is in hospital and a second peeved while police are investigating the source of the bullet which pierced the windshield of his moving automobile.

James Munn was brought to hospital Saturday night with a .22 calibre bullet in his right arm, received while driving his lorry along the Dundas-Hamilton highway. A farmer claimed to have been shooting bats about his home when the shot strayed.

The second incident also happened Saturday night when the windshield of the car driven by Arnold Wilson was pierced by a similar calibre bullet. Wilson was also approaching the high level bridge with his wife and child in the car. The bullet made a clean break in the glass, entering near the top of the windshield.

Roediger Stern But Fair Father Says Arch-Bigamist's Daughter

Thinks Something Wrong With Him Mentally—Hurt Head In Kingston

FEW QUARRELS AT HOME

ST. Catharines, Ont., July 19 (CP) —George Fritz Roediger, arch- bigamist, under sentenced at Winnipeg, was a good father and taught his children to live honestly and fear God, his daughter Minnie, now Mrs. Joseph Mancuso, said in an interview at her home here last night. She is the wife of a taxi driver and has a three-year-old daughter.

"He has done wrong and must be punished," Mrs. Mancuso, daughter of Roediger by his first wife, Meta, who died of poisoning here in 1926, said of her father. "I feel bitter, but whatever father has done, he has brought on himself. I don't know anything about the things he has done.

"I don't know where my brother George is just now. As far as I know George is out in California. Oh, I don't want to talk at all. What have I or my husband to do with the crimes of my father?"

(At Toronto yesterday a married son of Roediger was located but he had legally changed his name and was living quietly with his wife and family. On his plea for privacy, his name was not revealed.)

Roediger, his daughter recalled, had often attended church in his 22 years of residence in St. Catharines with the first of his nine wives.

No Trouble at Home

"He never whipped us for being naughty," Mrs. Mancuso continued. "As far as I can remember—I was only a child at the time—there was never any trouble with my mother.

Save Store's Cash As Grocery Owner Uses An Old Ruse

Proprietor Calls Out To Non-Existent Friend And Bandits Flee

FIRE ONE SHOT

Vanish Down Road Towards Tweed—Police Busy Combing Country

BELLEVILLE, July 19 (Special).—Two masked and armed men, who fled after a storekeeper and his wife defied their guns and drove them from the kitchen of their home, were being sought to-day in this district by Provincial Police.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Creeper, who operate a grocery store at Plainfield, fifteen miles north of here, were richer as a result of their combined efforts in which Mrs. Creeper struggled with the bandits to keep the door open and in which Mr. Creeper resorted to an old ruse and discouraged the robbers by heartily greeting a non-existent friend whom he "saw" outside.

One shot was fired by the fleeing duo after they ran down the road in the general direction of Tweed. No trace could be found of the bullet which whined over the heads of the valiant and embattled grocer and his wife who had pursued their would-be robbers into the street.

Arrest Anticipated.

Inspector Frank Gardner of local Provincial Police headquarters last night stated he believed the robbers were local men and their arrest would be made soon. Several suspects were questioned by Provincial Constable Everett Smith and Highway Traffic Officer Sam Ervine in the search that was still progressing last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Creeper had just closed the store for the night and retired to the kitchen to listen to the radio for a few minutes when a knock at the door attracted Mrs. Creeper's attention. She peered through a window and saw a man step back quickly. When she called to him, he said he wished to purchase gasoline.

Mrs. Creeper turned the radio down so she could hear. When she opened the door, two young men, wearing blue cloth masks and waving guns, stepped in and tried to shove her aside. She clung to the door, however, despite their weapons. Mr. Creeper turned from the radio, to feel a gun trust into his side.

Dumped Change on Table.

"The men demanded money, so Mr. Creeper emptied his pockets of change and dumped it on the table," said Mrs. Creepr. "They said it wasn't enough and demanded $4.00. While they were arguing, I kept holding the door open despite the one fellow's efforts to shut it. Then I ran around and opened the side door from the outside."

Mr. Creeper, trying to "talk them down a bit," feared that the pair would take all his money if they got to the day's receipts. While he was arguing, he glanced out the door and exclaimed, "Well, Blake, I'm certainly glad to see you."

At this remark, the two became panic-stricken and bolted out the back door, leaving even the small change on the table. As they ran, the Creepers followed them. One of the men turned and fired once, apparently seeking to stop any pursuit.

MASKED MAN LOOTS HOME.

SHEDDEN, Ont., July 19 (CP)—A masked man early today forced his way into the home here of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bainard and tied up the occupants, ransacking the house and escaping with $16. Details of the robbery were incomplete. How the occupants of the house succeeded in loosening themselves was not learned immediately.

BRITAIN UNAFRAID OF AIR ATTACKS

Recent Preparation Places Nation Ready To Meet Any Competition Says Premier

MIDDLESBROUGH, England, July 19 (A.P.). — Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain declared on Saturday that Britain's air force now "need fear comparison with no other force in the world."

The Premier's speech to a Conservative Party gathering was the first on armament since this week's extensive defence manoeuvres.

"I am glad to tell you we already are far stronger than a year ago," he said, adding that Britain's armaments are "insurance against the occurrence of war itself, for any one contemplating aggression will hesitate if he reckons on the power and resources of Britain fully armed."

Regrets Arms Outlay.

Referring to the rise in public revenues, Chamberlain said this increase would have been able to reduce the public debt and taxation rates had it not been absorbed by Great Britain's arming.

"Nobody could long more ardently than I do for the day when the nations of the world will see the

NO-WINNER RACE FOR WHITEWINGS

64,000-Mile Sailing Contest For Grain Boats Leaves Result In Doubt

FALMOUTH, England, July 19.—(CP).—The blow-me-down windjammer grain race from Australia is over but owing to the informality of the race and its lack of rules and regulations this year's winner seems destined to remain in doubt.

Two big whitewings, Passat and Pommeran, made the 14,000 miles from Australia to this weather-beaten port in 94 days. But those who wanted to call it a dead heat were shouted down by the latter's crew who got down to facts and figures and presented the argument they had several hours advantage over their rivals.

The graceful Pommeran crew had some satisfaction out of their smart clip from Port Victoria. They left the same day as another barque, L'Avenir, but after nine days nip and tuck the Pommeran forged to the front, made Cape Horn in 34 days and arrived home a day ahead of their rivals.

Veteran shellbacks here declare three women apprentices on L'Avenir was the cause of her defeat. Last of the 18 ships in this year's race to arrive in port was the Lawhill which made the trip in 106 days. Two stowaways got their first view of England from the galley where they were peeling a mountain of spuds.

Strangely enough the worst time for this year's race was made by the first ship in. The Swedish vessel Abraham Rydberg came by way of the Cape of Good Hope and her time was 112 days.

An all-woman political conference is to be held in the Transvaal of South Africa.

Farmer Rings Thistles' Death Knell, Cuts Them In Their Weaker Moments

Eckville, Alta., July 19 (CP).

ADVOCATE OF A SYSTEM of destroying Canada and Sow thistles by attacking them in their weaker moments, John Mottus who farms near this little town 95 miles southwest of Edmonton, today announced campaign dates for 1937.

Farmers can rid their fields of the thistles by cutting, pulling or ploughing them July 28, 29, 30 and 31, reported the Eckville exterminator, who bases his calculations on meteorological and astrological observations.

Mottus, interested in agricultural research, claims there is a certain period in the growing season when the weed is most susceptible to extermination. The time varies each year.

Along with his announcement of 1937 dates, the farmer said he did not intend to continue his work on thistles, but he expected to be able to announce in September methods for destroying other kinds of noxious weeds.

Fire Ends Piccard's Flight In Unique Balloon Structure

Delicate Instruments Are Destroyed With Data Of Six-Hour Ascent

SCIENTIST ONLY SINGED

LANSING, Iowa, July 19 (AP).—Twisted and charred wreckage in an isolated farmland valley was all that remained today of Dr. Jean Piccard's unique multi-ballooned aircraft in which he made a six-hour experimental flight from Rochester, Minn.

The stratosphere flier studied the results of the flight from mental notes. Fire which enveloped the craft as it landed in a clump of trees destroyed data recorded by delicate instruments.

Dr. Piccard was non-committal as to whether the flight had achieved his objective — to determine the feasibility of using a cluster of small sounding balloons in place of the conventional single large bag for stratosphere explorations.

The Swiss-born veteran of several successful stratosphere flights had planned a journey to the rarified air regions with a craft lifted by 2,000 sounding balloons if the experiment were successful.

Dr. Piccard escaped from his flaming "bath tub" gondola with nothing more than singed hair. The scientist said the fire might have been caused by the explosion of TNT which he detonated in order to facilitate the descent.

RICH ZINC FIND NEAR ENTERPRIZE

Discovery Comes In Spite Of Adverse Reports By Expert Geologists

ENTERPRISE, July 19.—Culmination of a 22-year search has resulted in the discovery a few weeks ago of a rich deposit of zince a few miles north of this small village about fifty miles northwest of Kingston.

The discovery was the result of persistent efforts of George Beausolell of Montreal, owner of the Lennox Mines Company, in spite of adverse reports of qualified geologists and mining men, who said no minerals existed so far south of Ontario's rich mining area.

During the past two weeks two test holes have been dug about 20 feet deep, and both have revealed rich veins of the mineral having a high concentration of ore. Thousands of tons of ore are believed to lie under the property, extending down many thousands of feet.

Engineer Makes Report

Colin Campbell, consulting engineer of the Lennox Mines, has recently given a confidential report on samples of ore taken from the test holes which revealed not only a high concentration of ore but also a zinc of high quality. The zinc, which will be extracted from the ore by little effort, compares favorably with zinc from the rich mines of South Africa.

Alex. Wilson, a veteran miner and a canny Scot, who has had wide experience both in Canada and South Africa, and who is superintendent of the mine, pointed out large deposits of free zinc in the calcite of the test holes.

FOUR-YEAR PLANS END

Gunman Takes $400 Watchman Had Saved for Holiday.

NEW YORK, July 17.—(AP). — For four years Edward Bonner, 63-year-old night watchman at the Guild Theatre, had been saving for a vacation. Today he was going to Maine.

Early today a masked man stepped into the theatre, where Bonner was putting in his last few hours of work before heading north. The man flourished a gun, then tied the watchman hand and foot.

First he took $20 from Bonner's pockets, then asked:

"Where's the rest of that vacation money?"

Bonner insisted there was no more money, whereupon the bandit broke into the watchman's locker and took $400.

On his way out the robber tossed Bonner a 50-cent piece. "Buy yourself a cup of coffee," he said.

PROVINCE READY TO ASSIST SMALL CHEESE FACTORIES

Will Advance Or Guarantee Loans To Provide For Cooling Systems

STANDARD MUST BE KEPT

ST. THOMAS, July 19. — Announcement was made by Premier M. F. Hepburn yesterday afternoon that the Ontario Government is prepared to assist small cheese factories in providing adequate storage facilities for freshly-made cheese, either by advancing Provincial loans at a low rate of interest or guaranteeing loans negotiated with banking institutions.

The Federal Department of Agriculture regulation which came into effect on June 1 makes it compulsory for freshly-made cheese to be held in storage at the factory at least eight days before shipping to maintain the quality of product.

Elgin cheese factory patrons have signed petitions against this regulation and the compulsory boarding of cheese and have asked that their plants be exempted from the cheese marketing boards. One complaint is that it will be necessary for small factories to hold cheese twenty days or more in order to get a load for shipping and to prevent loss in weight and deterioration, cooling systems will have to be installed at a cost of about $2,500 a factory.

Premier Hepburn said he had conferred with Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Federal Minister of Agriculture, and learned that the department is prepared to give the local factories time to provide storage departments before enforcing the eight day holding regulation, but there can be nor exemption for Elgin factories.

Premier Hepburn said he was in agreement with the Dominion department move, realizing that if a high standard of Canadian cheese is to be maintained the product cannot be shipped out a day or two after it is made. As a young man, Premier Hepburn engaged for several years in cheese making on his home farm.

Winfield—McKone

A very lovely wedding was solemnized in St. Andrew's Church on Saturday evening at six o'clock when Arleigh Barclay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McKone of Downie street, was married to Herbert Sutcliffe Winfield, son of Mrs. Winfield of Port Hope, and the late J. A. Winfield. The Rev. C. V. McLean of London, formerly of Peterborough, officiated.

The church was beautifully decorated with ferns and lillies, with the wedding music played by Martin Chenhall, A.R.C.O. During the signing of the register, Fred Winfield, of Toronto, brother of the groom, played a violin solo.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an exquisite gown of white lace, fashioned on princess lines, and white accessories. Her long veil of white lace was held in place on her hair in Queen Anne headstyle. Her bouquet was an old-fashioned nosegay of pink roses, cornflowers and forget-me-nots.

The attendants were Miss Edna Carson of Port Hope and the bride's sister, Miss Jean McKone of Montreal. The former was gowned in tea rose chiffon with a wreath of blue rosebuds in her hair and trimming the front of her dress. She wore blue gloves and slippers, and carried a nosegay of pink carnations, blue cornflowers and pink roses, centred with a pink Canterbury bell and tied with blue ribbons.

Miss Jean McKone wore a gown of turquoise blue chiffon, trimmed with daisies at the throat, and a wreath of daisies in her hair. Her gloves and slippers were pink and she carried a nosegay of carnations and roses, centred with a blue Canterbury bell, and tied with a pink bow of ribbon.

The best man was Jack Winfield of Detroit, twin brother of the groom. The ushers were Sidney Swallow of Windsor and Barclay and Jack McKone, brothers of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, and later Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Winfield left on their honeymoon, the bride wearing for motoring a white sports suit with white and navy hat and red accessories.

On their return the bride and groom will reside in Hamilton.

Young—Brown

An arch of pink and white streamers and wedding bells formed a beautiful background for a charming wedding on Friday, July 16, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Brown, 33 Crescent Street, when their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, became the bride of John Henry Young, son of Mrs. A. Geleneau of Ingersoll and the late R. J. Young.

The Rev. E. W. Rowland of Mark Street United Church performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of white satin, made on princess lines, with a coronet of orange blossoms, matching accessories and silver slippers. Her bouquet was of Talisman roses and baby's breath.

As bridesmaid, Miss Mabel Brown, sister of the bride, was attired in a navy taffeta suit with corsage of roses. The groom was assisted by Robert Avery. Following the ceremony, a dainty luncheon was served to immediate relatives, the table being decorated in pink and white, and centered with the three-tiered wedding cake, made by the bride's mother. The happy couple left later for Toronto, the bride travelling in a powder blue suit with white accessories.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Young will reside at the Marlen Apartments. They received many lovely and useful gifts from their friends.

Butcher—Pearcy

Decorated with summer flowers in shades of pink and blue, St. Luke's church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon at half past two when Doris Pearcy, daughter of Mrs. J. Davy of Leeds, England, became the bride of Arnold Butcher, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Butcher and the late Charles Butcher. The Rev. G. J. Bousfield, officiated.

Given in marriage by her uncle, A. G. Powell, the bride wore a charming gown of blue triple sheer. Made on princess lines, with puffed sleeves to the elbow, the gown was trimmed in front with large pink and blue flowers, and wide corded silk ribbons in the same colors, crossed, and encircling the waist, brought to the front again to fall in long streamers. She wore a large pink picture hat in the same pastel shade, pink slippers, pink crocheted gloves and carried a bouquet of pink Briarcliffe roses touched with blue cornflowers.

Miss Peggy Baxter, cousin of the groom, as bridesmaid, wore an attractive gown of pink triple sheer, with short puffed sleeves, tiny jacket with Peter Pan collar and large blue flower at the neck. Her blue picture hat was trimmed with pink flowers and her bouquet was of pink Briarcliff roses.

Charles Butcher, brother of the groom, was the best man and the ushers were Russell Huggins and Norman Baxter.

The wedding music was played by Miss M. Flowers, organist of the church.

A reception later was held at 536 Stewart street, the home of the groom's parents, for about forty guests. Mrs. Butcher, mother of the groom, was gowned in blue and white sheer, with navy hat, white accessories and wore a corsage of sweet peas. Mrs. A. G. Powell, aunt of the bride, received, wearing a gown of flowered chiffon, white hat and accessories and corsage of flowers.

Decorated with the three-tiered cake as a centrepiece and vases of pink roses, the table from which refreshments were served was covered with a white linen cloth with deep lace border, a gift from the bride's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Butcher left later for a short honeymoon in Cobourg, the latter travelling in a white sharkskin suit, with brown and white Ascot tie, brown and white hat and white accessories. They will reside at 308 Stewart street.

Poulton—Cochrane

CAMPBELLFORD, July 19. — A quiet wedding was solemnized in the Manse of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Saturday afternoon when Reta May, daughter of Mrs. Cochrane and the late Robert Cochrane, Havelock Road, became the bride of Joseph John, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Poulton, Grand Road. The bride, who was gowned in white satin on princess lines with picture hat in white with matching accessories, and carried a bouquet of pink Talisman roses. She was attended by the groom's sister, Charlotte Poulton, who wore blue taffeta triple sheer with white hat and accessories and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. The groom was assisted by Gerald Cochrane, brother of the bride, and Rev. B. Simpson Black performed the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Poulton left on a trip to Georgian Bay. On their return they will reside on Booth Street, Campbellford.

Colors Stronger

The redecorating of one room or an entire house can do more to soothe the troubled spirit of the true housewife than a trip to the Canary Islands. And with the aid of the Home Improvement Plan such a panacea is easily obtainable by any one with a good credit rating.

This year when there is such a noticeable trend toward home improvement even the housewife who is perfectly satisfied with her lot yearns for the smell of paint and the clutter of stacked furniture about her house.

Colors are stronger and darker than they have been in previous years. One leading shade is pink—not pale shell pink but a rich dusky tone. This provides a good background for white accessories.

Bright green-blue is another popular color for walls and cocoa brown is a third. These colors are smart whether the room is to be papered, painted or panelled in a modern fabric. Grey as well as the white shades have been in wide use.

Wed – Arrested

Her wedding brought about her arrest. This seemingly anomaly in the career of Mary Dimitro (nee Hurt) is explained by the fact that pictures of the pretty gipsy girl at her colorful wedding in a Toronto Labor temple, caught the eagle eye of a police detective who recognized Mary, as the girl wanted in Noranda, Quebec, for telling fortunes and then jumping bail. Three days after the nuptial rites, Mary was taken into custody for return to Noranda.

Sally's Sallies

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Mine is just a simple creed: this is my guide for thought and deed; not a wise and wordy screed ...here it is for you to read. I believe in homely ways; I believe in quiet days; I believe in joys that springs out of spiritual things. I believe in noble art—that which purifies the heart... Books and songs and poetry; culture, grace and harmony."—Patience Strong.

Dear Friends:

Yes I truly think we get more clean fun out of simple homely things than we ever do from the more elaborate ones in life. You know yourself that when you go to visit someone, and they go to a lot of trouble to get a fancy meal, so that all the time is taken up in the getting of it, we get little pleasure from the visit, because we are conscious of all this effort on our behalf.

But when they get pleasure from our company, when they sit down and visit with us, so that we renew old scenes and happenings we can enjoy bread and butter. Not that I disparage a good meal, far from it, but I do think that many of us do as Mary did, and "cumber ourselves with much serving."

Patience Strong goes on to say: "I believe the world is fair—though so full of grief and care...I believe in One above—and His everlasting love. I believe in Miracle; I believe the Beautiful; breaking bud and leafing tree...Life and immortality."

And isn't the world fair, and only humanity are unfair to one another so that grief and care obscures our view. How far can we go also if we have no belief in One above nor in His love for us. We are like a plant without water which shrivels and dies, and although our bodies may not die, many of us seem as if our spirit had done so.

And why wouldn't we believe in Miracle, personal Miracle, when we see it in every leaf and plant, in the grass that grows when neither you or I could made a blade of it to grow. Yet we scoff and are sceptical when it applies to ourselves.

Surely when trees and flowers show immortality, God will not let his children die forever, but come alive again to a fuller, better life, if only we have a little faith in God and in ourselves.

I am sitting here, high up in a building in New York State, and all around me are the evidences of immortality. But you have to look for it, you cannot go around with your nose in the air, sniffing at life in general, and immortality in particular and see the evidence.

If you want gold you have to dig for it, or precious stones or even the coal to keep you warm, but how few will do any digging as far as finding things out for themselves are concerned. We condemn Thomas because he doubted our Lord had risen from the dead and had to be shown, but we can be shown many times over, and yet not believe.

And Patience Strong concludes with this: "I believe there is a plan —for the destiny of Man...I believe a human clod—can become the child of God."

And I will go a step farther and say that the key to the plan lies within our own brains but we will not bestir ourselves to be able to use and read it. We are content to muddle through, not getting what we want from life, but not willing to take the blame, so we say there is no God or any resurrection, simply to still the voice within us.

Do you think God made a plan so that men and animals and plants could go on reproducing themselves, yet have nothing better for us at the end? How many of us have real happiness in life? Mighty few if any. Then where would be the use of it all, if there was not something more. "I know that my Redeemer liveth," and that sometime I shall see God.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Enough Courses On Curriculum

CHARLOTTETOWN, July 19 (C. P.). — Only about two per cent. of Prince Edward Island Women's Institutes favored retaining the present curriculum in Grades 9 and 10, Provincial Convenor of Education and Better Schools Mrs. Fred MacLaren reported at the 24th annual convention. Their objection to a change was lack of time for more subjects, she said.

"On the other hand some excellent suggestions for bringing about necessary improvements without interfering with the regular course of studies or adding additional burdens to the already overworked teacher have ben received. Probably the most practical idea is to organize more calf and poultry clubs and in addition to the sewing clubs, have some competent person give a course of simple lessons on home nursing, food values, balanced meals, and other practical subjects that girls should know.

"In regard to the actual school work it might be well to substitute for what we generally term the 'higher branches' a more extensive course in English, both grammar and literature, and to supply supplementary reading from the Library and other sources."

Tar Without Feathers

Apparently the farmers living in the district around Orangeville still believe in the law of leaving another man's wife alone. There was a gentleman from Toronto who had made frequent trips to the district as a travelling optician, and during his journeyings he had found a woman toward whom his affection turned, and apparently she felt the same way about it. She was married and had a family. For some time this continued. The Toronto man had been on a little picnic affair with the lady of his affection and her daughter and when returning home in the quiet hours of the evening a dozen men surrounded the car. They removed the gentleman in question and they also removed his clothing and then they daubed tar on him. They could not proceed with the feathering operation which generally goes with the treatment because the lady used the cranking apparatus of the car to drive them away.

Then the case went to court and the offending farmers were fined $5 each, but apparently they felt they received their money's worth by having the complete story brought out in court and publisher in the newspapers.

In these days when marriage ties the world over seem to be running too often with a loose end, and when divorce and separation and all such have become part and parcel of the world's way of doing things, it is perhaps just as well to have a group of farmers dangling the tar and feather apparatus in the offing as something which may be touched into action. Of course such a thing is illegal, but it is also a powerful sort of thing and it is apt to fill in a blank where the law as such feels it can take no action because no complaint has been formally launched. And the same thing ought to go for the woman who gets her eye on another woman's husband. Such cases do exist.

Foreigners on the Land

Rev. Charles S. Bird of Barton, near Hamilton, made a statement in which he deplored the increase in population of foreigners on farms and said it was regrettable that land cleared by pioneers, who handed it down from generation to generation, should fall into the hands of foreign born. He had particular reference to several settlements in Wentworth county and predicted the number of foreigners there would rapidly increase in years to come.

The same thing is taking place in other sections of Ontario, and in the ownership of property it has taken place on the Pacific coast. There are places in Western Ontario where the people of one nation have taken the place of another. There are sections of Perth county, which derives its name because the early settlers were from Perthshire in Scotland, where today the Germans are in possession of many of the farms. And they are good farmers.

Mr. Bird has pointed to a condition, but the question following is—what is he going to do about it? If there are sections in Wentworth county where land once held by poineers comes into the hands of those he calls foreigners, it must have been that the foreigner was able to go and secure the land in the regular way. The people who owned it must have been willing to part with it. Why? If it had been profitable it is not likely they would have sold it, or if a sale was decided upon it would have been at a price which the foreigner could not have paid. The answer may well be that the foreigner gets these plots of land because they have been offered for sale at a low price by those who have found working the land unprofitable.

Take it the other way: If the number of foreigners on land in that section is increasing as Mr. Bird says, then it must be that those foreigners already there have found it possible to make a living because others would not keep going to take up land if those who had first gone were not succeeding. So if one pursues Mr. Bird's lament to its logical conclusion, the fair deduction is that the foreigners are making a go of it on land which the descendants of pioneer stock have been willing to forsake. We can't see how one could arrive at any other conclusion.

When The Judge Speaks

Judge Wearing of London, Ont., and former resident of Peterborough, made a speech in Toronto not long ago, and in doing so he was filling in for another man who could not be present. He had something to say about the advisability of the federal government disallowing some of the legislation which had been passed in Ontario. And then it was things began to happen. Premier Hepburn wanted the learned Judge lifted from the bench; others wanted the case reviewed by the Minister of Justice. Judge Wearing himself admits he took a short trip to United States where he could move about freely without seeing his name printed in the papers.

Within more recent times the Judge was called upon as a speaker at a dinner of the Police Association of the province, and he amazed the audience by announcing he was not going to make a speech, but he wound up by making what might come under the general heading of a few remarks. The remarks had to do with the manner in which the City Council controlled the estimates of the Police Department, and there was something in it which the Judge considered defective. Nor did that speech pass without a challenge as Mayor Kingsmill of London has been quoted as being distinctly opposed to the views enunciated by Judge Wearing.

So we take it that a Judge cannot with ease make acceptable speeches. When he chooses a text from Nehemiah his critics say he should have picked one from Leviticus. He cannot like the unhampered civilian haul off and let fly at anything which seemeth right to him. He must not pitch harpoons at politicians and their ways nor can he turn loose a barrage upon the defects of civic governments. It seems he is hedged about by limitations in which there are few openings carved through which he can pass with safety to the chair beside the chairman of the evening and be glowingly introduced as our speaker. A Judge delivering an address might well be a close student of the history of Rome and Greece, or one who has breathed deeply of spring poetry. Or he might deal with glaring headlights upon our highways or the high cost of living. Such subjects we believe, handled with skill and discretion, might prove useful as suggestions to the troubled Judge Wearing of London-in-the-Bush.

A Tourist Wants to Know

This letter was received at the Examiner office:

"We have been here for four days living meantime in a trailer and in the vicinity of Burleigh Falls. In company with a guide we were out fishing and took several nice bass and also a lunge between 11 and 12 pounds. The discussion started as to how old that fish would be and the guide was of the opinion that a lunge put on about a pound a year. Do you know whether he was right or not?

We noticed one day when in a canoe near the shore a snake lying on a stone. It seemed to be rather dark in color and slipped off into the water. Could you tell me if it was a poisonous one as my wife and little girl are afraid of snakes and I am not partial to them.—C. L. W.

We believe your guide was approximately correct about the age of lunge as judged by their weight. We have made a number of inquiries from guides and sportsmen in general and the addition of one pound per year seems to be generally accepted, although no reason for that method of calculation has been advanced.

This paper has never heard of a poisonous snake in the Kawartha Lakes district. In search of material for our annual vacation edition members of the staff with and without guides have covered a great deal of the bush and lakes district. Some snakes have been seen, but they are infrequent and harmless. The snake our correspondent saw was probably an ordinary water snake. When they have picked up enough to eat they will often crawl on a stone or log to sun themselves. Last year when at the beaver dam at Cedar Lake (not a particularly easy place to approach) a good sized water snake on a log was seen in difficulty. It has been lying out there snapping for little frogs and in mistake had picked up a mudcat of small size which it could not swallow, neither could the snake eject it. What eventually happened we do not know, but a trapper told us afterward the snake would die there. That snake, though more than a yard in length, was quite harmless. Within recent days we saw a small dog belonging to an Indian swimming in the lake at Lovesick and he was after a snake. The owner said the dog generally got any he went after only the snake had to be near the surface before the dog had a chance to take it. There are many tourists who never see a snake in this district and those who do have no reason to be afraid of them. They are not poisonous.

Working Hours on the Tenth

Papers have plenty of items in them now about how many hours a person should work during a day and how much pay there should be for those worked hours. We notice the question was being discussed in London, Ont., in connection with Victoria Hospital. Including orderlies, ambulance drivers, laundry workers, etc., there are 133 working there, and only four are on duty for more than nine hours per day.

We cannot recall hearing much discussion on such matters on the Tenth Concession. As a rule the people along there went to bed rather early and got up on the same plan. In the winter months six o'clock was the rising hour and in the summer it was worse than that. Grandfather never used an alarm clock but he could always rise first, and when there was a commotion in his room in the early hours then it was time for commotion in all the other rooms. Late fall and winter the first sound in the morning was when grandfather started fumbling about to find a match to light the lamp which stood on the wash stand right beside his bed. He always had it there so he could blow it out after he got himself well launched on the way to bed.

Then the fire had to be started in the kitchen range, and the length of time for that operation depended on the kind of kindling wood that was being used. Sometimes it was on the green side and had been put in the oven the night before to dry out a bit, and the smell from that was pleasant. By the time some of the work was done around the barn breakfast would be ready as the oatmeal had been put on for a season of simmering the night before and did not need much cooking in the morning.

When it came about 15 minutes to the time when dinner was ready at noon they used to hang a towel out the upstairs window. It could be seen from most places on the farm and every person was on the look out for it so it always worked. If the weather was hot there was no great rush in getting back after dinner, so that might take an hour and a half. But along about half-past five the cows came up or had to be brought up at times depending on how they felt. If they had to be brought up there was a rule they never could be chased because some person once said that would sour the milk. But there were plenty of times when they were chased and they never gave sour milk. Supper was wedged in there some place, and although there were a number of things to be attended to grandfather always got out the Bible after supper and read a chapter. If the weather was threatening and it looked advisable to bring in a couple more loads of hay then grandfather would compromise by reading a short chapter and not pausing long between verses.

In busy seasons there was enough to keep every person going until it was dark. After that the hired man and the younger members of the tribe used to walk down the road a mile and a-half to the store and postoffice to get the mail. No person ever expected much mail, but it was some place to go and nearly every house along the concession and the side lines and the Broken Front Road had some representative there.

Before bed there was bread and milk and at times green onions for such as wanted something, but grandfather was uneasy if there was not a general movement toward bed by 9.30. The actual working hours in that day would be about 12, in harvest time perhaps 14. The only time it was necessary to get off to bed even a little earlier was when they had filled the ticks with fresh straw. Then the bed bulged so much it was necessary to work on it for about half an hour before getting a place evened so one could sleep without sliding off. The government never seemed to worry much about how many hours of work were put in on Lot 4 Concession Ten, and we can't recall that the folk living there did much worrying about it either.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Uncle Sam is going to spend a million dollars fighting grasshoppers but the story does not say whether it is the army or the navy which is to do the battling.

Huntsville has a story about deer holding up traffic on the roads near there. Next thing we expect to hear from Algoma that the rivers are so full of fish that outboard motors cannot operate.

United States army cooks used gas masks while peeling onions and the man who thought out that scheme has doubtless been promoted to the headquarters staff.

The flying boats the Clipper and the Caledonia have been making trans-Atlantic flights appear very ordinary affairs. That of course is the surest way of inspiring confidence in air transportation.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt found a page of her radio scrip missing when she was broadcasting the other night. Now if that could only happen to some of those alleged comedians of the air it would be a lucky break for the listeners-in.

Toronto paper prints a picture of a black bass caught in the Lake of Bays district, weighing five pounds and one ounce and says it is the biggest ever caught in that area. In the Kwarthas they rarely think of photographing one that size.

WORK HORSE

(By A. B. E.)

¶ There was a picnic at the Lake, with good supplies of pies and cake, and sandwiches and ham; it really was a goodly treat, with plenty there for folk to eat, child, lady or a man.

¶ Now Mr. A. was busy there, he worked as though 'twas his affair, he planned the races too; he was on hand before the rest, and promptly shed his coat and vest, he worked the whole day through.

¶ He helped to make the lemonade, set up the tables that were laid, he made great pots of tea; he helped to carry out the stuff, asked folks if how they had enough, was busy as could be.

¶ And Mr. B. was out there too, but never looked for things to do, he had on picnic clothes; he found himself a shady spot, where he was glued and there he sot, 'twas seldom that he rose.

¶ He wandered here and there I saw, a pleasant smile parked on his jaw, shook hands with ladies too; he was not looking for a task, nor did he ever stop to ask, for jobs that he might do.

¶ And folks said Mr. B. was great, nor was he acting too sedate, a pleasant man was he; for poor old A. who slugged all day, they never had a word to say—that don't seem fair to me.

Do you ever think of India as a great dairy country? Probably not. Dr. Norman C. Wright of Ayrshire was sent to that country to investigate and report on dairy work for the Indian government.

There were 188,000,000 cattle in India, while in Great Britain they had somewhere between seven and eight million. India produces the second greatest quantity of milk in the world, the only greater producer being United States. India produced about five times as much milk as Britain and fifty times as much as Scotland. But the average Indian used but 7 ounces of milk per day while in Britain the daily use is nearer 40 ounces. One of the chief problems is that with so great a number of cattle few of the people living in India eat meat. They are vegetarians.

Signor Grandi, the Italian ambassador, has appeared in a new suit of clothes made from milk. Lanital is the name of the material, produced from by-products. Fourteen yards of lanital weighing about seven pounds, can be extracted from 170 pints of milk. From 16 pounds of butter is made and 7 pounds of casein is left. This albumenoid which forms the basis for cheese is turned into lanital, which stands up to hard wear and drenching, and can be woven into fabrics resembling either tweed or rayon.

Buying A New Suit.

At the low point in the depression which came in the year 1933 it was found that the average man was buying one new suit of clothes in two and a-half years, whereas in 1926, the last normal year before the boom, he was buying a new suit every eighteen months. Figures for the present, although not compiled, tend to show that the 1926 rule is again in force.

The robin feeds on berries for most part, but his ordinary diet is composed of 58 per cent. vegetable matter and 42 per cent. insect matter.

No wonder the robin generally looks plump and well kept because he has never yet heard of a diet for slimming. The robin will consume in food 41 per cent. of its own weight in a 12-hour working and eating day.

And when it comes to worms it has been found that the robin will consume 68 of them in a day.

About Gibraltar.

GIBRALTAR was a Moorish stronghold until 1309, and then the Spanish obtained control. The Moors held it again for a number of years until the British took it from them in 1704. Britain has since held it.

The Rock is 1,400 feet high, almost perpendicular on its southern and Eastern sides. Military secrets of the fortress are jealously guarded. Many a tourist has come away with a smashed camera for attempting to take pictures.

Faith of British folk in Gibraltar is well founded. From 1779 to 1783 they successfully withstood a starvation siege by both the French and Spanish navies.

A sum of $250,000,000 has been spent on Gibraltar yet the Rock produces nothing.

In 1782 at Gibraltar when the British solid-shot attack failed against the Spanish navy, upon the order of the resident governor the ammunition was heated red hot, resulting in the burning or blowing up of the entire Spanish fleet.

Believe In Coincidences?

THIS one is being retold. A few years ago a few miles out of Boston harbor two schooners came into collision, each of the vessels being a six-master. This does not appear at first glance to have been remarkable as schooners frequently bump. Then some one made the discovery that they were the only two six-masted schooners in the world and the incident was considered remarkable.

Here is another: On Dec. 5, 1664 the English ship Menia, crossing the Channel, was lost. Only one passenger of the 81 on board was saved and his name was Hugh Williams.

On the same day of the same month in 1785 a pleasure boat was wrecked on the Isle of Man. There were sixty persons on the boat and the only man saved was Hugh Williams.

On August 5, 1820 a picnicking party on the Thames was run down by a coal barge. There were 25 in the picnic party and the only one saved was a lad of five years from Liverpool who was visiting in London. His name was Hugh Williams.

Advertising Is the Solution.

THE paper you are reading cannot possibly be produced for the price you pay for it, and the same rule applies in greater measure to larger publications. Reliable authorities estimate that the publication cost of the Saturday Evening Post ranges from 25 to 50 cents per copy. It can be purchased for Five cents.

The United States Army, comprising 160,000 men allows only $3.65 a week for purchasing newspapers, books and magazines.

A new publication was recently announced in New York, the basic aim of which will be to "serve as a dumping ground for all the literary garbage of American youth." It is named rather appropriately "The Cesspool."

Historic Remembrances

(From the Chatham Daily News.)

A small but intrepid band of explorers, using canoes as their only means of transportation, voyaged along the shores of Lake St. Clair more than 200 years ago and, when a certain swiftly moving body of water was encountered between an island and the mainland one of the men, believing he had found the much-sought-for "northwest passage" exclaimed in his excitement "Chanel ecarte."

Dipping their paddles into the blue water of this "chanel ecarte"—which is now better known as the Snye channel—the explorers spent the greater part of an anxious day in arriving at its head, the tip of the Walpole Island of today. Here, to their dismay, they found a wider and more swiftly flowing stream and the diary of their leader, Pere (Father) Marquette, indicates that one of the canoes ventured out too far into the "big river" where it was caught by the swift current and nearly lost.

It has been suggested that the Historic Sites and Monuments' Board should erect, at some point on the mainland, and close to Walpole Island, a cairn of some type to commemorate the discoveries of the early explorers in this region. It is quite true the explorers never found the goal of their desires— the northwest passage — but they certainly discovered the country and mapped it out so well that more than 150 years later, when surveyors went over the same territory, the earlier maps were found to be uncannily accurate. Surely this first "discovery" of the broad navigable waters of the St. Clair river is worthy of a commemorative cairn.

And on Walpole Island, the present home of the Chippewa and Pottawattomie tribes, there is the base of a monument to the greatest Indian of all time, Tecumseh, a noble chief, an outstanding leader of his race and a staunch ally of England and Canada, who cemented that friendship for ever by giving his life's blood in the battle of Moravaintown. The main part of the monument is yet to be erected, but when it is completed it will the result of chiefly United States labor and money. What a shame that Canadians have no part in such an undertaking. Tecumseh poured out his blood in defense of Canada, and right in this country, too, and yet not one Canadian could be found two years ago to take the lead in securing Canadian assistance in materials or money, for a monument to commemorate such a noble sacrifice.

It is almost 125 years since Tecumseh gave his life for this country— whether his sacrifice turned the tide of the American invasion is not the point at the present time—but no memorial of proper size has ever been erected in honor of his gallant service. Surely the completion of the memorial on Walpole Island could be undertaken by Canadians as a tribute to Tecumseh and the Indian allies of those stormy years of the early part of the last century.

The West's Drought Problem.

(From the Western Producer.)

THE gravity of the situation which confronts the people living in the extensive drought-stricken areas of Saskatchewan and Alberta would not be easy to exaggerate. In ordinary times, or, to be more exact if it came after a series of average crops, this year's calamity would not be serious; but, coming as it does, after a succession of crop failures throughout a large portion of the stricken area, it is nothing less than a major disaster. The sufferings which have been so heroically borne in recent years will be increased to a point that will break the endurance even of heroes—and we are not all heroes.

The privations of individuals will, of course, be the worst result, but the consequences for institutions—the municipalities, provinces and the dominion itself—will be of a most serious nature. A realistic appreciation of the problems to be faced, quick action and the utmost cooperation from all concerned are essential if any substantial alleviation of conditions is to be achieved.

While immediate remedies for this year's catastrophe are being sought and applied and while the urgent need for them is obvious, it is no less obvious that, alone, they will be insufficient. For years it has been suggested time and again in these columns that the western provinces should face squarely the critical position into which a succession of crop failures has driven them. With an optimism completely unjustified by the facts but, possibly characteristic of the spirit of the west, there has been a reluctance to admit, at least publicly, that conditions were as critical as in fact they were. "Give us a couple of good crops and the west will be all right," expressed the frame of mind of a considerable number of people. We have never agreed with this attitude. Ever since 1931 it should have been apparent to qualified observers that, taking commodity prices on the one hand and the heavy burden of public and private debt on the other, good crops would have been no solution. Indeed, heavy grain harvests, with the market price below the cost of production, would probably have aggravated rather than solved the problem.

But today even the most optimistic must pause before the consequences of the 1937 tragedy. A position has been reached which not even the most drastic debt adjustment yet suggested will solve and, even if such were applied, it would not remove the evil but merely postpone the evil day. What then is to be done?

The first thing, we believe, is to gain a thorough knowledge and appreciation of the actual conditions as they exist. The economic survey board which was inaugurated at the last session of the Manitoba Legislature and which is now commencing to function should, we conceive, do just that for that province. We presume that the preliminary work now being done in Alberta by L. D. Byrne, one of the representatives of Major Douglas, has for its object the assembling of the relevant economic data which will set forth clearly the material and financial position of that province. It is a fundamental preliminary to any steps towards an enduring solution that such an examination be carried out with thoroughness and the fact assembled exhaustively and carefully. This is work which should be done by the province themselves. Representatives of bondholders, when they make their examinations, are almost solely interested in discovering a method whereby debts can be paid; even the Dominion government—a heavy creditor, by the way—cannot be entrusted with matters which so vitally concern the life of a province.

Therefore while taking every possible step to cope with the immediate situation and to alleviate present privations, we believe that Saskatchewan should follow the lead of Manitoba and Alberta and undertake a thorough stocktaking. This should not involve the province in much expense but, even if it did, it would, providing the job was well done, be worth the price. When this has been done the ground will be cleared to proceed with whatever schemes may be found necessary permanently to remedy the situation and the foundation work may also probably be laid for helpful cooperation between the provinces in future efforts.

To Outlaw Daylight Time.

(From the Woodstock Sentinel-Review.)

PETERBOROUGH county council has adopted a resolution asking the Legislature to prohibit municipal councils from passing any bylaw or resolution changing standard time to daylight saving time. Brant county council is to consider this resolution at its next meeting.

The Peterborough resolution deprecates the lack of uniformity during spring and summer and declares that the great majority of people are opposed to daylight time. It is at least the case that the majority in this province has never adopted it. Last year the city council of Woodstock asked the government to consider "ordering" daylight time throughout the province during June, July and August this year, and the Sentinel-Review questioned the advisability of a minority governing the conduct of the majority. The Peterborough resolution proposes the reverse, but it is still doubtful that the government will go looking for trouble in such a matter, however desirable uniformity may be.

Rural opinion has always been against advancing the clocks, and the Peterborough council no doubt gives expression thereto. Its resolution refers to bylaws, but these are not much in the ordinary sense, as we understand it. No penalties are provided, and consequently no enforcement is attempted; it is merely a matter of consent on the part of the residents of a municipality, or of a majority voting on a plebiscite. The mayor "proclaims" observance of fast time for a specified period, by authority of the council.

Contrary legislation such as proposed from Peterborough county would mean cowcoin of large centres in central and eastern Ontario and municipalities in the Niagara Peninsula, and daylight time would still be observed by certain municipalities in adjoining provinces. The last time legislation was enacted in the matter was in 1912, when Parliament passed a bill prescribing daylight time for the whole Dominion, after the fashion of legislation in Great Britain. This lapsed at end of the year, and the only mention of the question in recent years was made in 1935 by F. H. Pickel, of Brome-Missisquoi, who said in the budget debate:

"The government had even gone into the business of fixing time which is a bad thing for the farmer I know of no legislation that hurts the farmer more than daylight saving. Nothing does more damage in the country."

Bargain Hunters.

(Kitchener Record)

THIS has been called the age when nothing is sacred, and if there is any truth in that, the first to believe it probably would be the auctioneer who bid off Samuel Insull's boomtime household furnishings the other day.

The Insull napkins went at 50 cents each, doilies sold at a twelfth of their original value, and a $5,000 dinner set hit the skids to the top bidder at a mere $390. To the conscientious auctioneer, these deep-cut rates were nothing less than "sacrilege."

His mistake was in failing to reckon with the bargain hunter, whose open season is the year around and whose field is the world. But the thing that might have been most enlightening to the harassed auctioneer is the fact that the bargain hunter, like some great financial czars, never lets sentiment interfere when money is involved.

CALLS IT INSULT.

(Cobourg World)

FIRST of all they bought U. S. planes—despite the appalling record of deaths on American commercial airlines in the last few years. Now they have hired a Yankee to operate our trans-continental airway—this in the face of the fact that in Northern Canada our Canadian airmen have made a record for commercial flying unsurpassed in the world.

There were good Canadian pilots in the air, risking their lives that Canada might live, three before the U. S. had airmen worthy of the name. These Canadian wastime flyers established a reputation and created traditions which have been worthily upheld by their peace-time successors.

It is an insult to Canadian airmen that an American should head our government sponsored airway.

HE DROVE A WRECK.

(Chatham News)

THE other day a St. Catharines constable stopped a truck for examination and here is what he found:

The front tires were defective;

The emergency brake was useless;

The foot brake was effective on one wheel only;

The steering action was bad, with the column twisted against the shackles;

The tail light and rear reflectors were missing.

The remarkable thing, as the St. Catharines Standard points out, this truck had not figured in an accident. While this decrepid contraption was rolling along in safety, other cars with perfect brakes, new tires, perfect mechanism of motor and steering wheel were piling up in the ditch causing death and destruction.

While there is no possible justification for driving a faulty car, the Standard throws out the hint that there would be fewer accidents if all motor drivers would handle their cars as carefully as the driver of this truck was compelled to do, for his own safety.

male workers whom Mr. Gordon states were paid rates 'running as low as $16.18 for 100 hours' work and $18.18 representing another married man's one hundred hours' work for two weeks, but knowing we do not engage workers at any such wages, I can only say that such statements are deliberately misleading, because the whole truth is not given. Such weekly earnings can only be paid to piece-workers who have had intermittent work and therefore have not worked the whole week, or are inefficient workers kept on for compassionate reasons. They are probably weavers and I made the statement to the committee of employees that I would venture to say we paid weavers the highest piece-work rate paid by any mill in Canada on similar work.

"Outside interference, whose chief object is to create discord between th company and its employees by making statements which are distorted by suppressing the whole truth, can only delay the resumption of work. The efforts of the company and our employees' committee are directed to a speedy settlement so that the loss to workers, the mills, and the people of Peterborough will cease. The mills can be opened immediately, and that portion of the proposals which were submitted and agreed to by the management can be made effective, if the employees' committee meet the managment to arrange the details."

ROEDIGER STERN BUT FAIR FATHER

Of course, there were occasional squabbles but I suppose all husbands and wives have those. He was a stern father, but a fair one."

Mrs. Mancuso said her mother died as the result of drinking from a bottle containing poison, mistaking it for another bottle. After her death, Roediger sold the furniture and they moved to Yonkers, N.Y., where he married Betty Schmidt. Mrs. Mancuso said she liked her father's second wife "very much."

"She was a lovely woman and I really think she and father were very happy," she said. After Betty was found dead in a bath-tub, Roediger faced criminal charges and was later deported.

"I really think there was something wrong with him mentally," the daughter said. "You know, he hurt his head while working in Kingston, and I don't think he was ever the same afterwards. He complained about severe headaches."

AMERICAN PAIR BIG FAVORITES IN TENNIS SETS

U. S. Now Has 2-1 Lead in Qualifying Series For The Davis Cup

TAKES DOUBLES WIN

WIMBLEDON, July 19 (CP) — Don Budge and Gene Mako of the United States today won their Davis Cup doubles match with Baron Gottfried von Cramm and Heinrich Henkel, German pair. Scores were 4-6, 7-5, 8-6, 6-4.

Their victory gave the United States a 2-1 lead in the intersone finals, with two more singles matches yet to be played, and made the young Americans strong favorites to win the series and gain the right to battle Great Britain for the coveted international trophy in the challenge round starting Saturday.

Even should Henkel defeat Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta, Ga., in tomorrow's singles, Budge is strongly favored to whip Von Cramm for the deciding point.

The red-headed ace from Oakland, Calif., trounced Von Cramm in straight sets recently to win the all-England singles crown and nothing has occurred in the intersone finals thus far to indicate the titled Teuton can turn the tables.

DRIVER IS PINNED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Ont., July 19.—A terrible accident occurred on the Minden-Dorset highway, five miles north of Hall's Lake, when the car driven by Mr R. W. Dance, of Pacific Avenue, Toronto, failed to round a bend on the road, plunged over a ten foot embankment, dug its nose in the dirt and sand, pinning Mr. Dance in a death trap, from which the family could not extricate him before the car caught fire. Dance was burned to death, while his wife, two sons and one daughter stood by unable to move the heavy machine.

The car was a large Packard roadster and Mr. and Mrs. Dance and their daughter Marion were in the seat while their sons Gordon Ross Dance an engineer with Proctor and Gamble, Hamilton and Bruce Dance were riding in the rumble seat.

The happy family had been summering at Canoe Lake, Algonquin Park, for four years, and yesterday decided to take the new scenic road to Dorset and Algonquin. They were not familiar with the road and although the bend was not sharp the car swerved at the edge and seemed to take a nose dive, burying the radiator in the dirt while the rear wheels were up in the air. The two boys were the first to get out of the car but in the space of seconds the car took fire and the boys, 24 and 21 years, had great difficulty in extricating their mother and their sister from the car. The doors were wedged with the impact and the top remained intact. Getting two women out the boys turned frantically to help their father but were practically helpless. R. W. Dance has for some years been assistant secretary of the Compensation Board. He was in his 42nd year. Mrs. Dance was admitted to the Ross Memorial Hospital at Lindsay, suffering from severe shock and several cuts and bruises. Marion, aged 18, also suffered from shock, while the boys practically escaped uninjured, except for bruises.

Miss Helen B. Dance, a teacher of 1884 Bloor street west, motored to Lindsay when made acquainted with the accident.

Dr. Crowe, of Minden, who was called, was on the scene of the accident shortly afterwards. An inquest was deemed unnecessary.

futility of spending all this money upon arms which are only wanted because they are so afraid of one another, instead of spending it on better food, better education, and things that help to make people happy and comfortable," he said.

"But before we see that day we must first remove the causes of those fears that countries have of one another. If we can succeed in doing that, then you will find that armaments will disappear of themselves. In the meantime, this country cannot afford to remain unarmed in a world where everybody else is arming to the teeth."

Britain's Sincerity Recognized.

The Prime Minister expressed himself as highly satisfied that, in the non-intervention crisis, the delegates of all twenty-seven nations concerned had turned toward Great Britain for a way out of what appeared to be an impasse.

"I do not believe that such a tribute has ever been paid to the impartiality and sincerity of a single great Power," the Prime Minister added.

Britain's first line fleet in 1936 was said to include 1,770 planes. With reserve ships available, it totalled 4,790 ships. There were 4,000 pilots and 72,986 men in the Air Force, including reserves. Current British plans are designed to treble that force.

to return to work at the Bonner-Worth Mill.

Mrs. Frizzelle claimed company officials had demanded that the girls be in to work on Monday morning, but she urged them the answer to that demand must be for the picket line to turn out one hundred per cent.

Mr. Hickey agreed that wages being paid at the two local mills were below subsistence level and claimed that even if the workers do get their demand for pay increases, they would only then barely have subsistence wages.

"We would never have been on strike if we had been treated properly," he declared. "And now that we are out we have no intention of going back if we do not get a bigger wage. What would be the use?"

He pleaded for picketers to turn out one hundred per cent on Monday morning and promised, "Any union member who goes into the mills tomorrow is going to find it tough."

You may be alone . . .
. . . but you're never lonely
when you have a TELEPHONE

The telephone is the grandest company — and an unfailing remedy for that all alone feeling. So, while you may be perfectly happy with your own society, it's pleasant to know that you can call up friends and neighbors whenever you wish and that they can call you. The telephone spells security, too, for it's there to serve you in any emergency.

If nobody has left you an income—

Why not take steps now to provide one, Miss Business Woman? It can be done.

Making a purchase and paying for it by instalments out of income, instead of by cash in one lump sum, is a matter familiar to the business woman of today. That is how many persons buy a car, fur coat, or house furnishings.

And no more complicated than that is the business of securing a regular income for yourself to begin later in life at a time when you plan to give up work.

Imagine yourself with a monthly income cheque received regularly at your door from the postman—leisure to travel, entertain and enjoy your friends and hobbies. Isn't it worth making an effort to reach that happy state of financial independence and security?

NO PARTISANSHIP FOUND IN SENATE ROTARY IS TOLD

Senator Iva C. Fallis Says Upper House Desires To Serve Canada

INTERESTING ADDRESS

"In the two years I have been a member of the Senate I have observed that at least ninety per cent of the Senators are actuated by a sincere desire to approve only that legislation which will be of benefit to Canada as a whole," Senator Iva C. Fallis affirmed in her address as guest speaker at today's luncheon of the Rotary Club.

"I have found almost a complete absence of bitter partisanship. If it is attempted it is either laughed at or frowned down."

Introduced by Mrs. W. R. Morris to the Rotary audience including a number of visitors from the United States, Senator Fallis in her glimpses of Parliament Hill sketched the roots and origins of some of the symbols of democracy as evolved by the British people and handed down as a great heritage to Canadians. The palace of Westminster seemed to have had its beginning in a religious fraternity. Under King Canute it first became a royal residence, and to his successor, Edward the Confessor, belongs the chief glory of creating Westminster as the great centre of the nation's life and traditions, Hon. Mrs. Fallis said.

First King Crowned

William the Conqueror was the first king to be crowned in the Abbey, and Rufus the Red added Westminster Hall, and other sections were built under the Norman kings. Government broadened from an autocratic rule by religious bodies in the early centuries of British history, and later the autocracy of royalty, into the hands of the nobles, clergy and judges, and Senator Fallis said that during the time of Queen Elizabeth abbesses and women of high birth took part in the discussion, contrary to the opinion that women's entry into Parliament was a modern innovation.

The House of Commons was a gradual evolution, rather than an institution effected by any one ruler of the British people. Experience showed the necessity of a chairman, and hence the Speaker of the House in time became a great figure in Parliament taking precedence over all the other Commoners. Senator Fallis referred to other officers such as the Sergeant At Arms and the gentleman usher of the Black Rod, and also the significance of the mace as a sign that the Speaker is in the chair and the House in session.

The Symbolic Mace

The mace impressed her as one of the most interesting symbols, Senator Fallis said, coming down from the misty years when the rod and sceptre were symbols of authority. In the days of William of Normandy the mace was a weapon of warfare, a wooden bludgeon that was eventually succeeded by a metal club, "the better pernaps for the cracking of skulls."

The mace emerged as a ceremonial symbol in the time of Richard I. when the royal bodyguard were armed with it as an actual protection to the sovereign. Later, maces were merely carried by the guard, and gradually its use became restricted to the symbolism of authority which it represents in Parliament today.

Canada's first mace was mentioned in connection with the first Parliament summoned by Governor Simcoe in 1793.' It was captured by the United States in the war of 1812-14 and carried off to the naval academy at Annapolis, where it remained until 1934. Then, during the peace celebration, President Roosevelt suggested that it would be a graceful gesture to return it as a memorial to the men of both countries who fell in that war. After the union of Upper and Lower Canada in 1845 a new mace came into use, and remained as a symbol of Parliament until it was destroyed in the fire of 1916. The present mace was a gift to Canada from Sir Charles Wakefield, who was Lord Mayor of London at the time of the presentation.

Senator Fallis outlined briefly the establishment of the bi-cameral form of Parliament, consisting of an upper and lower chamber. In this country the Senate as the Upper House, by reason of the fact that its representatives were selected on a territorial basis, gave an equality to the sections of the country, as for example the east and west, which was not provided in the Commons where population was the corresponding basis of election.

Trustee Of The People.

"And so the House of Commons is the theatre, the stage upon which the drama of the unroiding of Canadian legislation takes place. The Senate is the workshop where every clause is closely examined with the objective of having all legislation which leaves its hands perfect in every detail.

"The Fathers of Confederation defined the place which the Senate should occupy in our national life, briefly but clearly, as 'The Joint Parliamentary Trustee of the People,' and also decreed that its representation should be territorial and not according to population. And so we find today the Senate is the greatest safeguard we have of minority and sectional rights.

"We have heard much in the last two decades of 'making the world safe for democracy,' but every year sees it less secure. We probably all agree that the greatest safeguard for democracy is universal education. But all education should have as its objective the making of good citizens. When that great day arrives where the majority of our people will manifest that interest in public affairs, which proclaims good citizenship, then only will be have a truly democratic system of government.

Tribute To Rotary.

"In closing I should like to pay my warmest personal tribute to the service which the Rotary Clubs are rendering locally in humanitarian service; nationally by working in conjunction with similar organizations towards the making of this country a better place in which to live and a better heritage for the next generation; internationally, because in co-operation with all other peace-loving associations they are working for the fulfilment, please God in the near future, of a greater and common understanding among the nations of the world that shall bring us to the time when 'war is not, and hate is dead'."

Rotary's appreciation of Senator Fallis' address was expressed by R. F. Downey, who presented her with a bouquet of lilies and red roses.

LIFE IS SUBJECT.

"Life" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for First Church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough, on Sunday. The Golden Text was, "Now that the dead are raised, even Moses shewed at the bush, when he calleth the Lord the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. For he is not a God of the dead, but of the living: for all live unto him." (Luke 20:37, 38). Selections from the Bible included the following from Romans 8:38,39, "For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come; Nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, included the following from page 390, "We cannot deny that Life is self-sustained and we should never deny the everlasting harmony of Soul, simply because, to the mortal senses, there is seeming discord. It is our ignorance of God, the divine Principle, which produces apparent discord, and the right understanding of Him restores harmony. Truth will at length compel us all to exchange the pleasures and pains of sense for the joys of Soul."

With the Boy Scouts

One of the best meetings held was enjoyed by the Peterborough Akela Pack at Sacred Heart headquarters.

They were as follows: Mrs. G. L. Langhorne; the Misses Grace Marshall, Hazel Palmer, Evelyn Lawless, Peggy Lawless (Ruth Farr, Amy Bull, Eileen Doig, Amy Turner, Rev. Father Chas. Begley, Messrs. R. The log book was read by Cub Grant, after which "Wolf Cubs Lights Out," composed by Bob Baldwin, was sung, followed by a prayer for Scouts all over the world. Thus the Grand Howl brought to a close a very successful evening.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, July 27, at St. John's Parish Hall, and promises to be both interesting and educational. All Cub leaders and assistants are asked to be on hand.

The following is a prayer by Akela Frank Pammett, but can be altered for Scouts and I would ask one and all to cut out paste to a piece of cardboard, and say each night:

"Lord, in this evening hour, I pray
For strength to live my best each day;
Draw near to me and shall see
The kind of Cub You'd have me be.
In serving others, may I see
That I am only serving Thee;
Fit me, O Lord, in the great love,
That I may be a better Cub.

HOW TO LEARN TO SWIM.

A Course of Lessons Specially Arranged By Gordon Minty, Swimming Director of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A.

CLIP OUT AND SAVE.

LESSON TEN.

HOLDS AND RELEASES

There are several different holds in which a drowning person might clutch a rescuer and a swimmer would be very wise in learning how to break these by practising with a companion swimmer. The confidence gained by practice will certainly make you better prepared for the emergency and will lessen the risk you are taking in attempting a rescue.

If the subject should grip both of your wrists, stretch your arms overhead and snap the arms down close together and outward at the waist, bringing the weight and strength against the thumbs of the subject, who then must release the hold. Turn the subject about quickly and proceed as in the rear approach.

Should the subject grasp one wrist with both hands, reach across with your free arm taking a firm grip on his far wrist and raise the leg on the same side as the free arm, placing the foot directly forward on the subject's shoulder. By pulling on the subject's wrist and pushing on the shoulder, you will break the hold very easily and also turn the subject about ready for towing.

If the subject clasps you closely about the neck with both arms, having his cheek against your right cheek, raise your right hand and place it against the right cheek of the subject. With the left hand grasp the subject's right elbow and lifting on this and pushing with your right arm against his face you will break the hold turning him about into the towing position. If opposition is offered, press the left thumb into the nerve spot on the subject's neck. There is a nerve spot just above the elbow which also comes in handy in breaking this hold. If the subject grasps you on the other side reverse the directions.

WEST NO LONGER PROMISED LAND

Three Farmers Forced Out Of Saskatchewan By Crop Failures

Three farmers who have been living in Saskatchewan are turning back to the east driven out of the former land of promise by six successive years of drought and crop failure.

"Two of them are already here," a retired Peterborough farmer told The Examiner this morning, "and a third is looking for a place to come to. They left years ago to homestead in the West when people were flocking into the country from the East and also from south of the United States border, but that movement has been steadily slowing up until it is now a fact that some of them have thrown up the losing fight and are coming back home."

The Examiner's informant named three of these farmers who had gone from this county a generation ago to seek a fortune on the virgin lands of Saskatchewan, and have now come home almost empty handed to begin all over again in the East.

"One of them told me that for miles south of Regina there wasn't a blade of grass when he was leaving. Six or seven years of crop failure became an accumulation of losses, and they could not stand the successive setbacks any longer."

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, July 20

A fairly active day but one of uncertainties and perplexities is read from the prevailing planetary influences. There may be an inclination to undertake interesting projects, but the element of doubt and possibly treachery or misrepresentation seems to withhold such activities. Wise counsel with influential friends may prove helpful in handling important affairs, despite the prospect of a more or less hazardous change.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of problems and perplexities in both their business and private lives, with much depending on the individual shrewdness and sagacity. Contracts or writings seem to create complications, with elements of fraud or misrepresentation. Friends may give help or sound advice, but some change is necessary.

A child born on this day may have a rather complex or contradictory nature and may be difficult to understand or manage. Yet, it should be friendly, gracious and have excellent social and humane qualities, the development of which depends upon their training and environment.

TAKES HUGE BASS AT CHEMONG LAKE NEARLY 7 POUNDS

Jesse Airress Lands Beauty While Peterborough Fishermen Hook Monster Channel Cat

A SIXTEEN-POUNDER

Unusually good fishing was enjoyed by at least two parties of local anglers over the week-end.

At Chemong Lake two monster small-mouthed black bass — one weighing an ounce short of seven pounds and the other two ounces less than five pounds—were caught, while at Bradley's Bay, near Campbellford, a giant channel cat gave two Peterborough fishermen a real surprise, to say nothing about the twenty-minute battle.

Using a fly casting rod, with gallnippers and minnows as bait, Jesse Airress of Reid Street caught a nice mess of small-mouthed black bass off the Chemong floating bridge. Two of the fish tipped the balances at 6 pounds 15 ounces and 4 pounds 14 ounces respectively, the remaining two being of average size.

Mr. Airress, who sells all kinds of live bait, and who has a large clientele among American tourists, had a similar run of good luck on Saturday when he caught a string of five small-mouthed black bass, averaging 4½ pounds apiece.

The two anglers who made real fishing history, and who have the evidence to prove it, were Fred O. Goodfellow, local plumber, and George Davis of the Post Office staff.

Saturday night they were trolling by moonlight at Bradley's Bay, using June bug spinners, when they felt a mighty jerk at the end of their trolling line.

For twenty minutes they battled to land their catch, making sure it was nothing less than a game muskie. Their surprise was deep as they hauled the fish into the boat and found it was a big channel cat. It weighed 16 pounds and measured exactly 36 inches from the tip of its tail to the "muzzle" of its queer catlike head.

To-day the mess of small-mouthed black bass and the channel cat provided an interesting display in the window of Playmor Sports Shop on Charlotte Street.

LINDSAY, Ont., July 19.—G. F. Leith, Princess Street, Peterborough, and M. Scollard, 19 Mark Street, of the same city, are in the Ross Memorial Hospital in a serious condition, following an accident at the Reaboro turn seven miles south-east of here, around two o'clock Sunday morning. Leith and Scollard both suffered bad cuts and lacerations about the face and head. The car was almost completely wrecked.

STORM FLATTENS FIELDS OF WHEAT

Wind Also Damages Trees In Millbrook—No Great Harm Done

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOKE, July 19.—The heavy storm about the noon hour on Saturday, accompanied as it was by an exceptionally high wind, flattened out a number of fields of fall wheat in this vicinity, that were just ready for cutting, having ripened rapidly in the recent very warm weather. Limbs were torn from trees in the village, one maple by Kidds store, at the corner of King and Main streets, having fully half the tree wrenched off, though no damage, fortunately, was done by its fall. lawns were strewn with twigs and small branches and leaves were blown in all directions.

The community, however, suffered practically no real harm, and it was evident that the worst of the storm, which was of the "twister" variety rain and wind coming first from the north and rapidly veering to the south and east time and again, was not centered in this particular section.

RACE WITH STORK WON BY MINUTES

Local Woman Is Hurried Home From Picnic At Cobourg

A local woman who attended a picnic at Cobourg on Saturday afternoon entered a race that was not scheduled on the program of sports. It was a race with the stork, and she won it with five minutes to spare.

Shortly after stepping off the special train that took a happy throng of picnickers to the lake-shore town, the woman was bundled into a special chartered motor car and was rushed back home. Five minutes after her arrival in Peterborough, it is stated, she gave birth to a bouncing baby girl weighing 8½ pounds. Mother and child are reported to be doing well.

OSHAWA UPSETS KINGSTON PONIES WITH 7-2 VICTORY

Jake Biddle Southpaws Limestoners Into Submission For Third Win

AMATEUR BASEBALL

TORONTO, July 19 (C.P.)—One league-leading team was defeated and dropped into second place, but two others in the Ontario senior ball circuit maintained their positions with week-end victories. Last year's Ontario titleholders, Oshawa Motors, toppled the Central Ontario League pace-setters, Kingston Ponies, 7-2.

Although St. Catharines was able to widen its lead in the Niagara District League the race for second place is shared by three teams following Saturday's games—Port Colborne, Welland, and Merritton.

Merritton won its fourth straight game at the expense of Walter Stewart, ace hurler of the Thorold Mountaineers. Stewart was blasted from the mound in the third when Merritton scored six runs. The Alliance team went on to win easily, 11-4.

St. Catharines nearly bowed to the slugging Niagara Cataracts in St. Catharines. Outhit 14-10 the Saints to push across three runs in the seventh and take a 7-6 victory. In the other Niagara game Ziggy Ziachynski, pitching for Welland at home, choked off a ninth-inning rally by Colborne when the Sailors were only a run shy of tieing the score. Welland won 6-5.

A Surprise Victory.

Brantford scored a surprise win in the intercounty group and forced Manager Gil Forgue of the London team on to the playing field for the first time in 21 years. Gil took over the second base position after an infield collapse and he accepted two chances with precision. The Brants counted six times on seven hits and seven London errors. London was let down with only three runs.

At Stratford the Nationals trounced Strathroy Royals 10-1, with Bob Carrick limiting the Royals to three hits, one a homer by Dusky Don Washington in the seventh. Stratford hit safely 17 times, scoring five in the first, one in the second and fourth, two in the fifth, and another in the seventh.

Left-handed Jake Biddle baffled the Ponies with the slants that carried Oshawa to the title a year ago and the Motors took a 7-2 victory at home. It was Biddle's third straight win over Kingston, who have been beaten only five times this year.

With the teams who were outlucked in the first-half battling for playoff berths some tidy battles can be looked for in the remaining 3½ weeks of the schedule. Due to several postponements, games will be run off weather permitting, every night of the week, Saturdays and holidays excepted. Last week's games found the Nationals with their long lost batting eye back, which enabled them to down both the Cogs and the Rangers. Keene also took their first game of the second half from the luckless Rangers, who have lost a lot of close games. Keene have 3 more home games and if at full strength are going to be tough to keep out of the playoffs. The De Laval, with their ace hurler, Shine, on the sidelines with an injured hand which will keep him out for some time, took a bad trouncing from the coming Hawks who, behind Elliott's pitching, are also playoff contenders. The bunch of youngsters that form the Cardinals team downed the strong Leafs team to start their second-half and looked like playoff contenders all the way and their received a bad trouncing from the Nats, playing mediocre ball, which had Manager Rose wondering whether it was the same team he was handling.

The revised schedule of the remaining games will be published Tuesday. Managers are asked to destroy their old copies.

Canucks Rank Second Pan-American Soccer

DALLAS, Texas, July 19 (CP) — Winnipeg Irish, representatives of Canada in the Pan-American Games, ranked second today to the Argentine after a triangular soccer tourney with the South Americans and a team representing the United States.

The Argentines had too much class for the other two outfits but, in spite of their 8-1 defeat at the hands of the men from the Pampas, the Canadians placed second under the total-point system, beating out the third-place United States eleven by two points.

The Canadians previously defeated the United States team 3-2 while the home team bowed 9-1 to the Argentine outfit.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By C&C. PERDUE

WHILE THEY HAVEN'T got a playoff berth cinched yet, the Petes took a firmer grip on the third rung of the C.O.B.L. ladder last Saturday in Riverside Park with a 3-2 win over Napanee. They continue to be bad news to Walt Gerow's gang, but the latter crew made it too close for comfort in this tussle. It was a dandy ball game to watch the locals having to come from behind twice to sew it up and then tallying the winning counter in the seventh. Some good pitching, fine fielding and timely bingling. Three neat double-players and a good argument thrown in. A homer that wasn't a homer. Nearly everything you might ask for in this fray.

* * * * * *

THAT HOMER BUSINESS was an odd one. Russ Kitchen, who returned to his old hitting form with two neat blows, blasted one into the river. The ball hugged the right-field foul line all the way but was inside by a foot. Umpire Kinkley called it foul. As the Petes swarmed angrily around him protesting, he conferred with Umpire Johnston and then called it fair. He is allowed to change his decision. Napanee players then squawked and claimed that his call had stopped Bennett in right field from chasing the ball. So his umps up and decided that Russ ought to go back to third. Which he did. Kinkley was wrong in calling it so fast and wrong in sending Russ back to third. It was either a homer or a foul—not a triple. But we still think he is a good umpire; the best of 'em make mistakes.

* * * * * *

KITCHEN CHALKED UP his fifth win of the season and looked okay doing it. He deserves a lot of credit for his hurling this season. And the Petes all gave him fine support. They looked like a real ball club in this fixture as they played errorless heads-up baseball and hit in the pinches. Maybe they've really snapped back to their true form; we sure hope so. Al Clark gave a sparkling performance again at short and hit safely twice. He is going to that baseball training school in Toronto this week to get some pointers on hitting southpaw pitching. Young Walt Gerow—a promising first-sacker for Napanee—will also attend this school. Both should benefit by the experience, and both boys have a fine diamond future.

* * * * * *

BLAZETICH PITCHED a fair game and the Gibbards had tough luck dropping this one. They played good ball and were always within a short hop of the victory. Ash had to leave with a sore back and Long took his place at first, both of 'em covering the initial sack in fine fashion. Len Hollingsworth, a valuable utility man, went to right field. In his first time at bat he hoisted a high one to deep centre that Weir had to make a spectacular catch on to rob Len of an extra-base blow. Manager Collins was quite elated Saturday eve, and was giving away cigars right and left! The Petes don't practise tonight but workout tomorrow night in preparation for their joust in Kingston on Wednesday. Whitehill may pitch that one.

* * * * * *

IN THE JUNIOR Lakeshore Baseball League, Bowmanville dropped a 4-3 verdict to Cobourg and it looks like the latter and our Rotarians in group playoffs now. Herb Ralph's crew had an exhibition tussle in Port Hope on Friday night last and nosed out a 14-13 win over the intermediates. A smart scrap with plenty of hitting. Armour, Clark and Todd hurled for the locals, the last-named lad going best. Wakely, Kinsey and Dawley all saw action for the losers. Edmonds for Rotary had a triple and two doubles in four times. The winners had but one error. They play Bowmanville here this Wednesday in Riverside Park, with Gee Clark slated to twirl, and a loss for Bowmanville will definitely eliminate the Rubbertown outfit.

LET'S SEE WHAT IS doing in softball. Barons and Motorists meet tonight at Central, while Young Petes play Barons there tomorrow. Next night sees Westclox at Omemee. Two gals' games tonight but not here. C.G.E. go to Omemee and Westclox to Keene. Tomorrow eve, C.G.E. play Westclox at the Bowl—the Clockmakers being just back from two weeks' vacation. Keene dropped a decision in Cobourg on Friday night, so it is quite a scramble in this second half of the schedule. Some Southend Softball Loop dope is listed tonight, too.

* * * * * *

ORILLIA TERRIERS WILL be here to play Auburns an exhibition lacrosse game on July 27th—a week from Tuesday—provided the O.A.L.A. grants permission. Belleville Rovers play Auburns a loop fixture here on Friday. Auburns will hold a workout on Tuesday night and probably some other e'en before Friday. Len Smith of Toronto, wants to referee a couple of O.O.L.A. tilts toward the end of the month to get a line on the strength of this group for a big writeup later. He will find the class of lacrosse down in this neck of the woods plenty classy. The Oshawa team is going to be plenty tough from now on, since they have added Bovin, DeGray and Chuck Barron to their previous lineup. Belleville is at Cobourg tonight and Norwood at Oshawa.

* * * * * *

PREXY HARRY MOORE of the Trenton Courier-Advocate figures the Auburns rate their lead in lacrosse on their offensive and defensive work. Figuring out goals scored for and against, Moore hands an orchid to Red Creighton for allowing an average of but 4 1-7 goals against him this season in a high scoring league. Meantime, the Auburns have tallied an average of 16 4-7 goals against other teams in games played up till the last one. He says: "It is thus seen that the Auburns are justly entitled to their lead in every department."

GRAB-BAG: Motorists play Barons next Wednesday in a postponed men's softball struggle here.... Lefty Pointer declined to pitch for Napanee here Sat'day, but Blazetich went okay....Biddle beat Kingston, 7-2, in Oshawa again on Saturday in a C.O.B.L. fray.... Petes have no practise this even but will hold a drill tomorrow night at Riverside....The GM-men are now on top of the C.O.B.L. by half a game....Turner and Jubenville of that squad will attend the players' training school in Toronto this week....Tip Anderson and Lefty Wills hurled for Oshawa intermediates Sat'day as they took a 7-4 win over Bowmanville for their fifth straight....Ted Naish, leading softball flinger here last year, returns to action this week—after being suspended for many months by the O.A.S.A.....The Girls' Softball League race is warming up plenty now....Guess that's enough to start off the week in sports.

DELORO ADDS TO TOP PLACE POST WITH 3 TO 2 WIN

Homesters Have The Better Of Early Play Against Weakened C.C.F.

NEAT COMBINATION

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, July 19—Deloro further strengthened its position at the head of the Peterborough and District Football League through defeating C.C.F. at home on Saturday afternoon by the score of 3-2. Early play was much in favor of the Smelters who with the benefit of a strong breeze, proved most aggressive to the Politicians who were fielding a weakened team.

The visiting backs found the wet surface of the field somewhat of an handicap in their endeavours to clear their citadel. Brown, Bradley and J. Hart tested Tarkington unsuccessfully in turn in the opening stages, the visiting goalie maintaining his early prowess. After ten minutes of play Brown sent in a high lob which J. Hart directed across the goal mouth for E. Bradley to head in for the opening score. From the faceoff C.C.F. now became an attacking force, having hitherto been well held by the Smelters half back line. Smelt on the left wing, carried the ball into the Deloro half for Townson to clear by punting up field. W. Hart with his usual speed raced after the ball and obtaining possession passed to his brother whose effort was nullified as the ball careened off one of the defenders' feet to miss the net by a few inches. J. Hart also deserved a better fate when in connecting one of W. Hart's centres with his head, it was to see the ball narrowly miss a passage within the far upright when Tarkington was out of position to clear.

C.C.F. again came into the picture with some smart combination in which Dinesen and Jobe figured. The former passed to Dyer who essayed a thirty yard drive to find O'Neill sound. Deloro returned to the other end and Brown from point blank range directed a shot at Tarkington who made a lucky save and cleared from an ensuing scrimmage. Brooks gaining possession centred. J. Hart trapped the ball and passed to Bradley who sent in a shot that the C.C.F. goalie had no chance to clear.

The Politicians dogged fighters that they are, came back and their pressure availed this time. Castle shot from the 18 yard line. O'Neill threw himself at the ball but sent it to Smelt's feet and in a flash a goal was obtained. Play of an uneventful nature ensued until half time was reached with the score Deloro 2, C.C.F. 1.

Politicians Try Hard

Resuming play, C.C.F. tried hard to add to their score but Townson and Cousins were covering up nicely. Dyer and Thorne combined neatly to threaten Deloro's goal but a chance went a begging as Smelt placed himself offside. The visitors did not have to wait long for the equalizer for Castle picked up a loose ball in the Deloro half and while the home defence were backing up, ambled forward to drive in a shot which grazed inside the upright at its base. With the teams now on even terms, end to end play was seen. Dyer almost gave his side the lead but the ball just topped the cross bar. by Tarkington when a score seemed most probable. C.C.F. now resorted to long range shooting which O'Neill capably contended with.

In a race for the ball W. Hart beat Mayette and sent over a high shot which Tarkington fisted out. Smith promptly returned it goalwards for Adams to head it to Brooks who shot well. Tarkington, attempting to fist clear, fisted it into his own goal. The visitors made valiant attempts to share the points with Deloro but the home defence proved sound and the final score of a clean game capably refereed read. Deloro 3, C.C.F. 2.

Teams:

C.C.F.—Goal, Tarkington; backs, Adams and Beggs; half backs, Lawrence Castle and Mayette; forwards, Jobe, Dinesen, Dyer, Thorne and Smelt; sub, Clapham.

P. Mecklenberg's Lissom Lad brought Mann home in the Memorial, holding a small lead all the way around. Night's End was just a length behind for nearly the whole mile and 70 yards. Both Lissom Lad and Noble Spirit, Mann's first winner, paid off in double figures.

Silviris, in the third, and Zangwill in the final race, were the long shots of the day. Johnstone brought Silviris in a half length in front of Butch Keeling's Easter Hatter, the favorite. Zangwill was a 10-to-one shot and beat Dainty Rose and Chat Eagle to the wire.

TWO TITLE HUNTS AT OTTAWA COURSE

Golfers Seek Team Championship And Dominion Amateur Championship

OTTAWA July 19 (CP)—Golf's amateur stars, rolling up an entry list that will probably mount to more than 100, made ready today for next week's invasion of the Ottawa Hunt Club to settle two titles, the provincial team championship of Canada and the struggle for the Dominion amateur crown.

Defending champion Fred Haas of New Orleans, La., will return to put in his claim for the title he won last year at Winnipeg.

But before the long grind begins that leads to the Dominion's top prize among amateurs the sharpshooters will spend a full day Monday gunning for the Willingdon Cup. Four-man teams will represent each province. Last year at Winnipeg the Maritimes were not entered, but they will be back in the competition this year, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island combining to form a team.

Ontario has named two each from Toronto and London to carry the province's hopes. C. Ross Somerville of London will lead the forces in an effort to regain the cup, won last by Ontario in 1935 at Ancaster. Somerville will be joined by his clubmate, Jack Nash, and Jim Boeckh and Gordon Taylor, Jr., of Toronto. Taylor went to the final in 1936 at Ancaster, losing to Somerville.

BOXING REFEREE GETS AUTHORITY

Ontario Athletic Commission Takes Action Following Wallace 'Steal' at Toronto

ORILLIA, Ont. July 19.—(CP)—Ontario Athletic Commission has decided to put the referee in professional boxing on a plane of greater importance than he has hitherto occupied.

From now on decisions in professional bouts will be given by the referee alone or by the referee and two judges.

The change over from the three-judge system, with the referee having no say in picking a winner on points, was decided on by the commission here Saturday.

The change was regarded as a direct outcome of the Frankie Genovese-Gordon Wallace welterweight championship bout in Toronto, July 5 when a decision of the judges awarding the bout to Genovese on points was roundly jeered by the crowd. Wallace lost his title by the decision.

The commission has compiled a list of eligible judges and referees, subject to additions, and officials will be selected only from it. Announcements concerning such selections will be made only on the nights of bouts.

The Commission ordered Genovese to meet Wallace in a title bout within 61 days of July 5. Meanwhile Genovese must not engage in any bout in defence of his title.

Petes Score Winning Counter In Seventh Frame To Capture 3-2 Win From Napanee Team

Locals Bunch Three Hits In Each Of Three Frames To Get Runs

AIR-TIGHT FIELDING

Gibbards Only Dangerous In Fifth Inning—Rus Kitchen Gets His Fifth Victory

The Petes took a 3-2 decision over Napanee in a classy C.O.B.L. contest here Saturday afternoon before a slim crowd of fans. Coming from behind twice to tie the score, the homesters shoved over the winning marker in the seventh frame. Bunching three hits in each of three frames, the locals got a run at a time. Outside of the fifth frame, Gibbards never looked dangerous. However, the game was close all through and a neat encounter to watch.

With good pitching, timely hitting and air-tight fielding, the Collins' crew earned the verdict and looked good getting it. Napanee also turned in a nice performance, despite two errors which failed to figure in the score. A wet diamond did not mar play to any extent and rivalry between these squads—battling for a playoff berth—was keen all the way.

His 5th Victory.

Russ Kitchen won his fifth game of the season in convincing style. Aside from three hits in the fifth, he scattered the Gibbards' eight hits while fanning four and issuing one walk. It was a nifty showing for the big curve exponent. He had perfect support from his teammates. Kitchen helped his own cause with two hits in four times—one a triple that should have been called a homer. Udy Blazetich toiled on the losers' mound and went fair but was nicked for 11 hits as he struck out three and walked none. His support was good for the most part.

Timely Hitting.

Kearns, Burton, Clark and Kitchen collected two bingles apiece for the winners, Starr, Calladine and Whatley having one each. Card, Handford and Gerow topped the Gibbards with two blows each, while Jeffers and Bennett had one apiece. All the Petes looked good in the field, with Al Clark shining with three hard chances. Catches by Card and Weir were defensive features for Napanee. Ash retired in the sixth with a sore back and Long finished on first with Len Hollingsworth in right field.

Card opened the game with a single. He was sacrificed and scored on Handford's hit. They went out in order the next three innings. The Petes did not threaten till the third, though Clark singled in the second. Kearns got a hit in the third, moved up a base on Starr's single and raced home on a hit by Burton to tie the count at 1-1.

The Petes were set back on a double-play after Clark had hit safely in the fourth. Next frame saw Napanee take the lead again when Gerow singled, was sacrificed, took third on Bennett's bingle and home on a hit by Card. The locals tied it up in their half when Kitchen tripled and raced in on Kearns' hit. Kitchen's drive was a screaming one down the right-field line into the river. Umpire Kinkley first called it a foul but changed his decision. When Napanee protested that his call had stopped the outfielder from chasing it, he sent Kitchen back to third.

Handford walked in the sixth but a double-play killed him off, and the Petes did nothing in their half though Clark reached first on an error by Ford. Gerow's hit in the seventh was wasted, but the Petes got a run in their half when Kitchen singled, moved ahead on a fielder's choice and crossed the plate on Calladine's single. Hits by Handford and Jeffers with two out in the eighth did no damage and the locals were cut off in their end by a double-play when Long was safe on Blazetich's miscue. The visitors went down one-two-three in the ninth.

Steele Chats With His No. 1 Fan

There's mutual admiration in the eyes of Freddie Steele, middleweight boxing champion of the world, from Tacoma, Wash., and his number one fan, Miss Gertrude Gray, as they chat over the ropes after the champion had engaged in a slugfest with sparring partners during a workout. Steele is training for his forthcoming on-title bout with Holman Williams.

DIMAGGIO'S HOMER BEATS BOB FELLER IN NINTH INNING

Der Mago Also Hits Triple And Double To Help Yankees Win 5-1

CUBS HOLD MARGIN

NEW YORK, July 19. —(CP)—Old Blubber Malone is somewhat sore in certain portions of his anatomy today—but he figures it was worth it.

Just to keep the records straight, it must be explained old Blubber is a portly pitcher for the new York Yankees. Those who aren't his pals say his waistline, if stretched end to end, would make a good start on a cross-country highway. That being the case, violent exercise comes hard to old Blubber.

But when he looked in from the bullpen at Cleveland yesterday and saw that home run shot of jolting Joe DiMaggio drop into the far away left field stands, bringing in the four runs that sent Blazing Bob Feller down to a 5-1 defeat, old Blubber just had to up and turn handsprings.

Yesterday, while most of the Yanks were fanning at thin air Jarring Joe had a field day. He hit a triple and a double as well as his homer, drove in all five of the Yankee runs, and generally put the needle in Feller's third straight futile "comeback" effort.

Cubs Retain Margin.

With Augie Galan hitting two homers, the Cubs clouted Brooklyn twice, 7-6 and 9-4, to retain their margin of three percentage points in the senior circuit chase. The Giants stayed right in the running by finding the Cardinals a doubleheader pusher, 6-5 and 11-0, with King Carl Hubbell and Prince Hal Schumacher doing the pitching honors that dropped the Gas House Gang into fourth place.

Peaches Davis pitched a five-hitter and Lefty Grissom produced a two-hit shutout as the Reds whipped the Boston Bees 4-1 and 1-0. The Pirates managed only an even break with the Phillies, winning the nightcap 6-5 in 11 innings after dropping the opener 5-2 to Claude Passeau's pitching.

Top Senators 3-1.

Although held to two hits by Monte Weaver and Ed Linke, the Tigers topped the Senators 3-1 on walks and errors. Chicago's climbing White Sox socked the Boston Red Sox 6-5 and 1-0, the latter on Monte Weaver's three-hit pitching. The Browns beat the Athletics 10-6 in their opener, and then lost the nightcap 7-6.

Remember When—

(By The Canadian Press)

Rogers Hornsby, playing for St. Louis Cards, bettered the modern National League home-run record, by slamming out his 25th circuit drive of the season, 15 years ago today. This record has been eclipsed several times since then, but Hornsby initiated the mark-toppling drive. The former record was made in 1915 by Garry Cravath of Philadelphia.

NEW YORK, July 19 (A.P.). — Boston reports John Montague, golf's mystery man (now in the news—and how) once was the property of the Bees and showed real promise .... Rip Collins of the Cubs disagrees with Bill Terry's opinion that Ducky Wucky Medwick would hit .500 if he didn't go for bad balls.... "He wouldn't hit .300," contends Rip, "for most of his hits come on bad balls." ... The Yankees have a bolt, or rather a slump, coming, if you want to take the word of smart old Rogers Hornsby of the Browns.... "In all my years of baseball, I've never seen a club go through one full season without experiencing at least one bad slump," he said.... "I don't care how powerful they are."

Brooklyn Eagle's sport pages, now sparkling under the brilliant direction of Jimmy Woods, put over a couple of scooperoos to-day.... They reported Eddie Butler, one-time Cornell quarterback, tried to buy the Dodgers for $1,500,000, and also printed a picture of Al Weill, manager of lightweight champ Lou Ambers, without his famous weskit.... (So far as this column knows, this is the first time this feat was ever accomplished).

Mike Jacobs is scaling the Yankee Stadium for an $800,000 gate for Joe Louis and Tommy Farr.... Strain seems to be telling on both the Cubs and Giants.

TOMMY BRIDGES

One of Tennessee's gifts to the majors, Thomas Davis Bridges, curveball specialist of the Detroit Tigers, has been in the majors only seven years and yet ranks with the best pitchers of all time.

Just about every kind of pitching feat has come the way of Tommy, with the exception of a no-hit game. Tommy has hurled two one-hitters. In one of them, a pinch-hitter smacked a single after two were out in the ninth inning.

For the last three years, Tom has been a 20-victory pitcher. Last year he won 23 and now is on the road to another 20-victory season.

The Tiger star was born in Gordonsville, Tenn., in 1906. He is under six feet and weighs 165 pounds.

LEAFS HUMBLED BY THE CHIEFS OVER WEEK-END

Syracuse Sweeps Series By Beating Toronto In Final Game 7-2

ORIOLES GET TWIN

TORONTO, July 19 (C.P.). — Johnny Vandermeer, the lanky southpaw, of Syracuse Chiefs, is the latest "pay off guy" in the Chiefs' liasion with the Cincinnati Reds. Johnny, strikeout king of the minors last year, couldn't make the grade with the Reds this season, but his last alibi is beginning to bear dividends in the International League.

He tossed a five-hitter yesterday and the Chiefs topped Toronto Maple Leafs 7 to 2 to sweep a three-game series.

Buffalo Bisons finally found Newark's rampant Bears can be beaten. The Bisons had dropped 11 straight including a 12-4 pasting in the opener, when they shaded Newark 6-5 in the second game of a doubleheader.

Baltimore Orioles continued to play fine ball by trimming Montreal Royals in both ends of a double bill, 6-4, 6-2. Les Powers topped the Orioles' attack with four for four in the opener. But three unearned runs did most of the damage.

A five-run rally in the last of the seventh almost gave the Jersey Giants a double win over the Rochester Red Wings, but the Wings pulled the nightcap out of the fire, 8-7, after losing to Ben Cantwell in the opener, 5-0.

Cobourg Girls Beat Keene Outfit 11-2

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, July 19.—Cobourg defeated Keene 11 to 2 before a good crowd on the former's diamond. W. Hoskin pitched the entire game, allowing seven hits, struck out two and issued three walks. Her support was good. Bea McDowell pitched a fair game for the losers. She was touched for ten hits, walked two and sent seven out swinging and her support was wobbly.

Toyne in right field made a number of neat catches as did Mooney on second. Bea McDowell and Helen Nelson were the pick of the losers. B. McDowell and D. Cocks hit double. Toyne led the winners with four hits and Mooney had 3 hits. W. Hoskin, E. Toyne connected for doubles. Mooney had a double play unassisted. M. Bell led the losers at bat with four hits.

Keene—H. Nelson, as; M. Bell, 2b; Cocks, c; B. McDowell, p; Irene Short, c; T. Mills, cf; Isobel Short, 1b; J. Payne, rf; E. McCarthy, lf.

Umpires—Bob Batley at the plate; B. Bennett on bases.

BOWMANVILLE, July 19—Oshawa intermediates gathered their fifth straight victory from the 1936 champion Royals when they defeated Bowmanville by a 7 to 4 margin here on Saturday in a Lake Shore League game.

Dalton of Oshawa laced one over the fence for his lone hit of the day, while Normyle, McGarry and Hall each had two hits for Oshawa, and C. Osborne had two for the Royals.

BORN

DIED

MATCHETT, Mrs. Alexander. — At Keene, Sunday morning, at her home, Lot 18, Con. 16, in Otonabee, aged 77 years. Funeral Tuesday, 2 o'clock, standard time, from her home to Little Lake Cemetery; Rev. E. W. Rowland, Mark Street Church, officiating.

IN MEMORIAM

McKIM.—In loving memory of Mrs. G. W. McKim, who died July 19, 1935.

What would we give her hand to clasp,
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more.
In Heaven, that happy life.
—Ever remembered by her Husband and Family.

LINTICK.—In ever-loving memory of my Mother, Mrs. W. J. Lintick, who passed away six years ago today, July 19, 1931.

A day of remembrance sad to recall,
The loss of my Mother, best friend of all;
One of the best God could send,
A loving Mother, a faithful friend.
Two little words, not hard to write,
But I'll remember them all my life:
My Mother.
—Lovingly remembered by her Daughter, Mrs. H. E. Mowry, and son, Percy Lintick.

CARDS OF THANKS

Mrs. Robert Wilson and Family wish to express their grateful appreciation to Rev. O. S. Easton, the attending doctor and nurses, and to the many kind friends for their expressions of sympathy during their recent sad bereavement.

Sam Snead has shown better technique in his first year of the big tournaments than most pros acquire in a lifetime.

This statement doesn't mean much to those who look upon golf as a game of chance, but it is full of meaning to the pros who have been unable to develop a sound technique. You can say what you please about personality, competitive spirit and all such things, but the big factor, the main thing to determine who will win in the long run, is technique.

However, the case of young Snead doesn't make an issue about what it takes to win for he seems to have everything, plenty of spirit, a remarkable co-ordination and an exceptionally fine swing. This combination doesn't show up in the golf field very often.

Since Bobby Jones retired, there has been only one player who had a chance of showing such form—Henry Picard. But during the last year this candidate seems to have lost the smoothness which indicated that he might become golf's greatest swinger. Snead's early acquisition of exceptionally fine technique speaks worlds not only for his individual advantages but also for a higher standard in the line of play.

LOVE IS FOR TOMORROW

By VIRGINIA SCALLON

CHAPTER 39.

Sally carried the hysterical Paula from the dangerous cliff and seated her safely in the car, before he turned to her gently.

"Paula dear," he began, "I don't want to hurt you. But I really think you've said some things you can't mean. You're tired and upset, and maybe we've been working you too hard lately. Just because I'm continually under your feet is no reason for you to fall in love with me."

The man talked softly, as if to a very little child. Paula was at first incredulous, then bitterly angry, for she had interpreted his remark by the sea to be a joyful admission of his love.

"I'm in love with Marcia," he explained further. "Guess I always will be. We argue back and forth, and get in some funny misunderstandings, but underneath it all—well, underneath it there is always love!"

"But Hartley, and now this publisher, Garrett Warren? How do you know they don't mean anything—" she tried to inject some doubt into his mind.

"I'm through with being jealous, and I think I'm through with something else," he said positively, for in the light of Paula's unsolicited declaration, he had discovered a startling new truth. When he saw how easily this girl would cast aside her work and her ideals just to get a man, he unconsciously approved Marcia's gallant bravery in standing up for what she thought was right!

Suddenly he realized that he must love Marcia for the very things he was trying to change in her; her steadfast idealism of his cherished profession, her comradeship and understanding of all he did, and her dear foolish ambitions. If she were to lose all this, she would not be the same mad Marcia with whom he fell in love!

With this decision sweeping all else before it, he determined to rush to Marcia and persuade her to marry him on any terms. All jealousy of Hartley was swept into the discard, as common sense told him she could neither care for him nor be involved in any way with such an unscrupulous chap.

His mind made up, he turned sympathetically to Paula. The girl was now crying brokenly, furious with Sandy for his coldness, and embarrassed that she had made such a fool of herself. Nothing Sandy could say seemed to ease the situation, and he lapsed into silence. It would gain him nothing to admit his blame in the whole matter, for it Paula ever guessed he had been deliberately taking her places to arouse Marcia's jealousy, there was no telling what her vengeance might lead her to do. She was a child of intense emotions, as her outbreak that evening had proved.

When they finally reached the girl's club where she had made her headquarters, Sandy turned again to Paula. He put his hand on her shoulder and told her, "I wouldn't have had this happend for the world, Paula. You've been such a soldier at the office, and I am so genuinely proud of your work. You are not going to let this interfere with that, are you?"

Paula's eyes were still filled with tears, her mouth trembling. With mixed emotions she said, not looking at him, "I couldn't work in the same office with you after all this. I'd be too ashamed."

She had been so confident that her generous love would outweigh the uncertain Marcia's that she was still stunned by the blow of his denial. Her first dramatic inclination was to flee from his office and from the city, but then common sense showed this plan to be foolhardy. No one but Sandy knew of her shame, and surely he would not tell. Suddenly, the thought of leaving the field clear for Marcia became unbearable, and she decided to brave anything.

"Maybe I could go away, just for a while?" she suggested tentatively, as this new thought occurred to her.

Sandy was relieved at this logical plan, for he had anticipated difficult days ahead. If she went away she would have time to collect herself before returning, or she would decide to make a permanent break if the situation remained beyond her control.

"I think that's a good solution, Paula. You've been due for a vacation anyway. Why don't you visit your family and then come back all fresh and ready for work? You know I've come to depend on your fine co-operation in the office, so don't fail me." With a boy's eagerness to soothe a hurt, he said the kindest thing that occurred at the moment to him, and was rewarded by Paula's moist smile. With only a slight nod in farewell, she slipped from the car and ran into the house.

"Women!" mused Sandy, helplessly. He leaned back against the leather seat of his car, and closed his eyes. The experience at the Palisades literally had sapped his energy, and he rested a moment before he again put the car into motion. "They certainly can give us men the run-around. There's Marcia: she admits she loves me, then resents it because I wanted her so terribly that I couldn't spare a minute of her to be wasted in work. Then Paula—" but words failed him.

He only saw that Paula had cleared the way for him to make his peace with Marcia. Maybe he had been a bull-headed fellow, flattering himself that he could expect to absorb all of the clever Marcia's interest. Well, he'd try again to make her see his side of the picture, and if that failed—he must capitulate to her. With every mile he covered, he realized more and more that Marcia was vitally important to his happiness at any cost.

When he eagerly neared her street, he caught sight of an illuminated clock on the corner. Eleven o'clock—an ungodly hour even for Romeo! And as he reached her apartment and found it dark, he resigned himself to wait until the next day.

"We've waited this long," he thought, and didn't recognize any pressing need for haste. He couldn't know that at that very moment Marcia was sitting in the big window of her apartment, smoking a cigaret that burned fragrantly as the smoke spiraled out into the dark room. She was thinking sadly that she had lost Sandy. The time was never more opportune for his arrival than at that moment. The continually changing cross currents of their lives even then were pulling them away from one another, just as surely as Sandy's gray car pulled away from the darkened apartment.

The man stopped at a corner restaurant to have a late snack before returning home, for he felt ravenously hungry now that he had successfully weathered two crises in that one night: First the nerve-wracking experience with Paula, and finally the momentous decision regarding Marcia. With no thought of the hour he ordered a minute steak and French-fried potatoes, coffee and a piece of pie. Even the little waitress smiled when she took this substantial order.

"I'm practicing up to be the fat man in a sideshow," he admitted seriously. "By the way, do you like circuses?" With seeming irreverence he questioned the girl, and watched her enthusiastic response to his advance. Poor kid, working all hours of the night—she probably welcomed any such impersonal conversation as a relief from the bold and insinuating remarks of many of her late patrons.

"Why, how did you know?" she smiled frankly. "I used to be the tattooed lady's favorite daughter."

"What happened to your decorations?" he said, between mouthfuls.

"I guess they just weren't waterproof, and one awful Saturday night—pfff!" she laughed, then moved on down the counter as she busied herself in keeping order.

Still interested in the girl who seemed so out-of-place in her menial task, he inquired how she happened to be so employed.

"Well in the day of Horatio Alger, women just sat home and sewed fine seams until some dashing Romeo took them off papa's hands. Me, I can't sew—and I haven't any papa," she said, without intentionally making a bid for his sympathy. Obviously, she considered a husband her only escape from this life, and Sandy grinned self-consciously.

He thought the conversation had progressed far enough, so he propped up the morning newspaper in front of his cup, and diligently started to read the first thing he happened to see. And what he read made him slam down the paper vehemently, and stare absently into space.

HASTINGS

A jolly crowd returne home last week from their days' outing at the Kawartha Lakes. The excursion held by the young people of the Bay of Quinte conference was all that was desired, everyone returned home delighted with the social time spent on the boat, "Stoney Lake" and at the stops made at Mount Julian and Lakefield. The scenery was beautiful and the journey through the Peterborough Lift Locks was very interesting. Those who were on the bus when it left the village were Miss Helen Collins, Misses Winnifred, Frances and Lottie Metcalfe, Miss Irene Oliver, Rev. and Mrs. F. W. Newell, Miriam and Ralph, Misses Kate and Florence German, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Oliver, Miss Marion Bibby, Miss Audrey Beebee, Mrs. Small, Mrs. A. M. Brooks, Mrs. H. Edwards, Ronald Warner, Mr. and Mrs. W. Buck and daughter, Elleda, Mrs. A. McGee, Mrs. G. Turner and Mrs. Foster.

Chfidren can earn spending money in more than one way, thus they will be encouraged to work and at the same time be of help to their parents. One farmer who lives near Hastings had a field with scattered plants of mustard which was causing him a great deal of worry. Too busy to pull the obnoxious weeds he offered his little daughter one cent a plant. He was greatly surprised when she collected $1.20. Another farmer with a large family gave each child one cent a dozen for collecting potato bugs.

In this way the children were paid for their work, received money for things they needed, saved the price of poison for the bugs, and rid the field of this very bad weed which spreads so rapidly.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S HOOP-LA

"One, two, three four,
Open your mouth, close the door."

When Uncle Wiggily heard some one saying this outside his camp tent one morning, and when he heard some tapping sounds, the jolly old rabbit gentleman twinkled his pink nose and said:

"Oh, I hope that isn't one of the Bad Chaps coming in to open his mouth and take one, two, three and four bites of me and then close the door so I can't bring in the Police Dog. I hope not."

Listening with his long ears, Uncle Wiggily heard this:

"Seven, eight, nine and 10
I think I can do it again."

"Well, he hasn't done it once so I don't see how he can do it again," after all, it isn't a Bad Chap. I'll have a look."

Saw a Game

Peering out, Uncle Wiggily saw Baby Bunty, Jingle, Jangle, Buster, Custer and many other of his little rabbits playing a jolly game.

Each one had what at first Uncle Wiggily thought was Nurse Jane's pancake turner. But soon he saw it was a short-handle, wooden paddle. Fastened to it was a long rubber string and on the end of the rubber string was a rubber ball.

The rabbit children would bat the rubber ball with the wooden paddle. Away the ball would sail, hoping, perhaps it might be going to the movies.

But the rubber string didn't let it go far. The rubber string pulled the ball back and again it was batted with the paddle.

"What sort of a game is that?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, it's a new one," said Buster, paddling away at the rubber ball and keeping count as he did so like this:

"Seventeen, 18, 19 and 20
I think I've done it good and plenty."

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily for it was a jolly game.

Then he heard Baby Bunty sing as she paddled her rubber ball:

"Twenty-five, 26, seven and eight,
Here I go out of the garden gate."

Over She Goes

With that Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit, turned a somersault at the same time paddling the ball and keeping it going to and fro. And she sang:

"Twenty-nine, 30, one and two.
Now, Unkie Wig, it's up to you."

With that the orphan rabbit turned a peppersault, gave her wooden paddle to Mr. Longears and sat down.

"What am I supposed to do?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"You must play the new game. It is called Hoop La," said Buster, the boy rabbit, paddling his ball, first under one leg and then under the other. "See how many times you can hit it without missing."

"Oh, it is easy to play this game of Hoop La," said Uncle Wiggily, "Just watch me."

He began paddling the ball on the stretchy rubber string and he counted as had the children rabbits:

"Twenty and one and two and three,
I'll paddle this ball over the tree."

But instead of going over the tree the ball bounced back and banged Uncle Wiggily on his pink, twinkling nose.

"Ouch, wow, souch!" he cried. "Hoop La isn't so easy to play as I thought. Here, take your paddle, Bunty."

But if the ice cream doesn't hide in the bottom of the cone where the lemonade can't find it, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily learning how.

CAVAN

SCHOOL CHANGES ABLY DISCUSSED

Miss Burnham Gives Educational Address To Cavan W.I. Members

CAVAN, July 19.—Mrs. F. M. Staples was hostess to the Women's Institute of Cavan on Thursday afternoon. The president, Mrs. A. B. Kennedy, was in the chair and twenty-six ladies were present. The roll call was answered by the majority of the ladies giving recipes for summer drinks.

Mrs. Carley gave the report of the playground rented for the use of the children of the village, and it was moved and passed that the rent be paid. She also reported that the travelling library had been returned. The subscription for the "National Georgraphical Magazine" having expired, it was decided to subscribe for the "Readers' Digest," for the ensuing year and place it in the library.

The program committee, consisting of the president, secretary and the convenors of the groups, reported programs planned for three months. The groups were requested to adhere to the program planned but permission was given to add to it if so desired.

The correspondence brought an acknowledgment for fruit received during illness and a communication from Miss G. Pollard concerning "Girls' Achievement Day" to be held in Millbrook July 21st to which all interested in girls' work are cordially invited. Mrs. F. Smith was appointed to report to the Institute concerning the work accomplished and exhibited.

Educational Program

Miss Iva Smith, convenor of the hostess group, had charge of the program which was of an educational nature. She contributed interesting current events.

Miss Jean Burnham, Millbrook, was the guest speaker. The topic was "Changes in the Public School and Secondary School Systems, Past and Future." Miss Burnham had been the delegate from Col. O'Dell's district, at the O.E.A. convention in the spring in Toronto, held in the University buildings. In pleasing manner, Miss Burnham brought to her interested audience, a splendid report of that convention, where this subject, which is of such vital interest to the parents of Ontario, was discussed.

Although plans are only in the making, and nothing really definite as yet, educationalists are striving to evolve a system which will suit the changing times. The keynote of the convention was "Change," and emphasis placed on individual progress rather than standardization. Many noted speakers spoke on different phases of education.

Mrs. Richard Matchett gave a fine paper on the Life and Works of Pauline Johnson, Canadian Indian Princess, followed by Mrs. F. M. Staples reading one of her poems, "The Cattle Country."

Mrs. R. S. Staples voiced the appreciation of the Institute for Miss Burnham so gracefully accepting the invitation to be present and for the fine educational contribution to the program.

Lunch was served by the group in charge and a social half-hour enjoyed.

EDUCATION GIFT LUCKY FOR GIRL

College President Sees Fulfillment Of 18-Year-Old Agreement

REGINA, July 19—(CP)—A comely 18-year-old girl has enrolled in Regina College, fulfilling a strange agreement made back in 1919. Dr. E. W. Stapleford, retiring president related the incident during a farewell address here.

He was raising funds for the college at the time the agreement was made. A farmer he approached expressed willingness to contribute but regretted he had no children to send later to the college.

Dr. Stapleford said he would supply the child and received $500 from the farmer. At the proper age, education at Regina College was stipulated.

The next day the college president asked his wife to go to the Children's Shelter and adopt a baby girl for the farmer.

The other day when he was about to retire from the presidency, Dr. Stapleford was working in his office when a man, his wife and an 18-year-old girl entered. After gazing at the man for a few minutes he recognized him. It was the farmer who had entered the pact with him 18 years ago and the girl he had sent out to the couple for adoption.

King Warns Canada Could Not Escape New World War

"Urges Public Men To Maintain Unity 'Life Of Dominion'

Advocates Turning Unrest Of Present Times Into Constructive Channels

VIGILANCE ESSENTIAL

Pleads For Tolerance And Understanding, Deploring Effect Of Hasty Utterances

OTTAWA July 20 (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King is confident public men of today can and will maintain unity within the Dominion and overcome "the many strains and cleavages which are imperilling unity," even as they were conquered in the days of Macdonald, Laurier and Borden.

In a broadcast address last night the prime minister declared that not to have a realization of these threats "is to shut one's eyes to the problem of government in Canada today."

It was not possible for Canada to escape the unrest of the times, the prime minister said. "Nor, where unrest is occasioned by the need for more in the way of opportunity and security for individual human lives is it well we should escape it," he added. "It can be directed, however, onto constructive and away from destructive channels. That, as I see it, is likely to be the business of statesmanship in our country for some time."

Mr. Mackenzie King discussed the Coronation, described its significance and expressed warm admiration for and confidence in the new King and Queen. He reviewed efforts of the Imperial Conference which, he said, left Canada free to decide her own course in matters of foreign policy, defence and trade.

His visits to France, Germany and Belgium had brought him conferences with the ruling heads of those countries and fresh views on the grave situation in Europe, but a new confidence that co-operation among the nations was stronger than ever and directed toward the maintenance of peace.

No Escape for Canada.

"The countless attractions and limitless possibilities of Canada," Mr. Mackenzie King said, were known to "the overpopulated countries and under-nourished peoples" of other continents. "Never imagine," he added, "that in some world holocaust our country would escape the terror by night nor the arrow that flieth by day." Vigilance, in Canada as elsewhere throughout the world, is the price of our security."

His visits to other countries, the Prime Minister said, had "immeasurably deepened as a consequence of all I have seen and heard," two convictions he had long held. These were "how terrible a thing is hate and how necessary to the cure of all our ills is an attitude of goodwill."

The Prime Minister voiced a plea

VESSEL FOUNDERS SUDDENLY AT SOO 2 OF CREW DROWN

Five Others And Three Women Guests Are Picked Up By Rescue Boats

GOES DOWN 3 MINUTES

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., July 20 (C.P.).—The Frontier, supply boat for the Pittsburg Steamship Company, Cleveland, carried two crew members to death when she sank within three minutes in the St. Mary's River near here late yesterday.

Walter Craven, blacksmith, was trapped in the forward end of the vessel when she suddenly plunged, forward-end first, into the river. Other victim, Joe Manning, fireman, leaped overboard and was drowned as the tug Iowa, picking up survivors, pulled alongside him. He missed a lifebelt tossed to him.

Five other crew members and three women guests were rescued from the foundered boat. Some were taken aboard the steamship Alcott, to which the Frontier was transferring supplies, and others leaped overboard and were rescued by the Iowa which was standing close by.

Cause Unknown.

Cause of the sudden foundering was not immediately known. The Frontier is 120 feet long and of 287 tons burden. She was rebuilt last winter and her captain is William Collins.

Captain Gordon Harrison of the ferry Agoming was among the eye-witnesses of the accident. He described the sudden plunge of the Frontier into the water, declaring her wheel was still spinning when she nose-dived.

The accident occurred a few hundred feet from the Pittsburg Company's dock in the Michigan Soo.

THREE GUNMEN ROB HULL BANK GET RICH HAUL

Cover Bank Staff And Customers And Then Grab Cash

OBTAIN ABOUT $20,000

Bandits Disguised With Dark Glasses And Had Faces Covered

HULL, Que., July 20 (CP).—Armed and disguised, three bandits rifled the Champlain Street branch of the Banque Provinciale of about $20,000 today and escaped in an automobile.

With dark glasses shading their eyes and the lower part of their faces covered with handkerchiefs, they invaded the bank and threatened two employees with pistols.

One leaped over the counter, thrust his gun into the face of Roland Dion, cashier, and demanded: "Where is the cash? Make it snappy. Don't move or we shoot you!"

Two customers who entered the bank were forced with the employees into the vault. The bandits cleaned out the tellers' cages and snatched up all the loose money in the vault.

Then they ducked from the building, leaped into the car and shot up the street.

Mrs. Rene Menard, tenant of an apartment above the bank, and members of her family heard the commotion below and noted the number of the car, which they said was Quebec 93282. Police said this number was believed to have been issued to a car owner near Buckingham, Que. They added the car had probably been stolen.

Ancient Gibraltar Pact Is Dusted Off For Study

British Officials Wonder If 1713 Deal Allows Franco's Guns On Spanish Coast

MENACE FORTRESS

LONDON, July 20 (C.P. Cable)—From the dim days of two centuries ago the musty Treaties of Utrecht have suddenly been called to play their part in the Spanish Civil War.

To Canada they are known mainly as the treaties under which France ceded Newfoundland, Nova Scotia and the Hudson's Bay territory to England. But it was under one of the treaties of Utrecht, signed July 13, 1713, that Spain ceded Gibraltar.

Now, 224 years later, legal experts in Whitehall are poring over the Treaty of 1713 to see whether it confers any right on General Franco to place big guns on the Spanish coast, bringing Gibraltar within their range.

The treaty is vague. In those days, with Hitler and Mussolini and Franco still in the hazy future, Spain merely undertook not to put any "empechment" in Britain's way at Gibraltar. But does "hindrance" include howitzers? There's the point for the legal experts.

Franco's guns lately have been causing uneasiness in London. Rumor has it they are German 12-inch howitzers, capable of dominating Gibraltar. Official information is they are of smallish calibre. Viscount Cranborne, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, informed the House of Commons last night that in the view of military experts Franco's guns did not constitute a military menace to Gibraltar.

ALL QUIET TODAY ON STRIKE FRONT

No New Developments In Controversy—Pickets Are At Their Posts

All was quiet today in the encampments of both the management and the strikers of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds. Strikers continued uneventfully their picket patrols at the Bonner-Worth and Auburn plants, having re-affirmed their determination to stick to their guns at their rally on the Market Square Monday evening. Plant officials had nothing to add to the brief statement refusing further consideration of proposed wage increase agreement handed the strikers' bargaining committee during the afternoon.

Forty Bonner-Worth pickets appeared at the plant early this morning and booed the handful of workers who entered the buildings along with supervisors. The picket numbers quickly dwindled, a dozen remaining to lounge about the picket tent.

A similar quiet prevailed at the Auburn plant, strike leaders paying periodic visits to the scene during the day.

A general strike meeting had been called for nine o'clock today in order that strikers might hear the result of the meeting of the bargaining committee with the management Monday afternoon. Only a small informal group heard the report, already well known to all, that the company had declined to call a special directors' meeting for further consideration of the strike demand for an increased wage agreement.

The four white men to become chieftains were Dr. F. S. Hutchison, Dr. D. C. Heggie and Richard Jennings of Brampton and J. J. Susmuth of Toronto.

DOMINION READY TO ASSIST PRAIRIE IN DROUGHT PLAN

Block Of 100,000 Square Miles To Be Set Aside In Saskatchewan For Grazing

SHIFT MANY SETTLERS

OTTAWA, July 20 — (CP).—The Dominion has given its assent to a permanent long range policy to cope with the drought menace in the Prairie Provinces. Details of that policy include setting aside of great tracts of land in each of the provinces to be turned back into prairie grass against such an emergency as exists this year, when in many districts there is not enough forage to keep cattle and horses alive.

Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, gave a hint of government's decision yesterday, when he said his colleagues had accepted plans he brought back from the West recently. He will return to the West this week-end to supervise arrangements for carrying out the policy adopted to handle the situation and lay the foundation for carrying out a permanent policy. The Dominion is co-operating with the provinces in the undertaking.

Three types of land in the drought-stricken areas confront the Dominion and Provincial governments. A definite policy, it is learned, has been decided in regard to each.

Clay Never Blows Away

The first type is the rich clay lands running often more than 100 feet deep and can therefore never be blown away. These lands will always produce crops in abundance when given reasonable rainfall. As a permanent policy the government feels it is understood, it can do nothing with these farms. The occupants in good years must make provision themselves for inevitable drought years.

At the other edge of the scale are the poor lands, lands in many cases which never should have been settled. This type of land is being depopulated.

Between these types are the reasonably fertile lands in which protection must be given in times of drought. This protection will be in the form of irrigation and large grazing lands set aside for times of emergency.

A block of grazing lands containing 100,000 acres is planned for Sas-

City's Population Told To Flee —Chinese Troops Stand Firm

TOKYO, July 20 (AP). Japanese artillery was reported today to have wrecked the towers of the walled town of Washington, western suburb of Peiping on the Yungting River, shortly after an ultimatum demanding evacuation of the 29th Chinese army had expired.

Domei (Japanese) News Agency reported from Fengtai, Japanese field headquarters in North China, shells started bursting in the heart of the positions held by the 37th Chinese Division at 2.30 p.m. The zero hour had been set at noon.

Four ranking members of the Japanese cabinet were in session to consider action to settle the crisis in Sino-Japanese relations.

The news agency declared Japanese troops were continuing to advance. Wanpinghsien is located just north of the Marco Polo bridge of marble where the first clash occurred July 7.

Before the artillery bombardment began Domei reported, Japanese planes flew low over the district, dropping leaflets warning the populace to evacuate.

TORONTO, July 20 (CP) — In conjunction with Ontario's government's intensified highway campaign, Provincial Police Highway Patrol Officers have been instructed to "tighten up" enforcement of the Highways Act, Premier Hepburn said today.

Mr. Hepburn said the co-operation of all the daily and weekly newspapers of the province was being invited to assist the campaign which the department is inaugurating. At the same time provincial officers have been instructed to impose more stringent regulation of traffic. Excessive speeding, "cutting in" and abnormally slow driving are the offences to which the attention of the officers is particularly directed.

Grandi Declares Step Is Essential Before Troops Go

Move Is In Direct Opposition To Anglo - French Stand

EDEN'S WARNING

Tells Commons Plan Must Stand Or Fall As Whole

LONDON, July 20 (CP-Havas).—Italian Ambassador Dino Grandi today demanded recognition of the belligerency of both sides in the Spanish civil war before withdrawal of foreign volunteers from Spain.

His demand was voiced at today's session of the non-intervention subcommittee which met to consider amendments to the British proposal for ending the "hands-off-Spain" deadlock between the Anglo-French and Italo-German positions.

The Italian move was in direct opposition to the Anglo-French stand that withdrawal of foreign volunteers must be underway before belligerency rights are accorded.

Foreign Secretary Eden warned in the House of Commons yesterday that the plan "stands or falls as a whole' and that "any attempt to modify it except in points of detail will upset its balance and destroy its usefulness."

FINDING OF BODY LEADS TO FEARS 2 MORE DROWNED

Fliers Expected To Aid Search Of Detroit River After Boy, Girl Missing Week

VICTIMS LEAKY BOAT?

WINDSOR, Ont., July 20.—(CP)—While funeral services were being held here today for Antoinette Langlois, 22-year-old drowning victim, of Windsor, intensive search for the bodies of two other drowned was being carried on over Lake St. Clair.

Identification of a body found in Lake St. Clair Sunday as being that of Margaret Mahon, 18, of Detroit, started a search for the bodies of her brother, James, and Mary Rose Johnston, 21, also of Detroit. The trio went to the Lake Friday and indications are that they were all drowned, probably trapped in a leaky rowboat. Selfridge Field fliers were expected to join in the search.

Miss Langlois' body was identified by her brother, Eugene Langlois, assistant city treasurer. The body had been recovered from the Detroit River at Ecorse a week ago today.

Margaret and James Mahon, are daughter and son of Ray E. Mahon, common pleas court clerk, at Detroit.

On Friday Miss Mahon, accompanied by her brother and Miss Johnston, went to the cottage of James Hickey, Detroit, for the week-end. Hickey is an uncle of the Mahons.

The cottage is five miles north of Mt. Clemens on Anchor Bay. The fact that the three were missing was revealed by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Johnston, parents of Mary Rose, who went to the cottage to learn why their daughter had missed a scheduled radio appearance.

POISON SUSPECTED IN DOUBLE DEATH

Find Young Husband In Pool Of Blood, Wife Nearby Badly Bruised

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP). — Police, pursuing a murder theory, awaited an autopsy today on the bodies of a young couple found dead in their home last night under strange circumstances.

The couple, George Chinery, 28, and his wife, Ella, 25, apparently had been dead for several days.

Chinery lay in a pool of blood in the bathroom. The body of his wife, clad only in underwear, was in an adjoining room. Her body, said Police Captain James Smith, was covered "from head to foot" with bruises.

Police, mystified by the exact cause of death, investigated the possibility the couple had been poisoned.

ROEDIGER'S SON REPORTED FOUND

Said To Have Been Interviewed By Provincial Police

TORONTO, July 20 — (CP) — George Rodgers, son of George Fritz Roediger, convicted bigamist and thief, was reported to-day to have been located and interviewed in Toronto by provincial police. Authorities, however, refused to confirm or deny the report.

The son of the much-married Roediger had been the object of continent-wide search by Canadian and United States police, who sought him for questioning in connection with the disappearance of one of his father's wives. The missing wife is Mrs. Christina Mackenzie, whom Roediger married in Allandale, Ont., in 1935.

He brought her to Toronto to live in Vaughan Road house shortly after they were married. Mrs. Mackenzie disappeared and Roediger later went West. Last week, he was sentenced to nine years in penitentiary when convicted in Winnipeg of bigamy and theft, the result of his marriage to a McTavish, Man., woman.

The son, known as George Rodgers, had worked from July until December, 1935 as a handyman in a sports goods store here. Rodgers was said to have gone to the United States early in 1936.

Last night police announced that Roediger had tried to obtain a large, empty packing case from his son's place of employment at the time he was living here with Mrs. Mackenzie.

Bees Battle Rector For 3 Lively Weeks

Kincardine, July 20.

A BATTLE which has been raging for three weeks was temporarily settled at St. Luke's Anglican Church in Huron Township when the rector, Rev. W. H. Hartley, was able to conduct services with customary dignity.

For the past two weeks two swarms of bees successfully vied with the rector for occupation of the pulpit and won.

Taking the bees by the horns —so to speak—Mr. Hartley and an assistant drove them out of the church late last week and on Sunday service was held as usual.

200,000 Troops Lock In Battle As Struggle For Madrid Rages

Franco Pours Seasoned Warriors Into Breach To Retake Government Gains

HEAVY AIR BOMBINGS

MADRID, July 20 (AP) — Rival armies, each believed to have 100,000 men in action, fought the destiny of Spain today in the sixth day of the greatest encounter of the year-old civil war—"The battle for Madrid."

Confronted by seasoned reinforcements drawn by Generalissimo Francisco Franco from less active fronts, the government command speared back of the Insurgent lines west of Madrid with aerial operations calculated to demoralize the fresh troops and shatter their lines of supply.

Government bombers dumped heavy cargoes of explosives on Navalagamella by four raids in yesterday's operations alone. Thousands of Insurgent troops were being sent to the Valdemorillo and Quijorna sections in an effort to pinch off a 100-square-mile pocket which government troops had carved out of Insurgent territory in a two-week offensive.

Navalagamella, the strategic point from which Insurgent infantry attacks were being launched against the western flank of Gen. Joe Miaja's salient, is a small town of a few adobe house.

Navagamella, western extremity of an equilateral triangle formed by its lines to the Valdemorillo and Quijorna sectors, is about 30 miles from Madrid and about five miles from each of the other two towns

BRIGHTON MAN CHANGES PLEA DENIES ARSON

Mountenay Claims He Signed Statement Without Knowing Contents

HEARD OTHERS PLOTTING

Wife Admits She Knew House To Be Fired, But Not The Exact Time

COBOURG, Ont., July 20 (CP).—Although he pleaded guilty Friday to a charge of arson, George Moutenay of Brighton denied his guilt when he took the stand yesterday to testify in connection with the charge of arson faced by his wife. Mountenay declared he signed a statement without knowing its contents and denied he had been responsible for the fire.

Mountenay testified his wife, Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson and Mrs. Cynthia Tyler, all of whom face arson charges, had discussed setting fire to the house of Marshall Tyler, occupied at the time by Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson.

"My wife told me they wished to burn the place, sell the land, and along with the insurance money pay off the mortgage and other debts and buy two farms, one for the Thompsons and one for ourselves. They wanted me to burn it," testified Mountenay.

Witness said that when the fire took place he was drawing wood and had nothing to do with setting it on fire. On the day before the fire, he continued, he heard "James Thompson and them saying that they had everything packed in the house, ready for the fire. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, Cynthia Tyler and Mrs. Mountenay were talking a great deal before the fire," added Mountenay.

Inspector D. H. Craig of the Fire Marshal's department told of Mrs. Mountenay giving him a statement some days after the fire.

Accuses Her Husband.

The night of the fire she and Mrs. Thompson were returning from a village store to find the house in flames, and Mrs. Thompson cried, "George did it," according to Inspector Craig.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, Cynthia Tyler and herself had spoken of setting the house on fire after the insurance had been taken out, he quoted the woman as saying.

"I knew that the house was going to be set on fire but not when. The morning after the fire my husband told me that he had set the place on fire. Later I notified the police," was Mrs. Mountenay's statement, said Craig.

Craig and Constable Frank Atkinson were questioned by A. J. Skeans, defence counsel, regarding the circumstances under which the statement had been obtained. Judge O'Connor ruled the statement admissable and court adjourned at this point until next Monday.

Summoned To Court Letting Dog 'Roast'

Hamilton, July 20.

A QUEEN CITY RESIDENT, who is said to have left a wire-haired terrier locked in his car for five hours at the beach recently, when the mercury was above the 100 mark, has received a summons to appear in Police Court Friday on a cruelty to animals charge. Pending the hearing of the case, local authorities this afternoon refused to divulge the identity of the person involved.

All windows were up and the machine was locked, and there was no way to afford relief to the animal, it was reported. The dog was suffering because of the intense heat and a bright sun was beating down on its glass prison, while the owner was bathing in the cool lake near the canal.

FEAR FARM HAND IS LOST IN SWAMP

Employer Believes Missing Man May Be Suffering Recurrence Of Shell Shock

WINGHAM, July 20.—Fear that Hugh Russell, 42-year-old farm-hand and returned soldier, is lost in a treacherous swamp in what is known here as the Alps, is being entertained here. Russell was said to have been acting strangely when he disappeared from the home of his employer, Nelson Pickells, Sunday night, and when he did not return to his work Monday morning, a search of the swamp in the vicinity of the Pickells farm showed he had slept in the swamp overnight. It is feared he may be suffering a recurrence of shell-shock.

The farm is on the Alps in the Township of Culross, in a district where there is particularly treacherous land with many morasses and bog holes.

Russell, a former Barnardo Home boy, and said to have suffered shell-shock during the war, came to work for Nelson Pickells last Christmas. He ate his dinner on Sunday night, but, it is reported, acted in a strange manner and without any comment left after the meal for the swamp. The Pickells believed he was suffering melancholia, and did not worry until he failed to return. He is about five feet six inches tall, has jet black hair, a swarthy complexion and is very thin. When he disappeared he was wearing a white helmet, dark overalls, a dark blue shirt and horn-rimmed spectacles.

KINCARDINE, Ont., July 20.—(CP)—One man was dead and six other persons were in hospital, one with serious injuries, today following a head-on crash of two automobiles on a hill top near this Lake Huron town yesterday. The cars, one with a honeymooning couple in it, collided on the Blue Water highway near Underwood, 14 miles north of here.

C. Reginald Bear, 41, London (201 Huron street), died some hours after the accident in hospital here. Reported in a serious condition with head and internal injuries, a fractured arm and a fractured leg, was Mrs. W. J. Connolly, 55, Watford, Ont.

The honeymooners, Mr. and Mrs. Connolly, and the other injured were brought 14 miles of rough passage over road under construction to hospital by various vehicles. Some were taken by ambulances from Tiverton and Port Elgin. One was brought in a cabin trailer owned by W. SPANISH CONFLICT STARTS 2ND YEAR STILL IN DOUBT

27 Nations Still Fight To Keep It Confined Despite Outside Meddling

ARMS MOSTLY FOREIGN

Spain's one year of civil war, a second Great War in miniature, has brought death to hundreds of thousands—some say 1,000,000 and disturbing fears to the rest of the world.

The second year of bloodshed and ruin opened with the conflict still in doubt.

A year of war has darkened the world and brought no decision. Instead it had made greater the problems of how to stop war and how to prevent it from spreading.

Twenty-seven nations, led by Great Britain, still confer on means to isolate the Spanish conflict and keep the outside world neutral.

The war has been kept within Spain, but not the bitterness. Statesmen still fear it will spread.

It started July 18, 1936, when General Francisco Franco headed an uprising in Spanish Morocco. It spread quickly to the Continent, where four-fifths of the army joined the insurrection.

Trouble had brewed for years. Social and political unrest unseated King Alfonso in 1931, and brought a republic. Both the Left and the Right had been in power alternately since, but neither was strong enough to control the 25,000,000 people whose many, varied leaders preached new ideas.

The Touch-Off

Riot ruled at times. Political gunmen roamed Madrid streets in the month before the war. On July 13, 1936, Jose Calvo Sotelo, Monarchist leader, called chief of the Fascists, was taken in an automobile to a suburb and killed. Five days later came the insurrection.

Quickly Franco brought the Spanish Foreign Legion, fierce fighting Moors, and the pick of the regular army from Morocco to Spain.

Franco had an army but lost the navy. Officers tried to put their craft on his side, but most crews imprisoned them. Some were tossed overboard.

Driving northward, Franco's forces split Spain. On the northwest coast, the Basque country around Bilboa and a strip from Oviedo to San Sebastian held out along with the Spanish Central Government of Madrid. Half of that 100-mile coast country, 25 miles deep, still is unconquered. Otherwise Franco has the western half of Spain.

Siege of Madrid

The "Left," with only some militia and the air force, dug in at Madrid. Slowly Franco's insurgents moved toward it. Bombing began from the air August 24, and a tight siege on November 7. The capital was moved to Valencia on the latter date.

It was the "People's Army" that defended the city. They dug trenches in streets, built barricades with sandbags and the ruins of buildings knocked down by insurgent artillery or wrecked by bombs.

Franco's troops drove into the suburbs of the city on the north. Several thousand men captured the Clinic Hospital in Madrid's University city and the survivors still hold that shattered fortress.

Men joined the Madrid Government and fought from trenches on other battlelines as well. The Citizens' Army fought while newly-formed militia drilled. Then slowly the government organized and trained troops. A new army was built in the year of fighting.

Men of many countries joined both sides. Russians and French were numerous with the "Left" of Madrid. Many volunteers came from the United States and some from Canada.

Thousands of Italians and Germans joined the insurgents. They came also as "volunteers" but they had the goodwill of the Italian and German governments. Fascist states anxious to prevent a trend toward Communism in Spain.

Admittedly it is a foreign war because airplanes, tanks, guns ammunition and men came from outside and to both sides.

Few Major Battles

There have been few big battles in the modern sense. Occasionally tens of thousands have been engaged but, probably in all Spain there are less than 1,000,000 men under arms, scattered on a dozen fronts and often inactive.

Heroism has been at a high pitch in several notable cases. Chief of these was the 72-day siege of the Alcazar at Toledo, Spanish military academy, where the cadets declared for the insurgents. They refused to surrender even after Government troops exploded three mines under the great pile of masonry. They fought until Franco's army captured the city and relieved the weary, starving, thirsty 1,200 men, women and children who survived.

Bilbao, Basque government stronghold, stood firm for a month under almost constant bombing and shelling, while relief ships brought food and other vessels took out thousands of the sick and aged, women and children to England and other countries.

SAINT JOHN, N.B.—(CP)—High School attendance here has almost doubled in the last ten years. Pupils enrolled at Saint John High in September, 1927, numbered 606, and the total in September, 1936, was 1,041. The 1937 graduating class of 214 was the largest in the school's history.

One Law for the Rich . . .

THERE are perfectly sincere reformers who agree with the majority of level headed people in opposing prohibition, with its attendant evils; but who are inclined to prefer a system whereby brewed malt beverages could only be obtained in sealed cartons after the purchase of a permit.

These people, we are sure, all have comfortable homes where they can entertain their friends. For them, also, the price of a permit means as little as the price of a glass.

But are they not forgetting the less fortunate members of the community? There is abundant medical evidence that those engaged in hard manual labour obtain real benefit from a glass of beer after the day's work. Yet it is just these people who were debarred from the opportunity of obtaining legally a single glass of beer by the former restrictions.

After all, abuse is considerably less probable in a public place, under government control.

Public opinion is a strong weapon and one which inevitably will make for moderation if it is given a chance.

That after all is the British way! Just as it would be against the British tradition to withhold from the poor, privileges that are accorded to the rich!

A Home Improvement Plan

"You know this Home Improvement Plan?" said Mr. Picobac, helping himself to a match from the manager's desk. "Well, it's got me into a jam."

"How's that?" asked his friend, Mr. H. B. "Pete" Christie, bank manager and financial counsel.

"I saw about it in the paper and showed it to Mrs. Picobac, and I said it might be a good time to put in one of these improved inglenooks they have nowadays to smoke in. You know—with a brick fire-place and seats at each side for a pal or two."

"And what did Mrs. Picobac say?"

"She thought it was just the time to modernize the kitchen like the magazine pictures," chuckled Mr. Picobac. "So we had to compromise . . . we compromised on the kitchen, and I'm here applying for a Home Improvement loan for $300."

"I think you are wise," said the manager. "That kitchen will give her a lot of pleasure—and you don't need any special place to smoke Picobac in."

"Yes," said Mr. Picobac, his face wreathed in smiles. "Picobac's a mild, cool, sweet smoke in a pipe—anytime, any place!"

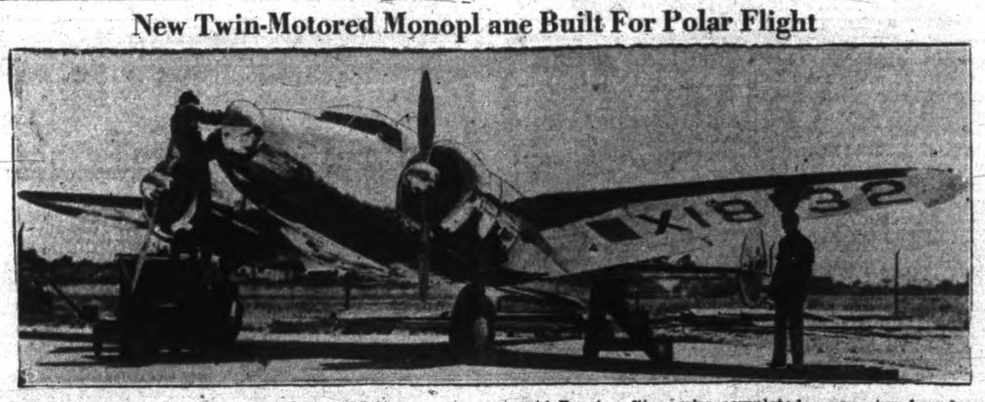
New Twin-Motored Monopl ane Built For Polar Flight



Sometime during July this year James Mattern, courageous flier, expects to be winging his way across the North Pole on a solo flight from Oakland, California, to Moscow Russia. He will use this fast, new $100,000 twin-motored monoplane and will travel the same route as that of the intrepid Russian fliers who completed a non-stop hop from Moscow to United States recently. The aeroplane, with a cruising range of 5,000 miles, will be refueled over Alaska. Mattern, essaying the flight in return for the Russian fliers' visit, may travel alone with a robot pilot to aid him.

HEALTH, BEAUTY GIRLS BACK HOME

Ousting From English Cafe For Wearing Shorts Taken As Joke By Press

MONTREAL, July 20—(CP)—A group of nine English and Scottish girls, members of the League of Health and Beauty, arrived here Monday on the liner Athenia for a tour of Eastern Canada.

Spokesman for the party, Betty Wright, answered questions concerning the time in London a short while ago when a group of Canadian girls, also members of the league, were ordered from a restaurant because they wore shorts and no stockings.

"The English papers thought it a great joke," said Miss Wright, a pretty Scottish girl. "The Canadian girls were to give a television display at the British Broadcasting Corporation, and were dressed in their shorts. Then the B.B.C. found out they were not ready for the broadcast, so the girls were taken to a restaurant to have a cup of coffee. That was when they were ordered out."

Helen Simpson of Brantford, Ont., and Mrs. Hilda March of Toronto, members of the Canadian League party, returned home on the Athenia.

SUDBURY OFFICER DIES OF WOUNDS

Murder Warrants To Be Issued For Two Men Hunted Past Nine Days

SUDBURY, Ont., July 20—(CP)—Sergeant Fred Davidson of the Sudbury police force, fired on nine days ago by a gunman, died to-day in hospital. Warrants for the arrests of the men wanted in connection with the shooting will be withdrawn and murder warrants will be issued, police said.

Davidson was shot when he came upon two men, apparently changing license plates on their automobile. Later he identified a photograph of Victor Gray as one of the pair and district residents said they had seen a man identified as Tom Ponamarenko with Gray before and after the shooting.

An intensive manhunt, directed by provincial officers and joined in by city police, bushmen and special constables, was organized after word of the shooting reached here. No sign of Ponamarenko or Gray has been seen in a week and police believe they are in hiding in the district.

Officials believe there is a possibility the same two may have been the gunmen who held up Ernest Colson, refreshment booth proprietor, near Powassan Sunday. Colson received a superficial flesh wound when he resisted the men.

Davidson's body was riddled by nine shots and his condition gradually has grown weaker. When his circulation began to drop rapidly yesterday, little hope was held for his recovery.

Bulwarks of Prosperity

Scarcely less important than the dependable news service they provide every day is the contribution the Canadian daily newspapers make, as an industry, to the economic welfare and prosperity of the nation.

Apart from the work of collecting, transmitting and editing news from every corner of the world, many subsidiary trades and enterprises have been established and prospered that the personal service your daily newspaper provides could be extended and maintained.

Directly and indirectly the daily newspapers of Canada provide employment to tens of thousands of Canadian citizens in all parts of the Dominion, from logging camps and paper mills to the printing presses of your local daily newspaper.

Today, it is estimated that more than a half million Canadians are dependent for their livelihood upon the newspaper industry.

Consequently, in addition to providing an essential service to more than two million families every day, the Canadian daily newspapers make an important contribution to the economic and industrial welfare of the nation.

Renew The Negotiations

There has been considerable discussion between the management of the Dominion Woollens & Worsteds and the committee of strikers, but for the moment nothing has been accomplished. As things stand at the moment H. Barrett, managing director of the company, seems willing to agree to almost any of the demands of the employees with the exception of union recognition and increased wages. And it is known that these two items are the ones which are uppermost at the moment, particularly the matter of wages. So the situation is just about where it was on the day when the strike commenced.

There have been a great many references made in interviews and statements published in the Examiner regarding the wages which the employees have been receiving, but they lack clarity. It would be in public interest and for better understanding if the wages were published, if not in total then a representative selection from the various departments. Mr. Barrett when conferring with the committee of employees admitted the textile industry wages were not high, and that statement we believe is correct. But exactly how high or how low is something which might well be definitely stated.

The textile industry in Canada receives tariff protection and the reason given is that it enables mills to operate which otherwise could not succeed on account of the low wages and long hours in other countries. If the tariff protection is actually doing that for the mills here then the general public is entitled to know to what extent the workers are receiving the benefit of protection. It would be useful information to have in trying to form an intelligent opinion regarding the local situation. We do not believe the workers now out on strike would have any objection to the publication of an official and certified copy of wages. Leaving the situation in its present condition is not good from any standpoint. Strikes which are stubborn are settled by negotiation and by adjustment. Production is seldom renewed by making the statement that there is nothing more to be discussed.

"I Have No Insurance"

Statistics are not necessarily dull things. Not dull when reading them brings the information that less than 44 per cent. of the automobiles on the roads in Canada carry insurance. These same statistics show that if the automobile loss is $50,000,000 in a year there is but $8,000,000 paid by the insurance companies. The uninsured motorists and their victims pay the rest.

Reading farther we come to such phrases as:

"when irresponsible people inflict damage the victims pay. . .Only a small minority of drivers are able to pay for the damage they do."

And those statistics only bear out the experience of a large number of car drivers who have had their cars injured by collision. The list is long of those who have heard the old story "I have no insurance and I have no money," which is another way of saying: "Yes, I ran into your car and it is damaged, but what are you going to do about it?"

The owner of a damaged car might take the case to court and there have been many instances where evidence is so plain that judgment would be given to the plaintiff. What next? Try and collect. Having a judgment is one thing; collecting is something else. There are a good many people who have come to the conclusion that instead of spending money trying to collect damages it is better to spend it getting the car fixed.

That looks loose. If the driver of a car appeared on the road today with 1936 markers on his car the officers would be after him in a hurry; if he were attempting to take a set of markers off ane car and place them on another he would be in trouble. The car driver is apt to be stopped any time and asked if he has a permit to drive in his possession. And yet it appears to be quite alright for the driver to take to the highway and inflict damage on person or property and then explain "I have no insurance and I have no money to pay for the damage I have done." Just why that should be allowed is something we have never been able to clearly understand.

Stupid Thing To Do

A man giving the name of Stanley Moore of Windsor was arrested by a traffic officer near Thamesford on No. 2 Highway. After which he was placed in Oxford County jail at Thamesford. Police from Windsor will arrive shortly and take him to his home town.

The charge against him is that he stole a car and also that he was driving without a permit, and it is just another case added to the long list of those who thought they were smart enough to steal a car and drive away with it. Very likely when Moore stole the car he believed he would not be arrested. If he could get away from Windsor then he would be safe enough.

But what happened? When the theft of the car was reported, then word was sent to traffic officers on all roads running out of that city. It means that officers patrolling No. 2 as far as that highway goes would be in possession of the number and a description of the car. The highway patrol system is a far bigger thing than any one driver of a car. It is behind him and ahead of him. If the driver manages to beat his way through the territory of one officer then the officer on the next beat will be waiting for him.

For that reason stealing a car is plain stupid. If one desired to drive the thing into a bush and hide it so he could go and look at it now and then his chances of detection would be less. But when he takes the stolen car out on a highway he's getting close to the end, and that is behind the bars.

He's Out $25

A farmer who admitted he was 65 years of age appeared in the office of provincial police at Sarnia, and his complaint was he had lost $25. He said he was working in a field when two gypsy women started up a conversation with him, and when the conversation was over $25 was missing from his pocket. There have been several complaints made in that area regarding the operation of gypsies and as a rule people have handed money to them "to be blessed," or others have given them some to tell fortunes only to find they had handed over more than they thought.

But the case of a farmer losing money to two of these wandering women while engaged in a "conversation" with them is something new. Money does not go popping out a man's pocket and come into the possession of some other party during the gentle art of conversation. Money comes from a pocket as a rule only when a hand goes in there and takes it out.

There is not much sympathy in the statement that people who hand money to a gypsy woman to have it "blessed" deserve to lose it, but that is a fair statement. If the farmer of 65 who applied for aid to police at Sarnia desires to indulge in conversation he better stick close to the folk at home or else speak with his neighbors. And it might be better for him to hand his money to his wife and let her put it away in the tea pot belonging to the Sunday set of dishes.

Do Away With Revolvers

When police were in session at London recently one speaker favored making a clean sweep of the revolver business. He would stop their importation and sale and then proceed with the more serious and difficult business of calling in all those which were outstanding. Decision was that the idea was a bit drastic.

Perhaps so, but unless something drastic is done there will never be anything done. The Examiner has on several occasions presented instances of guns brought into action.

Within one day there were four:

Young man in St. Thomas, 17 years of age, went to work for a farmer, and the farmer found him sleeping with a revolver under his pillow. He called provincial police, and the result is one day in jail and a sound strapping. The revolver was not registered.

Two armed and masked men broke into the store of Mr. and Mrs Frank Creeper at Plainfield, 15 miles from Belleville, but were finally driven off. The revolvers they carried were not registered. Of that we are certain.

Ernest Colson operates a filling station at Powassan, and he was shot and wounded by two masked men shortly before midnight. Those men were not carrying revolvers which had been registered.

In the village of Shedden, Elgin County, an armed bandit broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Bainard, aged people. There was no shooting done, but the gun was produced to show the man meant business. He ransacked the place and took $16.10, all the money in the place, and an old gold watch. The gun which was pointed at those aged folk was not registered.

We do not know whether the officer who suggested doing away with all revolvers was far off the track. The registering of weapons served no good purpose, for they are all in the hands of people who never make use of them. It is the unregistered and unknown revolver which does the shooting.

We Don't Know the Answer

What to do with the man who comes out of prison is an old subject on which a great deal has been said but virtually nothing at all done. The reason why people are so thoroughly complacent about the question is that they think it is none of their business.

When Crown-Attorney Norman F. Newton was addressing the convention of the Police Association in London, Ont., he presented this astounding statement:

While 7,000 students are graduated from Canadian universities in a year, 75,000 persons are graduated from the country's prisons and reformatories.

We have not been able to confirm the figure used by Mr. Newton, but we take it for granted he would have figures and facts on which to base such a claim. It means that for one student finishing university there are at least ten who have completed their sentence in prison or reformatory.

We spend a good deal of time and energy certain years wondering how the country is going to absorb all the young people who are coming out of universities, but we pay mighty little attention to the far more serious problem of how the country is going to make room for ten times the number who have to make their way under the handicap of being marked as ex-convicts. The country knows well enough it has not the answer to that problem, and it also knows it has made not even a slight effort to find it.

Multiplied By Seven

Four dead and ten injured makes a total of 14, and that is what took place just a few miles from Regina when two cars met head-on. The four killed were 20, 4, 22 and 26 years of age. The ten folk hurt were all in the seriously injured class and blood transfusions were used to sustain life in two cases.

That is an unusual example of the multiple tendency in automobile accidents. There were two people driving two cars, and yet there were four killed and ten injured. That multiplied the two drivers by seven.

That is why automobile records of death and injury run high. Drivers of cars involved in smashes nearly always have other people with them. Their responsibility is thus increased but many of them never think of that.

They may have occasion to turn it over in their minds after the accident if they are then living—but it is too late.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It is stated that California plane manufacturers are five years behind in their orders and that seems a new kind of a five-year plan.

It looks as if it will be necessary to follow baseball's example and appoint an official scorer to keep track of all the strikes.

It has at last been officially decided that Mae West was really married 26 years ago. What Mr. Mae West proposes to do about it now remains to be seen.

A news picture shows Mussolini swimming in the Adriatic and strangely enough the Italian dictator is not even carrying a sword between his teeth.

When they start catching seven-pound black bass in this district it must be admitted the Kawarthas are coming back into their own.

Brantford homing pigeons covered 503 miles in a day and we must admit that we are surprised to find even pigeons that enxious to get back to Brantford.

Newark man was chasing a pickpocket and when he got back his automobile was stolen. All he needed to make it a perfect day was to have gone home to find his house burned.

There are eight different parties represented in the Czechoslovakian government which makes it easy to understand why the cabinet has been forced to resign.

A Goderich man tripped over the lawn hose when he went to turn the water off and fractured his arm in three places. We imagine many married men will make sure their wives read that particular item.

This picketing business seems to be contagious. A Sharon Pa. man who could not pay the hospital bill for his wife and child has obtained their release from the institution by staging a one-man picket.

A Nova Scotia story tells of a fish smashing a skiff and throwing its occupant into the water. We have the feeling that they would have difficulty in equalling that yarn even around McCracken's or Crowe's Landing.

Milwaukee probation officers say children are good when the weather is bad and they are forced to remain at home. A checkup of parents might disclose the fact that their conduct at home is nothing to grow enthusiastic about either.

CHORES

(By A. R. K.)

¶ There's trouble in the East, I guess, and it's nasty sort of mess, that I can't understand; it seemed Japan has called her men, to tackle Mr. Sun Sat Sen, and take away his land.

¶ The soldiers come by thousands now, to be partakers in this row, some dirty work's being done, and when they see some hostile jay, they'll nail him ninety yards away, and pop him with a gun.

¶ I cannot well just understand, how all these folk can leave the land, and stay till fighting's through; they live in ways I do not know, that they can pick up thus and go, and have no chores to do.

¶ If they had hay to gather in, and knew the time was mighty slim, they'd have to work somehow; or else their place would go to seed, when winter come they'd have no feed, to fat the brindle cow.

¶ If rye and wheat had ripened fast, and if good weather wouldn't last they'd have a busy time; instead of marching with a gun, they'd have to leg it out and run, to get more binder twine.

¶ If cows come out a trifle late, they couldn't let them stand and wait, they'd have to feed them too; the Japs would make a better fist, if come one wrote them down a list—of farming chores to do.

REOPENING of the Republic Steel plant has given opportunity for saying of things about John L. Lewis. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor: "The reaction of public opinion against C. I. O. methods is reflected in the creation of vigilante organizations in various communities, in the enactment of labor legislation such as the new Labor Relations Act in Michigan (against mass picketing) and in the threat of repressive legislation in other states as well as in Congress. We cannot permit all organized labor to be penalized because of the stupid mistake of the C. I. O."

Van A. Bittner, speaking for the steel strike committee remarked: "Well, the strike's still on."

H. G. Ellison, superintendent of Republic's Upson Nut plant, said: "This is the beginning of the end for John L. Lewis." The Upson plant is running and no agreement was signed.

Federal employees in United States can have their choice of three unions: United Federal Workers, (C. I. O.) American Federation of Government Employees, (A. F. of L.) and the new National Federation of Government Employees. Then what? President Roosevelt says he does not care if they join one or a dozen unions, but if there is such a thing as a showdown by a strike then it's out of the question, because Federal employees cannot strike.

The United States Army blimp TC-13 went into its hanger at Sunnyvale, California, which was not unusual. The unusual part is that it will not come out again. BRITISH House of Lords has not been such a powerful place since Lloyd George in 1911 took away much of its power to veto legislation from the Commons. But it is an interesting and historic place. The Lords were talking over an emendment making insanity a ground for divorce when the Earl of Mersey—he's the eighteenth—rose to speak. After which he deliberately lit a cigarette and was ushered from the premises. He did not have opportunity to contaminate the Gothic air with as much as a second puff.

Japan tells its people it is necessary to step in and take control of China for the good of that land. China's leaders they say are fakers and unworthy. Only trouble is in getting the Chinese to look at it from the same angle.

Can Good Times Save Us?

(From the Montreal Star.)

STATISTICIANS' curves for Canada have been zooming gracefully heavenwards. Economists talk of the upward economic trend, and ordinary people say that good times seem to be coming back. Figures show sharp increases in things like external trade, Federal Government revenue, industrial activity, and wholesale prices. But, with all that, public finances in Canada sink deeper into the marsh of excess expenditure and debt.

The increase in Dominion revenues cannot be counted on to help things out, because it is going to be eaten up by emergency relief calls from the Prairie Provinces, Saskatchewan in particular. And it must not be forgotten that before the onset of the drought the treasuries of those provinces were only just managing to keep going. Apart from the urgent relief calls on account of the crop disaster, Manitoba and Saskatchewan are probably going to be calling for help from the Dominion to avoid default on at least part of their obligations. Ottawa has already had to offer to lend money to finance relief in Winnipeg during the coming weeks.

The crop failure, too, will add gall to the railways' cup of troubles. Perhaps however, the sight of two great railroad systems competing to carry the pint-sized grain crop may prickle some of the politicians at Ottawa. Every week makes it more apparent that the railway monster must be tackled if Canada is to live in any kind of financial security.

This summer, everyone with a stake out West, including the Dominion Government, is going to be hard hit. But we "down East" are not so flush either. Here in Quebec relief is still sucking streams of money from municipal, Provincial, and Federal treasuries. So far, there seems little chance of plugging the leak. In Montreal the city fathers talk of borrowing more money, although the credit of the city is already pledged to the limit. Any attempt to pass the limit is likely to cause the canny people with money to lend to shut their purses.

All across the country public debt is piling up. The sun of prosperity is shining through the clouds and still the debt piles go higher. Good times are not by themselves going to wash away our troubles. If we want to avoid a smash we will have to brake down the debtincreasing momentum, and if our present efforts are the best we can do when times are getting better it is ghastly to think of what will happen in another depression — which may come sooner than many people think.

A Rose By Any Other Name

(From the Ottawa Journal.)

WE wonder how the Smiths reacted to the discovery that their name occupies five pages of the new city directory. Did they feel a sense of superiority to the Browns, who fill only three pages, and the Joneses, who cover only two? Or was their feeling one of humiliation, of being, as 'twere, lost in the crowd?

The "Mc's," with 24 pages, and the "Macs," with eight, are in a different category. Because everybody knows the Macdonalds and the MacIntoshes rejoice in distinctive clan traditions, and there may, for all we ken, be a subtle but important difference between the McIntyres and the McIntyres.

But the Smiths, alas, have no such sense of kinship. A cople of McGregors, Tlung by chance together, will find at once their common bond of ancestry, but Mr. Smith, to any other Mr. Smith, is nobody in particular. Unless, of course, he happens in the course of social evolution to have become Mr. Smythe.

We feel that psychologists have not devoted nearly enough attention to the subject of names. Do parents, when they have their children christened, realize their grave responsibility? What are the chances in life of plain John Smith or Tom Brown, as compared with an individual rejoicing in the appellation of Percival Plunkett or Ebenezer Ashburton?

Dickens was well aware of the importance of names, and spent much time in cogitation before he christened his characters. The very sound of Uriah Heep gives one a crawly sensation, and Mr. Pickwick's name is the epitome of that genial old gentleman's lovable disposition.

Somebody was beefing recently about actors and actresses changing their names. Personally, we can't see why great crime in it. Elissa Landi is a lovely name, and we don't care a hoot if she's just Jane Jenkins to her mother.

Actually there is far too much fuss about this business of names. Under a really liberal order we should be allowed to change our names at will, too suit the vagaries of our moods.

William Jones is a nice, trustful name for business hours, but why should he not blossom forth as Reginald de Vere when he goes on holiday? Not only would a name like that compel the respect of hotelkeepers and custom officials; it would also enable the possessor to put on a much bolder front to the world.

We suggest that the Smiths and the Browns and the Joneses get together and see if some thing can be done about it.

The Hand of Opportunity

(From the Christian Science Monitor.)

FOR countless miles in every direction lie rich forest lands capable of being subdued. There might be built granaries to store wheat to supply the needs of peoples throughout the world. Why do we speak of limitations and lament because there are no more opportunities? Why do statesmen, dictators and armies seek territorial expansion through force and conquest while here there is safe asylum and freedom from assessment? Opportunity does not lie at the end of a road opened through conquest, whether in Ethiopia, Spain, or Detroit. It lies where it has been provided by the generous disposal of all needful things if these are discovered, utilized and unselfishly apportioned.

"I am told that in these uncounted Canadian lakes families of such sportive denizens as trout, bass, pickerel and muskellunge have succeeded each other in the varying stages of youth and maturity without ever having been tempted to strike at an angler's alluring bait. And in all the vast woods country, unless plausible misinformation is rife, wild animals abound and remain unmolested even by the sound of gun. It's a good story, anyway, and I believe it. No happier retreat could be found anywhere. The occasional summer resort places, such as Minaki, Jasper Park, and a dozen others of lets popularity, have not penetrated farther than the rim of these great natural preserves. The little farms along the way between Toronto and the edge of Manitoba have not scratched the surface in the empire of future grain and livestock farms.

"Someone who can write in convincing English, to be translated into the language of every people, should tell the world of the opportunities which await and beckon us as in a land so easily accessible. That book should bear, in large letters, the title 'Opportunities.' These are what hungry and war impoverished people everywhere are now vainly seeking. They will find in them that which they desire but do not yet realize as existent, freedom from penalizing and burdensome taxation, from national deficits, from building and manning warships, from training and impressment into armed service for they know not what.

"This is no false enthusiasm. I have not bought for sale, or been asked to buy, any real estate in Canada. But I am convinced, more than ever before by previous visits, that here in Canada is to be found, without conquest and, without any form of experimental legislation, the solution of the problems of millions of underprivileged people."

Although we are somtimes apt to forget it, Canada is still the land of Opportunity and would look like heaven to many of the world's peoples who are ground down by the militarism and want which prevail in some other countries. We have in our vast unsettled territory a heritage which defies valuation and there is no doubt whatever of our capacity to absorb millions of new Canadians when the time is ripe to extend them the necessary invitation.

PROBABLY VISION.

(Brantford Expositor)

YOUNG men are prone to exaggeration borne of enthusiasm, or is it vision? The Rotarian Magazine notes a reference by Kathleen Norris the authoress, to her brother's ebullient forecast when he came home one day, at the age of fourteen, to tell his mother about the marvelous new machine, the telephone, then in its early stages of development, in the Gay Nineties.

The lad predicted spiritedly that when large hotels were built in the future there would be a telephone on the first floor and also on the top and intervening floors, "so that folks won't have to go all the way down to the first floor to answer the phone." To which the mother, who was one with her generation, replied: "And that, son, is the kind of exaggeration which makes the world laugh at you."

To the Editor

RE. WATER SERVICE

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Here are the facts concerning a request for water and drains for No. 4 Lansdowne street, as they were presented to council. The assessment of this property is $1,270, not $800 as stated. There are 17 lots between this property and the water main, including Mr. Sullivan's residence and Mr. Ready's residence. For the last 10 years the rates for this property have been $50.96 per year, a total of $509.60 and during that time this property has not received any service whatever from the city, not even garbage collection.

Has there been water laid on in 1935 there would have been another factory in the city.

If the cost of drainage and water was spread over the 20 lots. I don't think any one could complain.

Personally I think that this property has more than paid its share. The drains around this property are more than half dug already.

WAR VET'S VIEWS

Editor Examiner:

Sir; I see Mr. Gordon is upholding the strikers of Peterborough, I think he is doing the wrong thing. There is not need of such work as a need of a strike. The railroad men called a strike in May; it was settled in a short time; no time was lost, things went on just the same. The strike party is paying John L. Lewis a salary of $16,000 a year to be head of the C. I. O. The labor union parties are paying in dues to the C.I.O. at the rate of $12.50 per year per person to cause trouble in this country of ours. If Lawyer Gordon would look up the laws of the years of 1578—1600 he would see what happened to strikers at that time. If a strike could not be settled in a week at any time the railroad company and the Bonner-Worth plant would charge Alex Welch and English for trespassing on their property. They might get down to business and settle the dispute. Lawyer Gordon is trying to make himself a big fellow like he did in about 1923 when running in his last election. A farmer and his sons can work from 12 to 14 hours a day and nothing is said about that, factory help works 8 hours a day making from $12 to $18 a week; help on a farm is getting from $15 to $20 per month on 12 hours work in the Summer Months and look some place else for the winter months. The head men that are on these strike committees are men that never seen real war service overseas. There is a day coming before long they may be called into war service. It will do them good to get a taste of war.

ADDING TO THE MYSTERY.

MONTREAL, July 20—(C.P.). — To the bizarre mystery surrounding the disappearance of Ellanne St. Pierre and the suicide of Henri Emile Fissiault, police added to-day a note addressed to Fissiault from an anonymous sender.

At headquarters police said the note was found beside the body of Fissiault, discovered on Friday in the cellar of his employer's home.

It read: "You coward, why don't you give yourself up to the police for the murder of Ellanne St. Pierre."

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, July 20—(CP). — Wheat futures failed to show any strengthening tendencies after climbing two cents at the opening on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day, and profit-taking sent all wheat futures down the five-cent allowable limit. At the close values were 5 to 5¼ cents lower, July at $1.46, October $1.37⅝ and December $1.33⅝.

Wheat dropped more than six cents from top levels in active trading. July wheat headed the downtrend, slipping below the $1.50 mark after four days above that level.

Earlier strength attribut to firmness at Liverpool, forced wheat up two cents in opening trades, but then all major world wheat markets began trading at levels below yesterday's close.

Moderate resting orders at various bottom levels only temporarily blocked the slump and profit-taking again sent prices whirling downward, in much the repetition of Monday's trading when wheat lost more than three cents.

Test Balloon Flight Almost Disaster

Lifted by 80 balloons, four feet in diameter, the Pleiades, latest of all aerial craft, is shown at the right as it rose from Soldier Field at Rochester, Minn., carrying Dr. Jean Picard, famed stratopherist on a six hour flight during which he drifted 100 miles and rose to a maximum height of 11,000 feet. The test flight to prove the festibility of flight with a muitiple arrangement of harnessed balloons almost ended in disaster when the release arrangement in the gondola failed to function and he was forced to fire a .22 calibre revolver into several of the hydrogen-filled bags. It is believed one of the bags caught fire. In the upper left, is Dr. Picard wearing a football helmet which he wore to avoid getting his head bumped. In the lower left he is shown just before the take off

Henkel Defeats Bitsy Grant To Make Interzone Tennis Series All Square

WIMBLEDON, England, July 20 (A.P.). — Heinrich Henkel, stolid Teuton ace, defeated the "Atlanta Atom," Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant today 7-5, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, and boosted Germany into a tie with the United States in the Davis Cup inter-zone tennis finals with only one singles match between Don Budge of Oakland, Calif., and Baron Gottfried von Cramm, yet to be played.

Aside from a temporary let-down in the second set, Henkel kept the tiny Grant well under control to bring the series count to two victories each.

katchewan, it is learned. While the definite location has not been divulged, it will stretch east and west along the height of land, the strip where on one side the rivers flow south and on the other flow north. Much of the land is already owned by the province and other settlers will be moved.

Fence Whole Area

This great area will be entirely fenced in and no grazing done on it except few small community grazing lots, so that when a great drought hits the West as this year, these lands even without rain will provide fodder for the livestock.

A considerable test was made this year of advantages of flooding lands from irrigation dams. The experiments have been successful, Mr. Gardiner said yesterday and investigation will continue. In many sections the plan proposed is to redivide the land so a farmer would have part of his farm in lands too high to be irrigated and a certain portion available for artificial watering. Thus, in case of drought, the farmer would at leave have some crop.

In other sections adjacent to poor lands, the irrigated area would be laid out in 80-acre farms, to which the settlers from the stricken lands could be moved and still be able to remain in the locality to which they have become accustomed.

At Penitentiary he was sentenced to ten years for committing grievous bodily harm and escaping, the term to run concurrently with the previous one. He was released July 2, 1926.

Sentence of three years for conspiracy was imposed September 6, 1928, at North Bay. Taken from prison in 1930, he was sentenced to ten years following conviction at Campbell's Bay, Que., of armed robbery. He was released March 8 of this year, giving his destination as North Bay, Ont.

On May 28 of this year a warrant on a charge of wounding was issued against him, under the name Victor Grey, at Toronto.

Following expiration of his sentence in 1929, Shoke was sentenced to five years at Kingson on two charges, and remainded in penitentiary four years.

Arrested at Toronto in 1936 for possession of housebreaking tools, he drew a term of 18 months definite and 6 months indefinite at industrial under the name Tom Pornomarenko. The alleged breach of the Excise Act in August of last year drew him a three-months sentence.

Drought Cattle For Kent Farms

CHATHAM, Ont., July 20 (CP)—Pleased with good profits made on last year's operations, many Kent farmers plan to go to the drought stricken areas of the West to purchase cattle under the assistance scheme of the Dominion government and ship them to their farms for fattening. At least half a dozen are now at various western points, while some are on their way home after making purchases.

Indications are that hundreds of head of cattle will be brought to this county. Feed is plentiful here, and although prices of grain are high, that of cattle has risen comparatively.

Under the government scheme the government pays freight rates on cattle from the West, and the one-way expenses of farmers going to the western area to buy stock for feeding purposes.

The Australians aggregated 2,222 points out of a possible 2,400 in the two stages, fired yesterday and to-day. Canada was second with 2,205, and Britain, with the same score, was third, with India fourth at 2,166. Canada placed second by virtue of a better score at the 900 yards range to-day.

Australia took the Challenge Cup, first competed for in 1907.

Great Britain, with four victories, is the only other winner of this trophy since it was instituted. The match is fired only in intermittent years, and will be competed for in Australia.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN WANTS TO KNOW

Pie Season Is Now At Hand So Here Are Several Recipes

Minute Tapioca Is Suggested To Absorb Excess Juices Of Berry Pies

RECOMMENDED CRUST

By MARY MOORE

Those of you who know the principles of this page the best know that we approve of baked or cooked desserts the least.

But...pie season is at hand.

We've had our annual cherry pie. Our annual rhubarb pie took the form of a custardy meringue. Tonight we are going to have mulberry pie. Where did we get them? From our summer neighbor—who has a 50-year-old mulberry tree in his front yard, and who is glad to have folks around come and pick them up early in the morning before they are trod on. I was gathering them at seven this morning, because we had to come in to town today.

We recommend minute tapioca to absorb the excess juices of berry pies—or rhubarb pie—or cherry.

The general principles are alike: Stem or hull and clean your berries (mulberries have a quarter-inch stem that should be clipped off with the scissors) and with ½ cup sugar mix 2 level tablespoons minute tapioca. Sprinkle this over the prepared berries—about 3 or 3½ cups berries are plenty for a deep pie—and let stand for an hour of possible—at least 15 minutes for tapioca to swell.

Pour sugared berries into chilled raw shell, cover with top crust, flute edges and bake at 500 deg. Fahr.—reducing heat to 350 to finish baking.

Rhubarb, cherry and some sour berries require ¾ or 1 cup sugar.

Recommended Pie Crust.

Sift pastry flour once before measuring, then measure 2 cups and sift with it ¾ teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon baking powder. Measure 1-3 cup butter and 1-3 cup good shortening or lard and cut these into the flour with pastry blender until it looks like rolled oats. Then add about 6 heaping tablespoons ice water, a little at a time, and mix with knife until it will hold together but is not sticky.

We always make pie pastry far enough ahead of baking time that we can thoroughly chill it. We strongly recommend that you do this too.

Divide pastry in two—roll out one half and fit on pie plate. Roll other half in wax paper, and chill both. When ready fill with prepared berries (see above), roll out top crust, put on top wetting edges slightly to make it stick, flute edges and bake at 500 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes, reducing heat to 350 deg. Fahr. to finish baking.

Cherry Pie.

Mix 3½ cups cherries with 1 cup sugar which has been mixed with 2 tablespoons minute tapioca — let stand for at least 15 minutes. Or add 1 cup sugar to 3½ cups stoned cherries and let stand 1 hour. Drain off juice. Heat it and to it add 4 tablespoons cornstarch which has been rubbed to a smooth paste in 1-3 cup water and stir over direct heat until it thickens, then cook over double boiler for 30 minutes. This latter makes a very smooth filling. Assemble as directed under pastry recipe.

Deep Dish Rhubarb Pie.

That this pie was to be a sensation did not occur to me. But proof of this pie was in the eating.

Wash and cut up but do not peel small stalks of red rhubarb until you have 6 cups. Combine with 2 tablespoons water, and 2 cups sugar, and simmer for 5 minutes, slowly. Mix 1-3 cup flour with ¼ cup sugar and add these to the rhubarb and mix, and turn into well-buttered aluminum or glass baking dish. Dot over with 3 tablespoons butter and cover with ¼-inch pastry rolled to shape of dish. Press the pastry down well, and make four slits in centre to allow steam to escape. Bake at 500 for 15 minutes, reducing heat to 350 to finish. Serve with heavy cream.

Red Raspberry Or Blueberry Pie.

Combine 3 cups of the berries, with 1 tablespoon minute tapioca and ½ cup sugar. Let stand 15 minutes at least. Combine as described above under Recommended Pastry.

Blackberry Pie.

For these use same method as for Red Raspberry Pie but add one-half cup of sugar. These are the rascals that have such long thorny branches—but are worth the trouble to pick, but I think are at their best in a Cobbler.

Blackberry Cobbler.

Batter: Three tablespoons butter, ¼ cup sugar, 1¼ cups flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 egg, ½ cup milk. Mix and sift dry ingredients and work in the butter with the finger tips. Beat egg, add milk and combine mixtures. In buttered pan lay this batter which has been rather unevenly rolled out, and while edges are lapping over sides of dish fill with cleaned, drained blackberries, sprinkling sugar between the layers as you put them in—to two cups berries add 2-3 cup sugar. Dot these with 2 tablespoons butter, draw batter over top—gathering it roughly together and leaving a few holes for steam to escape. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes, reducing heat to 350 deg. Fahr. to finish. Serve warm with heavy cream.

Since we are on the subject of pies, cobblers to the contrary, look elsewhere on the page—there may have been room for the chiffon pie a reader asked for this week.

Even the hungriest of households sometimes forgets itself and allows a little cream to sour. A whole quart left in the ice box over the week-end while we were away turned on me. We had sour cream cookies of course, but the sour cream pie was worth the dismay I suffered when I tasted that sour cream Monday morning.

SOUR CREAM PIE
(Emem's Version)

One and one-half cups sour cream, 2-3 cup sugar, 2-3 cup seeded raisins, cut in two or washed and drained Sultanas, 3 egg yolks, ¾ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 3 egg whites, 1-3 cup sugar. Mix the ingredients in the order given and pour in an unbaked chilled crust. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr., standing pie on lower shelf for 10 minutes (to bake the crust fast and prevent it soaking) and then reduce heat and raise pie to middle shelf in oven, and finish baking at 300 deg. Fahr.

Make meringue by adding sugar to whites and beating until they are fine and stiff, add 1 teaspoon vanilla —spread on baked pie in swirls and return to oven and bake at 275 until done—takes about 40 minutes to bake a meringue properly.

Enquiry Column

Conducted by Mrs. MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I think your cookery page is great, and hope you can help me as the other writers have been.

I have an ice cream freezer and till the last couple of summers I had good luck with making ice cream, but now it is milky. I use "Jello" Ice Cream powder.

Also could you oblige me with a recipe for Scotch Oat Cookies, such as can be bought in the stores? Thanks. Mrs. H. R. I.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

The old-fashioned ice cream mixtures made with a custard are still hard to beat—I should say hard to improve upon.

Vanilla Ice Cream

Two cups hot milk, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 quart thick cream, 2 tablespoons vanilla. Mix flour, sugar and salt and into them stir the scalded milk. Cook over hot water for 15 minutes after it has thickened while stirring, and stir frequently. Beat eggs until light together, then pour a little of the cooked custard over them, then return all to the double boiler and cook 2 minutes longer. Cool, then add vanilla and cream and strain and freeze.

Scotch Oat Cookies

(I have been asked for this recipe before and while it is not exactly like those advertised under the name has the essential ingredients.)

One cup sugar, 1 cup butter ½ cup sour milk, ¼ teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg, 1 teaspoon soda, 4 cups rolled oats or oatmeal, 2 cups bread flour, (as a variation ½ cup walnuts may be added). Cream butter, add sugar, and sift in dry ingredients alternately with the sour milk. Knead until mixed and roll out and cut into triangles or squares without further addition of flour or liquid. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr.

We hope you like both these recipes and hope we can help you again.

QUESTION: I am writing to ask for help. My little girl who is just 7 years old since she started school gets all the colds going so the doctor says she is lacking a vitamin. He is trying to build her up. She is not sick and weighs 56 lbs. She has always had orange juice and plenty of milk for she drinks nothing but milk or water. She will not drink cocoa or eat all kinds of fruit and vegetables, but now she must have orange juice, cereal, egg, fresh vegetables and fruit with plenty of milk and sunshine along with the very thick medicine he has given her with vitamins in and I forgot to mention fish at least once a week.

We have a large farm on the outskirts of the city with plenty of eggs, milk, vegetables, etc. Now what I would like would be a menu for a week including different vitamins for dinner and supper, just now with the vegetables that come first and another menu for later when the different ones come like corn, beans, cauliflower, squash, vegetable marrow, etc. If possible could you print or send me a recipe for prune cake and peach cobbler?

My, I think I have asked too much, but would love a little help to arrange the different vegetables and fruit, etc. I read and clip your page every week and find it a big help. Hoping I am not taking too much of your time. Bella.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

First I must adjust your viewpoint about vitamins.

There are practically no fresh foods that do not contain vitamins. Consequently if your daughter eats a variety of all the fresh foods as they come into season she will doubtless be getting at least a little of all of them—and much of most of them.

Your doctor will say "yea" or "nay" to this but in my opinion she should have deep sea food which she doubtless gets since you are living on the seaside—this is probably what he had in mind when he mentioned fish once per week—let her have the crustaceans and shell fish plentifully. Sometimes children can be persuaded to take these in stews, bisques or chowders when they would not eat them any other way.

Most of the research workers who make vitamins their job agree that Vitamin A helps prevent colds and other germ infections. Vitamin A is contained in fresh raw milk (be sure yours comes from rigidly inspected herds) fresh butter; fresh cheese; green vegetables such as spinach, watercress and young turnip greens; the yellow vegetables suc has carrots and yellow corn (chewed well) and the yellow fruits such as oranges, lemons, limes, grapefruit, peaches, pears, apples, apricots, plums, pineapple all fresh. Raw carrots thoroughly chewed should be taken at least every other day. One medium carrot should be plenty—and if she objects grate half of this for her but urge her to chew the rest herself.

The cereal that the doctor mentions would be most beneficial if it were a whole grain or a mixture of whole grains, ground. She should have brown sugar or honey and cream with her cereal.

Now with the addition of milk, butter (as much as one pound per week at least) and one egg per day, plenty of nuts (but not peanuts to any extent) and raisins and dates to chew between meals when she is hungry, you have a perfect dietary for a sick or well person. Her eggs should not be fried—preferably cooked soft in the shell—if not, poached until milky white but not firm.

You see the need for the menus you ask for is superfluous since she should have a great variety of every fresh thing as it comes into season. Coax her into taking the ones she doesn't like now by grating them finely and serving raw—or cooking vegetables and serving with an attractive egg sauce or grated cheese—this never fails on my own youngsters.

Hoping you can make these suggestions meet your needs I will give you the recipes you asked for.

Prune Cake (Superior)

One-half cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 2-3 cup sour milk, 1 1-3 cups flour, 2-3 cup stewed and stoned prunes, ½ teaspoon each cinnamon, soda, salt, nutmeg, allspice, baking powder. Cream the butter until very light, then cream in the sugar, and well-beaten yolks, and sift in the sifted dry ingredients alternately with the sour milk, then add the chopped prunes, and fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Pour into buttered and floured loaf pan and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 30 or 35 minutes.

For frosting this cake use creamed butter, sifted icing sugar and a very little each of prune juice and lemon juice to moisten—beat for 5 minutes before spreading.

Old Fashioned Peach Cobbler

Sift together 1½ cups flour and 1¼ teaspoons baking powder. With tips of fingers work in 2 tablespoons butter, and when well mixed ½ cup milk.

Peel and slice 5 peaches and over them sprinkle ½ cup sugar, and 2 tablespoons melted butter. In bottom of baking dish invert an old cup, pour sugared peaches around it and cover all with batter, patting it down with back of fingers. Bake at 450 for 10 minutes reducing heat to 350 to finish. The cup prevents fruit from soaking dough. Serve with thick cream. Any rich biscuit batter or plain cake-batter may be used for a cobbler.

Do write again when we can help you.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Blest be that spot, where cheerful guests retire
To pause from toil, and trim their evening fire,
Blest that abode, where want and pain repair,
And every stranger finds a ready chair,
Blest be those feasts with simply plenty crown'd
Where all the ruddy family around,
Laugh at the jests or pranks that never fail,
Or sigh with pity at some mournful tale,
Or press the bashful stranger to his food,
And learn the luxury of doing good. — Goldsmith. (The Traveller).

Dear Friends:

Here I am again at five a.m., telling you some more about our reunion. For once the husbands and children have to take a back seat, and the three sisters hold the floor, one blond, one red-head, and one white haired. (Or should I say platinum.)

When we go to visit with friends, we thrill to their welcome, but when you meet with your own after long years have intervened, the thrill is intensified, until your heart seems as if it would burst. You feel as if you had come home indeed. There is so much to say in the short time you have to be together, that you grudge the hours spent in sleep, or work, or getting food prepared.

First thing you know you stop with a potato, or a dishcloth in your hand, and are off again saying do you remember so and so. Oh yes whatever became of her, and maybe find she lives on the next street.

Or you inquire about the ones who have passed on, if they suffered much, if they remembered you, or spoke of you before they went hence. And someone sits down to the piano, and soon the old familiar songs are being sung, and you find the tears will not let you continue.

And through all this glad reunion, runs a thread of sadness, for you realize more than ever before that the old days are gone never to return again. No more can you go back to the Dad and Mother you left so blithely in your youth.

And they tell you that you would not know this place or that, for buildings have been torn down and replaced with others, while you had retained the memory of it as you left it.

And so many were killed in the war; so many moved away, so many have died with the years. But you must not let yourself get too gloomily, for you know you are heading in the same general direction, so that one day someone will say, "Do you remember so and so, she died in such a year."

And it will be you they will be speaking about, which is hard to realize while we are still here, and "the place that has known us will know us no more." Candidly my sisters and I did not know each other, we would have passed on the street without recognition, for then we were girls, but now we are women.

Afterwards, we could see glimpses of the ones who were R. and M. and B. I think the years will not alter us so much from now on, but it is surprising what it has done in the last twenty-five.

And so I have told you a little of our journey, and of this grand meeting we have had. Of course it has just been glimpses, but I will recall more later, and tell you then. Hoping it has been as interesting to you as it has been to me, and that you haven't forgotten. Your Friend, ROBERTA.

Sour Cream Spice Cakes

Recipes For Dainty Dishes For Hot Weather Serving

(By MRS. MARY MORTON)

Menu Hint.
Fried Perch
French Fried Potatoes
Butter eBans
Mixed Vegetable Salad
Sour Cream Spice Cake Tea.

The perch may be broiled if you prefer. They can be dipped in flour or cornmeal, or in a batter of egg and flour or cornmeal if you like, and friend in a little hot bacon fat. The hot summer weather is quite apt to sour the cream, so new recipes to use it are timely. While it seems extravagant to use cream to make cake, the recipe calls for no other shortening, and only one egg is used, also only a minimum of time is needed to mix it, as there is no creaming of sugar and shortening. The sour cream will keep the cake moist, too—another advantage.

The cake or cup cakes made from this recipe are ideal for picnics and beach parties, and you will like this mocha frosting, as it blends perfectly with the spices.

TO-DAY'S RECIPES.

Sour Cream Spice Cake.

One cup brown sugar, one cup sour cream (thick), one egg, slightly beaten, one and one-half cups all-purpose flour, one teaspoon baking soda, one-fourth teaspoon cream of tartar, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon ground nutmeg, one-half cup chopped nuts, one-half cup raisins, one teaspoon cinnamon. Combine all dry ingredients and sift together once. Combine sugar and sour cream, blend and add beaten egg. To thos mixture add the dry ingredients, nuts and raisins. Stir only until well blended. Bake at 350 degrees for about 45 minutes. This recipe will fill lone eight by eight by two-inch cake pan.

Mocha Frosting.

Two teaspoons hot coffee (strong), one teaspoon butter, one-half teaspoon vanilla, confectioners' sugar. Melt butter in hot commiee and add vanilla. Then add the confectioner's sugar until the mixture is of the right consistency to spread.

FACTS AND FANCIES.

Cherry Mince Meat Pie.

One and one-half cups sour, fresh pitted cherries or canned cherries; one-half cup confectioners' (4X) sugar, one (9-oz.) package dry mince meat and one-half cup water boiled almost dry, three tablespoons flour, one egg, pie crust. Cover cherries with one-fourth cup sugar and allow to stand while preparing mince meat. Break mince meat into pieces. Add cold water. Place over heat and stir until all lumps are thoroughly broken up. Bring to brisk boil; continue boiling for three minutes or until mixture is practically dry. Cool. Combine mince meat and cherries. Add remaining sugar and flour mixed together and well-beaten egg. Line a nine-inch pie plate with pastry and fill with cherry mixture. Arrange lattice of pastry strips across top. Moisten edge of pie with cold water and finish with narrow strip of pastry around edge of pie. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 10 minutes, then decrease heat to moderate (350 degrees F.) and bake 30 minutes longer.

Orange Juice Cranberry Cocktail.

Prepare cranberry juice as follows: Two cups cranberries, two cups hot water, three-fourths cup sugar. Wash and sort cranberries, add hot water, and boil for twenty minutes. Put through strainer. To the hot juice add the sugar and stir until dissolved. No more cooking is necessary. Chill for serving. Fill lower half of cocktail glass with chilled cranberry juice. Then carefully pouring down the side of glass, add fresh chilled orange juice to fill glass. The two juices will remain in distinct layers, thus giving an attractive appearance as well as a delightful combination of tart flavors suitable to stimulate the most languid appetite.

Tasty Dish But Simple

Creamed Fried Onions And Liver Is Main Dish On Menu

By MRS. MARY MORTON

Menu Hint
Liver With Creamed Fried Onions
French Toast
Mixed Vegetables Salad
Fresh Berry Pie Iced or Hot Tea

This very tasty but simplified meal should appeal to the housewife and family alike in warm weather. You can add a fresh green vegetable if you like, but my idea was to serve vegetables raw in the salad. Some people still like their tea hot when the thermometer soars. They say it cools them more than iced beverages. Edith Barber is responsible for the liver and onion dish.

Today's Recipes

LIVER WITH CREAMED FRIED ONIONS—Two slices calves liver, salt, pepper, one pound onions, sliced; four tablespoons flour, two and one-half cups milk, six slices bread, two egg yolks. Cut liver into pieces, cover with boiling water and let stand five minutes. Drain, remove the skin and veins. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and broil or saute five minutes. At the same time fry the onions in a small amount of fat adding more as needed. When light brown sprinkle with flour, blend well and add two cups milk and stir until the mixture thickens. Season and serve around the liver on French toast, prepared by dipping the bread in the egg yolks mixed with the remaining one-half cup of milk and frying until light brown.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Tasty Sandwich Spread

One pound summer sausage, one-half pound mixed peanuts, two-thirds cup sweet pickles, one-third cup stuffed olives. Put through medium knife of the food chopper. Mix to proper consistency with boiled salad dressing. This is very good served on soft rye bread.

Secret's in Pouring

When you drink canned citrus juice and exclaim in pleased tones "Ooh, what kind is this!" because it tastes so good, know what is the answer? It's because a simple kitchen trick has been turned: simply pour the canned grapefruit juice rapidly from one glass to another several times. Pour from a height, like a soda-jerker, if you want some fun. Then notice the fresh, sparkling flavor.

Tested Favorite Recipes

(By MARY MOORE.)

We recommend this because it is fine for summer active housekeepers. You can prepare it early, tuck it in the ice box, and cook very quickly just at meal time. Economical, too.

Bolshevik Hash.

Two cups finely cubed cooked potatoes, 1 pound chopped round steak, 3 cups finely chopped cooked beets, 2¼ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons minced onions, 3 tablespoons fat. Cook the potatoes (under in their jackets, then peel and finely chop until you have 2 cups. Combine with the round steak, beets salt, pepper and onion. When ready to cook melt the fat (preferably butter) and cook slowly until it is golden on the under side. Turn over and brown and heat through other side. Turn out on hot platter and serve garnished with large sprigs of parsley.

"Bite and Stir" Boxes

Montreal.—Antique-hunters, especially in the eastern section of Ontario, have sometimes been puzzled as to the origin of the divided silver boxes that frequently turn up in the attics of old houses. These early American examples of the silversmith's art date back to the first years of the eighteenth century.

Known then as "bite and stir" boxes, they held lump and powdered sugar and the fashion in New Amsterdam when the socialite dames drank their tea in the afternoon, was either to stir powdered sugar into the tea-cup, or nibble a lump of sugar while drinking.

A matching piece is the "oma," a silver sifter which held a mixture of cinnamon and sugar to be sprinkled on the hot waffles, pikelets, wafers or hot puffets which were always served with the tea.

Milk was not used in the early days, but it was considered very socially correct to offer peach or saffron leaves as an extra flavor for the tea.

"Mr. Schwede, a physicist and astronomer, also has a master's degree from the University of Chicago. He was connected with Yerkes Observatory for a time, and is now in the employ of the Schlumberger Well Surveying Company in Shreveport, La."

"Before leaving Tulsa to come to Grafton, Miss Westgate was feted at two showers, one given by college friends and the other by the students and faculty of Holland Hall. The couple will live in Shreveport after their marriage."

White pique with Marine-blue jacket, pastel shantung cotton with print jacket, colorful striped percale with white linen-like weave jacket, etc., are captivating schemes.

JAP ARTILLERY GOES IN ACTION EDGE PEIPING

the Chinese 29th Army, which has been engaging Japanese detachments since July 7, its troops would "take independent action" if the Chinese had not started withdrawing from the area by noon.

The Chinese answer to the ultimatum, Japanese said, was to fire on their positions near Wanpanghsien, western suburb of Peiping, with trench mortars. Japanese army headquarters charged the Chinese fire had continued at intervals throughout the night.

The Japanese batteries went into action, Domei reported, against the Chinese positions near Marco Polo Bridge across the Yungting River west of the capital of ancient China.

Japanese military communiques issued at Tientsin, headquarters of the North China garrison, cited incident after incident as reasons "forcing Japanese troops to take defensive action against the Chinese attackers."

Despite resumption of hostilities, British sources in Tientsin reported officers of the 29th Army had agreed to apologize for "attacking" Japanese night manoeuvring troops at Marco Polo Bridge, punish the responsible officers, pay a compensation to Japan and declare the autonomy of Hopeh and Chahar provinces.

The Prime Minister had a word to say against hasty utterances by those in authority. "Words too hastily and too loudly expressed," he said "may lead to some precipitate or unpremeditated act the consequences of which none can foresee."

Helpful Hint

His visit to the three continental capitals, the Prime Minister said, was prompted by a desire to obtain "very full information" concerning conditions in Europe. "I felt," he said, "it would be helpful in meeting responsibilities of government in Canada were I, before returning, to pay a brief visit to the continent to supplement the knowledge gained (at the conference and Coronation) by observation and personal interviews with those in authority."

Of the conference the Prime Minister, after summarizing the official reports already published, said the conclusions there reached would be "of greatest value in the more effective furtherance of aims and ideals shared in common.

"Above everything else the conference revealed how sure are the foundations upon which is built the free association of British peoples, and how strong and abiding are the bonds which unite them one to another."

resort and will not return to Rome until time for the State funeral. Today is her eighth birthday.

Premier Mussolini, whose ardent supporter Marconi had been, dispatched a telegram of condolences. Later he went to Marconi's home in the Via Condotyi and paid his respects beside the body.

Pope Pius, with whom the inventor had had a long audience Saturday concerning the new radio station he was building for the Vatican, was notified by telephone at his summer residence at Castel Gondolfo. He sent a special blessing to the inventor.

Marconi had been closely associated with the Pontiff. The first radio station at the Vatican was installed by him and when it was inaugurated in 1931 it was Marconi who introduced Pope Pius, the first Pope ever to speak over the radio.

Busy on Experiments

Despite his feeling of ill-health yesterday afternoon Marconi insisted on working on his latest microwave experiments. The Marquis Lugi Solari, head of the Italian Marconi Company, the inventor's biographer and lifelong friend, said that yesterday Marconi came into his office "to talk about his microwave experiments."

The Marconi Company offices are in the inventor's home and to-day the employees learned of his death as they arrived for work.

"Marconi told me he planned to spend the whole summer aboard his yacht Elettra conducting experiments," Solari said. "His idea was to adapt the microwave to long range transmission.

"Marconi was very hopeful of the success of these experiments, and they are in such shape and have reached such a point we can go ahead with his work."

Marconi's body will be removed to historic Farnesina Palace, headquarters of the Italian Royal Academy, of which he was president, on the banks of the Tiber, to lie in state in the blue robes of an academician.

Following a preliminary funeral service in Rome, the body will be taken for burial to Bologna, where he conducted his first experiments in a barn on his father's country estate.

Success at 21.

His death occurred in his downtown residence in the heart of Rome, part of the beautiful and ancient palace was occupied as offices by the Italian Marconi Company.

Marconi was only 21 years old when in the spring of 1896 he first tapped out the three dots of the letter "S" in the Morse code on a wireless transmitter in his laboratory in a barn.

Laconically, he announced his invention:

"I have discovered how to telegraph without wires."

Italy was sceptical, however, of the usefulness of the young inventor's discovery, and his Irish-born mother took Marconi to England. There, with the aid of her relatives, he was granted the first patant for a practical system of wireless telegraphy in 1896.

Much of Marconi's work had been devoted to military purposes in the last few years and he had been repeatedly reported at work on a "death ray." This, however, was denied as frequently as it was reported.

BOMBER DESIGNED FOR STRATOSPHERE

U.S. Five-Seater Will Carry Six Machine Guns—Soar To 30,000 Feet

WASHINGTON, July 20 (A.P.).—The United States Army is ready to send into the air what it terms the most formidable fighting plane in the world—a monoplane for combat in the sub-stratosphere.

The new five-seater fighter, being prepared for test flights at (the Bell Aircraft Corporation plant) Buffalo, N.Y., is a radical departure from previous military designs. The Air Corps will devise new tactics to fit its use up to altitudes of 30,000 feet.

The all-metal, armoured plane is a twin-motored "pusher" (with propellors behind the wings), carries six machine guns and light bombs, and has new devices to increase its speed and fighting power.

The War Department said the plane had been designed to cope with the "giant bombing planes of the flying fortress type now flying in the leading nations of the world."

which have fallen to Miaja's men.

Unity Key Of Rebel Hopes

The Insurgent hope of seizing Madrid after more than eight months of siege and the government's hope of hammering back the siege lines rested in the co-ordinated operations of infantry divisions, artillery and airplanes.

An Insurgent patrol of pursuit planes flew into the Navalagamella sector after the first two of the government's four air raids there yesterday. A brief air battle ensued but the government planes were able to escape after bombing 20 truck-loads of reinforcements.

The sky cleared momentarily. The government bombers, escorted by their fighting ships, swept back over the town.

The Insurgent patrol came back in battle formation. There was another series of "dog fights" which ended, the government reported, with the shooting down of an Insurgent pursuit plane.

The air raids continued, the government's bombs raising columns of smoke and debris from the wooded fringes of Navalagamella which were believed to shelter bodies of Insurgent troops.

CANUCK DEBATERS FIND NEW STUNTS

Trio On Tour Of Old Country Colleges See Novel Methods

LONDON, July 20 (CP)—A debating tour of Britain completed, three University of New Brunswick students, W. A. Gibbon, J. R. Mallory and J. E. Morpurge, announced they would probably stay in England until the fall.

On their tour which took them to the platforms of many famous schools and colleges they were introduced to two novel methods of debating. At Stowe School, Buckingham, their audience was divided into an upper and lower house and each section voted independently. "We won the support of the lower house," said Gibbon, smiling, "but were defeated in the upper house of professors and older students. Unlike the vote of the lower house of parliament the lower house at Stowe carried little weight."

At Rugby School they observed another novel method. The teams were divided so that one Canadian and two Rugby students made up one team and two Canadians and one Rugby student made up the other.

Thinks Shakespeare Over Heads Of Most

CENTRAL CITY, Colo., July 20—(AP)—Shakespeare is all right, but give Uncle Bob Johnson music, laughs and feminine legs twinkling over the footlights at the old Opry House.

At 77, Uncle Bob (he's been Robert C. Johnson as water commissioner on the city payroll for 30 years) has seen nearly every performance of the Central City play festival since the first home talent performance in the Granite Theatre in 1878.

"The best show I ever saw," he recalled today "was called Madame Rents' Minstrels.

"They had 60 girls dancing in scanty uniforms. This was in '81 or '82 and you should've seen the boys scrambling to get inside at $1 a head.

"It's the same way today. This Shakespeare and other arty stuff is all right, but it's over the heads of most people."

The present production is Ibsen's "Doll's House," with Ruth Gordon in the leading role.

Mr. And Mrs. Alfred Driver Were Wedded In 1892

CLOCK PRESENTED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BETHANY, July 20.—On Friday evening a number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Driver met at their home to help in a quiet manner, commemorating the 45th anniversary of their wedding day which took place in London, England.

Some 29 years ago this very worthy couple left their English home to make a new one in Canada, accompanied by four of their children, three sons and one daughter, the late Gladys Driver who passed away some years ago at a very early age.

The invited guests joined the family group about 7 o'clock on the lawn and offered hearty congratulations to the bride and groom, the latter being quite unaware of the surprise intended. Social intercourse continued until the evening shadows fell and all repaired to the living room for some music. The following program had been arranged, Miss Sara McMullen taking a very capable part as chairlady; Community singing with Miss Doris at the piano; chairman's address was substituted later by a travelogue which Miss McMullen had enjoyed for four days, recently to Ottawa and calling at many noted places; reading by Miss L. MORE TOURISTS IN KAWARTHAS THAN YEAR AGO

Early Reports From Bobcaygeon To Crowe Lake Reflect Increased Business

SOME CAPACITY DAYS

Keener Demand For Cottages Chamber Of Commerce Secretary Says

News from Kawartha resorts all the way from Bobcaygeon to Crow Lake indicate that the July influx of tourists has maintained a high tide since the opening of the fishing season.

The invasion began with the Fourth of July week-end, and although there have been a few days of brief recessions, the average business is reported to be considerably in excess of last summer's satisfactory volume.

A few nights ago the number of guests at Locust Lodge was 108. They were actually booked for rooms, and must have taxed Mrs. Edgar's attractive hotel on the Big Bob River to the last corner of its capacity.

Burleigh and Buckhorn

Both Buckhorn and Burleigh Falls have been crowded all month. On a recent visit to Robert Fulton's hotel at Buckhorn it was stated that all the rooms were taken and likewise the cottages on the north side of the falls. Across the river J. J. McCaffery is getting a bigger trade than a year ago, and the row of new cottages built by Rollie Windover was fully occupied.

At the Park Hotel, Burleigh Falls, on a recent Sunday, according to another report, dinners were served to 176 persons who might be classed as transients to the extent that they were at the Falls only for that day. In addition to that record line-up there were the regular guests, and Mrs. Nita Doughty's hotel on the new highway had the "standing room only" signs out that day. Not one cottage was empty, and it was said that some of the regular summer guests who had neglected to wire for reservations actually slept in cars that night.

These are only a few of the reports which indicate that the Kawarthas are even more popular than ever this summer.

Demand for Cottages

J. J. Dorris, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, told The Examiner there was a keener demand for cottages this season, and from all accounts reaching him the resorts were booming. There might be a few exceptions but on the whole the tourist business in this district shows a decided increase.

Peterborough merchants say that their sales are gradually passing the peak of last summer volume, and only the first half of July is gone.

Cousins from across the border are again chiefly from Ohio, New York, Michigan, Pennsylvania, with a few from Indiana, New Jersey, West Virginia, and New Hampshire.

Many of the cars passing through Peterborough are from other sections of the province, this branch of the tourist volume being another increase over last summer's figures.

Comber Clears Flood Out Of Its Cellars

COMBER, Ont., July 20—(CP)—Flood waters that have covered the main street of this Essex county village since Wednesday and overflowed into dozens of cellars, were removed during the week-end by local firemen who pumped the water to drain 500 feet away.

Flood waters in other low-lying county points were receding under a hot sun.

The pumping continued until last night, when the street was finally dry. Investigation showed the drains in the flooded section will have to be repaired to avoid a recurrence of the flood.

The street filled with water from curb to curb after heavy rain last week.

HAVE LIVED HERE FOR FIFTY YEARS OF MARRIED LIFE

Mr. And Mrs. A. W. Hinds Celebrate Golden Wedding Today

A JOYOUS AFFAIR

Two of the original wedding presents, a tea set, with ten of the twelve cups still intact, and two of a set of six silver teaspoons, are in use today, as Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hinds of 712 Elcoma Crescent receive their friends in celebration of their golden wedding day—fifty years of happy married life and during the whole of it their home has been in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Hinds, the bride of fifty years ago was formerly Jennie Teresa Shaw, were married at the Shaw home in Ops township, on July 20, 1887 by the Rev. C. W. Watch, the minister then in charge of the Omemee circuit. When last heard of by Mr. and Mrs. Hinds, Mr. Watch was retired and living in Toronto.

For over thirty-five years, Mr. Hinds was employed with the Peterborough Canoe Company.

Four of their family of six daughters are expecting to celebrate with their parents today, it being impossible for the others to attend. At noon the family gathered for dinner together, and from two to four this afternoon and again from seven to nine this evening, Mr. and Mrs. Hinds were "at home" to their friends.

The rooms are appropriately decorated with a profusion of golden yellow flowers and the table, from which tea is served, holds the two-tiered wedding cake, which is being cut by Mrs. Hinds.

Mr. and Mrs. Hinds' daughters are: Mrs. Blake Score of Kenmore, N.Y.; Mrs. Thos. McQuarrie of Peterborough; Mrs. George McQuarrie and Mrs. Walter Vass of Oshawa; Mrs. Arvid Rodine of Charlton, Ont. and Mrs. Stanley Anderson of Thompsonville, Conn. Mrs. Anderson, who is the youngest of the family, arrived in Peterborough on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hinds have twenty grandchildren.

23 Die Over Canada In Weekend Mishaps

TORONTO, July 20. — (C.P.). — A death list of 23 was counted yesterday as Canadians reviewed the week-end's accident toll in which automobile crashes accounted for the greatest loss of life. From the Maritimes to the foothills of Alberta came reports of highway smashes, interspersed with news of drownings and other fatalities.

Fine weather lured motorists to highways throughout the Dominion and 15 persons died in traffic accidents—eight of them in Ontario. Five persons were drowned while a mine explosion, a train and a fall each took one life.

The men, a child and a woman were killed and 10 other persons were injured near Regina when two automobiles crashed Saturday. In a second traffic accident in Saskatchewan, a 38-year-old woman was killed when a truck overturned.

LIONS DONATE $600 TO FINANCE LOCAL BOYS' BAND

Service Club Decides To Sponsor School Organization Recently Formed

PRACTICES HELD

Since they were organized almost a year ago members of Peterborough Lions Club have been seeking a form of service work activity. They have now found it.

Following a meeting of the club executive last night, President Fred Cripps announced that the Lions Club is to sponsor the boy's band recently formed by J. Andrew Wiggins, secretary of the Canadian Bandmasters' Association with permission of the local Board of Education.

The band originally organized in connection with Prince of Wales' School will be known as "Peterborough Lions Club Boy's Band". The Lions will finance the band, providing the sum of $600 for instruments and other items in connection with organization.

Some of the proceeds from the Motorcycle Meet to be staged at Exhibition Grounds on the Civic holiday under sponsorship of the club, are to be used for the club's service work objective.

According to Mr. Wiggins the band of eighteen instruments is to be under the instruction of Bandmaster William Stuart. Already weekly practices are being held, but the work of organization has not yet been completed.

Mr. Wiggins maintains that music is one of the greatest cultural elements in education and for that reason, he states, a band or orchestra in every school is the goal of the Canadian Bandmasters' Association.

Commending the Lions Club for their support of the band, Mr. Wiggins said that while other service clubs are doing a splendid work by providing summer camps for underprivileged children, the Lions would be providing boys with something of equal benefit, by giving them a healthful and wholesome means of self-expression.

"For self-discipline", Mr. Wiggins believed, "there is no greater force in the world than music. The school band for instance, is one of the strictest schools of discipline a boy or girl can go through", he said.

TRAFFIC LIGHTS AT PARK STREET

New Signals Urged By Ald. Juby Are Now In Operation

Traffic lights at the corner of Park and Charlotte streets, which Alderman Juby has been advocating for several years, were turned on Monday night. Alderman Wilson, chairman of the fire, water and light committee, told The Examiner today he observed their operation last night, and noticed that motorists conformed to the signals. The public is reminded that the lights have been installed. Ald. Glover said a minor accident occurred at the corner this morning, a truck and car colliding with no serious damage, apparently one of the drivers had not seen the light against him.

His Wife Cashes On Race Tickets

One of Postmaster Lacheur's men was still lamenting this morning the aftermath of a pleasant May afternoon spent unwisely at the Woodbine race track. "I went with a Port Perry friend; didn't know much about it, except that I didn't cash a ticket. I kept them as souvenirs, and showed them to my wife—thought I'd take her into my confidence. She was greatly taken with them, and put them in her purse. Since then, whenever she wants anything extra, that is, beyond the ordinary budgeting, she drags out the tickets and spreads them like cards with something like this: "If you have fourteen dollars to squander at the Woodbine, surely you have a mere trifle like eight dollars for your wife's sport shoes." It may be eighteen dollars for a dress. What can I do. She's got me lashed to the mast; and at that she doesn't know it all, because I split a combination ticket with my friend. When someone raises that old question, "Should a man tell his wife?" I know what my answer and advice would be."

Dream Time For Quints Entertaining Their Public

Entertaining their ever-growing public which just now, with the tourist season at its height means a considerable army of visitors each day, is a wearying business at times for the famous Five of Callander, the Dionne Quintuplets. Like all good actresses they must have lots of sleep and a mid-day nap is part of their routine. At LEFT little Yvonne is spreading her rug, but it seems that Marie is the one who really gets the "shut-eye." LIKED MR. KING'S ADDRESS

"Did you hear the Prime Minister's radio speech last night?" was J. J. Duffus' greeting this morning. "Mr. King's appeal to goodwill and understanding as the solvent of the problems among nations and within nations impressed me as excellent and timely counsel, and his reference to the position of Canada among the nations was marked by a fine sense of reserve and also of appreciation of the responsibility of all people in this age of great transition."

BRITAIN RAPIDLY BUILDS AIR FORCE MATCH ANYTHING

Best Craft Of Late War Just "Crates" Beside Speedy Bombers, Fighters Of Today

MANY SECRET TYPES

By Edwin S. Johnson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, July 20.—(CP)—Great Britain, for generations dependent on naval might for the defence of her shores and protection of the Empire's trade lanes, is emerging from the present phase of her gigantic re-armament program with another powerful protective arm — an air force comparing favorably with that of any other power in the world.

Established aviation firms and "shadow" factories throughout the United Kingdom have been working overtime since the defensive program was launched, turning out aircraft of every type, accessories and equipment. Mass production in the ordinary sense of the term cannot be attained in modern airplane production, as the rapid progress of the art defies standardization. Methods, however, have been devised making rapid quantity production possible with the result output is climbing day by day.

During the war Great Britain was in the van of aircraft construction, performance and research. But tremendous strides have been made in the past 20 years. Today, some of the craft that performed so efficiently during the war are classified as "crates" compared with the latest models.

One expert has said that to liken the service plane of the last war to the modern military craft would be tantamount to comparing the present-day cruiser to the wooden man-of-war in the battles of more than 100 years ago.

Sample Of Her Strength

Only a few weeks ago Britain paraded a portion of her air might before thousands of spectators at Hendon Airdrome. Machines of every size and type were put through daring evolutions, inverted flying in close formation, mass parachute descents, mock air duelling and bombing by means of latest devices.

The supreme moment of the pageant, however, was the appearance of the largest formation ever assembled in the United Kingdom—250 airplanes which spread over half a square mile of sky, filling the air with the thunder of 200,000 horsepower.

The spectators had seen enough to realize that Britain was a real power in the air and ready for any eventualities. But what they saw in action was only a foretaste of what they may be shown in a year or so, for in a small enclosure on the field, guarded by aircraftsmen with fixed bayonets, were a few of the latest air force wonder craft, examination of which at close range was denied to all except a chosen few.

The air ministry, however, has lifted partially the veil of secrecy concerning the performances and armaments of these machines. Two are medium bombers, the Fairy Battle and the Bristol Blenhim, and two others, heavy bombers, the Handley Page Harrow and the Armstrong Whitworth Whitley.

They are the most advanced military types yet put into production and would form the spearhead of any large-scale bombing attack the Royal Air Force might be called upon to make.

The factories are busy turning out lighter craft whose performance, however, remains a closely-guarded secret.

The expansion program of the air arm has compelled the taxpayer to dig deeper into his pockets, but he has generally accepted the burden philosophically.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, July 21

Judging by the lunar transits this may be a day of difficulties, frustrations and impediments. It is possible that such a trying, disappointing situation may be due to personal illness, depression or morbidities or to a sorrow or bereavement. It may be hard to accomplish things, therefore it might be well to postpone any constructive effort and be prepared to meet circumstances with patience, resignation and fortitude.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which it may be difficult to accomplish much out of the routine channels. Impediments, delays, disappointments and sorrow may account for a depressed physical and mental condition, but fortitude, courage and philosophy should be called upon to bridge over afflicting circumstances, which are but transitory.

A child born on this day may be deep, studious, serious, aloof and introspective, caring for the hidden and profound of nature and science rather than human excitements. The contemplative life contributes to its growth and satisfaction.

Robert Sneigrove Injured As Automobile Mounts Curb And Strikes Him

DODGING ANOTHER CAR

Robert Sneigrove, barber, residing at 10 Argyle Street, was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital on Monday evening suffering from a fractured right ankle and injuries to his right hip and knee, as a result of being knocked down by a motor car, that mounted the curb at the intersection of Water and London Streets. He was attended by Dr. J. M. O'Brien.

According to police report, Donald O'Connor, 606 Water Street, who was driving north swerved his car to get around the rear of another automobile that was being driven in an easterly direction across the intersection, when his car mounted the sidewalk and struck Mr. Sneigrove. The other car involved was stated to have been driven by Mrs. William Cornell, 96 Dublin Street.

QUEBEC WILL BAN NEWSPRINT MILLS

Hope To Keep Industry On Stable Basis By Allowing No New Ventures

MONTREAL, July 20 (CP).—To maintain Quebec's newsprint industry on a stable and secure basis, the Union Nationale Government will not permit opening of new newsprint mills in the province.

Premier Duplessis made that government policy clear in an interview here yesterday and also announced a ban on exportation of wood cut on Crown land in Quebec.

Both are "safeguard" measures, the Premier said. Construction of new mills "might stimulate prosperity in the industry for a year or two but then would come another crash in the economic foundation which would blast a chasm difficult to fill."

"The newsprint industry, pulp manufacturing and other allied industries, should be on a basis of security and stability," continued the premier, "and business-men should realize that it is to protect them against themselves by preventing repetition of the error of the past that we take this stand."

Keeping Pulp at Home.

The government had been requested to permit the export of pulpwood. Premier Duplessis said. But export of wood cut on Crown land was being prohibited in order that natural resources might be developed to give Quebec's own people the main benefit.

He explained the new policy as aimed also against over-production. "The newsprint industry," said the government head, "suffered severely from the crisis of over-production, because, first, there had been over-capitalization, and, second, there had been over-construction."

The ban on new newsprint mills did not extend to mills already built but now idle. Actually the government was working to bring idle plants into operation once more.

HOW TO LEARN TO SWIM.

A Course of Lessons Specially Arranged By Gordon Minty, Swimming Director of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A.

CLIP OUT AND SAVE.

LESSON ELEVEN

Holds And Releases

There are several different holds in which a drowning person might clutch a rescuer and every swimmer would be wise in learning how to break them by practicing with a companion swimmer. The confidence gained by practice will make you better prepared for the emergency and will lessen the risk you are taking in attempting a rescue.

If the subject should grip both of your wrists, stretch your arms overhead and snap the arms down close together and outward at the waist, bringing the weight and strength against the thumbs of the subject, who then must release the hold. Turn the subject about quickly and proceed as in the rear approach.

Should the subject grasp one wrist with both hands, reach across with your free arm, taking a firm grip on his far wrist and raise the leg on the same side as the free arm placing the foot directly forward on the subject's shoulder. By pushing on the shoulder and pulling on the wrist you will break the hold and also turn the subject about ready for towing.

If the subject clasps you closely about the neck with arms, having his cheek against your right cheek, raise your right hand and place it against his right cheek. With the left hand grasp the subject's right elbow and, lifting on this and pushing with your right arm against his face, you will break the hold, turning him about into the towing position. If opposition is offered, press the left thumb into the nerve spot on the subject's neck. There is a nerve spot just above the elbow which also comes in handy in breaking this hold. If the subject grasps you on the other side reverse the directions.

CHARGE MADE BY ORGANIZER MARKS RALLY

Declares American Officials Of Plants Have Been Exploiting Workers

AID FROM OSHAWA

Gathering At Market Square Followed By Weiner Roast

Charges that certain officials in the Dominion Woollens and Worsters plants here have been extorting money from workers were levelled by United Textile Workers organizer Alexander Welch at a strike rally in the Market Square last night.

The complaint was made in the course of an attack on the Globe and Mail for its strike attitude, and its reference to strike leaders as foreign agitators.

"If the Globe and Mail is really interested in the causes of the strike and fair-minded in its view, why do they not send a special man down to investigate the charges that officials of the Dominion Woollens, American citizens, have been extorting money from employees?" he demanded. "If the employees did not pay these moneys, they would have been fired, and we can prove these charges. Such men as these are the Globes 'foreign agitators.'"

The rally on the Square was the wind-up of a parade of 300 men and women strikers of both the Auburn and Bonner-Worth plants down through the city from Inverlea Park. A pipe band of union men led the procession between long lines of citizens gathered on the sidewalk edges for the spectacle.

Organizer Welch declared that since the launching of the strikers' appeal for general support of Peterborough citizens, demonstration of the support obtained has been made in deed as well as word.

He referred to Alderman G. N. Gordon, who had befriended the strike cause, as "a symbol of the loyalty to our cause of all the citizens of Peterborough." The reply by Managing Director Barrett to Gordon's charges against the company, published on Monday, was as puerile as the company's claim to have been losing $173,000 a year in its operations, Welch declared.

The entire Globe and Mail policy can be refuted in Peterborough, Welch said in his bitter attack on the morning paper. "Why does not the Globe and Mail investigate and ask, as every honest citizen does, how are the workers in the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds going to live on wages ranging from 14 to 26 cents an hour?" he asked, "It is time Peterborough people looked around to see who are their enemies."

Bill Walker, one of a small group of United Automobile Workers of Oshawa Local 222 in the parade, announced that financial assistance is being sent to Bonner-Worth and Auburn workers by the Oshawa workers. A cheque out of the Local fund and from a special collection made this week will be forwarded to-day, he said.

Pat Murphy, another Oshawa delegate, deplored the wage scale of the Dominion Woollens plants. No girls employed at the General Motors plant in Oshawa is being paid less then 57 cents an hour and the rate ranges as high as 70 cents, he said. "The boss no longer tells the auto workers to step on it," he decared.

Mrs. William Harmer, president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Oshawa U.A.W.A. Local, told the crowd the wives of the Oshawa workers played a big part in the General Motors strike. "We women stood behind our husbands," she declared. "We wouldn't let them go back to work. You, too, are asking for the right to live decently. Don't let them turn you one little bit. You are Canadian citizens, not peasants."

The rally was followed by a large weiner roast in Nicholls Oval. Several hundred hot dogs were provided by Canada Packers.

Peterborough Tennis Players Beaten In Belleville Matches

Thirteen Games On Schedule Well Contested In Inter-Club Series

RETURN VISIT IN AUGUST.

The Peterborough Tennis Club, represented by sixteen players, travelled to Belleville over the week-end and were guests of the Bay of Quinte Club. Thirteen matches were on the schedule of play and, when all were completed, the home team led with seven wins out of the thirteen matches played.

The Peterborough executive has arranged several matches with outside clubs and the visit to Belleville was the first of such tournaments this summer. The Belleville players will return the visit on August 7th, when the locals promise to reverse the decision. Other matches definitely arranged are,—home and home games with the C.N.R. Club of Toronto (Civic Holiday week-end in Peterborough; August 21st in Toronto) and also home and home games with Campbellford. Besides these games, for which teams are picked from the entire club, the club has three teams in the Kawartha League which plays each Saturday.

Evenly Matched

Both Peterborough and Belleville seemed very evenly matched and practically every one of the thirteen matches were close, hard fought struggles.

Two ladies singles were played with Miss Vi Davidson, ladies' single champion, defeating Miss Marion McLean in straight sets 7-5, 6-2. Miss Anna MacKenzie wasn't quite so fortunate in her match and lost in three sets to Miss Jean Catcher 1-6, 6-4, 3-6.

In the five men's singles, Max Cotton, who has held the local city title for the past four years, and Bill McPherson were the only winners for the Peterborough club. Cotton defeated Art Cole 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 and McPherson won from D. McLean in straight sets 6-3, 6-4.

Howie Hammell lost a long match to F. Martin 2-6, 6-2, 5-7; Doug McPherson fell before Bud Odell 3-6, 4-6 and Andy Rutter had a lengthy battle with Murray Mitchell before losing out 10-8, 1-6, 8-10.

Break Even

The locals broke even in the six doubles played, with Misses Helen Cole and Pat McClellan staging a marathon battle with the Misses E. Jack and M. McLean to finally win out 6-8, 7-5, 7-5. Misses Joan Ottewell and Doris Glover lost the other ladies' doubles to Misses Jean Catcher and Kay Henley 4-6, 1-6.

In the men's doubles Belleville gave the "Petes" plenty of opposition but the locals managed to cop two of the four matches. Jack Kirkwood and Harry Marsh dropped the first set of their match to G. Edwards and S. Evans 9-11 but came back strongly in the next two to win 6-4, 6-4. Howie Macdonald and Jack Mark got off on the wrong foot against Howard Kerr and G. Scott losing the opening set 5-7 but taking the next two by 7-5, 6-2 scores. Bill McPherson and Jack Cowling found Bud Odell and Art Cole a bit too hard for them and lost out in a long three set match 5-7, 6-4, 6-4. Andy Rutter and Harry Marsh lost to D. MacLean and M. Mitchell in two long overtime sets by 5-7, 10-12 scores.

Final score—Peterborough Club 6, Belleville 7.

"RED" RUFFING

It's a good thing for the Yankees that Charles Herbert (Red) Ruffing, ace right-hander, didn't stick to his $17,500 salary demand in that much-discussed, dragged-out holdout case. For if he had, the Yankees probably wouldn't be in first place now.

It was Charley who, without benefit of spring training, stepped into the breach when the Yanks were in the dumps, and pitched enough victories to give them the winning spirit. And Charley now is helping nobly to keep the Yanks up there.

The big red-headed slabster, who spent six years with the Boston Red Sox before being traded to New York in 1930, began his pitching career with a coal mine team. At the time, Charley was employed as a "sit-downer" on the lid of an intake box where fresh air is tested in mine galleries.

His pitching feats with the miners spread and he was signed with Danville. That was in 1923. With the Three-Eye league club he won 12 games and the Boston Red Sox purchased him for $4,000. One season more of experience with Dover of the East Shore league and Charley was back with the Sox. He stayed until 1930, pitching mostly as a relief man and generally losing more games than he won.

In his first season with the Yanks, Charley won 15 while losing eight. From then on he was a winning hurler. Charley reached the 20-games-won class last season for the first time.

Charley is 43 years old, stands two inches over six feet, and weighs 210 pounds. He is married and lives in Chicago. He has been in two world series with the Yanks.

London Race Track Opens On Wednesday

LONDON, July 20—(CP)—Owners were moving their thoroughbreds out of Fort Erie to-day following the closing races of the 14-day meet at Fort Erie race track yesterday. Only Ontario track to open immediately is Queen's Park, London, where races will start Wednesday.

Pat Remillard guided the chestnut mare into a two-length lead at the start of the six-furlong sprint and held it past every post. Worthy Duke moved into second position in the home stretch ahead of Spring Moon.

Last race of the meet produced one of the longest prices on Prince Reno, a 32 to 1 outsider. Jockey McDougall brought Prince Reno in ahead of Bethankful, Sweet Edwin and a field of nine other horses.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

IN STAGING another one of those popular twilight doubles tournaments, our bowling club has reached heights that were never dreamed of at the beginning of the season. At 7 o'clock the entry list was closed, but entries were still coming in and had to be refused; the popularity of these events has been thoroughly established. This is the third tournament of its kind this year, and for the third time we have had a capacity entry. No one now can dispute the idea that these tourneys are not what the boys want; we, for one, hope that the greens committee will continue with these series until the end of the season, for after all if it's what the rank and file want, why not give it to them, they are the backbone of the club.

WINNERS:

1—M. Levihe and D. Smith; kit bags.
2—Dr. Lawrence and R. Lawrence, kit bags.
3—E. Wall and H. Beatty, traveling bags.
4—E. Smith and C. Brown, traveling bags.
5—O. McGill and G. Snowden, alarm clocks.
6—Dr. A. T. Barr and C. Mowry, alarm clocks.

AT COBOURG on Monday night, in the Central Ontario championships for doubles and singles, our boys did not fare very good. The singles entries, G. Gimblett and J. T. Braund, each won one game and lost two and the pairs of J. Fitzpatrick and H. Freeman, R. Downey and N. Routley each won two and lost one. The finals for the rinks championship will be held at Cannington sometime late in August.

FRED SKITCH of Cobourg, defeating Keith Goodman of Oshawa, won the singles competition last night in the district playdowns of the Central Ontario Lawn Bowling Association. The doubles competition was won by W. Peacock and H. Batty of Port Hope, who defeated E. A. Hiscock and J. McTague of Cobourg. Bowlers took part from Cannington, Lindsay, Peterborough, Port Hope and Cobourg.

Breaks All Records To Win Title

Pictured in action here is Melvin 'Chick' Harbert, 22-year-old amateur of Battle Creek, Mich., who wrote a new page in golf history by shattering all known world competitive course records in shooting 268 for 72 holes to win the Michigan Open Golf Championship. On the opening day of the tourney Harbert stunned rivals and the gallery by shooting rounds of 63 and 64. The following day he finished up with rounds of 67 and 74, making his total 20 under par and winning the crown by 18 strokes. His score included 24 birdies; one eagle and 41 pars.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

A JUNIOR BASEBALL GAME is billed for tomorrow e'en in the park called Riverside. It is between Bowmanville and Rotarians of the Lakeshore Junior Ball Loop, the final scheduled fixture for here before the playoffs. Herb Ralph's lads have cinched a berth already with five straight wins, but Bowmanville is trailing Cobourg and needs this victory here tomorrow in the p.m. like the farmer needs a wife. They will be definitely in the dog-house if the Rotary crew cop the nod, and it ought to be a tidy tilt on that account. Midweek fans saw a good scrap here a week ago betwixt Rotary and Cobourg, and they can bank on another this time. The Ralph lads have got over their sloppy style and are playing bangup ball these days.

ST. KITT'S SCRIBE screwily scribbles: "That famous line of Deseronto pucksters with Belleville is broken up for all time. Honey Tompkins moves to Peterborough Aug. 1st to join Buster Whitton, at Lindsay, and play for the Liftlockers, while Bert Jackson was killed by a falling wall on Wednesday. Joe St. Louis is playing ball at Kingston. Tompkins is the making of a natural athlete. He never played lacrosse till this year but showed such aptitude that Peterborough Auburns stepped in and beat out Trenton for the young comer. Ice scouts claim he is another Vic Ripley or Ken Doraty."

• • • • • • •

THE ST. KITTSY WRITER no doubt means well but he is balled up like a kitten on a cold evening. The puck line was never really famous, and it did not include St. Louis—who is playing for Napanee, not Kingston. Buster Whitton is not in Lindsay but at Lakefield. Tompkins looks like a good young puck-chaser—though hardly another Ripley or Doraty—else the Leafs would have him ere now. Auburns did not go after him for his lacrosse, since he is not that good and we have all kinds of good lacrossers here this year; but he might be obtained for hockey here yet. Aside from these points, the St. Catharines' item is more or less correct.

• • • • • • •

HARRY MOORE of Trenton, C.O.L.A. prexy, writes a bit in his newspaper about fights at lacrosse games. He mentions the Vitarelli-Partridge go of a week or so back and states that fans swarmed out but just to get a good look. They weren't mixing it any. Moore adds that athletes can generally take care of themselves and want no interference or help from fans. He thinks it a good idea for lacrossers to pop a few fans on the nose if they climb the boards—and we sort of agree with him. No one fan has the nerve to tackle an athlete but a gang of 'em sometimes act very brave when outnumbering the players by maybe 20 to one.

JIM LEHANE HAS received word that the Orillia Terriers have been granted permission by the O.A.L.A. to play an exhibition tilt with our Auburns here on July 27th—next Tuesday eve. So fans can start saving their dough right now for this big event—ye Terriers being Dominion senior champs the last three years. Prices will be 35 cents for adults and 15 cents for children, Orillia demanding a healthy slice for expenses. The O.A.L.A. will send down a competent referee from Toronto. Auburns hold a workout at seven tonight and all should attend. They play Belleville in a loop fixture here this Friday. The Belleville squad, minus Gould, Partridge and Smart—who may be on strike or something—dropped a 12-7 decision a few nights ago to Oshawa. Didn't hear yet how last night's two games ended.

IN THE GALS' SOFTBALL last e'en, Westclox were nosed out by a 12-11 score in Keene and Omemee took a 10-2 nod over C.G.E. in Omemee. Dope on both tussles is in elsewhere and also the second-half standing. Tonight at the Bowl, C.G.E. and Westclox clash in an important scrap, while Omemee and Cobourg play here tomorrow. At Central last p.m., the luckless Barons dropped a 5-3 verdict to Motorists in a classy clash. Young Petes play the Barons this eve at Central while tomorrow sees Motorists and Barons in a postponed affair here and Westclox going to Omemee. Standing is in tonight. A lot of Southend Softball Loop dope is listed somewhere this e'en, also.

SHIFTED AROUND from spot to spot with the Petes, Cy Whatley figures he's been so much in the dog-house that it is only natural that a dog bit him on the nose the other day! It took six stitches to close the cut but will require about six weeks to close the incident around the C.O.B.L. as Cy takes a panning from teammates and rivals. Some of the boys feel that it would be more like news if Whatley had bitten the dog. Anyway, he is good-natured about it—Cy, we mean, and not the hound—and is going around with a bandage over his beak, taking it all in good part. But the next dog that comes too close to friend Cy is liable to find a two-base blow parked on its anatomy where it will do the most good!

LOOKING OVER THE box score of the Ponies' 7-2 loss in Oshawa last Saturday, we see where Jubenville helped himself to three hits, while May, Hurst, Mathews and Rowden all got two each. Jubenville and Mathews are belting the ball around the .400 mark now. This Tony Paczkowski was brought in especially to beat Oshawa but is being hammered hard by the GM-men in recent games. Williams is on the wane, it seems also. Biddie appears to have Kingston's number and it is a zero—at least so far. However, watch those Daley dudes when the chips are all spread out and it is playoff time. Playoff time is payoff time generally for that outfit. Probably the Petes will get Jamieson tomorrow, and this Tony chap will twirl here Saturday.

HITHER AND YAWN: The Petes have a practise tonight over at Riverside—everyone should be on deck....Junior ball game here tomorrow starts at 6.15 o'clock....Oshawa plays in Napanee tomorrow ....The Motor City lacrossers play in Norwood this Friday in the gloaming.... Kingston scribe says Hap Day told him he would be wearing another N.H.L. sweater this winter—not the Leafs....And that Clancy will play again but maybe not for Toronto, and Primeau will stage a comeback....Revised Southend Loop softball schedule is listed this evening....Lindsay writer thinks it'll take a good senior lacrosse team to stop the Auburns—well, watch Orillia Terriers.... After tomorrow, the Petes will have completed two-thirds of their C.O.B.L. schedule....Softball struggles in both local loops have been improving right along....Auburn Club has obtained two dozen juvenile lacrosse sticks at a special club rate and can sell 'em for 50 cents apiece; kids wanting 'em can buy these sticks tonight at the Auburns' practise....Nothing else in the noggin for the nonce.

LAST PLACE TIE GIRLS' SOFTBALL

Omemee Takes 10-2 Victory Over C.G.E. On Village Grounds

Omemee	3	1	2

Omemee took a 10-2 win over C.G.E. in the village Monday night to go into a tie with Westclox—who were losing in Keene—for fourth place in the second-half standing. It was a good game with the O's having perfect fielding behind good twirling and timely bingling to gain the nod.

M. Hannah fanned seven C.G.E. batters and walked none as she scattered 11 hits. A. DeCarlo started on the losers mound but gave way to M. McCarthy in the eighth. E. Bigelow got a triple and two singles and M. Fisher three singles for the winners; while B. Martin led C.G.E. with four singles as E. Graham hit a triple and single. I. Sisson, R. McQuade and E. Graham went good in the field and each side had a double play. The teams:

Bowmanville Here For Ball Contest

Junior Lakeshore Baseball League standing to date:

Team	P.	W.	L.
Rotarians	5	5	0
Cobourg	7	3	4
Bowmanville	6	1	5

Bowmanville and the local juniors tangle here tomorrow (Wednesday) evening in Riverside Park in a loop fixture. It is the final home scheduled game for the young Petes and is a do-or-die attempt on the part of Bowmanville to gain a playoff berth. A loss will about eliminate them, but a win will keep them in the running against Cobourg.

Manager Herb Ralph expects to start Gee Clark on the local mound and followers of the junior ball team have been anxious to see him pitch. He has been doing all his twirling away from home so far and going great. The young Rotary squad is beginning to hit its real form as the schedule winds up and the team should be in first-rate form for the playoffs and—if they win—the O.B.A.A. playdowns which follow. This game ought to be good and deserves a good crowd of fans.

CLERKS DEFEATED IN SECOND GAME

Tanners Get Their Runs In Late Frames For 13-9 Victory

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, July 20.—The Clerks, apparently in another losing streak, dropped their second straight game to the Tanners, 13 to 9, last night (Monday).

The Clerks scored three in the first innings on two singles, a fielder's choice, and Whitred's double. They scored two in the third on two singles and an error, and three more in the fourth on a hit and three errors. They scored their final run in the seventh on a single and Stevenson's triple.

The Tanners opened their scoring in the second, when they scored two on two errors and Nels. Scriver's double. They scored one in the fourth when Kelly doubled, went to third on an overthrow, and scored on a passed ball. They added three in the fifth on a hit, a fielder's choice and two errors, and three more in the sixth on a walk and three errors. Two hits scored another in the seventh, and the Tanners wound up the scoring in the eighth with three more on a walk and doubles by T. Scriver, Thompson and G. Scriver.

Hahn, pitching for Tanners, limited the Clerks to eight hits, struck out five and passed none; his good control being a standout of the game. G. Gibson allowed the same number of hits, struck out five and walked two. His teammates proved his downfall when they committed eighth costly errors. The teams:

Leafs Jump On Vito Tamulis To Defeat Newark Bears 6-3

Royals Tighten Grip on Second Place With Double Triumph Over Chiefs

GIANTS TOPPLE BISONS

TORONTO, July 20 (CP).—Rochester Redwings are so far behind Newark Bears it appears they are in another circuit, but the manner in which the Wings have been winning here lately would do credit, even to the International League leaders.

Although it would take little short of a miracle to carry them to the top (they trail by 26 games), the Wings are in striking distance of the play-off positions, being only 2½ games back of fourth place Toronto Leafs.

The spurt that has been largely responsible for their threatening position started on July 9. Since then they have played 14 games, 10 of which have been chalked up in the victory column.

Frank Morehouse provided the fireworks that gave Walker the mound decision over Harry Matuzak. With the score tied, Morehouse drove out a 365-foot home run in the last half of the fifth. Thereafter Walker allowed only one more single. The Orioles got only four hits altogether.

Diminutive Vito Tamulis was no puzzle to Toronto Maple Leafs as they whipped Bears 6-3. Leafs jumped on Tamulis for five runs in the first three innings and then coasted to victory.

A three-run cluster in the third proved enough to give the lowly Jersey City Giants a 3-2 triumph over Buffalo Bisons. Montreal Royals tightened their grip on second place with a double triumph over the third-place Syracuse Chiefs. After coming from behind to win 6-4 in the seven-inning twilight affair, they came through with a 5-4 triumph in the second.

Bowmanville Beats Cobourg Team 7-2

COBOURG, July 20—(CP)—In a Lakeshore Intermediate baseball game here last night Bowmanville defeated Cobourg 7 to 2. Mickey McMahon pitched for the locals and struck out eight. Cobourg had men on the bases in every inning, but were unable to hit in the pinches. Dave Osborne was on the mound for the visitors and fanned seven.

"Dazzy" Vance, Brooklyn speed ball ace, established a 20th century major league strikeout record by fanning 17 St. Louis Cardinal players in a 10-inning game, 12 years ago today. The previous mark of 16 strikeouts in one game was held jointly by Jim Galde of St. Louis Browns (1904) and Rube Waddell (1908). Dizzy Dean, pitching for St. Louis Cards, equalled the 17 strikeout mark in 1933 and young Bob Feller of Cleveland Indians, also equalled it last year.

VETERAN CRICKET PLAYER RECEIVES FRIENDLY TRIBUTE

R. N. Stuart Guest Of Honor At Nicholls Oval Gathering On Saturday

PRESENTATION MADE

The cricket match at the Oval on Saturday between the two local clubs—Peterborough and Whitaker's—presented an obvious opportunity for the cricketers of the city to give tangible recognition of the services rendered to the game by their veteran treasurer, R. N. Stuart, who had celebrated his 75th birthday on the previous Sunday.

During the interval, His Worship Mayor G. A. Macdonald, after a short and happily-phrased speech, asked Mr. Stuart to accept a silver-mounted cane. Mr. Gordon Monkman, president of the Whitaker club, was called upon to present a framed photo of the veteran cricketer in uniform. On behalf of the members of both teams, J. Lawrence, vice-captain of the P.C.C., added a few words of appreciation, and F. Jefferson, acting captain of Whitaker's, thanked the Mayor for his attendance.

Letter From President.

Col. C. H. Ackerman, the president of the Peterborough club, was unable to be present, but sent a letter which unfortunately arrived too late to be read at the ceremony. He wrote: "I am delighted to know that at a cricket match between two Peterborough teams recognition is to be made to our good old patriarch of cricket in Peterborough, R. H. Stuart. I would like you, on my behalf and in my capacity, to say in the presence of the Peterborough Cricket Club that it is my opinion Mr. Stuart has contributed much towards the citizens of Peterborough in the passing across from the pre-war days to the present—a most trying time—and helping to deliver to this new generation one of the most interesting and wholesome forms of recreation that has made this British Empire so substantial, and, further, that the oncoming generation whose privilege it has been to come in contact with him, on the field and off, have through that contact, a better conception of their responsibilities and a more complete knowledge of the meaning of that word which has always meant so much to the Anglo-Saxon race — sportsmanship."

Johnson Helps St. Louis Cards Gain 3-2 Verdict Over Giants

Chicago Cubs Increase Lead By Blanking Dodgers 9-0 In National Race

FIFTH FOR GOMEZ

NEW YORK, July 20.—It must be cheering news to Manager Frankie Frisch that Jerome (big toe) Dean is hastening to Boston to rejoin his fellow-St. Louis Cardinals and help put them back on the right or pennant-winning track.

For the Dizzy One, if he sticks to his principles and precedents of doing the expectedly unexpected, wouldn't surprise anyone by using his sore big toe as the spring-board to a new winning streak.

Dean hasn't pitched a National League game since July 4 and hasn't pitched at all since the all-star game in Washington. That was where he stuck his foot in the way of a line drive and wound up limping to the sidelines.

Pilot Frisch, sorely pressed for pitching talent, has missed the Dean right-arm no end. But, if he hasn't missed it even more, it's due to a recent discovery by the whip-cracker of the Gas House Gang.

Cards Defeat Giants 3-2

The discovery goes by the name of Silas Kenneth Johnson, on the Cards' current road trip, that discovery won four games, his latest a 3-2 defeat of the Giants yesterday, while the Redbirds have lost three.

Johnson who up to then had appeared in sixteen games for a record of one won and three lost, went in against the Pirates in the seventh inning last Monday and came out a winner. He started against the Phils in the opener of a double-header Friday, went the route to win again, and came back in the ninth frame of the night-cap to win his third in a row.

Yesterday he topped it all off by turning back the Giants on six hits, to save the Cards from a shut-out in the four-game series and drop the Terrymen to a full game behind the Cubs, who blanked Brooklyn Dodgers, 9-0.

Cubs Keep Out Front

With Tex Carleton turning in a six-hit effort against the Dodgers to keep the Cubs out front, and the Pirates nosing out the Phillies 6-5, with a run in the ninth, the Cards at least managed to keep up with the parade until Dean's return to action.

Meanwhile, the Yanks carried on their American League slaughter. Where Sophmore Joe Dimaggio was the batting star on Sunday, Freshman Tom Henrich took up the burden against the Indians. His homer, double and single furnished four runs in the 8-5 triumph, 13th of the year for Lefty Gomez.

The White Sox kept their place, six games behind the Yanks, by edging out the Red Sox, 6-4, and the Tigers mauled the Senators for an 8-4 triumph.

The Reds and Bees in the National and Athletics and Browns in the American League had open dates.

GOLF PROS PLAN WARM RECEPTION FOR 1937 RAIDS

Flushed With Recent Successes Canadians Set To Make Worthy Effort

SEPTEMBER TOURNEY

TORONTO, July 20 (CP)—They have no "circuit" over which to roam and from which to pluck a dollar, but Canadian professional golfers are on the warpath in rather a big way this summer, brushing up the artillery for an international match here in September against the United States.

There can't be any doubt that the pros are making headway after Jules Huot's victory in the General Brock open tournament with a 72-hole total of 280. The little Frenchman from Kent, Quebec, was chased to the wire by Bobby Alston of Ottawa with 285, Bob Gray Jr. of Windsor, with 287 and Willie Lamb of Lambton, Toronto, with 289.

Scores like these haven't been common for Canadians. If the standard of scoring keeps on improving, the team sent here by the United States Professional Golfers' Association to meet a team selected by the Canadian P.G.A. will have its difficulties.

First of its kind between the two countries, the one-day match will be played Sept. 7 at St. Andrew's where the Canadian open will start the following day. It is modelled after the Ryder Cup matches between Great Britain and the U.S. The singles and five four-ball matches will be played all over the 18-hole route.

Five places on the Canadian team will be filled by players selected on their performances this year and in other years. The remaining spots will go to the low five in the Canadian P.G.A. 72-hole championship at the Ottawa Hunt Club in the third week of August.

Huot, therefore, might be regarded as a certainty. Quebec's best golfer he won the Canadian P.G.A. title in 1934. His victory at Fonthill over such American aces as Lighthorse Harry Cooper, Ray Mangrum and Jimmy Thomson was a notable event.

Alston, the sensation Gray and the veteran Lamb, many times P.G.A. winner, will be after consideration for selection on their records. So will other low scorers in the General Brock, such as Lex Robson of Toronto, Stan Horne of Ottawa and Art Hulbert, Lou Cumming and Dick Borthwick of Toronto.

U.S. Has Strong Team.

The American team is expected to be changed little from that which defeated Britain in the recent Ryder Cup matches in England. It may even be strengthened since foreign-born players will be eligible. Thus United States could call on Cooper, Tommy Armour, Charles Lacey and others.

The best U.S. pros come annually to the Canadian open anyway and the team will likely be picked from Ralph Guldahl, Horton Smith, Sam Snead, Lawson Little, Jimmy Thomson, Ed. Dudley, Byron Nelson, Walter Hagen, Joe Kirkwood, Tony Manero, Denny Shute, Leo Diegel and Johnny Revolta.

The team match will be a great curtain-raiser for the championship in which Little will be the defender. The San Francisican former Britiah and U.S. amateur champion, scored a record-breaking victory last year over St. Andrew's with cards of 67, 66, 69 and 69 for a total of 271.

ULSTER QUALIFIES FOR SOCCER FINAL

Will Meet Frood Mines, N. Ontario Champions, In Eastern Series

TORONTO, July 20 (C.P.).—Having mastered Glen Yards of Montreal, Quebec soccer champions, in two straight games, Ulster United of Toronto to-day moved into the Eastern Canada finals of the Dominion Football Association championships. Their opponents are Frood Mines, Northern Ontario champions. The best-of-three series will open here on Thursday.

In a hectic battle last night that saw them fighting to the finish, Glen Yards took the short end of a 2-1 decision. Looking much better than in the first set-to on Saturday, when they lost 5-1, the Quebec titleholders carried the play to the Toronto team every minute and only poor command of the ball in front of the net proved their undoing.

Following their pace-setting tactics of Saturday, when they chalked up the first goal, Glen Yards rammed home the initial counter last night after 30 minutes of play when Larry Fitzpatrick took a pass from Jimmy Beech.

George Graham and Tommy Axe tied the score for Toronto two minutes later when they gave Sammy McNabney a perfect chance at goal. Though the Montreal squad did their best to break the deadlock during the rest of the first half, poor finishing at the goal mouth spoiled many fine chances.

The second half saw the Quebec team again carrying the play, but their method of attack gave Ulster their opportunity when, after 10 minutes, the Toronto men broke away and Hume booted in Graham's pass to put Toronto one up.

This setback caused the Montreal players to put up some of the best battling of the night. Fifteen minutes from the end of the game, they lost a great chance to know the score when Davison and Bob McNabney sandwiched Larry Fitzpatrick in the penalty area and Ford's penalty shot sailed high over the bar.

Full time found the Quebec champions in Ulster territory, still fruitlessly besieging the Toronto goal.

IN MEMORIAM

ASTA.—In loving memory of Pete Asta, who died July 20, 1939.

He is gone but, not forgotten,
And, as dawns another year
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.
—Ever remembered by his Mother and Family.

GOLF—FACTS NOT THEORIES
Alex Morrison

NUMBER 46

The big thing in golf is to duplicate the good shots. How can this be done? Obviously the job requires some comparison of swings, the swings used to hit the various shots.

Such a comparison runs to analysis, the much dreaded burden to most players. They feel that they should be able to make a successful swing without thinking, or worrying. Nine out of ten golfers do plenty of worrying particularly as they bring the club dow ntoward the ball.

All the grunting, lunging and superhuman effort to steer and at the same time push the club into the ball is caused by the wrong mental process in the downswing. The best proof of this is had in the example of a good shot and the feeling which goes with it. The player doesn't feel anything but smoothness about the downswing. The ball doesn't feel heavy on the club, the club seems to swing itself and every part of the body falls into the right position at exactly the right time.

In other words the downswing as a whole just happens—the player makes no conscious effort to direct it. Actually the motion is under subconscious control. This is the sort of control used by the expert.

The average player has his controls reversed. He gives little or no attention to his backswing and literally breaks his neck trying consciously to direct every part of his downswing.

Maple Leafs Take Southend Victory

Maple Leafs came from behind Monday night to nose out Cogs, 9-8, in a Southend Softball League fixture. It was a neat encounter with both sides hitting hard and fielding well. Cogs had an early lead from the offerings of Cavanagh, but Leafs came back strong behind Heffernan's fine relief hurling as they touched up Fleming regularly to tie the tilt in the ninth. Holden opened the tenth frame with a triple, and scored on a wild pitch. Kitchen and Holden went good defensively for the winners; while A. Heal, Downer and Jamieson stood out for the losers. The Cards and Rangers meet to-night at 6.45 in Brinton Field, while Wednesday sees Keene playing Cogs here. Lineups last night:

China Wants Peace But Not At Any Price

KULING, China, July 20 (C.P.)—Havas).—"Peace or war depends upon Japan—if we permit the loss of a single inch of territory we shall be guilty of an unpardonable crime against our nation," General Chiang Kai-Shek declared to-day.

Addressing a group of Chinese educational leaders at his summer headquarters here the Chinese Dictator said China's minimum program for settlement of the dispute in North China was:

1—The Lukouchiao incident should be solved without infringing upon the political or territorial integrity of China.

2—The political status of the Hopei-Chahar Council as fixed by Nanking should remain unchanged.

3—Local officials named by Nanking should not be removed.

4—The 29th Army should be permitted to remain at the positions it now occupies.

"That is the minimum program," Chiang declared. "We want peace, but not peace at any price."

Saskatchewan Men Write to Ontario For Farm Jobs

KITCHENER, Ont., July 20—(CP)—Not many years ago young men were trekking West in droves on "harvest excursions." But to-day there seems to be a different trend, and Western Canada farm youths are heading East to get work. Recently two Saskatchewan men wrote to Kitchener for farm jobs, and it is likely they will be accommodated somewhere in the district.

LOVE IS FOR TOMORROW

By VIRGINIA SCALLON

CHAPTER 37

"Better take your spoon out of that cup, you'll bruise your eyeball," the waitress interrupted Sandy's thoughts. With a vacant smile he acknowledge her friendly warning, and, gulping the remainder of his coffee swiftly walked out into the night.

The newspaper item which had disturbed him so seriously was obviously a publicity release sent out by the Warren Publishers, announcing the forthcoming presentation of an important new book, "to be illustrated by the firm's scintillating new find, Miss Marcia Madden." Further down the article was mention of a tea which Garrett Warren was giving some weeks later to honor their promising new artist.

So, Marcia was achieving her much-wanted success! Decidedly, this seemed an inauspicious time even to suggest marriage to a busy young illustrator; she probably would not be inclined to take him on any terms. Sandy thought despondently. Literally pocketing his new found determinations, he decided the wiser course in his lengthy siege of Marcia's heart was to wait a little longer. In all fairness he should give her an opportunity to enjoy her success before he asked her to choose between it and him, or to allow him to claim as much of her heart as he could hold.

"I seem to go from one extreme to the other," he mused ruefully. "First I won't have her on any terms than my own; and now I don't dare ask for her at all until she has had her surfeit of success. Maybe it's foolish, but I think it's the only fair thing to do."

The next day Sandy flung himself into his work with intentional abandon, deciding it was the best way to keep his mind occupied until the time he could go to Marcia. The girl, too, was engrossed in her work, marking time as far as any personal emotions were concerned. She exhausted all feelings against the interfering Paula and was conscious only of a desolate sense of loss that Sandy could be so easily taken from her.

"What makes women want to work? In an office, I mean?" It was Garrett putting a sincere question before Marcia. "I've often wondered why so many seem to prefer the dirty, tiring world of business to the pleasure of their own home, and friends—and family."

"Necessity sometimes. Sheer boredom, too, I guess," Marcia answered him absently. She had moved her easels down to a vacant room in his offices, for the press of work was demanding that she be continually available. She wore her perennial smock, now generously smeared with purples and reds, and she didn't look up as he spoke.

"I'm serious. I can't imagine how any woman would want to venture out in a world so viciously competitive and so thoughtless of personalities, unless it was vitally necessary. I realize some poor unfortunates have to work to eat. But I mean those who have husbands to support them."

"That must be just pure greed," Marcia admitted, putting down her palette. "Although I guess some women honestly figure they are economically more valuable in an office, hiring someone to do unaccustomed housework. Once they get used to working and having their own money, it's hard to change. Look at Ellen."

"Then look at you."

"But I haven't any husb—," Marcia bit her tongue for bringing the conversation around to this subject then changed it quickly. "Yes, look at me. I'm just one of the crazy individuals who has a love of work in her soul; I can't seem to tear myself away from it. I like it, I eat it! It's my life!" Then more softly she admitted, "It's all I have, I must love it."

Somewhat ashamed of her outburst, she picked up her brushes again and started to work, painting viciously and effectively with the wild colors that so suited her mood.

Garrett smiled to himself, gratified. At last he had discovered a more human emotion under the surface of the artist: she was about to admit that a woman's life was not complete without the satisfaction of love. He knew she had time for few other quests since she had started working with him, and had hopes that she might soon see him in the role he wanted to play: her husband.

"Have you seen the papers, Marcia?" he asked, in a more matter-of-fact tone. "There's a very fine tribute paid to you in this article," he said, and handed her the marked copy of the paper Sandy had read.

She scanned it hurriedly, then a broad smile settled on her face. "I'm really to have a chance at that new story you've been bragging about? Oh, Gary, I can hardly believe it. Do you think I can do it? What's it about?" She jumped up excitedly, and she tugged on Garrett's coat sleeve to hurry his answer.

"Unhand me," he told her, "then I'll tell you the good news. That is, if you think you can stand it?"

The telephone interrupted his remark, and Marcia disappointedly picked up the phone. "Yes, who is it?" she asked casually.

"It's Lona, my dear. I thought I'd catch you in Gary's office, you fraud. You seem to be camping there these days. How're you doing?" her voice came, facetious and fond, over the wires.

"Rushed, as usual," she answered in a business-like tone, not wanting to encourage Lona's personal suggestions.

"Strictly business, I suppose?" came the leasing reply, and Marcia blushed swiftly. Why did people, particularly Lona, always feel it essential that girl fall in love with her employer. According to her own experience, she'd found it almost never happened. Men required efficient machines to run their business affairs, not fluttering females to distract their thoughts. The "marrying kind" of man seldom employed this latter type.

Marcia swiftly brought the conversation to a climax by asking Lona why she had called and laughed as she heard the hurt tones on the wire. "Why, darling.: I just wanted to hear your artistic voice once again. How is Art, anyway? Oh, yes—and I wanted to ask you to a tremendous shebang I'm having this week-end."

"I'm so busy," Marcia protested, but the other cut her off.

"Nonsense, you're one of my favorite lions now and I've got to show you off to my friends. Incidentally, can you jump through hoops?"

The girl was inclined to refuse the invitation, but realizing how indebted she was to Lona, she changed her mind graciously. "All right, I'd really love to come. But I'm warning you, no exhibitions! I'm just coming down to have a nervous breakdown," and Marcia longed weary enough to carry out her threat.

If she could have seen him walking into the wide entrance of Wentzel's the most expensive and exclusive jeweler in town, she might have had cause to wonder.

KILLED BY RUNAWAY

BELLEVILLE, Ont., July 20—(CP)—William N. Redner, 64, resident one and one-half miles south of Rednerswille, Prince Edward county, was killed today when a team on a binder became frightened and ran away, knocking him down. Dr. R. A. Thompson of Wellington declared an inquest unnecessary. A widow and two daughters survive.

denly the thought of the book struck him, too.

"You're not by any chance thinking of putting me to work, are you?" he asked, disappointment creeping into his voice.

"Why no, not at all," Marcia disclaimed quickly, too quickly. But the man was so gratified by her assurance that he didn't notice her haste.

"Good, then I'll go."

They left the office together and strolled down the busy street congenially. Crowds of workers were pushing their way out of the tall buildings, obviously happy with the release from monotonous work.

"I'm rather glad to be leaving town, aren't you?" Marcia asked, recognizing a physical need for the wind-swept spaces by the sea.

"Glad to be leaving with you, Marcia," he replied pointedly. Then making definite arrangements about picking her up in the morning, he left her at the corner for an "important matter of business," he explained.

If she could have seen him walking into the wide entrance of Wentzel's the most expensive and exclusive jeweler in town, she might have had cause to wonder.

TWO FILM EXTRAS HELD IN MURDER

Probe Starts After Woman Attorney Dies After Drinking Party

LOS ANGELES, July 20—(AP).—An autopsy was ordered to-day on the body of Mrs. Dorothy May Garland, 31, former deputy city prosecutor, while police held two film extras in connection with her death.

Arrest of Miss Kay Tutwiler, 29, on suspicion of murder and detention of Luther Allen, 32, as a material witness resulted from a report by Mrs. Garland's physician.

The two women and Allen had participated in a drinking party, Dr. Starr asserted. Mrs. Garland died the next day, he said.

A brilliant law student at the University of Southern California, Mrs. Garland was appointed to the city prosecutor's office in 1929, becoming head of the Domestic Relations department.

She resigned in 1934, when she was chief trial deputy, to practice law with her husband, James P. Garland, from whom she was later estranged.

A $130,000 love theft suit was pending against her when she died, filed by the wife of a police officer, Mrs. Earl Yarnell. In an answer, Mrs. Garland had denied alienating Yarnell's affections.

Nanking and Kweiyang, China, 800 miles apart, have just been connected by telephone.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY LEARNS HOW.

"Wiggy! Wiggy, dear, what are you doing!"

Well might Mrs. Longears, the rabbit lady, ask that. For in her part of the camping tent she heard Uncle Wiggily in his part making queer noises and singing:

"Six, seven, eight, nine,

"I think I'm doing very fine?"

"What are you doing so fine?" asked Mrs. Longears.

"Learning to play the new game of Hoop La," said Mr. Longears. "Come and watch me if you like."

"But, Wiggy dear, it's time to go to bed. It's nearly 10 o'clock," said the wife rabbit.

"I can't help that, my dear. I've just learned how to paddle the rubber ball on a rubber string and I must practice. It's the new game of Hoop La and very stylish. You and Nurse Jane ought to learn it," said Mr. Longears.

Calls It Silly

"Nonsense!" laughed the rabbit lady. "Don't be silly! The idea of an old rabbit gentleman of your age learning a Hoop La game that only children rabbits play."

"Let him alone, please," whispered Nurse Jane from her side of the tent. "Uncle Wiggily is most happy when he is like a child rabbit. Let him play Hoop La."

So Mrs. Longears did and when she fell asleep Uncle Wiggily was still paddling away at the rubber ball on the end of a rubber string. He could keep it going a long time without missing.

The next morning when the jolly old-young rabbit gentleman hopped out of his cot in the camping tent near Blue Lake he first twinkled his pink nose.

"Ah, it's getting better," said he. For when he first tried to play the new Hoop La game the ball had bounced back on his nose. "I have learned how to play it now," said Mr. Longears. "But I need more practice. I'll hop out in the woods today and try some new stunts with the ball and paddle.

Without telling any one about it, soon after breakfast the jolly bunny uncle hopped of fto dingly dell in the woods. He took with him two Hoop La games.

Carries a Spare

"For," said he, "I might lose one or the ball might break off the rubber cord or something like that. I'll take two games."

So he did and he was in the dingly dell batting away and singing: "A hundred and four and five and six, I still can do some nifty tricks." With that he tried to stand on his head and bat the ball when, all of a sudden, a voice said:

"Never mind! I can nibble you without that!"

And there, in the dingly dell, stood the Fox.

"Oh!" gasped Uncle Wiggily, "What do you want."

"I want you," growled the Fox.

"Well, you can't have me unless you play me a game of Hoop La," said the rabbit. Here, take this paddle and bat the ball."

"Pooh! That's easy!" sneered the Fox.

But when he tried to do it just one, two, three, why the ball bounced back and his his nose so hard that he howled. "Yi! Yippy! Yee!" Then he growled: "This is no game for me, any more, my nose is too tender and sore!" And with that the Fox ran away so he didn't get the bunny.

"I knew that would happen," said Uncle Wiggily. "It happened to me."

And if the egg beater will turn over the potato pancake when it gets tired of sleeping on one side, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and lost Bunty.

WARSAW

CHURCH PICNIC IS POORLY ATTENDED

Wet Weather Dampens Spirits Of Merrymakers At Warsaw Gathering

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, July 20.—The Presbyterian picnic for the three charges—Warsaw, Keene and Westwood—was held at the Back Dam on Thursday, July 15. The weather was anything but propitious, and attendance even of Warsaw people was only fair. Keene people mostly came in a truck, Westwood came in cars. Among those who did attend were a more than ordinary number of elderly ladies and babies.

It was too cold for bathing much. There were quite a number of races, mostly girls.

Supper was eaten in groups, and at that the sudden rain sent all to shelter and home.

United Church W.M.S.

The United Church W.M.S. was only fairly attended on Thursday last. Mr. Wilkinson presided. Mrs. G. G. Taylor read a letter requesting more earnest work and mentioning methods to make larger contributions.

A letter was read from the school for leaders, but nothing was done. Mrs. D. Tucker led in prayer.

Mrs. R. Moore read a story of a mutilated child in China, and of what she had done. Mrs. Wilkinson read a selection from the New Outlook, followed by prayer.

Only four of the Group B were able to be present. A Bible reading with notes for the August meeting were given. Mrs. D. Miller was leader. Mrs. Stuart Clysdale and Mrs. W. Darling read the Scripture passages. Mrs. Ed. Bell read a selection from "Our Hope" on Jesus the Light of the World, and verses from John viii, bearing on the subject. A picture of Christ by Bertha Valerius, a Swede, which she considered her life-work, beginning it in 1856, and completing it in 1896, which reveals to us the Prince of Peace glorified by the Father, bathed in the divine light intervening, for struggling humanity was shown. Also a little was said of Hillman Hunt's picture, "The Light of the World."

The last chapter of the study book was taken. Miss Helen L. Lloyd gave the first three stories and the leader the last.

The questions in the Aid to the study book were given and were well answered.

The service closed with singing "Almighty Father, Who Didst Give" and the Mizpah benediction.

The July meeting should have fallen on July 1, and was necessarily postponed, consequently the August one will be omitted.

Bearing a miscellaneous cargo containing everything from comic newspapers to Christmas plum pudding and a passenger list including a bride-to-be who will meet her groom within the Arctic circle and Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers heading toward a two-year stay in the frozen north, the Hudson Bay supply ship Nascopie left Montreal on its annual trip into northern waters. Visits of the Nascopie are red letter days in the isolated hamlets which are Canada's Arctic outposts. The sturdy little supply ship is pictured (in oval) anchored outside one of them, Port Burwell, which will be a port of call on the present cruise. Another is Lake Harbor in Baffin Land (pictured below at right), while (at left) are shown R.C.M.P. officers going ashore at one of the Arctic posts. FIGHTING LIVENS ON MADRID FRONT

Insurgents Hurl Infantry And Tanks Into Attack To Regain Lost Ground

MADRID, July 20 (AP).—Insurgent troops bolstered by tanks and planes attacked newly-won government positions west of Madrid today, strengthening the belief insurgent troop concentrations are aiming to regain territory lost to the government last week.

The government announced a strong insurgent attack near Brunete, 12 miles west of Madrid, was repulsed after two hours.

Insurgent artillery shelled the government positions yesterday before infantry swept forward behind tanks in an attempt to storm government trenches.

Fleets of government fighting planes roared into the battle when insurgent aircraft bombed the government trenches, and one of the biggest aerial baties of the war resulted with 160 planes engaged.

Approximately 100 insurgent planes were pitted against 60 government craft above the mountainous region northwest of Madrid.

A defence ministry communique declared 28 insurgent planes were shot down during the air battle while the government counted only one missing plane.

Insurgent reports at Hendaye stated, however, that only one insurgent craft was lost in the engagement and that 26 government planes were shot down by insurgent airmen.)

The government asserted insurgent casualties in the air engagement included seven planes of Italian manufacture and three of German make.

Government sources estimated that 150,000 insurgents were massed in the Sierra section and north of the Guadalajara front.

A government spokesman declared he had reliable information 20,000 insurgents were concentrated at Agamella, 10,000 at Boardilla del Monte and 8,000 at Sevilla La Nueva.

TELEVISION SOON READY FOR PUBLIC

Next Major Problem Is Method Of Presenting Broadcasts At Reasonable Cost

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP)—The National Resources committee said yesterday the most significant trend in communication developments was the "relative imminence of television."

The committee reported to President Roosevelt the basic engineering work of television development already had been accomplished and the next major problem was to find a method of presenting television broadcasting at a reasonable cost.

The study of television, prepared by the engineering department of the Federal Communications Commission, conceded many technical problems remained to be solved, but said since 1928 visual broadcasting had reached such perfection as a scientific tool that it was possible "to transmit over a local area of 10 to 20 miles radius fairly good pictures."

The committee said facsimile transmission, akin to television would open the way for radio delivery of newspapers by metropolitan and chain newspapers.

1,700 Walk Out In Canada Cotton Mills At Cornwall

Quick Settlement Seen If Company Deals With Union

Call For 20 P.C. Pay Increase, Union Recognition, Better Conditions

PICKETING ORDERED

Strikers Act Suddenly Seeing Firm Preparing For Siege By Large Shipments

CORNWALL, Ont., July 21.—(CP)—Approximately 1,700 employees of the three mills of Canadian Cottons Limited were on strike today when the day shift joined the night workers who went on strike last night under instruction of the Cornwall local of the United Textile Workers of America.

Canada Cottons operated three mills here, the Stormont, Canada, and Dundas, all of which are closed.

Although no trouble was anticipated with the couple hundred non-union cotton workers, striking workers strengthened their picket lines, but there was none who desired to return to work.

Only a small number of maintenance men, foremen and superintendents were permitted to enter the plant yards, while at the Canada Mill, where construction of an addition is in progress, construction workers were permitted to pass unmolested through the picket lines.

Plan No Friction

"We are going to have a peaceful strike," said Arthur Laverty, president of the Cornwall Local of the United Textile Workers of America, a C.I.O. affiliate. Although the walkout was premature by 48 hours, the union head appears to have complete control over the strikers. Picketing so far has been on a small scale at both Stormont and Dundas Mills, but at the Canada Mill strikers centered their activities because of the construction going on there.

Several trucks were said to have appeared at the plants this morning, but the picket lines protested and no definite attempts were made to drive the trucks on to the plant property. As far as could be learned, strikers will not permit shipment of any cotton from the plants.

It is expected the company will officially reply to-morrow to a letter setting forth demands of the strikers which has been sent to company officials at Montreal. Providing that satisfactory arrangements can be made for the opening up of negotiations with a committee of the union, with Laverty as spokesman, strikers will return to their work pending the result of negotiations. In their demands to the company, the union is requesting a 20 per cent. increase in wages, recognition of the local union, improved working conditions.

FOURTEEN INJURED ROLLER-COASTER

Second Train Crashes First As It Slips Back Down Incline

CHICAGO, July 21 (AP). — A speeding roller-coaster train hurtled down a steep incline into the rear of an uncontrolled train at Riverside Amusement Park last night, injuring 24 of the terror-stricken riders and causing a panic among onlookers.

Witnesses said a train of four cars was near the top of a "hump" when it stalled and started backward. Passengers gasped, then screamed as the train increased its speed and coursed part way up another incline.

A second train appeared at the crest as the loose cars rocked back and forth at the bottom of the dip, 10 feet from the ground. The oncoming train plunged into the cars with a sickening crash. The impact wrecked the rear car of the first train and the front car of the second.

Police investigated a report by passengers that a cog wheel safety device intended to prevent cars from going backward failed to function.

Skunks Under House Give Family Jitters

Gananoque, July 21.

A RESIDENT on Church Street, Gananoque, has a real problem on her hands in how to get rid of nine skunks. The father and mother skunks some time ago decided to make their home under the back porch and raise their young family, which totals seven. Each morning, and sometimes in the afternoon, this strange family may be seen walking in the garden. The young ones seem to be thriving splendidly.

The game overseer for Leeds County was consulted about the matter and he like the householder, does not know what to do about it. He might be able to get rid of the young, as they are not armed with the peculiar odorous weapon of the skunk species. But the parents would be different propositions and, as the inspector said, "Lady you might have to bury your house."

HOUSE BURNED IN $5,000 BLAZE IS TOTAL LOSS

Historical Old Dwelling On Chemong Road Prey To Flames

ORIGIN IS UNKNOWN

Fire Department Called But Unable To Render Any Assistance

A spectacular fire of undetermined origin caused total destruction of a handsome 8-roomed frame dwelling-house and barn, located on the east side of the Chemong Road just beyond the city limits shortly before noon to-day. Loss was unofficially estimated around $5,000.

The house was owned by Mrs. Clifford McKane, who with her husband and family occupied the ground floor. The upper floor of the house was rented to Mr. and Mrs. Burke and their four children, while another tenant was Harry Eccles.

The fire was the second major disaster to strike at the two families within the past year. Recently, it will be recalled, a double fatality robbed each of the families of one of their children when Francis McKane and Billy Burke were struck and killed by a car within sight of their home.

Mrs. McKane was in the house with her daughter Margaret, 14, when the fire broke out shortly after eleven o'clock. Her husband and son Lloyd were at work.

Upstairs Mrs. Burke was with her children William Donald, Pauline, and James when the alarm was raised. They got out of the blazing building unharmed.

Started in Barn.

The fire originated in the barn, according to Mr. Eccles, who was at work in the fields when he noticed smoke and flames issuing from the barn roof. He said he had no idea what might have caused the blaze.

The barn which went first was destroyed with the entire contents, including, according to Mr. Eccles, three calves, 5 tons of hay, and a disc harrow among other effects.

While the fire progressed un-

NO EUROPEAN WAR THINKS BENNETT

Tory Chief Arriving Home Absolutely Silent On Personal Plans

ABOARD THE S.S. MONTCALM, July 21 (C.P.). — Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, returning to Canada from an European tour, met with silence to-day all questions from reporters concerning his personal plans. The Canadian Conservative Leader, instead, chose to talk of Europe, where he suggested there was no danger of an European war.

Mr. Bennett, accompanied on his trip by his sister, Mrs W. D. Herridge, was greeted by reporters who boarded the vessel off Father Point, 160 miles below Quebec City on the St. Lawrence River.

A firm reticence met every question concerning his personal plans. He looked in good health and appeared in good spirits. He refused to commet on questions asked concerning Leadership of the Conservative Party. Nor would be comment on the condition of his health.

The Montcalm is due at Quebec late this afternoon.

Suggestion by Mr. Bennett of the absence of danger of a European war coincided with the belief of Prime Minister Mackenzie King who said on his return from a European visit a couple of weeks ago that no nation he kne wof wanted war.

Girl's Death In Windsor Cellar Is Labelled Murder By Jury

Border Police Hunt Mystery Man "In Long Overcoat"

SEEN ENTERING HOUSE

WINDSOR, Ont., July 21 (CP)—A mystery man in a "long overcoat" was sought today as police continued investigation of the death last April 27 of Ethel Rickert, 23-year-old housekeeper whose battered form was found on the basement floor of the Sandwich East township home where she was employed.

According to evidence at an inquest here last night the mystery man was seen entering the house five hours before Miss Rickert was found unconscious by John Serafin, her employer. Her skull fractured in several places by blows from an iron pipe, found nearby in the basement, Miss Rickert died in hospital without regaining consciousness.

She came to her death, the coroner's jury decided, as a result of "having been struck by an instrument in the hands of a person or persons unknown." The jury rejected a theory advanced at the inquest that Miss Rickert possibly suffered the fractures in falling down the cellar stairs. The injuries could not have been suffered in a fall, medical witnesses said.

Herman Desjardins, bread delivery man, testified he saw a man in a long overcoat enter the house. When he called at the house a few minutes later, he said, Miss Rickert was "laughing and smiling." She was found lying in a pool of blood five hours later. A blood-soaked towel over her face.

SLAYS HIS FATHER IN SAVING MOTHER LAD 16 ARRESTED

Uses .22 Rifle After Warning Parent Who Was Throttling His Wife

FAMILY TERRIFIED

PORT COQUITLAM, B.C., July 21 —(CP)—British Columbia police today probed the shooting here of 54-year-old Samuel Lamont Metcalf while the son who, officers said, accepted responsibility for firing the fatal bullet was held at Vancouver juvenile detention home.

Constable E. T. Davies, officer commanding Port Coquitlam detachment of the Provincial Police Force, said the lad, a 16-year-old high school student, told him yesterday he loaded a .22 calibre rifle and fired to protect his mother from his father's violence.

Davies said no charge had been laid against the lad who was being held for the juvenile court, pending instructions from the British Columbia attorney-general's department.

As Provincial Police yesterday investigated the shooting, the boy chopped wood a few feet from the body of his grey-haired father.

"I'll cut some stove-wood for my mother," Davies said the lad told him. "It looks like I wouldn't be here for a couple of days."

That was scarcely an hour, police said, after he had quickly loaded the rifle, pointed it at his father, and warned the pensioned Boer War veteran:

"If you hurt my mother again, I'll shoot you."

Police said they had been told by both the boy and his mother that Metcalf grabbed his wife by the throat a moment later.

The son fired a single shot.

Meantime, Constable Davies was on his way to the small "stump-ranch" log cabin which was the family home. He had been summoned by Shirley, Metcalf's 13-year-old daughter.

He said he arrived to find the gray-haired veteran, former Ontario resident (town unknown) lying by the doorway to the shack, his wife and children cowering inside, not knowing whether their husband and father was dead or alive.

80 P.C. Tourists Aiming At Quints'

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., July 21 (A.P.). — The Dionne quintuplets still have as much attraction as ever for tourists. Customs inspectors at the Falls View Bridge here said today occupants of more than 80 per cent. of the American automobiles which crossed the bridge yesterday said they were on their way to Callander, Ont., to see the five famous sisters.

U-BOAT BOMBING STORY IS REVISED

Admiralty Says Craft Forced To Surface Off Naval Base Was British

LONDON, July 21 (AP)—The admiralty announced today that a practice charge dropped by the destroyer Wolfhound to signal a British submarine off Portland, while a German U-boat passed nearby, led to erroneous reports the German boat had been halted.

The Press Association had quoted informed sources as saying the German submarine U-27 was detected off the naval base at Portland Monday night, that the Wolfhound ordered her to the surface, questioned the commander and then permitted her to proceed.

The admiralty denied this and gave this version of the incident:

The Wolfhound was engaged in exercises off the naval base. She dropped a practice charge to signal a British submarine to come to the surface. The German U-27 at the time was proceeding on a passage

TRUCK DISAPPEARS INTO DEEP WATER

Skids On Newly Oiled Road At Burleigh Falls And Goes Down

On Tuesday evening a truck belonging to David Moore of Coe Hill was at the bottom of the body of water at the east side of the Apsley Road at Burleigh Falls, just north of the locks between Stoney and Lovesick Lakes. One car driver going past the spot returned a short time after. On the way north he noticed the truck in the water and a crowd standing around and when he returned the truck was not visible. Stopping at the refreshment booth he remarked there had been quick work in getting the truck out of the water, but the answer to his suggestion was "The truck is not out. It has gone down out of sight."

The driver said he slipped on the newly oiled road and his truck went out of control. He received only a few scratches. The Examiner was informed that several cars had difficulty from skidding and sliding on that road which has been oiled within recent days. "Two of them almost turned around on the road tonight," one resident said, "while another went into the ditch but was able with a little help to come out with its own power."

WOMAN IS KILLED THREE BADLY HURT NORTHERN CRASH

Two Cars Collide As Drivers Are Blinded In Ferguson Highway Dust

THIRD PILES INTO WRECK

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., July 21 —(CP).—Mrs. Leo Lacasse of Detroit was injured fatally and three others were seriously hurt last night when the automobiles in which they were riding were in collision on the Ferguson Highway, 10 miles north of Swastika.

A car driven by Nap. Lacasse, Timmins, father-in-law of the dead woman, collided with another driven by A. F. McDowell of Timmins on a slight curve and a third machine, driven by F. C. Hanna of Ottawa, piled into them. Mrs. Eva Martin of North Bay, also in the Lacasse car, was seriously injured and Mr. and Mrs. McDowell suffered lesser hurts.

Hanna was blinded by a cloud of dust that arose as the McDowel and Lacasse cars hit. Hanna saw the outlines of the wrecked cars through the dust and applied his brakes and his car merely slid into the wrecked cars.

Those Involved

Passengers in the Lacasse car were: Nap. Lacassae, 63, Timmins, driver; his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lacasse, Detroit; their 12-year-old daughter, patricia; Mrs. Eva Martin, North Bay; and Miss Melvina Gilker, Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. McDowell were the only persons in the McDowell car, driving to Kirkland Lake.

W. B. O'Connor, Ottawa, was a passenger in the Hanna car.

V. R. Taylor of South Porcupine, driving north, a short distance behind the Lacasse car, stopped and turned around to drive Mrs. Lacasse, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. McDowell and two others to the Kirkland Lake District Hospital. On arrival at the hospital, it was found that Mrs. Lacasse was dead.

Nothing Worth Remand In His Speech But Lapointe To Caution Wearing

Ottawa, July 21 (CP).

RT. HON. ERNEST LAPOINTE, Minister of Justice, has examined the text of the speech delivered in Toronto by Judge Joseph Wearing of London, on June 30 and it is understood he has come to the conclusion the Judge said nothing which would lay himself open to a reprimand from the Minister.

It was learned Mr. Lapointe, however, will write the Judge impressing on him the desirability of the jurists refraining from making speeches which might be interpreted as of a political nature. Premier Hepburn drew the attention of the minister to the speech.

Judge Wearing's address, delivered at a service club luncheon, had been interpreted in some quarters as a criticism of the Dominion Government for not disallowing the so-called "Roebuck Act" respecting Hydro contracts.

Caretaker Holidays Town Clock Imitates

Brampton, July 21.

TIME is standing still at Brampton. Since Saturday the town clock in the Postoffice tower has kept its hands folded across its face at 4.55 o'clock precisely. And thus they will stay until Bert Nixon, caretaker of the clock, returns from his vacation.

It seems the clock tower can be reached only through the dwelling of Mr. Nixon, who, letting time take its course like any good vacationist, went off on his holidays and forgot to leave the key behind.

BRITAIN FIRM SPANISH PLAN BE UNCHANGED

Press Pessimistic Over Deadlock As Italy Balks On Belligerency Rights

MOSCOW BACKS LONDON

Rome, Berlin Hint Volunteer Withdrawal Less Important Than Border Control

LONDON, July 21 (CP).—Foreign Secretary Eden submitted to the cabinet this morning the new deadlock over Great Britain's plan for Spain.

The position of the British Government is that the plan stands or falls as a whole. Amendments in detail there may be. But anything which destroys its balanced compromises cannot be accepted.

General Franco, the Spanish insurgent leader, has not yet replied to the British demand for release of the freighter Molton. The British vice-consul at Corunna, who has visited the insurgent-held port of Ferrol, reports that the master and crew of the Candleston Castle, which also was captured by one of Franco's cruisers, were receiving courteous treatment.

The deadlock was created by Italian resistance to withdrawal of foreign volunteers from Spain before belligerency rights are granted both sides in the civil war.

Liberal and Labor newspapers declared that systematic objection by powers which oppose Eden's plan—which they accepted in principle last week—was revealed at yesterday's session of the 27-nation "hands of Spain" committee.

Press Sees Things Darkly

The press generally was pessimistic. Referring to Italian Ambassador Dino Grandi's demand for delay in withdrawal of volunteers. The

Valera Is Again Named President

DUBLIN, July 21 (AP)—Eamon De Valera was re-elected president of the Irish Free State today by the new dail (parliament) by a vote of 83 to 52. It will be his third term.

William T. Cosgrave, opposition leader, opposed the election, contending the majority of votes cast in the recent general election were against De Valera's policies.

Cosgrave also condemned the new constitution which further separates the Free State and Great Britain and changes the country's name to Tire (pronounced "airy.").

Strike Committee Requests Government To Help Reach Speedy Settlement

MARSH IS TRYING

Wires Strike Leaders That He Will Endeavor To Comply

Efforts to re-open negotiations between striking Auburn and Bonner-Worth workers and the management of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds will be made by the Ontario Department of Labor, a telegram from Deputy Minister J. F. Marsh to the strike committee at 2 o'clock this afternoon revealed. In reply to a request for mediation made to the Department from the strike committee last night the wire read:

"Your wire re mediation received. Will make effort to open negotiations as suggested and advise you later. Signed J. F. Marsh."

The move to obtain Government intervention was made by the strike leaders after a three-hour conference. The Department was urged to act without delay. A strike committee bulletin posted in the city today reported the telegraphed request for mediation with the following comment.

"We do not desire to further inconvenience our city, our firm or ourselves but want a settlement just as soon and satisfactory as possible. We are waiting a reply."

Strikers expressed the hope an arbitrator would be assigned to the dispute by the Department.

Committee members were jubilant at the news of the walkout of 1,700 workers from the Canada Cotton Mills at Cornwall last night as they assembled for a business meeting this morning. The opinion that the Cornwall walkout would strengthen the Peterborough strikers' cause was general at the meeting and members pointed to the fact Dr. A. O. Dawson, president of Dominion Woollens, is also president of Canadian Cottons as proof of a close relationship between the two companies.

Greetings for Cornwall.

The following telegram of greeting was despatched to Local 2409 of the United Textile Workers union in Cornwall by the committee:

"Greetings and assurances of solidarity from embattled textile workers of Peterborough who are fighting since June 29 for higher wages, union recognition and better conditions in two mills of the Dominion Woollens, president of which is also president of Canadian Cottons. Seven hubdred out here. Urge you to stand solidly for your just rights and will render all assistance possible." The telegram was signed by Organizer Alex Welch on behalf of Local 2551 of the United Textile Workers union.

Decision to circulate throughout the city a petition asking the company to effect "an immediate and decent" settlement of the strike was made at the committee meeting. An effort to obtain the signatures of the greater number of Peterborough adults will be made, strikers announced. Voting lists will be consulted and strikers will personally make

OFFICER'S DEATH HORRIFIES HOUSE

Stoned, Covered With Paraffin, Set Afire By Trinidad Labor Rioters

LONDON, July 21—(CP Cable).—A murmur of horror ran through the House of Commons to-day when William Ormsby-Gore, Colonial Secretary revealed how Corporal King died in the recent Trinidad labor rioting.

"On the evening of June 19," Ormsby-Gore said, "King separated from a small body of police and was chased by a crowd of men and women who assaulted him with sticks and stones.

"He was thrown into a backyard, where he was stoned and paraffin poured over him and set alight. It is not yet known whether he died before or after burning."

Ormsby-Gore understood there was no evidence that King jumped from a window or broke any limb. It was believed the sum of $15 was stolen from his person by the crowd.

In connection with the murder, the Colonial Secretary added, seven men and five women were being charged. He said he had asked for an early report on the result of the legal proceedings.

Tweedsmuir Sees Road North Assuring Future Of Settlers

Finding Great "Kick" In West Credits It To Character Of Its People

FINDS INDIANS IN NEED

By Guy E. Rhoades
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LAC LA BICHE, Alta. July 21.—(CP).—Lord Tweedsmuir and his party rolled northward today after the governor general told the citizens of this fishing community "your hope and certainty of the future is with you because you are on the road to the north."

En route to Waterways and the gateway to the great Mackenzie River system, Lord Tweedsmuir and his party paused at this village 285 miles north of Edmonton for five hours last night.

Last night Lord Tweedsmuir attended a special civic reception in the Mons Memorial Hall, receiving an address of welcome delivered in French and English by H. D. Hamel, secretary of the local branch of the Canadian Legion. His Excellency replied to the address in both languages telling his audience "I have very great faith in the future of the north."

He spoke of his trip through the midwest, saying, "It probably lies in the character of the people, but I always get a special kick out of visiting the west."

The governor general earlier showed keen interest in the account of J. E. Nykiforuk, district relief superintendent, regarding the problems of disease among half breeds and Indians and lack of facilities in the town for hospitalization Nykiforuk promised to send him a mem-

CHINESE UNITS HARD PRESSED FRONT, BEHIND

Several Commanders Said Anxious To Accept Japanese Terms

TRANSPORTS ON WAY

Thirty Expected To Land 35,000 Troops Momentarily For Huge Push

PEIPING, July 21—(CP-Havas).—Pressed from behind by commanders who want to accept Japan's terms and in front by swelling Japanese forces spread fanwise around the city, some units of the 29th Army were to-day reported withdrawing from their exposed positions.

A new Japanese "ultimatum" expiring at midnight to-night may fix the final deadline for major military operations with the occupation of Peiping as their objective.

Reports that 35,000 Japanese troops had landed on the coast were not yet confirmed. Arrival of 30 heavily-laden transports at Taku Bar and Tangku, Tientsin's sea outlets, was momentarily expected, however.

News of the withdrawal from the danger points west of Peiping was conflicting. According to some reports units of the 37th Division, occupying sectors around Papaoshan where fighting accurred last night, were being withdrawn and put on trains for Suiyuan in accordance with the agreement, concluded at Tientsin Monday night.

ONTARIO TO WAK ON CHICORY WEED

Department Advises Deep Ploughing And Spraying While In Blossom

TORONTO, July 21 — (C.P.). — Pleased with the results of their recent campaign against poison ivy, Ontario Department of Agriculture officials to-day declared war on chicory, Public Enemy No. 1 among noxious weeds. According to J. D. McLeod of the Crop Seeds and Weeds Branch, chicory is the fastest spreading weed in Ontario.

An average chicory plant may produce 3,000 seeds. Its bright blue flowers and dandelion-like leaves may be seen in every county in the province. Deep ploughing is recommended to root it out of fields, spraying while the plants are blossoming along roadsides.

Mr. McLeod issued an appeal to farmers and citizens to draw attention of weed inspectors to infested areas. He said a half-pound of sodium chlorate to a gallon of water was a good spray and should be put on at high pressure.

STETSON HEADS READY TO DEAL

Management Offers To Meet Employees To Seek Early Opening

BROCKVILLE, Ont., July 21 (CP)—M. L. Douglas, vice-president and general manager of the strike-bound John B. Stetson (Canada) limited plant, said last night the company was willing to meet a committee of its striking employees in the interests of an early settlement of the dispute.

"We still invite those of our striking employees who wish to get down to realities to send such a committee to talk with us in the interests of an early settlement of the dispute which will be fair and acceptable to both parties," he said.

"Many members of the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations have known for some time that there were good prospects of the strike being settled anytime within the last three weeks if representatives of the employees on strike had agreed to sit around the table with us in a meeting that did not involve a discussion with them as representatives of the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers International

American Scientists Will Look For Fallen Body In Canada

WASHINGTON, July 21 (C.P.).—Seeking the parent body of a meteorite particle about size of a walnut, found in Canada, a party will centre its summer activities around the Great Bear Lake district, Canada, under the auspices of the Smithsonian Institute. The meteorite was found on the ice near Great Bear Lake by an Indian. It is believed to be the fragment of a larger projectile which may now lie at the bottom of Great Bear Lake.

REBELS STRUGGLE PLUG HOLE IN LINE

Retake Strategic "Peak 660" After Bloody Three-Day Battle

MADRID, July 21 (AP)—Insurgent forces, struggling to plug a hole gouged in their lines west of Madrid by Gen. Jose Miaja's offensive, attacked the government salient from three directions today.

They wrested a strategic hill from Miaja's Milicianos — "Peak 660"— from which they dominated Villanueva de la Canada, a village about 15 miles west of Madrid.

The government acknowledge loss of the peak after three days of Insurgent counter-attack but asserted it still held Valdemorilla and Villanueva del Pardillo, at the mouth of the "pocket" which Madrid's "Milicianos" cut into the flank of the siege lines on the capital's western front.

Within the "pocket" the government still held Quijorna, Brunete and Villanueva de la Canada.

Miaja's alien extends southward and complexion of its curving sweep back toward Madrid either would trap Insurgent siege forces on the western fringe of the city or force their evacuation.

On the other hand, a turning of the tables of "the battle for Madrid" would force Miaja's men to withdraw from the "pocket" or have the exit closed against them.

Thus, the Insurgent strategy today was to subject the government salient to frontal attacks from the south toward Brunete. Flanking manoeuvres were directed from the west toward Quijorna and Valdemorillo and from the east toward Villanueva del Pardillo to halve the salient or nip it at its base.

DURHAM HARVEST WELL ADVANCED

Wheat Already Being Threshed —Crops Best In Many Years

OSHAWA, July 21.—(Special)—Durham County is a week ahead of Ontario County with the wheat crop, it was revealed today. While some farmers in the north part of Durham have been threshing since the early part of last week, only one farmer is reported threshing, near Uxbridge, at the present time.

All crops are considered very good this season by E. A. Innes, Agricultural Representatives at Uxbridge, who states farmers will realize good yields and with prices quite high should fare altogether better than for some years. Haying is practically over and the second crop of alfalfa will soon be ready for cutting. Corn in some localities is reported two feet high and over.

The pea crop has been good and farmers of the district have been trucking daily to the canning plant at Whitby. Apples promise better yields than last year with the exception of Spys that are off this year for most orchards. Spraying has been employed vigorously and the apple maggot kept under control. Potatoes are doing better in the northern sections of Durham and Ontario where they have had more rain than in the southern parts.

BOA SAVES HIS CASH

Thieves Leave Store In Hurry On Seeing Huge Snake

BRADENTON, Fla., July 21. — (AP)—H. E. Mower, Bradenton grocer, objects to the persistant casting of the snake as the villain in fiction and says his 10-foot boa constrictor was the hero of a real life crime story.

Mower said thieves pried open a rear window of his store last night and entered the building. They left in a hurry without loot and even forgot the crowbar they used to open the window.

Mower says he's convinced the baleful gleam of the serpent's eyes in a flashlight beam—with perhaps a hiss thrown in—caused the flight.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

LABOR OPPOSED TO BRITISH PLAN

Lord Snell Says His Party Cannot Accept Partition Scheme

LONDON, July 21—(CP Cable)—"Speaking for the Labor party," Lord Snell declared in the House of Lords this afternoon, "we cannot support this scheme of partition."

The question before the Upper House was the report of the Royal Commission recommending partition of Palestine. Earl Peel, chairman of the Palestine commission, sat among the peers.

"I do not believe that the short cut of partition is more likely to succeed than the experiments we have tried," Lord Snell said. "There is the more excellent way, in my judgment the cure way, of understanding and cooperation between races. . . .

"The root of disaffection in Palestine is not the Balfour declaration. It is the mandate itself. Hostility is not against the Jews. Ultimately it is against the British occupation.

"The first clear duty of the government was to suppress disorder and ensure personal security. What happened was that the Jews were disarmed and forbidden to defend themselves. The Arab state was allowed to develop its passions unchecked."

Lord Snell was unable to understand the haste with which the government had felt it necessary to accept and endorse the report.

"In my judgment it is an affront to Parliament in a matter which involves the honor of our country and which may possibly have serious international reactions," the Labor peer added.

"We find Parliament committed before it has been consulted. We are not yet a Fascist state. Parliament ought still to count for something in the story of our land."

Among those present were: Mesdames Cutting, Barber, Cummer, Widdess, DeGraw, Vernor, B. D. Hall, F. J. Hall, Westbrooke, Clarke, Rem, Wightman, Cameron, Scott, Belleghem, Graham, and the Misses Barber, A. Wood, L. Lyle, and M. Montgomery.

57th Chapter, I.O.D.E. Holds Successful Garden Party

Under the auspices of the 57th Regiment Chapter I.O.D.E. a delightfully successful garden party was held Tuesday evening on the grounds of Major and Mrs. H. Dodd's home at 225 Engleburn avenue. Thronged with crowds of citizens, the beautiful gardens on the banks of the Otonabee were an arresting picture, with the ruddy illumination of a great bonfire added to that of strings of electric lights between trees. A profusion of flags and pennants and the scarlet coats of the Prince of Wales Rangers' Band supplied color contrast to the picturesque little tents of gaily clad fortune tellers and decorated refreshment tables and booths. High in a tree an orange moon looked down on the festive scene.

With music, dancing, refreshments, fortune tellers, games, boating on the river and a splendid program by talented young local artists the many guests found a delightfully crowded evening prepared for them.

The guests were welcomed by the hostess, Mrs. H. Dodds and the regent of the Chapter, Mrs. W. Gordon Hall. The general convenors were Mrs. W. Hughes and Mrs. Dodds. Treasurer for the evening was Miss Maimie Rogers.

In a central position, the I.O.D.E. coronation crown held little wrapped gifts and was in charge of Mrs. E. T. Lush and Mrs. F. G. Mann. The fortune tellers were Mrs. J. J. Craig and Miss J. Horsfield, in gay gypsy costumes sitting under cleverly made little tents. To the delight of the children present, Mrs. W. Sharpe sold many-colored balloons. The convenor for refreshments was Miss I. Wesley. The booth containing soft drinks was in charge of Mrs. Melton and Mrs. Campbell. Ladies assisting with the refreshments were Mesdames Helson, W. Sharpe, B. Hughes, D. Loomis, E. Clarke, Cutmore, M. Sloan, D. Ashby, M. Breckenridge and J. Turnbull.

The chance wheel was in charge of Col. W. Gordon Hall and Earl Clarke. The boating was looked after by Mr. Eastwood and Mr. Ashby, assisted by Messrs. Jack Bennett, Gray, E. Pinn, B. Hall, C. McWilliams, B. Ferguson.

By kind permission of Lt. Col. J. A. Dewart, the Prince of Wales Rangers' Band, under the direction of Captain W. H. Perryer, supplied the much-enjoyed music which alternated with the clever program on the platform erected for the occasion, when the artists were accompanied by Martin Chenhall, A.R.C.O. The program consisted of a delightful duet sung by Miss Olga Westbye and George Hall; a solo by Miss Westbye; a solo by Jim Hawthorne; and the amusing policemen's chorus from "The Pirates of Penzance", sung and acted with gay enjoyment by George Eas, (the sergeant) and H. Marsh, Bill Wheeler, George Broadley, Don Ross, H. Hope, George Hall, H. Steer and Fred Hooper. The last two named (with really astonishing noses) sang the entertaining duet.

Mrs. C. Stuart and Mrs. H. K. Clifton made arrangements for the dancing, which was enjoyed later by many, with music supplied by Jack Marshall's orchestra.

The boy scouts, on duty for the evening were in charge of Peter Dominik and gave splendid assistance.

The sergeants on picket duty on the grounds were Sergts. Tate, Parkes, James and Chapman.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"I count him braver who overcomes his desires than him who overcomes his enemies; for the hardest victory over self." Aristotle.

Dear Friends:

Sometimes we see a meek unassuming person, and we think what a thin time they are having, yet they have it over many, for they have conquered themselves, their desires and their emotions.

For the thing that gets most of us down are the things of the body, the desire for finery, for excitement, for stimulation of one kind or another.

Some of us seek these things one way, and some another. And how ready we all are to condemn the other person's way of seeking escape from realities, for that is all it amounts to,—escape from the everday uninteresting things.

Many's the times I have wished that all emotion were wiped clean out of my life never to return, for what does it do but torture one? Love I think, is the biggest torture of all, for we seek certain things from one another, and when we are denied them, we are so unhappy.

Yet if we had no emotions, we would be like empty shells. So what we must seek, is control of them, taking things more lightly, not being so intense, nor dependant on another's smile for our happiness, or their frown for our misery.

Love is a beautiful thing in itself, but how often does it warp our judgement and our vision, so that we cannot see clearly how to act. How often does it make us put all our eggs in one basket, having no other interest apart from the one we love, so that if, and when, that love cools or we think it does, we are bereft indeed.

Had we had control, we would not have let ourselves care so much we would have other diversions, something to spend this emotion on so that we would not be so utterly dependant on just one outlet. You know how it is in the house when you have just one electrical outlet which must be used for toaster, or light, or sweeper or washing machine?

So we hasten to remedy that condition by getting other connections, so that we can have two or three of these conveniences at one and the same time.

Yet in our emotional life we muddle along with maybe the outlet of our own husbands or children and have no other life outside of them, then if they seek diversion elsewhere, what is there left for us to do?

Unless we go into seclusion and deny ourselves all contact with our fellow-men and women, we have that problem to face. Or else one day we shall find ourselves emotionally bankrupt, when those we count on to satisfy this part of our nature see the mistake we have made, and fill their lives with varied interests.

And after all, limiting ourselves to just one or two, gives us a narrow view-point, for we see everything in relation to them, or through their eyes.

We judge everything according to how it will affect them through us, or us through them, and instead of having a full life with many interests, we are at the mercy of just the one or two emotions that rule us.

We can talk nothing but what may affect our lives because of our limited ideas, for you must mingle with many to get all the facts of life. I cannot tell you all about it in one article but think over what I have told you, and I will return to this later. Your Friend, ROBERTA.

First Time In 1900 Years

At this time of the year Orthodox Jews bemoan their final loss of Jerusalem to the Romans 70 A.D. To their memory comes the wording of the final chapter in the book of Deuteronomy, the 34th:

"And Moses went up . . . unto the mountain of Nebo to the top of Pisgah . . . and the Lord showed him all the land . . . said unto him, This is the land which I sware unto Abraham, unto Isaac and unto Jacob, saying, I will give it unto thy seed . . ."

The Jewish people feel the British government has given to them less than the Biblical promise. The Hebrew state, according to the new order for the division of Palestine, will consist of 2,500 square miles running along the sea from the Syrian border to 20 miles beyond Jaffa, midpoint on Palestine's coast. The northern section which reaches to the Sea of Galilee, is 30 miles wide. The southern portion, which averages 10 miles in width, is cut through by a belt which Britain will continue to hold under a mandate.

The Jewish state includes the most fertile lands, most of Palestine's 5,000 factories, the vaunted cubistic metropolis of Tel-Aviv, the harbor and naval station of Haifa and the city of Nazareth. For the first time in 1,900 years the Jews will have their own government on their own soil.

Considering the intense hatred between Jews and Arabs the solution engineered by Britain is a bold stroke but a wise one. And those who are inclined to scoff at the prophetic section of the Old Testament have something new about which to think.

A Fine Decision

The Lions Club of Peterborough made a wise decision when the members decided to sponsor the Boys' Band which was recently organized at the Prince of Wales School. The Lions are ready to put backing of $600 behind the scheme, and that is not too much. That part of the plan may not have been much emphasized at the start, but the plain fact is it takes money to run a band. The sponsorship of the Lions may well mean that some boys will now be able to have instruments who otherwise would be out of it by reason of financial handicaps.

A boys' band is not merely a place of entertainment, neither is it a fad, nor should it be looked upon as something which will remain just a boys' affair and rather juvenile in performance. It will overcome all those stages and the boys will have the future of their organization pretty much in their own hands. When they are linked up with an adult organization such as the Lions Club it will give to the band members a greater sense of responsibility.

Peterborough or any other city can well stand a boys' band on a fairly large scale. There are plenty of cities where these organizations grow and develop to a membership of fifty or so, and they are really doing creditable work. The Lions Club has made a happy selection as an outlet for its energy.

Question To Answer

Often enough there are cases in court following a visit from some inspector of Weights and Measures. The city of Hamilton has been operating fifteen public weigh scales, and after an inspection thirteen of the total number were condemned. One of the Hamilton officials, as though to make the best of a strange situation, contended "the scales were fairly accurate as far as weight was concerned." At various intervals inspectors had looked them over and said they were all right, but recently an order went out from Ottawa saying there had to be a Dominion-wide check-up, and it was this new movement that caused 13 of Hamilton's 15 public weighing places to be condemned.

And right there is a nice little question to answer: How is it that 13 of the 15 scales used by the city of Hamilton have now been condemned in view of the statement by H. L. Barr, secretary, at the meeting of the Property and Licensing Committee that "other inspectors had paid regular visits and placed their O. K. on the equipment." That one is worth answering.

What Will Mr. Hepburn Do?

There was an announcement in the papers telling of a $20,000,000 loan of the province of Ontario. As usual the purpose of the loan was stated: "The proceeds of this issue will be used to retire maturing obligations."

Also there is presented a short statement of the financial position of the province of Ontario, the idea being to show those who have money that the old province, though battered and knocked about at times is not in bad shape and well enough able to pay its bills.

The advertisement has at the bottom a list of financial houses handling the government securities, and the concluding statement is this:

"The information contained in this advertisement is based upon statements on which we have relied. We do not guarantee but believe the statements herein made to be true."

And the statements made in the announcement are those "as officially reported to us by the province." And yet the commercial skepticism of the age leads the financial houses to issue the sound of caution contained in the words: "We do not guarantee but believe the statements herein made to be true."

We do not know what Premier Hepburn will do when he reads that—if he does. The little notice of caution is printed in small type. Very small. So the Premier may miss it entirely. But if he does get hold of the thing and finds that the bond dealers and brokers and financial houses are not prepared to guarantee the financial statements of Ontario "as officially reported to us by the province," surely the money changers will feel a generous section of provincial wrath as it is laid upon the offending doubters. Not long since Mr. Hepburn caused documentary evidence to be prepared and published setting forth the monetary condition of his realm and it was signed and blessed with all the force which officialdom could heap upon it. And now when a provincial loan of $20,000,000 is launched the unconvinced financiers of the bond houses say they believe the provincial figures to be true but they hesitate to the point of small type refusal to guarantee them. The skeptics!

Moving People About

W. J. Stewart, former mayor of Toronto, suggests that families in the dried-out area of Saskatchewan, should be transferred to Ontario. Mr. Stewart believes Northern Ontario is the place for a good many of them. There are farms in the older section of Ontario which are not being worked, and if any of the discouraged Western farmers cared to try them they would have a better chance for rain than they have encountered in their present district.

Whether there should be any concerted movement with government backing is another question. As a rule people should be free to go where they want to go and where they believe they can do their best work. Thousands of the cattle from the dry area of the West have been making their way to the good pasture of Old Ontario in recent weeks and the movement is likely to continue. Prices for beef cattle are good and Ontario pasture is good. But it is not possible to ship farmers around as they do farmers' cattle. Nor can it be said we have made any great sucess in the past with any of our schemes for settling people here and there. The most successful settler is the one who picks out the place he himself wants and goes there because he wants to.

The Older Picture

In the summer time people who go away from home send post cards to their friends, and on them they often write "Wish you were here," or something like that. It is supposed to make the person receiving the card feel he or she is not forgotten.

Some person started making a check-up of the post cards being offered for sale in Sarnia and found they were of a date which put the place in the class of a frontier town. Street cars are shown running on streets although they went out of business six years ago; there are pictures of steamers which have been taken out of service or gone to the bottom, and views of some streets shows cars of the sort which existed 20 years ago. So the proud and up-and-coming section of Sarnia calls for something better.

But a good many people living in Sarnia would prefer to show photographs of themselves which were taken 10 or 15 years ago. They are doubtless just like the people who live elsewhere. Newspapers often have reasons for going to ask a man for photograph, and often enough find he is quite willing, and perhaps a trifle glad, to be able to pull out one which was taken some years ago. It is apt to show some hay on top of the thatch, and a bit of beef about the jaw and the light of vigor and determination burning in the eye. There is that even firmness about the lower part of the jib which indicates that the teeth had not felt inclined to float away from the moorings, nor were there wrinkles at the corner of the eyes when the photo was taken. It makes a man look like what he wished he looked like today and for that vain reason it is the man's favorite photograph. One reason why he never gets another taken is that he knows the photographer even with new improvements and greater skill could not possibly make him look like the picture that was taken ten or fifteen years ago. Whether streets or street cars or old steamers are like that is something about which we are not entirely certain. But it may explain Sarnia's old post cards.

The Pay? $1.50 A Week

There was something printed in the papers about Harry J. Carmichael, general manager of General Motors of Canada, having been connected for 25 years with the motor industry in Canada. We read too that Mr. Carmichael once worked in a shop at New Haven where they paid him $3.50 a week. Of course he was just starting then and didn't know much about the business.

But there have been times and places when $3.50 a week for a young fellow was considered pretty good pay. In the village printing office the pay for a starter used to be $1.50 per week, and the boss said a fellow had to be bright and ready to work or he wouldn't hire him at that. It's a fact too that a fellow had to have a general knowledge of a good many things. In the winter time the fire had to be lit in the box stove at 6.30 in the morning and the place had to be heated before the printers came to work at 7. It was necessary to know which of the stores in the block had been putting out some packing cases or which fence in the rear of the printing office would be least likely to miss a board so kindling wood could be provided. That required and it also developed a sense of observation. One had to know how to sweep the floor without raising a dust, and be able to pick type out of the cracks and put them back in their proper places.

When the auctioneer got quarter-sheet bills printed for a farm sale (price $1.50 for 50) the apprentice had to know just where to go and hang them in the post-office, the three livery barns, the bar rooms of the four hotels and put them in windows of stores where the owner would not throw the bill peddler out; had to know too where to find the auctioneer and collect the $1.50 the day after the sale.

It was also necessary to know how to clean lamp chimneys and fill the lamps with coal oil and trim the wicks so there would be no horns on them. One was expected also to keep an eye peeled up the street to see if the boss was coming down earlier than usual, and then hop out and warn the foreman to be there in a hurry. That developed an instinct which would have gone far in detective work. Necessary to show what the boss termed an aptitude for setting type and running a press and folding papers and washing rollers and piling up the wood people used to deliver a payment for their paper. Learned to appreciate that the reason the wood was poor was because the people who read the paper thought it was that way too. Learned it was not considered right to finish the paper and get it mailed until 2 o'clock on Thursday morning and found out that the stage left at 5 the same morning and it was necessary to personally attend to the business of putting the papers on the stage. The boss always said a young fellow working in his office was getting a great training which would be valuable in years to come. And at $1.50 per week while Mr. Carmichael had something to say about the time when he worked for $3.50 a week. He was an aristocrat from the start.

DISCOVERY

(By A. R. K.)

¶ John Thomas was a faithful jay, right on the job there every day, he really ran the store; he knew the stock, he knew the folk, knew how to crack his little joke. he'd greet them at the door.

¶ The hours John Thomas worked were long, nor was he built so very strong, often he'd complain; he did too much about the place, he really couldn't stand the pace, 'twas hard upon his frame.

¶ If he but owned the store he said, he'd spend an extra hour in bed, let others do the toil; he'd like to work around his shack, grow posies at the front or back, put roses in the soil.

¶ The owner died some time last spring, and now John Thomas runs the thing, and he works very hard; he's down before he used to be, and he goes back there after tea, nor digs within his yard.

¶ On days when business has the chills, John Thomas has to pay the bills, some times it's touch and go; he has to worry on his books, and really he don't like the looks, of stuff the people owe.

¶ Some months when he has figured up, he looks much like a fleabound pup, he's had to take a loss; John Thomas scratches at his head, recalls the days when oft he said—he'd like to be the boss.

The phrase "stool pigeon" is often used but few people know where it originated. Pigeons were once so common in United States that they were a menace to crops and annoying to farmers. One method of getting rid of them was to catch a pigeon and fasten it to a call stool in the field. Then when a number of others gathered near it they were trapped. From that practice we get the words "stool pigeon," meaning a secret informer on criminals.

Another origin. You have heard the phrase "once in a blue moon," as denoting something which is not likely to happen. The moon changes its color and at different phases has many shades but it never has been known to turn blue. So "once in a blue moon" means never.

Movie Actress Starts Suit.

CONSTANCE Bennett claims she agreed to pay Charles MacArthur and Ben Hecht, playwrights, $60,000 for a movie script, and gave them $2,500 in advance, the material to be furnished by June 1, 1936. Now she is suing the authors for $60,000 which she might have earned making a movie while she was waiting for the authors to deliver the promised play.

PRESIDENT Roosevelt started what he termed an economy drive, and at the end of the first six months it was found that Congress had contributed about $136,000,000 worth of real economy. A Guard For the Pork Barrel

(From the Sarnia Observer.)

A committee of officials in the Dominion civil service has been selected at Ottawa to scrutinise defence department contracts under the appropriation of $35,000,000 which the federal parliament authorised for defence.

The task of this committee is to see that unjust profits are eliminated on war supplies. The assumption is, and everyone knows it, that the country has been exploited shamefully when goods or services are bought by governments. That is one of the penalties paid for party government in democracy. The political supporters of the government in power must be given jobs, contracts and concessions to reward them for their loyalty to the party. There have been examples of especially avaricious conduct on the part of political supporters of governments in Canada. Some contractors and others have become rich selling goods or services to the administration. Government building programs have been a prolific source of easy handouts to friends of the government. It is a recognized process by both political parties in Canada and one cannot point a condemning finger at the other for they have been equally guilty; but for campaign purposes they will make all kinds of charges against each other. This is barefaced and conscienceless sham aimed to deceive and excite the rank and file of electors into partisan enthusiasm.

There does seem to be some awakening among the public, however, in regard to the political immorality in public business. The average citizen is beginning to become aware of the fact that the interest which his neighbor evinces in politics is not because he is more patriotic but because he is making profit out of his allegiance. He has sold goods to governmental institutions at his own price, he has had contracts to put up buildings for the government at enriching profits. Naturally he is a great booster for the government that has paid him well. The neighbor who has never had such recognition from his government is beginning to wonder why he should become excited in elections, why he should be a rank partisan. For that reason it is becoming a little more difficult for governments to hand out the big velvet to their friends. The genera, public is getting more intelligent and inquisitive. They are not pleased to see some of their neighbors living on the fat of the land, the favorites of government patronage handouts while all they get out of it is some crude petitioning for their vote at election time.

It is a question, however, whether a committee of civil servants can control the profits that purveyors of war supplies will seek when they sell goods to the government. The gentlemen who are notoriously in quest of the government pork barrel are not likely to be deterred by a few government employees. They will continue to wheedle the legislators into giving them special treatment, as they have always done in the past.

The system is a shameful imposition on the taxpayers but it has grown out of and flourished on the desire for power that political parties have always displayed. The main thing is to get control of the country's treasury and then maintain office by giving jobs, contracts and concessions to friends. Sometimes there is camouflage to influence the rank and file to think that business is being done on the square but as long as people consent to be rank partisans in politics, the boys at the top will hand out rich plums to favorites.

Our Vanishing Teeth

(From the Woodstock Sentinel-Review.)

THE dentists talked freely about the affairs of their business when the American Dental Association held its convention at Atlantic City a few days ago. A dentist from Atlanta, Dr. Harry B. Johnson, had considerable to say about the extraction of teeth. The substance of his address was that there had been too much indiscriminate toothpulling, but he was of the opinion that the orgy of extraction had run its course and dentists were now more concerned about measures to save damaged teeth than to remove them.

The teeth are a mystery organ of the human body. Despite the fact that they are covered with the hardest bony surface that is found, they are usually the first organ to surrender to decay. Some people are able to maintain a complete set of natural teeth throughout life. There are not many such in these times, however, and the general suspicion is that we eat and drink in a manner calculated to destroy our teeth which are now recognized as one of the vital necessities in the process of digestion.

The scientists who are studying such physiological subjects have come to the conclusion that if we could retain our natural teeth throughout life our health would be much better and we would have a more assured likelihood of long existance. Today, however, when an individual shows signs of illness of a puzzling nature, about the first thing the physician suggests is to pull out the teeth even though externally these units give no ocular evidence of damage. Nevertheless, sometimes when apparently sound teeth are extracted there is found to be infection at the roots and the substance if this infection is supposed to get into the bloodstream to poison the whole system, causing dangerous illness.

It would be an encouraging thing, from the health standpoint, if some authority could inform us how to eat, drink and live so that these fine grinders with which nature endows us when we are pushed off into the struggle for existence would remain with us until the sorrowful undertaker tucks us back into the sod.

Calamities Then And Now

(From the St. Thomas Times-Journal.)

FIFTY years ago last Thursday, July 15, 1887, St. Thomas experienced the worst single disaster in its history—the collision of a Grand Trunk excursion train and a Michigan Central freight train at the M. C. R.-L. & P. S. R. diamond crossing. The trains caught on fire, oil tanks exploded, buildings nearby were in flames, the result being the loss of thirteen lives, the injury and scalding by oil of many more persons and the loss of much property. That disaster, coupled with the tragic death of Barnum & Bailey's elephant, Jumbo, nearly two years previously, and the frequency of fatalities to railwaymen of the city in those days of more hazardous railroading gave St. Thomas the name of the "Calamity City." Fifty years and less ago the death by accident of one man was deeply deplored; if two or more were involved it was something to be talked about for months and if, like the wreck-fire-explosion of July 15, 1887, was remembered for years.

What a difference today! Fatalities occur so frequently they are forgotten almost before the victims are buried. A month ago yesterday four people met death in a motor car accident west of St. Thomas, yet we doubt if many people now recollect the circumstances, let alone the names and the number of the victims. Almost every summer week-end in Ontario the number of people killed by motor car accidents exceed the total of those who met death in the St. Thomas disaster of fifty years ago, and we read these figures as calmly as if it was something that was bound to happen. In the United States on the July 4th week-end more people were killed in traffic accidents than lost their lives in the battle of Bunker Hill, one of the major engagements of the Civil War. Each year sees traffic deaths in the American republic exceeding the number of United States soldiers who died in the Great War.

We could go on and on comparing the steady loss of death through traffic accidents with the single outstanding disasters and battles of a few decades ago and refer to the callousness and disregard shown today with the horror and the grief exhibited in those earlier fatalities and calamities. We refrain from doing so, because we realize it would do no good; our words might be forgotten, almost as soon as they were read. We cannot help but marvel, however, at the changed attitude.

We are, truly, becoming hardened to the cruelties of the world and indifferent to the sacredness of life.

DANGER AT FIRES.

(Sarnia Observer)

THE average person is backward in learning that there is much risk at fires.

Montreal furnishes a lesson as to what can happen to any crowd that gathers to watch the operations of the firemen. Two men were killed. They were firemen and were the victims of their hazardous occupation, but hundreds of others were injured and the only reason for being in the danger zone was the urge to satisfy their curiosity.

A fire in a large garage building has been in progress for twenty minutes. In that time thousands of spectators had assembled, blocking the streets and hampering the work of fire-fighters and police. Then occurred a terrific explosion of gas that shattered the front of two stories of the building, hurling splintered glass, concrete and metal into the assemblage. It is a miracle that the casualties among the crowd were not greater.

Heels on shoes originated in Persia and the reason was to lift the foot from the burning sands.

A PRACTICAL MAN.

(Financial Post)

BUSINESSMEN are never quite certain what they ought to expect from the teachers of economics in their universities. In consequence, they are alternately delighted and alarmed by developments in college teaching. They are grateful for the practical training given to many young men in finance, economic theory and business administration. They are alarmed by evidences that some university professors are cynical about business and business men.

Seldom does one find, in the field of economic teaching, a man who is more interested in collating and interpreting the facts as they emerge than he is in attempting to sketch an ideal pattern to which the facts claimed conform. Such a one is Harold A. Innis, who has just been appointed head of the department of economics at the University of Toronto. Under Prof. Innis, who is young and tactful and unopinionated, the university's economics department may be able to assume a position of importance and leadership that it has never enjoyed up to now.

TESTS FOR DRIVERS

(Chatham News)

ONTARIO police officers, in session at London, have decided to ask the Provincial Legislature to pass legislation ordering all motorists to undergo physical and mental examinations each year before being given permits to drive cars.

Pointing out, quite truthfully, that the incapable driver is one of the greatest menaces of the present day, the police said, also with truth, that many persons are driving cars at the present time, and are physically and mentally unfit for the job.

The police suggestion goes far, and it is highly improbable that so sweeping a measure would be passed as yet. The time is coming when it will be accepted without question, but in the meantime, we must step towards such a development. And the best way to inaugurate the movement would be to make a much stiffer initial test for the applicant for a driver's license.

DO YOU REMEMBER?

(New York Post)

YOU wake up on a 2-below-zero morning in February. Snow has drifted through the open window. You struggle into your goloshes, wrap a woollen scarf round your neck, pull on your heavy overcoat, tuck your ears under your hat, pull on your gloves and start off to work.

A block from the door your fingers feel frozen, your nose is red, your ears blue. You slip on an icy sidewalk, land in a snow drift. As you brush yourself off, you think about how nice it will be when summer comes.

And now you're complaining about the heat!

HOUSEKEEPING JOB.

(Niagara Falls Review)

THERE is something to be said for the suggestion, voiced here, that women would make excellent mayors of cities because "it is purely a housekeeping job, which has to do with budgets, hospitality, clean streets, pure milk, sanitation and all those things which have been women's province for generations." But the difficulty seems to be in convincing the voters and it is notorious that women are not unanimously always for members of their own sex when they run for office.

OPPOSES MASONS USING LOTTERIES

Grand Master States They Are Contrary To Law Which Must Be Respected

OTTAWA, July 21 (CP)—Opposition to Masons participating in lotteries, particularly those operated allegedly for Masonic purposes, was voiced today by Grand Master Alexander J. Anderson, Toronto, of the Grand Lodge A.F. and A.M. of Canada in the province of Ontario at the opening of the 62nd annual communication.

Requests had reached him for permission to operate lotteries for Masonic purposes, he said, but he had always refused.

"Gambling and lotteries are contrary to our law," he said. "As Masons we are charged with the duty of respecting and upholding the law of our own country and that of the country which affords us protection whatever we may be.

"All Masons, whether only craft Masons or members of orders affiliated with our grand lodge are subject to our constitution and laws.

"I trust that this reference in my address to you may be heeded by those who have participated or are engaged in lotteries, gambling and games of chance, and especially those operating allegedly for Masonic purposes, and that they will in future refrain from such participation for the good name of Freemasonry.

"If however, it is found that such practices continue," Mr. Anderson added, "I feel that grand lodge in its own interests, in the upholding of its principles, should legislate by making the participation in these practices Masonic offences and prescribing the penalties for the infraction thereof."

JAPS TO USE ARMS ENFORCING TRUCE

Tokyo Cabinet Insists North China Officials' Surrender Be Kept

TOKYO, July 21 (AP)—The cabinet determined today to enforce by arms the alleged surrender of North China officials to demands for extended Japanese influence in that area.

At the same time the privy council in plenary session approved the attack launched yesterday by the Japanese army against the city of Wanuinghsien, a western town of Peiping, and commended the troops for their gallantry in action.

The cabinet decided the agreement it insists the commander of the 29th army, General Sung Cheh-yuan made with local Japanese authorities must be carried out despite its rejection by the Chinese government. China repeatedly has declared Japan must deal with her central government at Nanking and no local truce would be recognized.

The last of the series of agreements which Japan says Sung made orally is the one the cabinet is determined to enforce. Known as the "secret spot agreement" it was concluded between Sun and the Japanese North China commander, Lieut.-General Kiyoshi Katsuki, July 19.

Mother, Daughter Victims Of River

CHICOUTIMI, Que., July 21 (C. P)—Effort of a mother to save her drowning daughter yesterday at nearby St. Felix Otis proved futile. Both drowned in Lake of the Cross.

Mrs. Edmond Durand attempted to rescue her daughter Florianne, floundering about in the water, but was grasped in an unbreakable clutch by the girl.

Death of the mother and her daughter brought to three the toll by drowning in a year in the Durand family. Mrs. Durand's husband lost his life last year in the Saguenay River. Only member of the family surviving is a four-year-old daughter.

UNAWARE OF LIGHTS.

Eighteen hours after the new traffic lights at Charlotte and Park streets went into operation, an accident was reported at the intersection today noon. A car driven by C. E. Gladman, 13 Benson avenue and a motor truck driven by Ernest Hamblin, 466 Edison avenue were the two vehicles involved. In making a report of the accident to police Gladman said he was driving west on Charlotte street and drove through the red light, as he was unaware that the lights had been installed at that point.

The accident was discussed at a meeting of Peterborough Utilities Commission this afternoon, when it was suggested that temporary signs should be erected at approaches to the crossing warning motorists of lights ahead. It was the opinion that the city council would be responsible for putting the suggestion into effect.

Would Let Nurses Practice In Training

LONDON, July 21—(CP-Cable).—A plea that undergraduate nurses be given opportunities to practise while training was urged yesterday by Miss Mary S. Mathewson of McGill University at the International Nurses' Congress.

A nurse had a right to expect an opportunity to practise under sympathetic supervision during her undergraduate period, Miss Mathewson said, rather than as a frightened and inefficient private nurse after graduating.

"If a hospital does not afford such opportunities, some other way must be found or nursing will be unable to meet its obligations," she said.

Ottawa Meeting.

The strike committee announced today two or three delegates will be chosen to represent the Peterborough local at a general conference of textile workers' unions in Ottawa this Saturday and Sunday. The conference was organized by Alex Welch, organizer in charge of the strike here, and Arthur Laverty, union organizer who is in leadership of the strike which broke out at Cornwall last night. Textile representatives from many points in Eastern Canada are expected to attend and plans and policies for Eastern Canada will be discussed.

The strike committee denied rumours that strikers have considered sending a small group of six strikers to Toronto to further interview Dominion Woollens Managing Director Henry Barrett. No such idea has been considered, Alex Welch said today.

Plans for the tag day Saturday were furthered by the committee. The objective of the tag day has been set at $1,000. Large numbers of girls of the Bonner-Worth will be called upon to serve as taggers and plans call for full coverage of the downtown area of the city during the day.

One hundred families a day are being supplied with groceries at the strike relief depot on the corner of Charlotte and Bethune streets, strikers and volunteer women in attendance this morning reported.

"We have received a generous flow of contributions daily from private citizens throughout the city, from scores of merchants and from manufacturers," Strike Chairman Mike English commented. "We have been able to supply more than 100 families a day with food but we can use more."

An important portion of the contributions are coming in the form of cash which is immediately converted into groceries for distribution. Bread, butter, canned goods, meats and a wide variety of other staples are being supplied. Some strikers have been able to call at the depot for the groceries. In other cases deliveries are being made in cars loaned by strikers.

The Press Association withdrew its version of the admiralty announcement.

Alfred Duff Cooper, First Lord of the Admiralty, discussed the incident in the House of Commons this afternoon:

"The German submarine was on the surface, outside territorial waters, in the vicinity of Portland where she had a perfect right to be. The depth charge which was fired in connection with the British submarine had no connection whatever with the German submarine."

BRITAIN FIRM SPANISH PLAN BE UNCHANGED

Times said: "This dispute on a point of procedure was clearly suggestive of deeper diffrences."

"The representatives tended to adopt extreme attitudes which prejudiced the chances of a compromise," the Conservative Morning Post said.

"Thus Maisky (Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky) at one moment declared Russia would only consider the question of belligerent rights when the last foreign combatant had been withdrawn from Spain.

"Italy and Germany, on the other hand, made it clear that the withdrawal of volunteers was a matter to which they attached much less importance than resumption of control along the Pyrenees frontier and recognition of a state of belligerency."

"Germany and Italy are deaf to appeal for cooperation," said the Liberal New Chronicle's headline over an article by its expert on foreign affairs, Vernon Bartlett.

"Grandi's real object, apart from time wasting, is pretty clear," said the Daily Herald, Labor organ. "He wants to discuss recognition before withdrawal."

HOUSE BURNED IN $5,000 BLAZE

checked, Pete Williams, Russell Graham, Edgerton Yurgensen and members of both families together with many other willing helpers went into the smoke-filled house and salvaged most of the household effects which were piled up on the lawn.

Mr. Yurgensen, who is staying temporarily at a neighboring farmhouse, and who described himself as a Salvation Army missionary on furlough from Africa, offered criticism of the City Fire Department. He claimed they had responded to an alarm only after considerable delay and said when they arrived firefighters were ineffective because they did not have a sufficient length of hose and were obliged to retire from the scene.

Had to Get Permission.

Fire Chief George Gimblett told The Examiner the facts were that his Department received the first call at 11.11 a.m. Within a brief interval there were five subsequent calls from the same fire. He pointed out that any delay there might have been was caused by the fact that permission must be obtained from the Mayor before any of the equipment can go out of the city.

The fire truck reached the scene, the Chief said, within a matter of a few minutes after the alarms were received, and 1,600 feet of line was laid from the hydrant at the corner of Victoria Avenue and Reid Street. The line was found to be 1,000 feet short.

He added that the fire was practically beyond control when the Brigade arrived, and he withdrew his men because there was no hope of saving the property.

The Chief said he was greeted with a lot of sarcasm from bystanders when the apparatus reached the scene, but he stressed that on calls of such a nature the Fire Department is handicapped from the start.

The house, now reduced to a pile of ashes, had stood as a landmark on Chemong road for many years. It was originally built over seventy years ago, it was stated, on good authority.

RAINS TOO LATE TO SAVE WHEAT IN SASKATCHEWAN

Early Sown Crops In Other Sections Ripening Fast And May Escape Rust

'HOPPERS NUMEROUS

OTTAWA, July 21.—(CP)—Rainfall over the Prairies during the past week was fairly general and varied from light showers to torrential downpours of more than five inches, said a crop report yesterday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Alberta was covered fairly well and the crop situation in the Eastern districts was materially improved. Many Saskatchewan points received good rains which should relieve the feed situation in the Southern, Central and Western areas but the rain came too late to help the wheat crop which is already beyond aid, the report said.

In the Northeastern area where practically all the remaining commercial crop is to be found, precipitation was light or lacking and some further declines have been noted.

Western Part Missed.

Manitoba shared in the rains but the dry areas in the Western part were missed and crops are suffering. In other parts of the Province crops are fair to good but rust remains as a serious threat. Early sown crops are maturing rapidly and with a continuance of good weather conditions may ripen before rust damage can affect the yield and quality.

Grasshoppers are numerous and active in different parts of the three provinces.

Detailed conditions were given in the report as follows:

Manitoba—Parts of the Province received good rains during the past week, but the northwestern section remained dry and crop prospects have declined in the face of the persistent drought. Rain is badly needed there to revive crops and pastures.

Elsewhere in the Province crops have continued to make good progress, and fair to good yields are expected, except in the dry areas.

Saskatchewan — Timely rains which soaked the soil at widely scattred points throughout the Province during the past week, did much to allegiate the critical feed situation but effected no change in the commercial wheat crop prospect.

While marked improvement is now apparent in the feed outlook much will depend on future weather conditions. Toward the eastern part of the central area, the rains were too light to be of much help, and here the situation is becoming more serious.

In northeastern and east-central districts where practically all of the remaining commercial crop is to be found, rainfall was insufficient to offset further declines which have been registered during the week. Yields are expected to be low and of poor grade because of shrunken kernels.

General in Alberta.

Alberta—Rainfall was general over practically the whole Province during the past week and varied in intensity from around six inches at Edmonton and Red Deer to very light showers at odd points. This generous precipitation has brightened the prospects materially and staved off the possibility of serious crop failure over a wide area in the eastern part of the Province.

With the improved moisture situation, grains are expected to fill out better than was thought possible a week ago, and fair crops are now looked for in fields which promised very little before the rain came.

In all there were 283 Holstein cows qualifying for production honors in the 16 various classifications for the June list, with the 8 leaders in the 365-day section averaging 19,970.5 lbs. milk, 740 lbs. fat, and the 8 in the 305-day classification averaging 31,175 lbs. milk, 547.4 lbs. fat, heifer records included. "It gives me great pleasure to bid you welcome to this country," Pollard said.

"This is Newbrook, have you had any rain lately?" Lord Tweedsmuir asked.

"Yes, we are lucky, the crops are fine," the settlement's senior citizen called. He paused and added, "its quite an event to have the governor general visit here."

BELGRADE CROWD FIGHT IN STREETS

Balkan Religious War Feared If Government Signs Roman Catholic Concordat

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, July 21.—(UP)—Greek Orthodox Catholics battled with police for the second time within twenty-four hours last night when police dispersed a protest demonstration against Government attempts to conclude a Vatican concordat.

Last night's clash occurred in Kalimegdan Park, near Belgrade's Orthodox Cathedral, when demonstrators answered police orders to disperse with a barrage of stones. Several persons were injured.

A Balkan "religious war" was threatened if the Government signs a Roman Catholic concordat.

Bishop Simeon of Schahas, who led a parade of thirty priests in defiance of a Government ban on mass meetings and demonstrations by the Orthodox clergy, lay in a hospital with a brain concussion and a possible fractured skull following Monday night's scuffle.

Premier Milan Stoyadinovich, anxious lest the Orthodox Catholics who comprise 47 per cent. of Jugoslavia's 14,000,000 population, turn against his Government, called his Radical Union Party into caucus to determine a course of action.

Feeling ran high as the nation split into two camps. Roman Catholic churches were heavily guarded. A Cabinet crisis was feared because the Interior Minister, Feeter Anton Koroschetz, who dispersed the procession, is a Catholic prelate.

A virtual state of alarm was declared throughout the city as result of the Kalimegdan Park disorders.

The electricity operating report for the month of June indicates that the peak for last month was 8,258 horse power, an increase over the corresponding period of last year of approximately 1,264 horse power.

Forty-one flat rate water heaters were installed during the month, bringing the total since the first of the current year to 140. There are now 1,201 flat rate water heaters in use throughout the city, with a total capacity of 541.40 kilowatts or 726.03 horse power.

Twelve new range services were put in during the same period, making a total to date of 92. Since the beginning of the year 39 range services were installed.

The Canadian General Electric Company commenced taking power on June 14, and have taken a load of about 700 horse power it is reported. "This accounts for a part of the increase in our peak and the balance is due to general increase," the report comments.

The power line to Hiawatha is now completed, while the Douro line is seventy-five per cent. completed and the Lakehurst line twenty-five per cent. completed.

TREASURY GETS ALMOST $300,000 SO FAR IN JULY

Tax Collections Amount To $225,373.48, Exceeding Last Year's Figures

LESS TO COME IN

Nearly $300,000 has been paid into the city treasury this month, the money being transferred by A. S. Couper, tax collector, whose receipts of the July installment exceed the total of the first payment a year ago.

Cash that passed over Mr. Couper's counter since the first of the month amounted to $225,373.48, and added to that sum were the certificates for the first instalment sold early in the year on the tax prepayment plan, equivalent to $65,555.

The total payment of the July instalment so far is $290,928.48, as compared with $289,421.22 on the corresponding date of July 19 a year ago. This means an actual increase of $1,507.26.

City Treasurer M. E. Shaver reminded The Examiner to-day that the total taxes to be collected this year are $28,300 less than in 1936. This is due to a lower tax rate, a slight drop in assessment, and several other minor factors. The city has acquired some land during the year by tax sales, and hence the total amount to be collected shows a decline.

As there are three instalments of taxes, Mr. Shaver estimates that taking account of one-third of the reduction of $28,300, the real improvement in collections over the first payments last year is approximately $11,000 to date.

CANADA IS FACING SMALLEST WHEAT SURPLUS SINCE '26

Carryover 88 Million Bushels Under Last Year—Prices 41-52 Cents Up

STILL HAVE SOME TO SELL

By Sam G. Ross
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

WINNIPEG, July 21 (CP)—Canada today moved towards the end of its crop year with prospect of its smallest wheat carry-over since 1926 and the likelihood of the shortest wheat crop since the Dominion became an important factor in the international wheat market with prices on the Winnipeg grain exchange 41 to 52 cents a bushel higher than a year ago, it was indicated in grain trade circles less wheat would be available for export than for many years although the Dominion still would have wheat to sell.

Statistics of the board of grain commissioner indicate a carryover of less than 40,000,000 bushels of wheat at the close of the crop year July 31, compared with 128,705,296 bushels last year and 40,139,362 bushels in 1926.

The 1937 carryover will be approximately the average for the 1922-27 period of 41,000,000 bushels taken by the Leland Stanford University in its Wheat Studies as an average Canadian carryover. Abnormal carryovers prevailed from 1928 until this year.

Canada's smallest wheat carryover since 1921 was recorded in 1923 when it totalled 12,173,620 bushels. The highest carryover in the history of the Dominion was recorded in 1934 when it totalled 219,428,396 bushels.

Rains Increase Hopes

Although no official estimate of the current wheat crop of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta has been made, private estimates place production around 150,000,000 bushels. Recent rains have improved crop prospects in many areas and the yield may be higher.

Taking the 40,000,000 bushels carryover, the prospects of a 150,000,000 bushel yield from Western Canada and 20,000,00 bushels in Eastern Canada, the Dominion tentatively may expect to have 210,000,000 bushels for the 1937-38 crop year.

Deducting 105,000,000 bushels for the home requirements of seed, feed and milling, and allowing about 35,000,000 as carryover on July 31, 1938, the Dominion may have around 70,000,000 bushels for export to foreign countries. Wheat exports for the current crop year to date total 184,048,000 bushels.

Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta last year harvested 212,000,000 bushels, and production was 264,096,000 in 1935, 163,800,000 in 1934, 263,004,444 in 1933, 422,847,000 in 1932, 301,181,000 in 1931, and 397,300,000 in 1930.

W. Sanford Evans, chief of the Winnipeg statistical service bearing his name, emphasized the Western crop may be larger than private estimates now being made. Recent rains have improved crop prospects in many districts and while stems might be short, the new moisture would aid the kernels to develop and bring increased yields.

NEED BIGGER GUNS ON BRITISH SHIPS

Navy Experts Warn Other Nations Using 16-Inch With Britain Sticking To 14's

LONDON, July 21 (CP).—Warning Great Britain may need 16-inch calibre guns on her battleships to compete with other world powers confronted the government today as the three-power London Naval Treaty Bill was started on the road to ratification in the House of Commons.

Great Britan's decision to stick to 14-inch guns despite the fact other nations are building 16-inch guns would lower the navy's morale in time of conflict, said A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty in the Labor Government. His alarm was shared by Winston Churchill and Admiral Sir Roger Keyes.

Question of gun calibre was raised yesterday after Alfred Duff Cooper, First Lord of the Admiralty, moved second reading of a bill approving the treaty. Second reading was given without division after Duff Cooper's appeal for quick action and his assertion it was time Britain, which took a leading part in formulating the treaty, should ratify it.

Difference in size of guns was a matter of great complexity and one for experts, replied Geoffrey Shakespeare, Parliamentary Secretary of the Admiralty, after Duff Cooper had left the House. Shakespeare added: "But the matter is well in hand and preparations are well advanced."

"If there is any departure from the limitations of the 14-inch gun it isn't our fault," Shakespeare continued.

"Whether we have 14 or 16-inch guns is not really germane to this treaty; it is outside the treaty. It is a question of naval policy which will have to be considered by the First Lord and the Board of the Admiralty."

If the Japs Can Do It.

Churchill declared that supposing the Japanese, German and United States designers were able to solve the problem, which the Commons was assured the Admiralty had found insoluble, of mounting 16-inch guns in a 35,000-ton hull, then Britain must get ready to change.

A former First Lord of the Admiralty, Churchill said he was convinced the superiority of the 16-inch calibre guns could not be discounted by any other advantage. He demanded British naval technicians find means of mounting 16-inch guns on 35,000-ton capital ships.

The treaty was signed by Great Britain and those Dominions maintaining naval forces and by the United States and France. Canada has yet to ratify it. Japan and Italy refused to sign and their absence was described by Duff Cooper as the treaty's weakest point. Germany and Russia have signed bilateral treaties with Great Britain, incorporating most of the provisions of the London Treaty.

While not embodying limitation in the numbers of ships, the treaty is designed to prevent a race in new types and sizes. It limits the size of battleships to 35,000 tons, aircraft carriers to 23,000 tons, and cruisers to 10,000 tons.

Originally it stipulated 14-inch guns as the maximum calibre for armament of capital ships, but the United States invoked the treaty's safety clause when it was learned Japan would mount 16-inch guns on her new battleships.

USE BLOODHOUNDS AFTER 2 CONVICTS

Desperado And Companion Escape In Gun Battle—Wife Found Fainted In Car

DIRANT, Okla., July 21 (AP).—Bloodhounds led a heavily armed posse of 250 Federal, State and County officers today in search of Pete Traxler, southwestern desperado, and his companion.

Traxler's wife, 30-year-old Nell Tingley Traxler, was captured yesterday a few hours after she joined her husband, but Traxler and his fellow-felon escaped in a gun battle, 16 miles west of here. Mrs. Traxler fainted and was found in the fugitives' bullet-riddled car.

Traxler's companion, described by Mrs. Traxler as "Fred," is believed to be Fred Tindol, who with Traxler and seven others, broke from the Huntsville, Tex., prison farm July 8.

Scottsboro Case Opens Again

Shown above reading in their cell at the Decatur, Ala., prison are Clarence Norris (Right) and Charlie Weems, two of the nine Scottsboro case defendants. Norris was recently condemned to the electric chair for the third time, while Weems' case was postponed because of his attorney's illness. The nine negroes are charged with criminally assaulting two women while riding a freight train through Alabama. The present trial is the third which the Negroes have faced, having appealed the two previous convictions against them.

When Fred Kelsey arrived at his store early yesterday morning two young Americans were waiting to buy fishing licenses. "That $5.50 each seems a little high" one of the remarked. MAY HAVE BEAUTY SHOW.

Dick Butler, chairman of the Attractions Committee of the Lindsay Central Exhibition is considering the advisability of a beauty contest as a big feature of the Fair this year. The idea would be to offer valuable prizes and the title of Miss Central Ontario as inducements to bring out a field of the best-looking women in the district.

MORE GAS BEING USED.

The gas department here has secured 230 new customers since the first of the year, according to the report presented to the Utilities Commission by Harry L. Beal, manager. The present number of domestic, commercial and industrial gas users is stated to be 3,174, a record that falls short by three of the high level established last year.

STOLE CAR TICKETS.

Somebody stole from the United Cigar Store this morning a wad of about 200 coupons for the car drawing at the Peterborough Exhibition. It was only a petty theft, but one of those tickets might conceivably be a winner. However, the series of numbers is listed with the Exhibition Board, together with the name of the stores receiving them, and as this little bundle was only a recent delivery, any person turning in one of those tickets, if it happened to be announced, would certainly be suspect.

Little, Dummer Township, paid a dollar, and $3.25 costs, for an infraction of the city parking by-law; while Joseph Rutter, Port Hope, was ordered to contribute $2, and $2.50 costs, for failing to halt at a stop sign.

HIS REQUEST FAILED

"I have been announcing for the last fifteen years that the Act does not give me the authority to let a man go after pleading guilty to an intoxication charge," Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., told J. S. White a transient in police court this morning.

White who admitted being drunk urged he had a farm job to go to at Campbellford and he enjoined, "If you let me go I will get out of town right away."

"You can go if you have ten dollars and costs to pay," the Cadi told him. "Otherwise you will serve ten days in the county goal."

HOW TO LEARN TO SWIM.

A Course of Lessons Specially Arranged By Gordon Minty, Swimming Director of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A.

CLIP OUT AND SAVE.

LESSON TWELVE

Methods of Towing.

There are many different methods which you may employ to tow a drowning person to shore, a few of which I have outlined here. Swimmers should learn several means since varying circumstances will necessitate different methods being used. For instance, if the subject be bald headed don't attempt to use the hair carry, or if the subject be struggling, use such as the Cross Chest, Double Chest or Elbow Carry, otherwise use the one at which you are most proficient.

Hair Carry

For an unconscious or quiet subject the easiest and fastest method of towing is by the Hair Carry. Grasp a handful of hair at the front of his head keeping the elbow straight. Swim with the free arm and scissor kick. Keep the subject's face above water but do not hold it too high as this adds to the burden of towing.

Head Carry.

With the subject lying on his back, place the palms of your hands over his ears and fingers stretched, two above and two below, along the jaw bone. Keep the subject's head tipped well back so that his feet will ride closer to the surface of the water. By keeping your elbows straight you will stay farther away from him and better able to breathe regularly.

Cross Chest Carry.

From a position back of the subject, assuming that you will swim on your left side, reach the right arm over his right shoulder and across the body, placing your right hand under his left armpit and the upper arm against his neck, holding him so that your hip is under the centre of his back with shoulder under your armpit. This is one of the most effective ways of towing a struggling subject. In swimming on the right side the procedure is reversed.

Arm Lock Carry.

This is another very good method of towing a struggling subject. After turning him about put your left arm through his left armpit, reach across his back and grasp his right arm. Then complete the rescue as in the Cross Chest Carry.

BUS COMPANIES HAVE TO PROVIDE PROPER TERMINAL

Will Not Be Allowed To Use Charlotte Street Any Longer

NEW PARKING RULES

It came as a surprise to members of the Legal Committee of the City Council to learn from a special sub-committee that twenty buses a day from outside points use a portion of Charlotte street between George and Water streets as a terminal point.

Because the traffic congestion from this cause is proving to be troublesome and dangerous, the various firms concerned are to be asked to make other provision for a terminus and are to be notified that the city will no longer permit them to use Charlotte street because of traffic congestion at the place.

Recommendations of the Sub-Committee appointed to look into traffic conditions in the city were adopted by the Legal Committee as follows:

"That parking be prohibited within a distance of eight feet of fire hydrants.

"That parking on McDonnel, Murray and Brock streets between Water and Aylmer streets be limited to half-an hour.

"That a trial be made of using cedar scantling painted white, placed on the ground to mark out parking places on the Market Square.

"That strips eight feet long placed on either side of fire hydrants be painted on sidewalks in white, and that bus stops be also marked out in white paint.

With a view to elimination of a potential danger, the Exhibition Board is being requested by the Committee to round the corner on the fence that is being erected at Lansdowne and Park streets so as to give traffic an unobstructed view.

On motion of Alderman James Dutton the committee resolved to recommend to council that an approved danger sign be erected at Barpardo avenue on the east and west sides of George street.

It was also resolved that Water street be designated a through street from Park Hill road to Langton street, and that George street be designated a through street from Park Hill road to the southerly boundary of Argyle street.

Signs are to be erected at the corner of Maria and Mark streets and at the corner of Mark street and Hunter street east directing traffic to downtown areas and at the corner of Lansdowne and George streets directing traffic to the uptown area.

TIMMINS RIOTERS GET LIGHT TERMS

Defence Charges Fracas Badly Handled—No Occasion For Gas, Bombs Or Water

TIMMINS, Ont., July 21 (CP).—After a plea for leniency, by Defence Counsel Dean Kester, K.C., four men who took part in the July 1 riot in front of the Town Hall here were given light sentences by Magistrate S. Atkinson in court here yesterday. William Gulak and Joe Roy, whom the magistrate termed the leaders of the disturbance, were sentenced to three months in jail, while Mark Richer and Moise Foubert, two other participants, were sentenced to 30 days at hard labor.

Anasa Seguin appeared for Foubert and attempted to bring out differences in the testimony of three officers who said they had seen Foubert in the front row of more than 700 citizens which gathered in front of the Town Hall.

His defence consisted of alibi that he was asleep in a hotel room across the street from the Town Hall. Edward Dudley, a witness, said he had left the hotel with Foubert shortly before the rioting began and that they had returned to see the crowd gathered in front of the Town Hall. He went to his room to watch the proceedings from the upper storey of the hotel and had left Foubert on the street.

Saw Him on Bed.

Fifteen minutes later, he said, he passed by Foubert's room and saw him on the bed apparently asleep.

Magistrate Atkinson held that the officers had been fairly accurate in their description of Foubert and decided he was guilty.

Kester, who represented Richer and Roy asked that he be granted permission to speak before the sentences were passed.

"Before passing sentence of Richer I would ask that Your Worship take into consideration the fact that the accused was merely pulling a freight truck down the street and caused some disturbance by doing so," Kester said. "It has not been proven that he took any further part in the proceedings."

"On a point of law, Richer is probably guilty of some offence," the defence lawyer stated. "I would ask that his sentence be made as low as possible and that the spirit of the occasion be taken into consideration when the sentence is passed."

Kester said that the riot was "badly handled and was bungled by the Timmins police."

Tear Gas Unnecessary.

"The occasion was not one which demanded the use of tear gas, stink bombs and water, and whether the mob was provoked or not could not be brought out during the questioning of the officers at the trial," he said. "The evidence of the officers at the trial was very unsatisfactory," Kester said. "The truth was deliberately hidden. The witnesses refused to tell who had given the order or who was responsible for the use of the tear gas and water.

"Fortunately for themselves, the police stand behind a fence of law and order and cannot be questioned in this court regarding their bungling of the whole affair," he concluded.

"The officers are not to be criticised in this court," said Crown Attorney Caldbick. "There is another court or council where they will receive their proper chastisement if such is due."

Charles Kellow, another alleged rioter, pleaded not guilty to the charge and was remanded until next week.

Women's Rally Sees Day Near For Men To Do Kitchen Duty

Credit Man's Blunder In Starting Wars For Fairer Sex's Advance In Industry

89-YEAR-OLD FIGHT

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., July 21 (AP).—The serpent has swallowed its tail, the cycle is ended, and the men may soon have to bite themselves to the kitchen and scrub the linoleum say delegates to the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's convention.

They took stock today of an 89-year-old fight to throw off male dominance, and resolved that victory was in sight.

Fifteen hundred delegates—successful United States women all, and leaders in business and industry—harked back to the day in 1848 when the first women's rights convention was held at Seneca Falls, N.Y., amid much jeering by males. There Elizabeth Cady Stanton submitted her famed "twelve sentiments for the recognition of woman's equality with man."

The women didn't get very far beyond the noise stage until the men, in their blundering, got mixed up in a civil war. Then women began to slide into their jobs.

Another One Put Over.

Meanwhile, some smart women told a school board the idea of hiring women teachers because of their "native feminine patience and understanding of children," and it's been going on ever since.

Came the typewriter in 1874. Gentle, nimble fingers captured it. Came the telephone, and the soft, sweet voice soon won. Came the shirt factory, and more nimble fingers. Men snatched the typesetting machine before their daughters got to it, but never mind: came the printer-telegraph, the rapid calculator, the mutigraph...

Then came more masculine blunderings, and the men came back from the Spanish-American War and the Great War to find more women doing their jobs.

All this time the women were creeping up behind the dominant male, with his governmental machinery. The climax—votes for women—came in 1919-1920, and the male sighed in relief at learning the suspense was over.

PROTECT FISHING BY OLD CEREMONY

Yorkshire Town's Traditional Rights Upheld By Hurling Javelin Into Sea

FILEY, England, July 21 (CP)—This ancient east Yorkshire fishing town has witnessed the repetition of a scene that has been enacted once every seven years for more than seven centuries.

When the tide was at its lowest a horseman entered Filey Bay and, advancing as far as his steed could carry him, cast a javelin seawards. Thus the rights and control of the Lord of the Manor of Filey and Hunmanby over the waters of Filey Bay were asserted and maintained.

During the crusades Richard Coeur de Lion held Lord of Manor de Filey: "When you get back to Yorkshire ride your horse as far as you dare in Filey Bay and then throw your javelin. Where the javelin drops shall be your boundary."

The Lord of the Manor at the time was an astute man. He selected the month of September for the javelin throwing because then the tide was at its lowest. Afterwards he met King Richard at York and was asked if he had thrown the weapon. He replied that he had ridden his horse as far out as he dared and then thrown it and if the King could show him on a map where it fell he would be satisfied with his boundary. If he could not, he would claim the same rights as the Crown did round other parts of the coast. So, although the javelin is thrown, a three-mile limit is claimed.

Sir Denis Readett-Bayley, present Lord of the Manor, explained that by throwing the javelin once every seven years he gained the power to exclude Hull and Grimsby trawlers from Filey Bay and kept the fishing rights for the Filey fishermen. It was not necessary for the Lord of the Manor to throw the javelin personally, he said. Frank Skilbeck performed the recent ceremony. Members of the Skilbeck family have carried out the office for several hundred years. Frank now is more than 80. On some past occasions his son and grandson have ridden out into the water, but old Frank wanted to celebrate his recent second marriage by throwing the javelin once more.

Mothers-In-Law Organize In Texas

AUSTIN, Texas, July 21—(AP).—Five Texas mothers-in-law bade their jilted-at sisters throughout the United States to-day to become members of the incorporated "National Association of Mothers-in-Law Clubs," but Gene Howe wasn't on hand to cheer them.

Howe, editor-philosopher of an Amarillo newspaper, has been saying nice things about mothers-in-laws since 1934. That year he made the mother-in-law conscious by launching an annual celebration to honor all such relatives, in penance for the jokes printed at the expense of his wife's mother, Mrs. Nellie Donald.

Yesterday Mrs. Donald and four colleagues were granted a charter for a corporation under Texas laws, designed to "preserve the American home."

This was taking place while Editor Howe was visiting his mother in Westport, Conn., according to Amarillo sources.

PEPPY WESTCLOX DEFEATS C. G. E.

Clockmakers Win Handily From Sloppy Fielding Electrics 16 To 3

Westclox returned from their vacation to take a 16-3 win over C.G.E. in a Girls' Softball League game last night at the Bowl. A big crowd of fans saw the Clockmakers win handily from their rivals who kicked the ball all over the field. The losers had a dozen errors, which figured heavily in the score. Westclox had good pitching and fielding, along with some timely hitting, to pile up the count and move into a second-place tie in the standing. M. Snowden allowed but eight hits as she fanned seven and walked none. Neither M. McCarthy nor H. Newson could stop the victors on the rival mound and their support was bad all the way.

H. Newson and B. Martin had two hits each for the Electrics, one of the former's being a double. B. Lee clouted a triple. G. Mortimer led Westclox at bat with three hits in five times. M. Ferguson and M. Snowden hit triples and A. Sturgeon a two-bagger. The winners went good defensively most of the contest but the losers fell down in this department. The teams:

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP)—When John A. Heydler, former president of the National League, goes to a ball game these days he sits in the bleachers to get the sun . . . He doesn't know it yet, but Al Schacht, the baseball clown, is going to get a fat offer . . . Some folks thinks his jokes would go over good over the air . . . Young Don Budge played himself a game of tennis, didn't he . . . Looks like Johnny Broaca is all washed up with the Yanks . . . Joe McCarthy says Johnny (who jumped the team) will never throw another ball for the Yankees.

Giant flag chances have been hard hit with scrappy Dick Bartell, Gus Mancuso and Harry Danning all on the shelf at the same time and the Cubs due day after tomorrow . . . Danning is still working with a bad ankle, however . . . If Little Henry Armstrong keeps on belting 'em out, who'll be left for him to fight?

Henry's fists may punch him right into the all-star card Mike Jacobs is lining up for September 17 . . . Barney Ross is scheduled to defend his welterweight title against Geferino Garcia, but should bobby Pacho beat Garcia in the Garden Thursday night, there'll be no one left for Barney to fight . . . SINCE THE OLD City Baseball League—which fed the senior club with players—is now as defunct as John Brown's body which lies a-moulding in the grave, the only minor ball club we have—Herb Ralph's Rotary Juniors—rates a lot of fan support. It is a good club, without a loss so far this season, and may go a long way in O.B.A.A. playdowns. The Rotarians meet Bowmanville in a final scheduled tilt tonight at 6.15 in Riverside Park and a loss for Bowmanville will eliminate the Rubbertown outfit. So it should be another neat Lakeshore Junior Ball Loop battle, and ought to draw a goodly gathering of cash customers.

THIS ITEM WAS IN the Port Hope Guide the other day: "L. G. Bennett, Port Hope, after watching the matinee races at New Hamburg last Saturday, purchased the green pacer, Axworthy Gratten, from H. Hobbs of that town. This pacer acts the part of developing into a better than fair sort of wiggler, as he has a lot of speed and plenty of manners." We are glad to hear Lou, the grand old gent of the harness-hoss circuit, has bought a pacer that has read Emily Post—and we are curious to see this greenish-tinted member of the Gratten clan. Must be quite a sight as he "wiggles" around the track.

BELLEVILLE FLYING ROVERS have a lacrosse fixture here Friday night against our Auburns. 'Twill be under the lights, commencing shortly after nine o'clock. If the Quinte crew comes here at full strength, it'll be a tidy tussle; but if the Messrs. Gould, Partridge and Smart, do not make the trip—they missed their last game 'gainst Oshawa—it'll be just another chuckle for the Woollens in this warm weather. Seems someone had the nerve to tell Joe Gould—who is really some shucks at the gutted-stick game around Central Ontario—that he should pass the ball more. So now Joe is passing it up altogether! But the holdouts may return to the wars here Friday p.m. We hope so, as it would make a neat scrap. The Flying Rovers, in third place in the standing, is a Belleville-Trenton mixture.

ORILLIA TERRIERS come to town next Tuesday for an exhibition game with the Auburns. Folks who have been wondering for months what the Auburns would look like in defeat can have their whim gratified. The Mann Cup champs—that means Dominion—for the past three years, and on top of the senior loop again this summer, will beat the locals just as sure as that tax bill comes around. But maybe by not too big a score—at least we expect they'll have a good game before it is over. This fray should draw fans from all over this neck of the woods—as the Edmonton Grads did.

* * * * * *

SCRIBE CAMPBELL of Oshawa who is reducing, if not producing, on the Local 222 defence, is quite high on his lacrosse squad's showing—since they took Norwood 17-6 the other eve. He admits that he and Kelly DeGray are rounding into a formidable rearguard, and points out that Bovin is tallying from five to seven a game—with Barron also coming on fast. Says we had better get an alibi ready as Auburns will soon taste the bitter dregs of defeat at the hands of the Unionists. We wouldn't be too surprised at that, since the Auburns aren't unbeatable, but the 222 team will have to do some tall stepping to hurdle the locals yet awhile. Maybe along about playoff time the Motor Citizens will be poison to the Petes and that'll be okay, too. No group should have a runaway of it.

DIT CLAPPER was one of the referees the other gloaming as Belleville's gutted-stick gang nosed out a 9-6 verdict over Cobourg with a strong finish. Two newcomers, Fox of Stirling and Vail of the R.C.A.F., lined up with the Rovers, the latter looking quite promising. Fox was in the cage with Huson and Vail on defence. Logie played rover as Lalonde took centre between Day and Tompkins. Subs were Clay, Tache, Anderson and Robinson. Norwood and Cobourg are playing good games but having no luck lately.

WESTCLOX GALS returned from a vacash to trounce C.G.E. at the Bowl last eve by a 16-3 score. The Electrics kicked the ball freely in an area bounded by Burnham St. and the river in one direction and the bridge and the park road on the other—yeah, all over the apple orchard. With such support, you couldn't expect much from the two twirlers used. On the winners' mound, Marg Snowden heaved good ball and had better backing. Lot of hard bingling in spots but the fans were disappointed at the losers' fielding. C.G.E. has an up-and-down team, good one game and awful the next. Manager Fred Martin has aged several years the past few months! The game tonight at the Bowl is off, Omemee defaulting to Cobourg. A postponed tilt will be staged here between C.G.E. and Cobourg tomorrow e'en, moving the Keene-C.G.E. contest (originally billed for Thursday) back to Friday, at the Bowl. And Westclox go to Omemee on Friday.

WITH OSHAWA at Napanee today in the C.O.B.L., the Petes play in Kingston—and entertain the Ponies back here on Saturday. Gunner Whitehill is slated to return to the Petes' mound this evening, while Joe Jakaiby and Bill Calladine will be held in reserve. Fred Ash is out of the game with a lame back, and may be out a couple of weeks. Too bad as Ash has been playing a neat defensive game at first for the locals. We are sure having our share of injuries this season. Whatley may be able to play today. Joe Daley will probably throw Jamieson against the Collins' crew. 'Tis to be hoped the Petes will crack the Kingston jinx this week—if they're ever going to do it this year.

MOSCOW, July 21—(AP)—Execution of 24 more alleged "Trotskyist and Japanese terrorist spies and wreckers" was reported from the Soviet far east today.

The Khabarovsk, Siberia, court which sentenced them to death accused them of sabotage along the trans-Siberian railroad.

(The executions raised the total of persons reported executed in Soviet Russia's spy hunt in recent months to 322, most of them in the far east.)

HASTINGS FALLS TO BELMONT LAKE

Pitchers Provide Fireworks In Close Junior League Softball Game

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, July 21.—Belmont Lake defeated Hastings 7 to 6 in a close Kawartha Junior Softball League game at Havelock last night (Tuesday). It was a pitcher's battle all the way between McKee of Hastings and Brunton of Belmont. Hastings opened the scoring in the first innings when 2 runs scored on 2 errors and McKee's single. They scored 1 in the second on a walk and 2 passed balls and another in the third on errors. After Phillips singled Radford drove him home with a double to score another in the fifth and they scored their final run in the seventh on a hit and an error.

Belmont scored 2 in the first on 2 hits and a walk and 2 more in the second on 2 hits and a walk. They scored 1 in the fourth on a hit and an error, 1 in the fifth on a hit and an error and the deciding run was scored in the sixth when Steenburg walked, stole second, went to third on a passed ball and was called safe at the plate on one of Umpire Ken McGill's many bad decisions.

Brunton for Belmont allowed but 4 hits as he struck out 14 and walked 2. McKee, Hastings' pitcher gave up 7 hits, struck out 8 and walked 3. The teams:

Hastings—Radford, 1b; Phillips, c; McKee, p; McCoy, lf; Stickles, 3b; R. Scriver, cf; Brinklow, 2b; Turner, rf; Puffer, ss.

Belmont Lake—Murray, 3b; Brunton, p; Rogers, 1b; Cec Wrightly, c; Tarbox, ss; Steenburg, cf; Pace, 2b; Kennedy, rf; Cliff Wrightley, lf.

Score by innings:

		R	H	E
Hastings	211 010 1—	6	4	2
Belmont Lake	220 111 x—	7	7	5

Umpires—Ken McGill, Havelock, plate; Dave Rex, Toronto, bases.

GOLF—FACTS NOT THEORIES
By Alex Morrison

Number 47

Some golf courses put a premium on well-placed shots. The fairways are plenty wide and the greens quite large, so that nearly all of the holes appear to be rather easy.

But there is hardly a level stretch of ground on any hole. There is just enough roll and slope to every inch of the fairways and greens to make it necessary to place every shot, otherwise the player finds himself in trouble. Courses like this deceive most players. You have to pick your spots around the course, and keep playing for them regardless of how easy it seemed to take another route.

This same thing holds true in the game of any player on any course. Every player should pick a landing place for his ball that is safe and within easy reach for him just as a pilot watches landing areas for his aeroplane. In this way many strokes can be saved.

It makes golf strategy comparable to that used in playing chess. Each move is made with due consideration for penalties and its relation to the next move. Always pick the largest and safest landing place to shoot for.

BRITISHERS WIN IN HAMILTON MEET

Oxford-Cambridge Track Stars From Overseas Take 9 Of 13 Events

HAMILTON, Ont., July 21—(CP)—A victory over Hamilton Olympic Club's augmented track team tucked away in their bags, the fleet-footed Oxford-Cambridge trackmen moved on to Toronto to-day for another meet in their North American good-will tour.

Aside from the Britishers' smashing triumph by nine first places to four for the home club, the double victory of blonde Johnny Loaring of Windsor was last nights standout attraction. Loaring, student at University of Western Ontario, strode to a photo-finish victory over Arthur Godfrey K. Brown, British captain. It was Brown's first defeat in his 440-yard specialty in the current tour.

Loaring beat Brown by inches in 46.8. His time was two-tenths of a second behind the Canadian record set by W. C. Robbins of New York in 1909.

Finishing five yards ahead of D. A. D. L. Nichols of Oxford-Cambridge, Loaring had previously won the 220 yards low hurdles in 24.8. His double triumph was challenged for the spotlight by the great duel in the two-mile between C. A. J. Emery of the visitors and the veteran Bob Rankine, Preston, Ont.

Pressed by Rankine, Emery flashed to a Canadian record of 9 minutes, 20.6 seconds, eclipsing the former 9.24 mark set in 1933 by C. J. Mabey, running for Oxford-Cambridge at that time. Rankine ran dogzedly beside the Englishman until the last lap, when Emery shot to the lead which he increased to 10 yards at the finish. Rankine was also within the old mark with 9.22.3.

Allan Pennington, No. 1 sprinter, turned in an easy victory in the 220 yards over Hamiltons Jim Homer. He and Godfrey Brown, star of the English team, competed in only one event each.

Max Lenover, schoolboy star from Chatham, Ont., was only five yards in the rear when J. T. H. MacNair captured the 880, from which Brown had withdrawn to save himself for the battle with Loaring. The Chatham lad was 10 yards ahead of M. A. Melfort of Oxford-Cambridge, and MacNair was clocked at 1.57.1.

HASTINGS PLANS ON STREET DANCE

August 11th Set As Date, Hold Softball Tournament In Afternoon

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, July 21.—At a joint meeting of the Hastings' Softball Club and some of the local business men, plans were made to hold a street dance in the village on Wednesday night, August 11 with a softball tournament in the afternoon. Returns from the dance are to be turned over to the park committee for the improvements.

Several committes were appointed to look after the affair. Reeve H. G. Fairman was appointed chairman of all committees, Earl Hohn, treasurer and F. S. Crate, secretary. A special committee was appointed to write several orchestras for prices on providing music for the event.

After a discussion it was decided to have one charge of admission rather than charge to go through two gates.

The meeting was well represented by members from the softball teams and of the business men. H. G. Fairman emphasized the fact that if every one would pull together, a real success could be made of the affair.

The plans made will have to meet the approval of the village council at their next meeting.

NEWARK BLASTS LEAFS' HURLERS FOR 10-4 GAME

Seeds And Dahlgren Collect Five Hits Of Bears' 14 Total

GIANTS WIN 1-0

TORONTO, July 21 (C.P.). — If any of the current crop of hurlers on the Jersey City farm of New York Giants make the jump upward to the parent club, they'll find themselves on familiar territory—on the bottom of a batting order without any punch.

The papa Giants are known as a team that makes few runs and fights every inch of the way to gain victories. Jersey Giants show no indication of deviating from the path laid by the parent organization, excepting for the fact that they don't win as often.

Glen Gabler, brother of the "Great Gabbo" who used to pitch for the Giants and now is with the Boston Bees, knows what it is to pitch the "hard way." In almost every game he's taken part in for Jersey, Gabler has had to bear down every bit of the way.

Defeat Bisons 1-0.

He pitched four-hit ball to down the Buffalo Bisons 1-0 last night, and the lone run was the result of a Bison error and not the Jersey offensive.

Pete Sivess, another fine flinger doing yeoman service with a second division club, pitched a five-hitter against Rochester Red Wings to give Baltimore Orioles a 3-2 victory. Pete was given some tough opposition by young Howie Krist, who allowed the Orioles only seven blows.

Newark Bears pushed their league lead to 19 full games when they bombarded three Toronto flingers with 14 hits and scored a 10-4 victory. Bob Seeds and Babe Dahlgren collected five of these between them and drove home a total of six runs.

Syracuse Chiefs turned the tables on the Montreal Royals, smashing out 27 hits to take a double-header by 13-9 and 7-4.

TOP + TOSSERS In the Majors

MONTY STRATTON

Chicago's giant of the pitching corps, Monty Stratton, finally has convinced Manager Jimmy Dykes he is all he was cracked up to be as a minor leaguer. For Monty, who came up to the Sox the season before last as a great find and then bogged down throughout the season, currently holds the spotlight as leading American League hurler.

Monty has won 11 games, a swell start toward a 20-games-won mark, goal of all pitchers. Last year all the six-foot five-inch fellow could do was to win five games while losing seven.

Monty played sandlot ball first and then received a trial with Galveston. He reported to the White Sox only to be sent to St. Paul of the American association, where he won 17 and lost nine for a mark of .654. At the late end of 1935 he returned to the Sox and won one game while losing two.

The right-hander was much-talked about during the spring training trip this year and kept up the good work from opening day on. He was selected as one of the American pitchers in the All-Star game.

Monty was born in Celeste, Tex., in 1914. He is a 190-pounder. He bats right-handed. He has pitched several low run games this season.

GIANTS ADVANCE WITHIN HALF GAME OF CHICAGO CUBS

Two-Bagger By Davis Beats Redmen In the Tenth Frame

BUSH STOPS CARDS

NEW YORK, July 21.—The New York Giants clipped the Chicago Cubs' National League lead to a half-game yesterday when they outlasted the Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 3, in 10 innings.

Clift Melton went the route for the Giants, giving up five hits, one a home run by Chick Hafey with a mate aboard in the ninth that put the Reds out ahead 3 to 2. The Giants tied it up in their half on a single by Leslie, sacrifice and a single by Danning, then won in the tenth when Davis doubled Moore home from first.

The Cub-Philadelphia Phillies game was postponed because of wet grounds.

Pittsburgh's third-place Pirates were beaten by the Brooklyn Dodgers when Heinie Manush hit a two-bagger, and Tom Winsett singled to drive home the deciding run in the tenth. It was a duel between Cy Blanton and Max Butcher, with the latter emerging triumphant, despite giving up eight hits—two more than Blanton allowed. The Pirates made four errors.

Guy Bush pitched and batted the Boston Bees to a 5 to 3 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals. The veteran scattered 10 hits effectively, and clouted singles in the sixth and eighth innings to start a two-run rally in each. He scored two runs.

Yesterday's Stars

Cliff Melton, Giants—Pitched five-hit ball for 10 innings to halt Reds, 3-2.

Heinie Manush and Jack Winsett, Dodgers—Former doubled in 10th and scored on latter's single with run that topped Pirates, 2-1.

Tony Cuccinello, Bees — Two-bagger and single drove in three runs in 5-3 trimming of Cards.

Luke Appling, White Sox—Hit three singles and drove in winning run in 10-inning, 4-3 defeat of Senators.

Hank Greenberg, Tigers — His 10th-inning single scored run that beat Red Sox, 10-9.

Tommy Farr Is Unafraid Of Terrible Brown Bomber

'All Louis Has To Do Is Stick Out His Chin Once,' Says British Champ

SURPRISES PROMOTER

NEW YORK, July 21. (CP).—Tommy Farr, upon whose broad young shoulders ride British hopes of capturing the world heavyweight boxing championship, now guarded by dusky Joe Louis, arrived yesterday from London and impressed doubting New Yorkers with his confidence and forthright manner.

His opening declaration to the flock of reporters who swooped down on him all but bowled him over. His frank Welsh face showed he meant every word when he said:

"I'll beat Louis because I have never been knocked out in my life and am not afraid of anyone but God."

Then the young Welshman, who meets the Detroit negro here Aug. 26, gave full play to his confidence. He went on:

"Louis is a man with two legs and two arms and he is no better than a lot of others I've met. If I didn't expect to beat him I wouldn't be here. All he has to do is stick his chin out once and he'll be gone."

No Reputation as Killer

The boast that he might bop Jolting Joe out with one punch did not go down well with advance notices of his ring technique. They have been to the effect that the former coal miner, who wears the British and Empire crowns, is fast, clever and willing, but a far cry from being a killer.

Michael Strauss (Call me "Mike") Jacobs, cauliflower impresario, who is promoting the fight, confided he never expected to find a Briton so tough. Jacobs led a big welcoming party down the harbor to meet the Berengaria.

"This guy not only looks tough," the promotor said, 'but he talks tough."

Farr, who recently took falls out of Max Baer, Tommy Loughran, Bob Olin and Walter Neusel, looked fit after the voyage. He said he had trained in the ship's gymnasium, mostly skipping rope. He weighed 203 pounds stripped, and said he expected to scale that against Louis when he collides with the champ in the Yankee Stadium. After a day or so of sight-seeing, he'll pitch camp at Long Branch, N.J., and begin serious training.

NEW YORK ADDS TO LENGTHY LEAD IN AMERICAN RACE

St. Louis Browns Drop Pair, First In Tenth Frame, By 5-4 Count

DIMAGGIO HOMERS AGAIN

NEW YORK, July 21.—New York Yankees widened their lead to six-and-a-half games by taking both ends of a doubleheader from the Browns at St. Louis, 5 to 4 and 9 to 6.

The Yanks scored the winning run in the tenth inning of the opener on one hit. Crosetti walked, reached second when Rolfe was safe on an error, moved to third on DiMaggio's fly, and scored when Lou Gehrig beat out an infield hit.

The Browns loaded the bases in their last half, but Manager Rogers Hornsby pinch hit a feeble bunt and the man was forced at the plate. Allen batted for Hildebrand and filed to Tom Henrich, who doubled Knickerbocker at the plate.

DiMaggio's 25th Homer.

DiMaggio clouted his twenty-fifth homer of the year with two mates on in the fifth. The Yanks converted five hits off Hildebrand into as many runs, while the Browns couldn't do as well on thirteen safeties off Pearson and Makosky.

In the second game Malone kept thirteen hits well enough scattered to win after the Yanks had shoved off to a five-run lead in the first inning, and added two more in the third.

Two Cleveland home runs—one of them Hal Trosky's twentieth of the season — were wasted as Philadelphia Athletics won the hard-slugging opener of the four-game series 7 to 5 at Cleveland.

A's overcame a three-run Cleveland lead, and climaxed a 15-hit attack off four pitchers with a three-run outburst in the fifth to hand the Tribe its fourth straight setback. George Caster was nicked for a dozen blows, but went the route for the Athletics.

Free-Hitting Struggle.

Detroit Tigers defeated Boston Red Sox, 10-9, in the tenth inning of their free-hitting game. The teams collected thirty-two hits—sixteen apiece—for sixty bases.

Jimmy Foxx scored four Boston runs with two homers. Gerald Walker got one for the Tigers and Rudy York hit a homer with two runners ahead of him to tie the score at nine-all in the ninth. Hank Greenberg broke the deadlock with a single which sent Billy Rogell across the plate.

Thornton Lee defeated Wes Ferrell in a ten-inning pitchers' duel, at Chicago, when Luke Appling's single with the bases loaded in the tenth gave the White Sox a 4 to 3 victory over the Senators.

More than 5,000 fans saw the Washington club lose its tenth straight game and the Sox win their sixth in a row.

Each pitcher allowed ten hits. The Sox got three in the tenth, when successive singles by Dixie Walker and Zeke Bonura, Rip Colcliff's intentional pass and Appling's blow ended the game.

RUBBERTOWN TEAM NEEDS A WIN HERE

Bowmanville And Rotarians Clash Tonight In Riverside In Junior Ball Game

Bowmanville plays the local Rotarians in a Junior Lakeshore Baseball League game at 6.15 tonight (Wednesday) in Riverside Park. It is the last scheduled contest for Peterborough, though the locals have two more billed away from home. However, if they win tonight they may not play the last two—since they will have no bearing on the final standing, and the other teams may be agreeable. Bowmanville needs a win here tonight to stay in the running for a play-off berth. A loss will eliminate them.

Herb Ralph's Rotary squad have not lost a game so far this season, winning five and drawing in one. However, several have been settled by one run, and one here went over-time. They expect another stiff race. Grant Clark will do the locals' pitching, the ace righthander not having pitched a home game so far this summer. The Bowmanville hurler has not been named. A classy junior baseball game is promised fans when these teams meet tonight.

Soccer Notes

The C.C.F. were given permission to be relieved of a game on Saturday, August 7 when they expect to play Kingston in the Limestone City and perhaps they will have them play the return fixture the following week in the city here.

Games this week read thus: Wednesday night (tonight), C.G.E. vs. Canada Packers. Referee George Blowers. League postpone match.

Friday night—C.C.F. vs. Canadian General in league game on King Edward Park. Referee W. Jones.

Saturday afternoon at Deloro — Deloro vs. Canada Packers. Referee George Blowers.

Tuesday night—Replayed cup tie. C.C.F. vs. Deloro. Referee D. Buchan.

There is no game here on Saturday afternoon.

It was unanimously agreed, at a previous meeting, when the Injured Player's Cup games were drawn that all Charity Cup games be played in the city, therefore, Deloro will have to meet the C.C.F. here next Tuesday night on King Edward Park. Representative A. McKinley was present representing the Shelters and put up splendid arguments on their behalf.

San Francisco.—Gino Garibaldi, 220, Italy, defeated Pat O'Schocker, 245, Salt Lake City (two of three falls).

Curley Buried

While many a sports name, important names stand by with bowed heads, pall-bearers carry from a Flushing, N.Y., funeral parlor a flower-covered casket containing the mortal remans of Jack Curley, sport impresario and writer to whom many of the watchers owed their climb to fame. Curley, noted mainly as a wrestling promoter, died suddenly in New York.

DONALD BUDGE PUTS AMERICANS IN TENNIS FINAL

Von Cramm Takes First Two Sets But Bows To Yankee In Next Three

DAVIS CUP SERIES

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 21 (AP).—Don Budge climbed back from apparent irretrievable defeat on Wimbledon's centre court yesterday to defeat Baron Gottfried von Cramm of Germany in five sets, and give the United States a 3 to 2 victory over Germany in the Davis Cup inter-zone finals.

With Budge's sensational triumph the United States qualified to face Great Britain's weakened cup-holding forces in the challenge round starting Saturday.

Reaching the very pinnacle of his form, yet beaten in the first two sets by the inspired German, Budge simply conjured the next three sets out of the hat.

Trailing 2-1 at the start of the final day's play, Germany drew level at 2-2 when Heinrich Henkel trounced Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant of the United States in the opening singles duel, 7-5, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Outcome of the series rested with Budge and Von Cramm and the Oakland, Calif., red-head finally whipped the German after a 2½ hour struggle, 6-8, 5-7, 8-4, 6-2, 8-6.

There is no doubt that Budge will handle two singles matches against the British and the doubles along with Gene Mako of Los Angeles. It appeared likely Grant would yield the second singles assignment to Frankie Parker, of Milwaukee.

Grant was so heart-broken over losing both his singles matches against Germany, that he declared he was through with cup competition and wouldn't play against Great Britain even if chosen.

The British team is definitely settled, with Henry Wilfred (Bunny Austin and young Charles Hare handling the singles and C. R. D. Tuckey and Frank H. D. Wilde, playing doubles. Hare replaces Fred Perry, now a professional, while Wilde owes his place on the team as a result of the illness of George Patrick Hughes, Tuckey's usual doubles partner.

Von Cramm's victory in the first set was a near-miracle, but the second, gained with such a grace of motion and with such daring length and pace, was enough to shatter staid Wimbledon's calm composure.

As Though Bears Needed Any Help

ST. LOUIS, July 21.—(AP)—New York Yankees yesterday released Spurgeon Chandler, young right-hander, to Newark Bears of the International League on option.

Release of Chandler made room on the roster for Kemp Wicker, a southpaw, recalled from Newark when Johnny Broaca jumped the team two days ago.

IN MEMORIAM

COLEMAN—In cherished and sacred memory of our dearly beloved Son and Brother, Charles William "Bill" Coleman, who fell asleep in Jesus July 21, 1936.

Only a step removed,
And that step into bliss;
Our own, our dearly loved,
Whom here on earth we miss —Lovingly remembered by Mother, Dad, Victor, Jean and Betty.

COLEMAN—To the loving memory of Akela C. W. Coleman, who was called to Higher Service, July 21, 1936.

Time and space cannot erase
The memory of your smiling face;
Time may take away the edge of grief
But memory turns back every leaf.
—Ever remembered by the Cubs, Scouts and Rovers of the 1st Peterborough St. John's Troop Boy Scouts.

WEDLOCK—In loving memory of a dear Wife and Mother, who passed away July 21, 1936.

It is lonesome here without you,
There is such a vacant place,
For we never hear your footsteps
Or see your smiling face.

As we loved you, so we miss you;
In our memory you are dear,
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Bringing many a silent tear.
—Sadly missed by Husband and Family.

CHILDREN'S DAY WILL BE STAGED

Belmont Women's Institute Appoint Committee To Plan For Event

HAVELOCK, July 21.—The regular meeting of the Belmont Women's Institute was held July 15 in the Belmont hall, with a large attendance of members and a number of visitors. The roll call was answered by naming my favorite bird and its call.

The business consisted of a letter from the Westwood branch, inviting us to attend their meeting, and also a letter from Trent River branch, extending an invitation to attend their August meeting and to help provide the program. The cleaning in the cemetery had been finished, and twenty new books had been purchased for the library. Plans were made and committees formed for children's day, which is to be held on Friday, July 30.

The program consisted of a very instructive demonstration on waffle weaving given by one of the visitors, Mrs. Jess Smith of Hamilton.

Admits Murder

REV. C. E. NEWTON

A frail retired minister, Rev. C. E. Newton, of Pittsfield, Ll., calmly faced a first degree murder charge. He confessed to the slaying of a parishioner's wife. The body of the woman, Mrs. Dennis Kelly, was found in the Mississippi River badly battered. Mrs. Kelly was running away from her husband. Newton said in his confession, and she insisted that he accompany her. He refused and they quarreled. She fell and was injured and Newton, thinking she was dying, lost his head and struck her with a hammer or something he stated.

CLOSED EDITORIAL IS BOTHERING N.E.A.

52nd Annual About To Decide Stand On Drive Against Move

DETROIT, July 21—(AP).— Hinting argument, the National Editorial Association approached a decision to-day whether to become a companion to the organized drive against the closed editorial shop.

The invitation of that nature bore the approval of a "steering committee" as it headed toward a vote by delegates to the N.E.A.'s 52nd annual convention.

A five-man committee, representing the field of non-metropolitan journalism in as many states, announced it favored adoption of the proposal.

Under it, the N.E.A. would join forces with 12 similar organizations to fight the attempt of the American Newspaper Guild to gain closed shops in editorial and news rooms of newspapers.

Previously, Allen E. McGowan of Minneapolis, acting executive secretary of the N.E.A., took the stand the "small town publisher's problems are different" and he has "little interest" in the American Newspaper Publishers Associations efforts for a "united front in this matter."

Speakers at a banquet last night emphasized public responsibilities of the newspaper.

Higher Pay Needed.

Warning of rising costs "in all commodities, including paper," and the "necessity of meeting those higher costs with higher employee pay," Homer Guck of the Detroit Times said newspapers must conform to "fundamental principles in public service" to continue prospering.

"The real business of a newspaper to-day," Guck said, "is to get the facts and report them truthfully and accurately. Only in this kind of public service is there hope that a newspaper may prosper in these times."

The public, he said, wants facts, and the day of "smart and clever writing" is departed.

Newspapers, Guck said, weathered the depression "comparatively well, but credit for this must go largely to the whole-hearted support of employees and to the low price of print paper."

The "universal problem" before people to-day, said Malcolm Bingay of the Detroit Free Press, is not alone freedom of the press but "freedom of personal opinion." The former, he said, is "merely a manifestation of this personal freedom to your opinion."

Helium gas, so valuable for airships, is reported to have been found in the State of Parahyba in North Brazil.

SEE COURT BILL BLOW TO PRESTIGE OF U.S. PRESIDENT

Skeptics Fear Breach In Party Ranks Never Be Healed Even With Victory

IN WILSON'S PATH?

By Sam Robertson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, July 21 (CP).—Regardless of whether President Roosevelt emerges from the boiling fight over his court reorganization bill, the victor or the vanquished, his prestige will be diminished, in the opinion of some interpreters of the political scene.

If he is defeated the Conservative wing of the Democratic Party may wield the balance of power for the remainder of the Roosevelt regime, which runs until 1940. Even if he wins it seems doubtful that the breach in party ranks can be completely healed. The sort of dire threats that have been hurled cannot soon be forgotten.

In trying to force his court plan through a Congressional mill stilled almost six months by dissension, Roosevelt has met the most vigorous opposition of his five historic years in the White House. Some critics say he is using the same uncompromising tactics that Woodrow Wilson did, to his own political ruin, in the futile struggle for United States adherence to the League of Nations.

There are those among political commentators friendly to the new deal President who caution him to turn back. One is General Hugh Johnson, former N.R.A. director, and lusty lampooner of many presidential advisors, though staunch defender of Roosevelt himself. Johnson believes his old chief could "take the count of nine in the current round" without injuring his prestige.

Substituting Dictating.

Columnist Raymond Clapper, often lyrical in lauding Roosevelt, sees him as trying to substitute dictation for leadership in the court controversy. He holds a Democratic statesman should work with his Parliament instead of being "arbitrary and headstrong."

Ray Tucker, another nationally known commentator, writes in "The Magazine of Wall Street" that the President's conduct in recent weeks has sharpened the suspicion of some who envisage "the distinct threat of a one-man government." Tucker goes on:

"Back of the smile and winning personality, Congress has reason to believe, there is a Roosevelt whom Washington has suspected but not detected — slightly sardonic, self-centered, and vindictive. Adversity has irritated instead of chastened him.... he has closed his ears to contrary advice from well-wishers... ...he has exhibited impatience toward all who crossed him, even consigning friendly reports to the dunce's cap."

Tucker predicts not more than one-fifth the legislation on the Congressional calendar stands a ghost of a chance of being dealt with this session. In addition to the Court Bill this includes the Farm Assistance Act providing for the ever-normal granary, the Industrial Hours and Wages Bill, the scheme for a chain of Federally-controlled electrical developments similar to that now operating in the Tennessee Valley.

RIVER MONSTER ALLIGATOR GAR

U.S. Bureau Of Fisheries Very Skeptical Of 20th Century Demon In Arkansas

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)— The United States Bureau of Fisheries cast a fishy eye today toward Arkansas' great White-River-monster mystery.

"Unless I'm badly fooled," said Fred Orsinger of the bureau, "this 20th century demon is just an overgrown alligator gar enjoying a summer bender."

Three people near Newport, Ark., reported seeing a gray hulk rise last week to the surface of the stream, lash about and then disappear. The Chamber of Commerce ordered an investigation.

Charles B. Brown of Mephis volunteered to explore the river dressed in diving togs and armed with spears.

"The Chamber of Commerce, or someone," said Orsinger, "ought to tell Mr. Brown to forget those spears. Alligator gars are tough." He added that the gar has to have air when the weather gets hot.

LOVE IS FOR TOMORROW

By VIRGINIA SCALLON

CHAPTER 38

Gary called for Marcia the following morning, determined to make the week-end at Malibu a long one. He felt an overpowering sense of happiness as he tucked her into the front seat of his phaeton, and possessively placed her small bag in the tonneau.

"Depending on Lona for your outfits for the week-end?" he teased, remembering the time they had met and Marcia had so effectively modeled Lona's frocks. Instinctively he hoped that was not her plan, for he was keen enough to realise that a girl will usually bring enough finery to impress a man in whom she is even slightly interested. He smiled with satisfaction when she said briefly, "Lona seems to prefer it that way. And her things are fun to wear!"

Sometimes Gary annoyed her with his extreme politeness and meticulous attention. Her taste ran more to the outdoor type of man, like Sandy, who could live up to a dress suit when he must, but who was the happiest in the freedom of the outdoors. Gary, she thought sometimes, was an aristocrat of the drawing rooms. She longed to ruffle his hair, to upset his perfect equilibrium. Suddenly she smiled mischievously.

"Let's put the top down?" she begged. And, as she had foreseen, Gary didn't reveal his probable annoyance, but obediently set about to do her wishes.

She took malicious delight in watching him buck the wind as they started up the winding coast highway. She took of her own hat, and felt her coppery hair whip back from her face. She welcomed the scorching rays of the sun and the wind on hr face, shutting her eyes in sheer delight. But Gary pulled his soft crusher tight down on his head and hunched down in his seat. Once he opened his mouth to speak but the wind grotesquely smothered his words.

It wasn't yet noon when they pulled into the driveway of Lona's beach home. Wearily, he removed his hat and caressed the deep crease the band had made on his forehead. Marcia, her face burned and her hair standing in a fiery mass on her head, looked at him gaily. "I'll have to hand it to you, Gary. You're a good sport."

"Oh, there's fire in the old boy yet," he admitted. "I still have a trick or two up my sleeve to get even with you for that ride."

Laughing and carefree, they went into the house.

For a moment Marcia seemed dazed, then laughed aloud in her amazement. For walking nonchalantly about the house he saw the house boys and even a maki in colorful Mexican costumes. Wondering at the mesquerade, she greeted her hostess.

"Just practicing up for the fiesta," Lona confessed with a wry smile. "We're going to have an old-fashioned barbecue tomorrow, and I couldn't resist these trimmings. Cute, aren't they?"

"Oh, decidedly! I just hope they can keep in character. Old McKittrich there looks as though he is going to whisk into a highland fling any minute," and Marcia laughed at the Scotch caretaker who was standing by with a look of disgust and disgrace on his weatherbeaten old face.

"You don't mind having a roommate this time, do you Marcia?" Lona asked as she herself led her guest upstairs to a guest room. "I'm afraid I sort of outdid myself this week-end; I invited a lot of extras.

She was as true as her words, and Marcia soon found herself in a veritable summer resort, with no fewer than 20 guests seated around the bountiful luncheon table, her roommate proved to be Joan Stannard, a young newspaper columnist who was creating quite a vogue in Los Angeles. "Looks like quite a roundup," she grinned at Marcia when they were introduced. "Lona's up to her old tricks, adding a representative of every profession. I write. What's your handicap?"

With an understanding smile she said, "Well, I left my smock and brushes at home, but I paint."

"Houses?" Joan acted impressed.

"No, but I might be persuaded to paint this town red. I'm in a mood for something violent," Marcia confessed. The afternoon was spent lazily with the crowd dividing into two distinct groups. One had taken over the informal library and already were raiding Lona's very complete bar, the others were outside in the sun swimming, playing badminton and enjoying the beautiful day.

"Pfff! I can catch up to those softies in an hour," Joan prophesied, as she watched the drinkers getting a head start on the rest of the party. "I can play harder and drink harder—and fall harder than any one of those people," she boasted, and proceeded during the course of the week-end to demonstrate the truth of all three statements.

She led the crowd on the beach, who were hard pressed to keep up with her dynamic spirits. Gary gave up among the first, to Marcia's secret embarrassment, and soon she went to join him under the striped umbrella.

"No use tiring yourself out just to show off," he said in self defense. "I've got as much energy as any of them, but I'm not wasting it so uselessly. As a matter of fact, Marcia, I'm conserving every ounce of energy and hope for a very important crisis in my life."

Lazily, Marcia turned over, then jumped when the scorching sands burned her back. "Ouch! What's that, Gary?"

Garrett gazed at the girl stretched so unconcernedly in the sand, then his gaze wandered over the beach where brilliantly clad men and women were enjoying themselves. Abruptly he got up.

"What I have to say requires moonlight, and roses, and—no spectators," he said, and before Marcia could question him he excused himself and went toward the house. Marcia realized that his words meant but one thing: that he had determined to ask her once more to consider his proposal, and she shrank from hurting him. Gary had been so kind and thoughtful during the difficult weeks that had passed, and she had come to depend on his steady comradeship. But that was not the basis for love!

Not wanting to think, Marcia jumped up and joined Joan's crowd in their gay antics beside the shimmering sea. As the sun dipped down over the horizon, they walked back to the house and Marcia, at least, decided on a nap. She was actually grateful for the weariness that allowed her to slip off to sleep without time to worry about the problem Gary presented.

At dinner her partner was a man she had not met previously, and she felt she was not a very attentive listener. His long rambling tales of experiences in the mining country of the Mohave desert were not vitally interesting just then. Although ordinarily she would have been pleased to have the opportunity of talking with the serious young engineer, she was in no mood for concentration. As they were concluding dinner, Lona presented a surprise entertainment with Spanish troubadors singing and dancing at one end of the large dining hall.

Joan, not to be outdone, jumped suddenly to her feet. She had made good her promise of "catching up" with the early drinkers, and she was flushed with excitement. Jumping lightly onto the table, which stretched almost the length of the room, she improvised a gay dance that amused the diners.

Seeing all eyes turned toward the door where a newcomer stood watching, she made a flying leap off the table and directly into his arms. As the crowd laughed, Marcia started. The man was Walt Hartley! Surely Lona would not have invited him, knowing the situation as she did. But how like Walt to crash a party whether he was invited or not!

Immediately after dinner was finished, Marcia slipped out into the protection of the velvety night, but Gary's watchful eyes saw her leave. Quickly he, too, left the crowd and followed her out onto the veranda.

"I couldn't have chosen better myself," he said as he breathed deeply of the fresh moist air. "I was afraid I'd frightened you away by my warning this afternoon, Marcia. But now you—you know what I want to say, dear?"

Eagerly he studied her, as he began to fumble in the pocket of his white dinner jacket. "Marcia, I'd so hoped that you would wear this—for me."

He held out a glorious star sapphire set with tiny diamonds, and Marcia gasped with pleasure at the sheer beauty of it. Even in the semi-darkness of the porch it held fire and light, and Gary watched anxiously to see if it aroused any answering warmth in the deep blue eyes of Marcia Madden.

Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND LOST BUNTY

"Bunty! Baby Bunty! Where are you going?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one morning when the muskrat lady housekeeper saw the little orphan rabbit hopping away from camp.

"Oh, I'm just going to have an adventure," replied Bunty.

"All by yourself?" asked Nurse Jane.

"Yes, if you please," Bunty replied. "I can't find Unkie Wig to take me so I am going alone."

"Well, don't get lost," advised Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"I shall be very careful," promised the orphan rabbit. She really tried to be but she was too little to go adventuring alone and something happened. Not right away soon but in a little while.

Twinkling her small, pink nose as she had seen Uncle Wiggily twinkle his larger one, Baby Bunty hopped on and on through the woods, up hill and down dale.

Hears Noise.

"Oh, I hope I find an adventure!" she whispered. "Unkie Wig will be very surprised when I hop back to the camp tent and tell him what a wonderful adventure I had."

Then all of a sudden, a big bull frog in a marsh near Blue Lake croaked and said:

"Ger-ump! Ger-ump! Ger-umpity ump"

"Oh, my goodness!" screamed Bunty and she began to hop very fast. Then, all of a sudden, a big snake wiggled across the path.

The snake might have tried to catch Baby Bunty but, truth to tell, Bunty's sudden hopping frightened the snake.

But Bunty didn't know this. So, thinking the snake was chasing her she hopped faster and faster. Then, all of a sudden, a big hawk swooped down and tried to catch the orphan rabbit.

Uncle Wiggily had taught Bunty what to do when this happened.

"I must hide under some thick bush and then the hawk can't get me!" thought Bunty, her little heart beating very fast.

Under a prickly bush darted the little rabbit and the hawk, not able to fly through that to stick his claws in Bunty's back, sheered off and went looking for a meal elsewhere.

"Oh, dear," sighed Bunty as she came out after the hawk had flown away, "I think I have had enough adventures. I'll hop back to the tent and tell Unkie Wig about them."

Lost.

But this wasn't as easy as Bunty had thought. She had hopped so fast when frightened by the bull frog, the snake and the hawk that she had not noticed which way she went. Now she didn't know which way to take to get back to the camp.

Bunty tried first one path and then another but she could not find Uncle Wiggily's camp near Blue Lake.

"Oh, dear!" the orphan rabbit cried. "I'm lost!"

Her heart was beating very fast again.

Then she remembered what Uncle Wiggily had told her to do if she got lost and she did it.

Meanwhile Mr. Longears coming back from having taken a ride in his motor boat, asked where Bunty was. And when Nurse Jane told him and when, after several hours, the orphan rabbit had not returned Uncle Wiggily said:

"Bunty is lost. I must go find her." How he did this I'll tell you in the next story which will be about Uncle Wiggily finding Bunty.

And I hope rice pudding doesn't stay so late playing ball that it can't help the dish and the spoon set the breakfast table.

Modern Surgery Providing Eye For Girl Born Minus Socket, Lid

Four Operations Needed To Place Glass Sphere That Will Give Normal Appearance

DOCTOR'S NAME WITHHELD

NEW YORK, July 21—(AP).—A three-year-old girl, lacking one normal eye socket and lid at birth, was recovering to-day from the third of a series of operations medical authorities said probably would give her an almost normal appearance within a year.

Two prior operations had provided the child with normal upper and lower eyelids and a socket for an artificial eye. Yesterday the eyelids were slit and a glass globe the size of her one seing eye was inserted in the "pocket."

Within a few months, a medical spokesman said, another operation will be performed and a glass shell will be fitted over the sphere. These shells will be changed as her growth requires.

The name of the child, member of a well-to-do family, and the name of the surgeon in charge were withheld.

The little girl's "sealed eyelid" was broken 18 months ago and a year ago a flap of mucous membrane from inside her cheek was transplanted to the unlined socket. This formed the pocket and created normal lids for the artificial eye.

Just Another Gag The Men Put Over?

Atlantic City, N.J., July 21 (AP). THAT WOMEN'S-place-is-in-the home idea is just a gag men have been putting over all this time.

Dr. Robert Hoppock, assistant director of the National Occupational conference, told the National Federation of Business and Professional Women today that hubbies probably won't get away with it much longer.

Now, he said, a definite shortage of competent women has begun to show up in the work-a-day world, and soon the girls will be flying the coop.

"Marriage no longer means permanent removal from the employment market," he said, "There is no sound psychological reason why women should cook meals, wash dishes, launder clothes and clean houses."

AUSSIES INCREASE THEIR BASIC WAGE

Court Decides On Boost Of Five Shillings In Legal Average Rate

MELBOURNE, July 21—(CP). — The Australian federal arbitration court has decided the basic wage rate shall be increased by an average of five shillings a week, making an average throughout the states of about $18.40 weekly. The increase means $35,000,000 a year.

Increases averaging $3 a week had been sought by unions representing 600,000 workers. Basing their claims on trade revival, 50 labor organizations presented their case for an increase in the average to $25.30 weekly.

It was urged for the unions that conditions had improved immeasurably since the general cut of 10 per cent was ordered in 1931 and that the workers were entitled to a share of the increased income.

Cripple Climbs 315 Foot Tower Flies Red Flag, Taunts Police

Does Hand - stands While Danish Officers Shout Orders In Vain From Below

SECOND ONE FOLLOWS HIM

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, July 21 (CP).—An acrobatic Communist left Copenhagen's police dizzy Tuesday, when he climbed the 315-foot tower of the City Hall and hoisted a Red Flag.

Hours later the flag was still flying and the Communist doing dangerous stunts on his high perch for gaping crowds in the streets far below. Police unwilling to attempt the dangerous climb, shouted up orders to him from the top window of the tower to come down.

"Come up and get me," he taunted.

While police held a council on ways and means, the acrobat nonchalantly started doing hand-stands on the city's highest point.

The climber finally descended and was arrested by the police, who discovered he was lame.

To add to their worries no sooner was acrobat No. 1 down than acrobat No. 2 started up. The human fly clambered up the tower from the outside.

Half way up to the top he stopped and lighted his pipe and then carelessly knocked the ashes down on the heads of the police below.

THE WRONG MAN

LOS ANGELES, July 21—(AP).—Asked if he could positively identify Harry Geer, in court on a forgery charge, as the culprit, witness Tarry Greenberg replied:

Geer opened his shirt, bared his chest. It was as smooth as an onion.

"Case dismissed," said the court.

Duel In Mists Of Dawn Ends 9-Day Hunt—Rubber Soles Give Clue

SUDBURY, Ont., July 22.—(CP)—Victor Szymonski, wanted for the slaying of Sergeant Fred Davidson of the Sudbury police force, was shot and killed early today by Provincial Police in a running gun battle that ended in a Canadian Pacific Railway rock cut three miles west of Nairn Centre. Tom Shoke, also sought in connection with Davidson's murder, was taken into custody after being wounded.

Challenged by police as they headed into the foggy murk of the rock cut just as dawn broke, the fugitives opened fire with shotguns. Buttressed behind jutting rocks, four officers shot the 54-year-old gunman who shrieked as he dropped.

Shoke, pulling an automatic revolver from his pocket, stood on the railway tracks and attempted to put up a battle. Suddenly turning, he fired over his shoulder as he ran.

Haversack Saves Head.

A heavy haversack protected Shoke's head and bullets that went through it failed to bring him down. Finally he fell from a shot between the shoulder blades.

Rushed to Espanola, Shoke was believed dying as doctors struggled to save his life. If he survives he will face a murder charge, sworn out Tuesday after Davidson died of wounds received nine days before from a gun allegedly wielded by Szymonski.

Shoke had Davidson's revolver in his possession. The desperadoes had picked it up as Davidson lay wounded. In the haversacks they carried, Szymonski and Shoke had supplies of food and cooking equipment.

Davidson died in hospital here Tuesday, nine days after he came upon two men apparently changing

KITCHENER WOMAN IS HATCHET VICTIM SUSPECT HUSBAND

Terribly Cut, Mutilated Wife Is Unexpected To Live—Spouse Jobless

FOUND TRYING SUICIDE

KITCHENER, Ont., July 22 (C. P.). — Charges of Attempted murder and attempted suicide were laid to-day against Angus Demman after an alleged hammer and hatchet assault on his wife yesterday. Mrs. Demman is in hospital where physicians said she had slight chances of recovery.

KITCHENER, Ont., July 22 (C. P.). — Head, arms, and hands mutilated by hammer and hatchet blows, Mrs. Mabel Demman was in Kitchener-Waterloo Hospital to-day with slight chance of recovery. Held in custody was her husband, Angus Demman, 38-year-old war veteran, but no formal charge was laid at the time of his arrest.

The woman was admitted to hospital yesterday after she had been found on the front porch of her home by neighbors. Police said she had been beaten about the head with a hammer and hatchet in the cellar of the Water Street house.

Police said they found Demman stretched on the bathroom floor, nearly unconscious from gas which escaped into the room from a pipe, a section of which had been torn from a water heater. They learned Demman lost his job with the Kitchener Public Utilities Commission several weeks ago.

In a welter of blood, the hammer and hatchet were found in the cellar and a trail of blood led up the stairs, through a front room, and to the verandah where Mrs. Demman was found on a sofa. She was unable to say what happened to her.

Children saw the woman first lying there and summoned a Mrs. Totzke, a neighbor. The neighbor failed to recognize Mrs. Demman because of the blood that covered her.

Police found the bathroom door locked from the inside and Constable Cecil Farnham burst it open to find Demman prone on the floor, gas filling the room and a pair of trousers laid on the floor against the bottom of the door.

One daughter of the couple, Beatrice, was married only last Saturday. There are two younger sons in the family.

Police suggested Demman lured his wife into the cellar on some pretext, then allegedly attacked her. Mrs. Demman was dressed in a kimona when she staggered on the porch. It was learned the woman retired to her bedroom after lunch, disrobed
